WEDDINGS
Lemieux-Dupuis

At the Sacred Heart church, Taftville, Monday morning at 8 o'clock, Edward E. Lemieux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philias Lemieux of No. 19 Terrace avenue, and Miss Ethel Lena Dupuis, daughter of Arthur Dupuis of No. 104 Norwich avenue, were united in marriage by Rev. Father Mandier. The best man was William T. Dupuis, brother of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Fahey. The bride was gowned in white flat crepe, trimmed with Spanish lace and carried white roses, carnations and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore pink flat crepe and carried Killarney roses.

A wedding breakfast and reception were held at the home of the bride's father after which the bride and groom left for a tour to Springfield, Vermont, and New York.

The bride and groom presented gold pieces to their attendants. The bride received silver, furniture, money, china, linen and a lamp, the latter from employes of the J. B. Martin Co.

The groom is well known as a pitcher for the Taftville baseball team. He is employed by the J. B. Martin Co. Both have many friends who wish them success and happiness in their married life.

Sullivan-Chappell

The marriage of Miss Mary Louise Chappell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chappell of 15 South C street, Taftville, and John J. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Sullivan of 59 Palmer avenue, was solemnized Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Taftville. About 100 guests attended the wedding for which the nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault. The bride was attended by her sister, Irene, while Miss Grace Phelen and Miss Julia Chappell, another sister, removed the ribbon of the Children of Mary from around the throat of the bride during the ceremonies. The musical program was in charge of Miss Alice Frechette at the organ and Omer Tellier sang several selections.

The bride wore a frock of white creton crepe, under spanish lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, astors and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore orchid canton crepe trimmed with Spanish lace and carried an arm bouquet of dahlias.

A wedding breakfast and reception were held at the house of the bride's parents, following which Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan left on a wedding tour which will include visits to New York and Boston.

Upon their return, in about a week, the couple will reside at the home of the groom's parents at 59 Palmer avenue.

Both the bride who was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts, including cut glass, silverware, furniture, gold and money, and the groom, an employe of the Atlantic Carton Co., have many friends both in Norwich and Taftville who extend to them their best wishes for a happily married life.

Menders-Poyerd

Miss Rose Poyerd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ired Poyerd of 27 North B street, Taftville, and Roy John Menders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Menders of East Providence, were married at 9 o'clock Monday morning in Sacred Heart church, Taftville, by Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault.

The bride, who wore white crepe de chine trimmed with Spanish lace and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, was attended by her sister, Emma, who wore Nile green georgette and carried asters. The groom had for his best man Azelus Dugas.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, after the ceremony, following which the entire bridal party left for Providence where they were tendered a reception upon arrival.

To her bridesmaid, the bride, the recipient of a profusion of beautiful and useful gifts, presented a white gold bracelet.

As a going away costume, the bride wore Nile green silk and a black picture hat. Upon their return from the honeymoon trip after October 1, Mr. and Mrs. Menders will reside in this city.

Included in the large attendance of relatives and friends, were guests from New York, Providence, New Bedford, Springfield and Norwich.

SAILOR'S WILD RIDE ENDS IN HIS ARREST

Walter Niemeyer, 24, a sailor from the submarine base, who told the police he was driving an automobile for the first time, had a wild ride that began with a collision on West Main street Tuesday afternoon and ended when state police officers arrested him at the Thames river bridge in New London.

Niemeyer was in a Nash sedan, registration N-1845, owned by Louis King of the base, which crashed into a car belonging to Mr. Wilski near the West Side bridge. The sailor kept going but a boy got the registration number of the car and the police were notified, although it was too late to catch the car as it was driven through the city and over on to the Thamesville side where Niemeyer took the road to New London. The state police barracks at Groton were notified in time to enable officers to watch for the man at the Thames river bridge where he was caught and taken to the Groton barracks.

Sergeant Myron Morgan and Officer Clifford Crary brought him to police headquarters here, where he was charged with taking an automobile without the owner's permission, evading responsibility and operating without license.

The Wilski car had the rear left fender crushed and two tires blown and was driven up onto the sidewalk by the force of the blow from the machine driven by the sailor.

PROGRAMME FOR ONE DAY CONGRESS BY CHAMBER HAS BEEN COMPLETED

The completed program for the one day congress to be held in the Wauregan hotel next Monday is being mailed to approximately 1000 citizens from the Norwich chamber of commerce offices today (Wednesday).

A large committee of workers under the leadership of Chairman Abner Schwartz is working to make this event unusually successful.

Over 200 reservations have been made for the sales breakfast of which J. B. Caron is the committee chairman. A similar number of women will attend the woman's mass meeting to be led by Edwin S. Niles of Springfield.

The object is to bring various projects of the chambers program of work into intimate contact with larger groups, with particular emphasis on the subjects which those groups may be interested in.

The detailed program is as follows.

11:00 a. m. Credit Conference. Edwin S. Niles, Gen. manager Springfield Shopping News, Springfield, Mass.; "Activities of a Retail Credit Bureau."

12:15 p. m. Merchants Luncheon. Frank Stockdale, of Chicago; "Today's competition and how to meet it."

1:30-3:00. Business Conferences. Mr. Stockdale's services are available without charge for advice on any specific problems which business men may wish to consult him on.

3:00 p. m. Open Forum. Any citizen having a suggestion for the chamber's program of work is cordially invited to be present at this meeting.

4:00 p. m. Women's Mass Meeting. Presiding, Edwin S. Niles of Springfield. Round table discussion on Retail Shopping. All women cordially invited to participate. (No merchants or press representatives allowed).

4:00 p. m. Junior chamber. S. R. Kemp, secretary United States junior chamber of commerce, St. Louis. Young men from 17 to 21 years of age cordially invited.

PRESIDENT CASE MAKES APPEAL TO CITIZENS

In a letter addressed to the citizens of Norwich, President James L. Case of the local chamber of commerce sets forth the reasons why he believes serious consideration should be given to affiliation with the organization.

Dear Fellow Citizens: I am asking for your support and participation in the working of the Norwich chamber of commerce, for the ensuing year. Because—The chamber needs your advice, counsel and co-operation. Because—The chamber can help you in the conduct of your particular line of business. Because—Our community should have the strongest and most worth while chamber of commerce possible, and one can only become so in proportion to the number of active, enthusiastic, and loyal members it enrolls.

Will you not give these suggestions your most serious consideration, and act accordingly?

In behalf of the board of directors, I am

Very sincerely,
JAMES L. CASE, President.

Enclosed with the letter is a pamphlet entitled:

"Is the Chamber of Commerce Doing All It Can Do For Norwich?" The answers and reasons therefore are related as follows:

The Norwich chamber of commerce is not functioning to the extent that it can and here's why: 1. A few carry the load. How can a chamber of commerce succeed in boosting for a city, how can it succeed in promoting a programme of useful activities unless you and I harness our interests to it and help promote its programme of work? The responsibility for the results of any community organization rest upon the citizens of that community. It's easy to talk about the chamber in terms of "They do this" or "They do that." Let's substitute the word "I" or "We" and join hands with the boys who for 20 years have realized their responsibilities and met them.

2. Too much dependence on the secretary. The secretary is not the chamber of commerce, he is not a director nor is he a manager, as the business use of the word implies. He is paid to facilitate the functioning of the organization or in other words to keep the members actively interested in the community's needs.

3. Inadequately supported. When the chamber closed the year 1926-27 it had a deficit of $1,000. This was not due to poor business management. It was because all the members did not pay their dues. Some 300 good citizens have been doing their part nobly.

But this is not enough. We need money for production. To carry into effect a live chamber of commerce programme at least 40 per cent. of the funds should be available for activities. Last year 84 per cent. of the income was spent for overhead (salaries, rent, etc.) In face of this handicap your chamber has done remarkably well. This year your directors want to accomplish some real tangible objectives. So in addition to the regular operating expenses of the office they have made provisions in the budget for community advertising, industrial survey, and many other miscellaneous activities that a chamber is expected to carry out.

What is the answer? A 5 day expansion campaign (Sept. 30-Oct. 5, inc.) for $11,000. On one of these days a campaign worker will wait upon you. We ask you to give your hearty consideration and support. Join the chamber of commerce. It is the best investment on record for the civic, industrial and commercial progress of Norwich.

JUNIOR CHAMBER CONFERENCE TO BE ONE FEATURE

A Junior chamber conference is to be one of the features of the one day congress, inviting the attendance of every young man in Norwich between 17 and 21. The hour for the conference is 4 o'clock in the afternoon and the place the Y. M. C. A. building.

S. R. Kemp, the executive secretary of the United States junior chamber of commerce, is to address the meeting on "The purposes and activities of a Junior Chamber."

In a letter to the local secretary, Mr. Kemp briefly sums up the objects. He states "Your idea of a one day congress to bring to the attention of the people of your community the work of the chamber of commerce is a mighty fine one, and should produce results.

"The purposes and objects of the junior chamber are: First, to promote civic interest among young men; second, to train young men for membership in the civic and industrial life of the community; third, to fit young men for intelligent, active participation in chamber of commerce work; fourth, to encourage acquaintanceship, good will and fellowship among young business and professional men; fifth, to assist in developing community spirit; sixth, to interest young men in increasing their personal efficiency. When a junior chamber of commerce is organized, with these purposes and objects in mind and programs which young men are especially interested in, success is sure to follow.

"Our major project this year is the promotion of air landing fields by all junior chambers of commerce. This is an activity that the young men especially are interested in, and I am attaching our bulletin on the promotion of air landing fields for your information. Our other activities include political education programs, educational entertainment courses, establishment of emergency relief units, park promotion, building swimming pools and tourist camps, sponsoring of municipal auditoriums, promotion of tournaments, athletic contest, etc., and courses in salesmanship, public speaking, accounting, etc."

The board of directors have for some time felt that the junior chamber idea would receive the heart support of many young men in Norwich and be a real beneficial activity for the chamber of sponsor.

Accordingly, the committee on the one day congress have included this conference in their program and have appointed as a special committee to arrange the details of the meeting Arthur L. Peale, chairman, Emery H. Davis, Fred E. Bielefield, Jr., Earl Brigham, Louis M. Crandall.

DEATHS FROM RABIES RARE IN CONNECTICUT

During the ten year period 1915 to 1924 inclusive, 530 people in the United States registration area died of rabies. Only three of these deaths occurred in Connecticut. No death from this cause has been reported in Connecticut since 1917.

For the first eight months of 1927 one death from rabies was reported in Massachusetts, one in New York and four in New Jersey. No deaths from this cause were reported in Connecticue and Rhode Island.

People contract rabies from animals, usually dogs. Since 1906 the Connecticut state department of health laboratories have examined 1,103 heads of animals for rabies, of which 547 were positive and 541 negative. In 15 instances the brains were decomposed or had been injured in killing the animal so that satisfactory tests could not be made.

Connecticut has been fortunate in having no rabies in humans since 1917, while the states of Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Rhode Island, with a combined population of 13 times that of Connecticut, have lost 71 of their citizens from the disease during the same period. Connecticut provides antirabic treatment from dog tax funds to all persons bitten by rabid dogs. Rhode Island permits certain officials to authorize free treatment, and in the other states treatment is provided for persons unable to pay. Connecticut acts on the principle that persons exposed to rabies are entitled to treatment, and dogs are made to pay for the damage they do. Very few persons refuse treatment when it is advised by the health officer. The office of the commissioner of domestic animals and the state department of health inform each other promptly when rabid animals are located so that the necessary measures may be taken promptly to prevent the spread of rabies among animals and humans.

Information has been furnished to health officers and dog wardens as to what should be done when a person is exposed to rabies. Special notice is sent to the local health officer whenever a dog's head is found to be positive at the state laboratory. A telegram from the health officer brings the virus by mail the next morning, and it is given by a local physician. The rareness of rabies among the citizens of Connecticut is attributed to the almost universal use of preventive treatment.

PUTNAM D. A. R. WILL MAKE LEBANON PILGRIMAGE

Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is to make a pilgrimage from Putnam today (Wednesday) to Lebanon where the visitors will be received by the members of Gov. Jonathan Trumbull chapter, which is to furnish coffee. Mrs. Lillian Blakeslee is chairman for the day.

The Lebanon chapter itself is to make a pilgrimage to the Nathan Hale homestead in Coventry on Oct. 12, omitting the chapter meeting on the 10th. Miss Bertha Perry is chairman of the committee of arrangements for the day.

At the last meeting of the Lebanon chapter, the regent appointed the vice regent and the secretary to draw up resolutions on the death of Mrs. Ewin Hewitt, a charter member of the chapter. Letters were read from Oliver Ellsworth home where the annual meeting of chapter regents will be held Sept. 28 and Oct. 8 is Oliver Ellsworth memorial day. Mollicent Porter chapter of Waterbury sent a communication upon the 34th state meeting to be held Oct. 7.

A most interesting account of the work at Ellis Island was given by Miss Mary L. Pardee, of New Haven, state recording secretary.

DEAF AND DUMB BOY WANDERED TO BALTIC

After a search lasting all afternoon Tuesday, Deputy Sheriff John J. McGuire of Baltic, finally located the father of a small boy, a dummy, about 8 years old, who was found on the Etienne Reil farm, Baltic, about noon, Tuesday. The boy's name it was learned is Walter Zeleseweski and his home is on Plain Hill.

Mr. Reil found the child near the barn on his farm. The child, unable to talk, and hard of hearing, could not give any information as to his identity or his home. Sheriff McGuire was called in to help in the search for the child's home, and Frederick H. Wyant, humane agent, was also notified. Sheriff McGuire spent most of the afternoon taking the boy through the Plain Hill section and about 6 o'clock succeeded in locating the boy's father. The first name of the child's father was not learned.

CUTTING TWO TRAINS FROM WORCESTER BRANCH

It is reported that when the new schedule of the Worcester branch of the New Haven road goes into effect next Sunday with the resumption of standard time there will be two less trains to run on the road than at present. These are the south-bound No. 705, leaving Worcester at 8:45 a. m. daily and reaching Norwich at 11:35 and the north-bound No. 708, leaving New London at 1:15 p. m. daily and reaching Norwich at 1:44.

With these trains off this branch, there will be only the morning and State of Maine express.

FOREMEN'S CLUB RESUMES MEETINGS FOR SEASON

The first meeting of the fall of the Foremen's Executive club was held on Monday evening in the New London Y. M. C. A., the members sitting down to a supper at seven o'clock. The president of the club, Lewis P. Bailey, of Max Pollock & Co., presided. Albert Janshea, Corticelli Silk Co., rendered a piano solo. The routine business included the reading of reports by the secretary and treasurer, and the voting into club membership of three new names, Herman Becker, Max Pollack Co., Groton; George P. Berry, Standard Machine Co., Mystic, and Harry E. Hasty, Robert Gair Co., Montville. President Bailey presented a short report of the tenth annual industrial conference held three weeks ago at Silver Bay, Lake George, N. Y., stating that New London industries had been represented by Alexander MacCullogh, New London Ship and Engine Co., Melvin A. Bupp, Corticelli Silk Co., William W. John and Lewis P. Bailey, Max Pollack Co.

The question of increased membership and attendance at the monthly meetings came up for discussion, and it was voted that the president and secretary should ask one member from each firm to act as a member of the membership committee, his duties being to secure new members from his plant and urge attendance at the meetings more regularly.

Throughout the country emphasis is put during the third week in October on management week, and it was voted to push for a meeting during that time in our community with this topic for discussion. It was suggested that this might well be held in conjunction with the Manufacturers' association and the various chambers of commerce in this area, and the matter was referred to the executive committee for action.

Thomas W. Farnsworth, of the sales force of the Sea Sled corporation, was the speaker of the evening. He outlined the needed things in any pleasure boat, and showed how they were all incorporated in the product of their company. The various models which are put out make it possible to fit all pocket books, and as they are built and controlled after the pattern of automobiles their operation is a simple thing for the modern man or woman, most of whom are more or less conversant with the operation of an auto. His predictions of the product of his own and other boat companies of the future make it look sure that the returning interest in water transportation is to be adequately satisfied.

George H. Garlapy, secretary-manager of the New London chamber of commerce, was present at the meeting, and was called upon for a few remarks. He told of the hope of some of New London's admirers of the early formation of a yacht club which will stand alongside the best in the country. He also told somewhat of the way in which the chamber works, and gave the members of the club much valuable information concerning this organization, and its possible relation to industry more vitally if plans not yet launched can be put into effect.

BUILDING EXTRA SHED FOR CATTLE EXHIBIT

Construction of a 200 foot cattle shed will be started at the fairgrounds this (Wednesday) morning and will be completed by nightfall. Decision to erect the additional cattle shed was made at a meeting of the directors of the New London County Agricultural society Tuesday evening. A total of 600 or more cattle have been entered as exhibits for the fair and the new shed will provide accommodations for at least 75 head. From the number of entries this year's cattle show will be the largest on record.

Announcement was made Tuesday evening that the poultry entires have been closed as it will be impossible to accommodate any additional exhibitors. The dog show is expected to be the largest ever seen at the local grounds.

Carpenters will start work early this morning on the erection of the new cattle shed which will be ready for occupancy tonight, it is expected. Other important improvements have been made at the fairgrounds this sum.

SEIZE GLASS, LIQUOR AND ARREST RESTAURANT COOK

Mary Sasak, 38, who claims she is employed as cook at the restaurant at 9 3-4 Thames street, will appear in the city court this (Wednesday) morning on a charge of violating of the liquor law. Early Tuesday evening a squad of local police headed by Sergt. Matthew Delaney, swooped down on the restaurant and discovered a small quantity of alleged liquor in a milk bottle and a whiskey glass in the place.

The Sasak woman was alone in the place and evidently in full charge. She was taken into custody, booked at police headquarters and held in bonds of $1,000. At police headquarters she stated that she had not sold any liquor and that she was merely employed there is cook. The alleged liquor and the whiskey glass were seized as evidence that the liquor law has been violated at the restaurant.

ROSE STREET RAID ON LIQUOR VIOLATION CHARGE

As a result of an unexpected visit early Thursday evening by the local police to the place at No. 29 Rose street, alleged to have been conducted by Aleck Swaich, Russian, 33, he will appear in the city court this (Wednesday) morning on a charge of violation of the liquor laws. The squad headed by Sergt Matthew Delaney, armed with a warrant, visited the place and unearthed evidence in the shape of a small quantity of alleged moonshine liquor and a whiskey glass. Swaich was laid in bonds of $1,000.

WAS AUTHORITY ON NEW ENGLAND GENEALOGY

James Newell Arnold, 83, an authority on New England genealogy, which he had made his life study, died Sunday morning in Dexter asylum, Providence. His only surviving relative is a grandnephew.

Crippled since infancy, he traveled about on crutches, but he had been able to visit numberless historical spots in New England, particularly in Rhode Island. A number of years ago, he spent a winter in this city where he conducted an extensive search of the town clerk's records for genealogical and historical data.

Simple Home Recipe For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles — Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this good advice.

Artificial digestants and starvation diets are seldom needed. Within reason, most folks may eat what they like, if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion. And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a little Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless form of Magnesia that swiftly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A few days' trial of Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets), which any good druggist can supply at trifling cost, should quickly convince you that fully 90% of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Try Bisurated Magnesia today!

NORWICH PRIEST SPEAKS AT KIWANIS CONVENTION

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 20—(AP)—"New England has not begun to realize its opportunities," Rev. William A. Keefe, of Norwich, told Kiwanians today, the third day of the four-day convention of the New England district of Kiwanis. The Norwich priest pointed out the advantages to New England of advertising itself and that this section of the country has especially great possibilities in agriculture, notwithstanding the fact that it is generally considered an industrial state.

"Booming and boosting will do wonders for New England," Rev Keefe said. "There are great opportunities in New England. Everything is made here which a person would use from the cradle to the grave. Better fruit can be grown here than on the Pacific coast. Some of the western states spend a great deal of money advertising how they have converted the deserts into gardens, but they remain deserts just the same."

THREE KNOCKOUTS FEATURE LAST OUTDOOR AMATEUR BOXING CARNIVAL

The last outdoor bouts by the Duwell A. C. at Duwell field Tuesday night started off with a bang with the first sound of the gong in the bout between "Boots" Larry of Norwich and Young Coulas of Jewett City. Both boys set a fast pace, standing toe to toe and slugging. In the second round Larry sent over a hard right which landed flush on the Jewett City boy's jaw and to save him from further punishment the towel was tossed in. Larry weighed 121 and Coulas 122.

The first round of the second go between Young Wakely of Putnam and Paul Bernier of Willimantic was rather slow, both boys boxing cautiously. They warmed up in the second, however, with Wakely piling up the most points to win the judges' decision. Bernier weighed 111 and Wakely two pounds more.

The followers of Benny Salinski, of Jewett City, who has won all his fights thus far in the amateurs, were dealt a sad blow when Johnny Mestro, a tough left hander of Hartford had the Jewett City boy badly battered and ready to drop from a terrific beating. Benny was down for a count of two in the first of the second and it looked like the end. He weathered that onslaught however, only to be brought to his hands and knees from a hard left to the solar plexus. The towel was thrown in which was a welcome sight to the fallen favorite. It is Benny's first setback and it is to be regretted as he is a mighty pleasing performer. The boys are bantamweights.

Another good little fighter, Young Paradis, of Putnam, had his first taste of defeat when he lost the decision to Young Peloquin of Danielson. Paradis is a clever boy and has a good defense but he could not stand the onslaught of Peloquin, who continually shot hard rights and lefts to the head. In the second round he caught Paradis with a hard right which landed on the back of Paradis' head and had him reeling and dizzy; and again just before the bell he connected with Paradis' jaw which sent the Putnam boy to the floor, the bell saving him from a count. He recuperated to some extent during the rest period and managed to stay the limit by keeping away from the strong Danielson lad. Paradis tipped the scales at 114 and Peloquin at 112.

The fifth bout was a tame affair and ended in a technical K. O. for Pete Roberts in the third round. Young Switch assumed a unique position "a la Vie Darr" and had the Hartford lad somewhat puzzled at first. In the third as Switch was rushing in the latter bent low and Switch accidentally hurt himself which gave the fight to Roberts on a Tech. K. O. Both boys weighed 125 lbs.

The sixth bout was a revelation of boxing and fighting ability. Adolph Defedrico, a mighty clever lad from Hartford, knew too much for Young Cafone of Westerly and hit him with everything he had. The Westerly boy however was in there trying every minute and showed a wonderful amount of fighting courage and gameness, and both boys received a big hand at the finish. Adolph weighed 122 and Cafone 120.

Al Koziol managed to win his fight by the K. O. route adding another scalp to his well filled belt. By Young Grenier's toughness it took him three rounds to bring over the K. O. punch, but when it did land the Putnam boy was out and had to be carried to his corner. Grenier went down from a hard right to the jaw in the second, the bell saving him from a K. O. In the third he tried to keep the strong boy away with left jabs but Al would not be denied and got over his right for the finisher. Grenier showed a world of courage in losing and Barney Keenan's boy looked better than ever in winning, due perhaps to the imbibing of his mentor's mysterious bottle of fluid extract.

The eighth brought together Young Chappe of Westerly and Young Alberti of Jewett City. The former boy was too strong and knew too much for Alberti who was fighting his first fight. Chappe won on a technical K. O. in the second.

Young Dempski of Norwich won his fight by a real K. O. knocking out Young Phaneuf of Putnam in the last minute of fighting in the first round. They started off like featherweights but slowed up to some extent after both boys took some hard blows. Dempski was the stronger however, and caught Phaneuf with a right swing flush on the chin which sent the Putnam lad down flat and out. Both weighed 150 lbs.

Vic Morley was the first boy from Hartford to lose his fight. And he lost a tough go to Kid Spasato of Westerly. The latter continually beat Morley to the punch and outslugged him in the mixups. It was a very interesting go, both men fighting all the time. Both weighed in at 149 lbs.

The last bout turned out to be the feature of the card and no doubt of all the past cards at the club. From the sound of the first bell to the end of the third, Young Bruno of Westerly and Paul Tasso of Hartford stood toe to toe and slugged for all they were worth, bringing the fans to their feet. It seemed each minute that one of the lads would drop from the terrific blows. Bruno was the more aggressive and piled up quite a margin in the first round when he went after Tasso before the latter could get started and had him up against the ropes, doing little or no damage however. They were rather tired at the final bell and the crowd called for the extra round, but Bruno had won by a safe margin and the judges gave him the decision.

About 2,000 people witnessed the excellent bouts and it is to be regretted that this is to be the last outdoor show. In three weeks the next show will be held in a hall to be announced later. Jack Wilson refereed the first five bouts and Frankie Bush the last six in big league fashion. Mike Kelly and John Sweeney were the judges and Jack Adams officiated at the bell.

The winners were presented with handling bags and athletic shoes and the losers with boxing shoes.

ACADEMY SQUAD HAS STIFF PRACTICE SESSION

The Academy had an all-afternoon drill for their first real session of the season Tuesday afternoon at the campus. About three hours were consumed by the Red and Whitesters in their workout.

Passing and kicking took up a major part of the session which closed with calisthenics and grass drills.

LEMIEUX LOSES DECISION TO TELL IN FAST BOUT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 20—Irish Benny Tell of Brooklyn won a hairline decision over Tommy Lemieux of Woonsocket, R. I., in a fast ten round bout which was the feature of the final open-air show of the Thames A. C. here tonight. Both boys are flyweights, and fought at top speed during the ten rounds with Tell gaining the decision by a fast jabbing attack in the closing rounds.

In the semi-final eight round bout Ralph Landis of New York outpointed Steve Culver of Bridgeport in a furious bout. Landis outpunched Culver all the way. Both weighed 135 pounds.

In the preliminaries Young Belizzi of Norwich and Mickey Ross of Westerly fought six rounds to a draw while Farmer Hill of Westerly won an easy decision over Eddie Ryan of Providence, R. I. Hill knocked Ryan down three times for counts of five, seven and nine in the last three rounds of their scheduled four round curtain raiser.

DONOHUE TO RECOMMEND LIGHTWEIGHT ELIMINATIONS

HARTFORD, Sept. 20—(AP)—When the National Boxing association has its annual meeting at Toledo, Ohio, October 17 and 18, Thomas E. Donohue, the association's president will recommend an elimination tournament among the country's leading lightweights to bring forth an opponent for Sammy Mandell, the champion. Donohue made this clear tonight in a telephone conversation from his home in New London.

Donohue will recommend that Mandell defend his title against the winner of the series of elimination bouts or forfeit the championship which he won from Rocky Kansas of Buffalo. The list of lightweights whom Donohue will ask the body to recognize as the outstanding contenders includes Louis Kid Kaplan, of Meriden, Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, Sid Terris, of New York and Tommy Herman, of Philadelphia.

CUBS TAKE FINAL GAME FROM THE BRAVES

CHICAGO, Sept. 20—(AP)—Chicago made it four out of five from Boston today and fifteen out of twenty two for the season by taking the final game 8 to 5. The visitors got a four run jump on the Cubs in the first inning by driving Lefty Weinert off the hill.

Jones, who succeeded him, held the Braves safe with the exception of the second inning when Morrison hit a home run. Chicago tied the score in the first two innings by bunching hits, including a home run by Heathcote with three Boston errors. They forged ahead in the seventh on English's single and Stephenson's double and scored two more in the eighth on Jones' hit, Adams' triple and an error by Farrell. Welsh also poled a home run in the Braves' first inning with two men on base. The score:

DOAK BLANKS PIRATES WITH ONLY TWO HITS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20—(AP)—The Robins handed the league leading Pirates their second consecutive shutout defeat today, 3 to 0, as Bill Doak, veteran flinger of spit balls, held the Corsairs to two hits. Only one Pittsburgh player reached second base. The reversal cut the Pirate margin on the peak to three games. The second place Giants, enjoying two off days on their schedule, saw the contest from the stands. They are slated to open a four-game series here Thursday.

Lee Meadows allowed seven hits in the pitching duel, three of which were grouped in the fourth for two runs, with one out, Carey tripled and scored on a single by Hendrick. A double by Herman sent the second run over the plate. The other Brooklyn tally came in the seventh on successive singles by Butler and Henline and Doak's sacrifice bunt which permitted Butler to score. A pinch hitter went in for Meadows in the eighth and Dawson twirled the final session.

Doak yielded three bases on balls, all going to Paul Waner. The only hits made off him were a double by Gooch in the third and a single by Lloyd Waner in the sixth.

Incidentally, the Pirates have not scored a run since the club started taking applications for world series tickets yesterday. The score:

DETROIT WINS TWO GAMES FROM RED SOX

BOSTON, Sept. 20—(AP)—Detroit won both ends of a double header from Boston today, 4 to 3, and 5 to 3, closing the season's series between the two clubs. The Tigers won 17 of their meetings with the Red Sox this year and lost five. Regan's hitting and the fielding of Ruble and Blue featured today's contests, while the relief pitching of George Smith pulled out the second game for the visitors. The scores:

ATHLETICS TAKE BOTH ENDS OF DOUBLE PROGRAM

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20—(AP)—The Athletics finished the season's series with the St. Louis Browns today by winning a double header by scores of 4 to 1 and 7 to 3.

Crowder blanked the Athletics in the opener until the ninth inning when passes to Cobb and Cochrane and a single by Fox tied the score.

Milton Gaston was solved for six runs in the first inning of the second game and made three wild pitches, each of which allowed a runner to score from third base. The score:

FIRST REVIEW OF DUSTY LEAGUE TEAMS

Richmond Radiators

The Richmond Radiators finished as first champions of the Norwich Industrial league because they showed consistently good baseball. Not particularly flashy but still possessing a strong and rugged attack, this team went through with two losses and ten wins in fifteen games, one ending in a tie.

But the sixth place J. B. Martin team could defeat them, both times by one run.

Highlights in the Richmond season were their 9 to 2 win over the Insilcos in the memorable Jarvis-Green game, their 12 to 1 win over the Y. M. C. A., two thrilling tussles with the Thermos Bottlers and their game with the Werman Shoers when they clinched the title.

The work of Capt. Lloyd Jarvis, pitcher-outfielder-infielder, Gil Kampf, and Gerry Burke, infielders, Tim Coughlin, outfielder, infielder, and Kotch, pitcher who won 6 and lost none to lead the league in games won and lost, stood out in their play.

From their work this season it would seem that the following titles should be bestowed:

Most valuable player—Lloyd Jarvis.
Best infielder—Gil Kampf.
Best Outfielder—Jarvis.

(Y. M. C. A. tomorrow)

Great Britain now has over 7,000 professional footballers, and 750,000 amateur players.

HARD STRUGGLES FEATURE WOMEN'S NATIONAL GOLF TOURNAMENT PLAY

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 20—(AP)—Leading contenders for the 1927 women's golfing championship of the United States sailed a stormy course today over the rolling fairway of the Cherry Valley club.

Among those whose aspirations met disaster in this opening round of match play were numbered Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, Philadelphia, winner of the crown in 1909, 1910 and 1924, and Miss Eileen Pattison, champion of Bermuda.

Mrs. Hurd went down before Mrs. Henry Pressler of Los Angeles, Calif., by a margin of one up in as hard a battle as she has ever been called upon to fight. Miss Pattison was beaten by two and one by Miss Jane Brooks of Englewood, N. J.

Two other ex-champions and two other foreign invaders, however, managed to win places among the sixteen survivors. These four, all of whom are seen as possible winners, are Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, winner in 1922 and 1925; Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, Ottawa, Canada, winner in 1916, 1919 and 1920; Mlle. Simone Thion De La Chaume, champion of France and England, and Miss Ada Mackenzie, champion of Canada.

The most impressive showing of the day was made by Miss Maureen Orcutt, metropolitan champion, who knocked five strokes from the women's par in the twelve holes needed to win from Mrs. Elnora P. Harwood of Chicago. Miss Orcutt lost not a single hole and won by 8 and 6.

Miss Collett on the other hand, had a narrow escape in nosing out Mrs. J. L. Anderson of the Cherry Valley club by a margin of one up. Of the 150 who started play the following sixteen, named in the order in which they will meet tomorrow, are still in the running:

Miss Ada Mackenzie, Toronto, Canada, vs. Miss Helen Payson, Portland, Maine; Miss Virginia Vanwie, Chicago, vs. Miss Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., Miss Maureen Orcutt, Haworth, N. J., vs. Miss Rosalie Knapp, Glenhead, N. Y., Miss Marie Jenney, Yonkers, N. Y., vs. Miss Jane Brooks, Englewood, N. J.

Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, Kansas City, vs. Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., Mrs. Henry Pressler, Los Angeles, Calif., vs. Mrs. Courtland Smith, Glenridge, N. J., Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, Ottawa, Canada, vs. Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, R. I., Mrs. H. G. Higbie, Detroit, vs. Mlle Simone Thion De La Chaume.

The closely contested match between Miss Collett and Mrs. Anderson provided golfing drama of the highest order. Mrs. Anderson with the advantage of playing on her home course, held the Providence star all even in the first nine. They were even again at the 13th when Mrs. Anderson nearly holed out on an approach shot. From 100 yards away she shot the ball to within two inches of the hole for a birdie four and the lead.

On the 14th Miss Collett evened it and on the 15th she holed a 20 foot putt for a half. They shared the 16th and on the 17th the ex-champion laid a spoon shot dead to the pin for a birdie four. It gave her the match as the last hole was even in par fours.

Eight of the 16 matches today were hard fought and eight were won with comparative easeness.

In the former category among others, fell the victory of Miss Collett, and Miss Quier's one-up victory over Mrs. J. D. Woodfin, of West Newton, Mass., on the 20th green.

The easier victories included those of Mlle. De La Chaume, of Miss Mackenzie over Mrs. E. H. Fillter of Philadelphia, 7 and 5, off Miss Orcutt, of Miss Wall over Beatrice Gottlieb, Delaware Watergap, Pa., 5 and 3, and of Mrs. Fraser over Mrs. Arnold Jackson of Greenwich, Conn., 6 and 5.

Play tomorrow will start at 10 o'clock.

CARDS TIE WITH GIANTS BY BEATING PHILLIES

ST. LUIS, Sept. 20—(AP)—Successive homers by Frisch and Hafey in the seventh inning enabled the St. Louis Cards to make it five in a row over the Phillies and win the final game of the series today, 5 to 4.

The victory put the Cards into a tie with the New York Giants in second place and but three games behind the league leading Pirates, who lost to Brooklyn. Although the Cards still have a mathematical chance to win the pennant, the public apparently did not think much of the prospects and not more than 1,200 attended.

Ulrich, the Philadelphia pitching ace, allowed the Cards only seven hits, but the grouping of the two doubles and a single with a walk and a sacrifice in the first inning homers, proved his undoing.

Sherdel allowed the visitors ten safeties. He had one bad inning, the fifth, in which the Phillies got three singles and a triple to score 3 runs. A ninth inning rally fell short with one run when Cooney doubled, advanced on Friberg's single and came home on the squeeze pay. The score:

TUNNEY WILL USE SAME ATTACK AS LAST YEAR

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

LAKE VILLA, Ills., Sept. 20—(AP)—The self made strategy that carried Gene Tunney to the heavyweight throne in the battle of the sesqui-centennial at Philadelphia last fall will guide the big marine in defense of his heavyweight crown against the former champion, Jack Dempsey, in Soldier field Thursday night.

While around 150,000 spectators watch from the blackness of the huge stadium at two gladiators battling for a purse of $1,450,000, Tunney believes he will stab Dempsey off balance continually with a cutting left hand and hammer out just as decisive a victory with solid right crosses as he did in their first encounter a year ago.

Analyzing the situation calmly at the close of five months of training for the record shattering battle of the distant vistas, Tunney can see ahead only the opportunity to complete the job he left unfinished in the driving rain at Philadelphia. Although the champion shies at predicting a knockout victory, he believes that such an ending alone can establish the supremacy he feels over Dempsey.

Tunney's best chance for a knockout, he feels, probably will be in one of the last three rounds, from the eighth to the tenth.

Gene will enter the ring pledged to no definite style of milling, however.

WILTSE HAS BETTER OF PITCHING DUEL WITH HOPKINS

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 20—(AP)—Buffalo's International league champions squared the post season series with Albany, pennant winner in the Eastern league, by winning the second game here today by a score of 1 to 0.

Brilliant pitching featured the contest. Jack Hopkins of Albany allowing only two hits, both singles, and Jimmy Wiltse of Buffalo holding the Senators to three safeties. The score:

Buffalo	010	000	000	1	2	1
Albany	000	000	000	0	3	3

Wiltse and Devine; Hopkins and Munn.

DEMPSEY BUBBLING OVER WITH HIS CONFIDENCE

LINCOLN FIELDS, Crete, Ill., Sept. 20—(AP)—Jack Dempsey curled up under the blankets tonight for his sleep at his wind swept training camp confident that when he meets Gene Tunney in Soldier's field Thursday night he will win by a knockout within seven rounds.

The former world's heavyweight champion appeared to be in excellent shape today as he loafed around camp, passing the time with his father, Hiram Dempsey and other relatives who came on from Salt Lake City to see as they expressed it "Jack win back his title."

Dempsey's father brought with him Jack's nephew, Lloyd Stanard. The elder Dempsey's brothers from West Virginia, Richard and Lou Dempsey, Jack's cousin Hiram Dempsey, and the mayor of Salt Lake City, Clarence Neslen, also joined the group. Mayor Neslen flew from Salt Lake in an airplane to see the fight.

"I came all the way from Utah to see Jack win back that championship," said Dempsey's father. "My boy, in condition, is the best fighter in the world. I only needed one peek at him today to know that he is ready."

The Dempseys will all have ringside seats and already are planning to join in the big celebration late Thursday night in honor of "the only heavyweight champion who ever came back."

The former titleholder did four miles of roadwork this morning with Jole Ray, the miler, and Jerry the Greek as his companions. Late in the afternoon Dempsey sharpened up his punch on both the light and heavy bags.

With Manager Leo P. Flynn in Chicago to meet with officials of the state athletic commission, Dempsey said he expected to break camp tomorrow evening. He will do nothing but roadwork tomorrow, and loaf all day Thursday.

TUNNEY IS NOW A 6-TO-5 FAVORITE OVER DEMPSEY

CHICAGO, Sept. 20—(AP)—Pre-battle preparaitons for the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship ten round match Thursday night at Soldier field approached a climax today with these outstanding developments.

1—Continued reports of a decided drift in Jack Dempsey's favor, with wagering on Gene Tunney down to odds of 6 to 5 in many instances and prospects of even money betting by tomorrow.

2—A new "flood" of counterfeit tickets, of all denominations from $5 to $40, announced by Tex Rickard and resulting in increased vigilance by the federal and local agents.

3—Conference of state athletic commission with rival managers of fighters on rules, together with reports that the commission had further whittled down the referee candidates to three men, generally supposed to be Walter Eckersall, newspaperman; George Lytton, businessman; and David Miller, wealthy sportsman and veteran official, of Chicago.

4—Dismissal in federal court of suit by Rev. Elmer Williams to stop fight on grounds it endangers public morals, and postponement until tomorrow of application for permanent injunction by Colliseum Athletic club, based on claims of prior contract with Dempsey to fight Harry Wills here last year.

5—Reiteration by Dempsey of alleged efforts to "frame" his losing battle with Tunney last year, the basis of the ex-champion's now famous "open letter" and assertion that he still was determined to force an answer from the title-holder.

Workmen put the finishing touches today to the vast expanse of pine seats, augmenting Soldier field's concrete stands, while telegraph men took over the job of installing about 140 ringside wires, a record breaking number, which will carry the sport stories of nearly 400 ringside writers, only a third of the total array of writing talent assigned elsewhere.

So far as the referee is concerned, "he will not know himself he has been selected until the boxers climb into the ring," Paul Prehn, member of the state athletic commission, declared.

The commission's already established rules, governing details of the battle's conduct, were gone over with Dempsey's manager, Leo Flynn, and Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager. Each fighter will be limited to 30 feet of gauze bandage, for each hand, with enough adhesive tape to hold it. This as well as other equipment will be donned under surveillance of the commission's inspection.

Cohen to Meet Mello

BOSTON, Sept. 20—(AP)—Meyer Cohen of Holyoke, holder of the New England welterweight championship, today was signed to meet Al Mello of Lowell in Boston on October 3. The title will be at stake.

DEMPSEY-TUNNEY BOUT TO BE MEGAPHONED AT BULLETIN

Returns of the Dempsey-Tunney bout at Soldiers field, Chicago, will be given through a megaphone service at The Bulletin Office. The round by round description of the bout will come by direct wire to The Bulletin and will be written by E. J. Neil, sports writer of the Associated Press. The preliminary descriptive story will be by Alan J. Gould, Associated Press sports editor, and Charles Dunkey of the Chicago staff.

The main bout is scheduled for 8:30 p. m., (central standard time) which would make it about 10:30 p. m., (eastern daylight time).

The preliminary bouts will start at 7:15 p. m., (central standard time). The main bout may go on earlier than the scheduled time if weather conditions are threatening.

SEVERAL EASTERN CONN

WESTERLY

NAMED WALTER L. GAVITT ADM. OF PAPPIN ESTATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 20—Probate Judge Edward M. Burke this afternoon in the probate court disposed of business as follows:

The will of Mary J. Fisher was admitted to probate and Andrew W. Fisher was confirmed as administrator with bond $1,000 with Arthur L. Perry as surety. Howard E. Thorp was named appraiser.

Estate of Martha A. L. Greene. Petition received from Henry Gates Crandall that a will executed April 13, 1918, be admitted to probate. The same was passed and later continued to next session.

Estate of George W. Pappin. Harry S. Reynolds of Providence representing Rhode Island Attorney General Charles P. Sisson, again appeared in court accompanied by Walter L. Gavitt of 23 Essex street, Providence, friend of the deceased whose death resulted in Westerly on Aug. 13th from being struck by an automobile, the estate matter having been continued from the last court session when the required 30 days had not expired for the next of kin to file a petition. Mr. Reynolds said it was the request of Rhode Island Attorney General Sisson that Gavitt be appointed administrator of the estate for which no relatives have been heard from up to the present time.

Mrs. Mary B. Blanchard of Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, again informed the court that she would prefer to have Mr. Perry of the Washington Trust Co., or Judge Burke appointed and said that Mr. Pappin had always said that he desired to make provision for the care of her adopted children and that he was accustomed to visit her home frequently.

Judge Burke declared that if a balance remained after the payment of bills it would go to the town of Westerly and did not want to see any administrator named who would not make every effort to locate relatives and in event none appeared to lay down on the task with the balance of money in his hands.

Walter L. Gavitt was named administrator with the agreement to retain Attorney General Sisson as counsel and to make every endeavor to locate relatives. Examiner Scanlon was directed to be given receipts by the administrator and bond from a surety company was set at $7,500. Dr. M. H. Scanlon was named as the appraiser.

Estate of Walter Rogers. Petition received from Lillian A. Rogers, widow and Stewart G. Rogers, son of the deceased, who died intestate a resident of Westerly on April 11, 1927, that the estate be probated. Stewart G. Rogers was appointed administrator with bond $3,500 with Lillian A. Rogers as surety. George E. Allen of Hopkinton, R. I., was named appraiser.

Estate of Sarah S. Loveland. Petition received from Georgiana Langworthy as administratrix for leave to deposit 30 chares of the Providence Ice company with the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. and same was granted.

Estate of Gladys E. Shippee. Petition of Mrs. George M. Pendleton, guardian, was received and granted to expend $20 per month for care and support of ward, the same being required by U. S. Government War Risk Insurance bureau at Washington, which comprises the estate.

Judge Charles A. Walsh presided today at the second day of the September term of superior court for Washington county when four more divorce cases on the docket were heard. A divorce was granted Georgietta Jordan from Alfred F. Jordan on grounds of neglect to provide and she also received the custody of a minor child. Elizabeth H. Wilcox received a bill of separation from George F. Wilcox by reason of neglect to provide. Myria Hauser was given a divorce from Mattyas Hauser for extreme cruelty and neglect to provide. Mary B. Burk received a divorce from J. Henry Burk for neglect to provide.

On the attorney general's docket which is to be taken up Wednesday but two Westerly cases appear. They are State vs. Angelo Murano for assault and the same complainant vs. Karl Martin, for the operation of an automobile while under the influenc of liquor.

Petit jurors under summons to report Wednesday morning at the Washington county court house at West Kingsto nare:

North Kingstown—Alfred C. Munson, Edward Kendrick, Theodore M. Reynolds, Robert C. Darling, Ralph G. Shippee, Freeman P. Tefft; South Kingstown—Leroy D. Smith, James H. Briggs, Charles P. McCormick, Lloyd E. Woodmansee, Henry A. Tucker, Merwin C. Clarke, Mark M. Swafford, Norris E. Tucker; Westerly—Thomas R. Kerr, Frank H. Crandall, George J. Kemp, Frank B. Livingstone, Wayland A. Saunders, Albert J. West, Benjamin Carpenter, Fred N. Wheeler, Clarence L. Clarke; Richmond—Charles J. Link, Oscar W. Gates; Hopkinton—Edgar L. Moshier, William G. Barber, William N. Johnson, Howard C. Kenyon; Exeter,—Herbert G. Dyer, Andrew E. Peck; Charlestown — William J. Browne, John V. Downey; Narragansett—Elphege J. Morrissette, Frank Downing.

On the motion calendar of the super- court on Monday were listed 41 arings, 5 were marked ready, 7 pass- 20 set down for Westerly hearing d 6 at Kingston; that of the complainant's motion to assign in the equity case, Edwin Herman Vare vs. John Olsen et ux, for the first hearing to the court in Westerly and an agreement was announced as reached on the respondent's motion to assign in the divorce action, Orpha Wells Simpson Gardner vs. Waldo Ansel Gardiner. Additional assignments to be made are Granite Street Garage vs. George Pickering and Brewer and Co. vs. Thomas Wilkinson with stipulations on Wednesday.

Motions heard were:

Divorce petition Hilda F. Edwards vs. Leonard E. Edwards, on respondents motion for bill of particulars, bill was ordered as to time, place and nature, on the grounds charged of cruelty and neglect.

In equity Caroline Gervasini as venerable of Loggia Cornelia Madre del Gracchi, No. 881, Westerly, vs. Concetta S. Grilla, et al, on the defendant's motion to assign. The hearing was assigned to the Westerly calendar when reached.

Settlement by agreement was announced on petitioner's motion for counsel fees, in the divorce petition, Elizabeth Rathbone vs. William B. Rathbone.

Motion to strike out addition of 15 per cent added damages for attorney's fees was denied in the action at law, Manufacturer's Finance Co., vs. Raymond W. Champlin of Westerly in collection of notes unpaid on automobile.

Bill of particulars was ordered by Wednesday in the case Henry Piowarski vs. Carroll Johnson.

On the assignment docket were listed 21 petitions for divorce and four were disposed of on Monday.

NOANK

Lyle Chesebro, the expert guesser of the village on different sports, came down to the waiting room Monday evening and some one asked him who was going to win the big fight between Tunney and Dempsey this week. He said "I have studied it all over and pick Tunney to win on points in 10 rounds, but cannot see where Tunney can knock out Dempsey—Too big a mah! Gene will outbox him. So bet the greenbacks on the ex-marine, Tunney to win!" A year ago Sept. 19, when these two men fought in Philadelphia, he picked Tunney to win that battle. He claims that in ten years he has not failed on any of the boxing matches and baseball games. So all will wait and see how the expert guesser of the village come out on the big fight.

Perspiration odor so unpardonable
Why risk it—when it's so easy to banish?
We notice perspiration odor instantly in others, yet cannot always tell when we offend.
For even when we aren't conscious of perspiring, the pores constantly give off odor-causing moisture.
Don't take needless chances—use Lifebuoy! Millions bathe with it daily, for it is so refreshing and gives lasting freedom from perspiration odor.
Better still, it helps safeguard family health by removing unseen disease germs that hands may carry home.
Lifebuoy's clean, hygienic scent—which quickly evaporates after rinsing—tells you it gives greater safety. Yet Lifebuoy costs so little. It is orange-red, the color of its pure palm-fruit oils. Get it today.

HEAT with OIL
O-Matic
Close your furnace doors forever. Shut out all the drudgery of a hand fired furnace. Oil-O-Matic will make your furnace take care of itself and give you a heating service far beyond anything you have ever known. It replaces coal with cheap fuel oil and automatically maintains a uniform temperature.

These Owners Have Ended It
Read What They Say
"We are very pleased with our Oil-O-Matic heater. So far it has given great satisfaction. I should be sorry to return to a coal heater."—R. S. GERNON, 195 Washington Street, Norwich.
"Oil-O-Matic is the best method of heating a home possible. Was able during last winter to heat my home at any temperature without the slightest effort. It is the greatest comfort possible in the home."—C. D. WHITE, textile manufacturer, 248 Broadway, Norwich.
"The Oil-O-Matic is superior to coal in every way. It is far more convenient, cheaper to run and my house is cleaner and more comfortable. Your service, too, has been most efficient and courteous."—MRS. J. RALPH HOWE, 274 Broadway, Norwich.
"Oil-O-Matic has given entire satisfaction, maintaining uniform temperature without the care and annoyances caused by coal. Cost of operating less than with coal."—W. S. ALLIS, Attorney at Law, 91 Main Street, Norwich.
"I am very much pleased with the Oil-O-Matic. Everything has been very satisfactory. I would not care to do without it now for it has saved me a great deal of work and is so clean."—MRS. WILLIS D. ROUSE, Central Village, Conn.

WILLIAMS OIL-O-MATIC HEATING

We Urge You to Order Now If You Want It for Fall
Be prepared to enjoy Oil-O-Matic heat the very first day that the fall weather makes heat necessary—by placing your order with us now. If you delay you may have to wait beyond the time you'll need it as our Oil-O-Matic crews are busy now and we must have orders calling for early fall installation now. Let us give you an estimate of the cost of an Oil-O-Matic in your home.
Mr. Du Pont, Head of General Motors, Never Tended The Furnace BUT He Bought 50 Oil-O-Matics
The fact that Pierre S. Du Pont head of the General Motors Corporation has bought 50 Oil-O-Matics, is of prime interest to every home owner. Men like Mr. Du pont probably never in their life took care of a furnace. Therefore they can never experience the joys of Oil-O-Matic heat. Yet they are enthusiastic about the cleanliness and even temperature of this modern heating method. The Oil-O-Matic was chosen by Mr. Du Pont after actual tests by his engineers of every oil burner made. This fact should settle the question of comparative merit.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

Today for the last three times, once in the afternoon, and twice in the evening, will be your only opportunity of seeing the wonder picture of the year. Metropolis, the latest production coming from the UFA studios in Europe is an outstanding example of cinema excellance. One almost loses control of one's feeling when witnessing this super masterpiece. It is almost impossible to describe the immensity of this production. Imagine a super-city, in which the Woolworth building would be dwarfed; in which there is more life under ground than above; in which modern machinery, modern economic systems would be considered primitive. The story itself is melodramatically moral. John Masterman, the builder, is shown as a soulless individual who controls the entire city and its people. Deep down underground are the homes of his working men. And as far up as that city is down, is his stadium, where his son and his gilded friends take their pagan pleasures.

Commencing Thursday for three days, the laughing hit of Paramount's new seasons product will be shown. W. C. Fields New York famous musical comedy star, ably co-starred by Mary Brian with a cast of nine other well known stars in Running Wild, is the story of a timid soul who changes his entire outlook on life when a stage hypnotist convinces him that he has become a roaring lion. The situations are screamingly funny and yet a touch here and there of real drama such as we all love to see, in conection with the above, five acts of supreme vaudeville will be featured. The names and descriptions will be announced in tomorrow's papers.

Parson—I am glad to see you so regular in your place on Sunday.

Regular Church Attendant—Indeed, sir, it's not every day I get such a comfortable seat and so little to think about.—Outlook.

The picture to date has played to over 12,000 Norwich patrons, and today will complete the run. Our unbiased advice to all, who have missed seeing it is to lay everything else aside and hike right over to the Broadway and see the greatest film ever made.

The theft of a million dollar sapphire. The flight of the gallant Beau Geste and his two brothers under shadow of disgrace to Africa to save the honor of an English lady and her beautiful niece. The wild career of the Gestes in the Foreign Legion! Picture what's in store for you in this one!

You'll remember it for many a day and want to see it all over again.

The story proved a tremendous success in its long stage presentation in almost every city in America, and with Jean Hersholt, one of the most celebrated actors on the screen, in the rich role of the gambler who covers his real occupation under the benign exterior of a deacon, a very worthwhile picture should be the result.

In addition to the character star, the cast of the picture includes Ralph Graves, June Marlowe, Myrtle Stedman, Lincoln Plummer, Ned Sparks, Maurice Murphy, Tom Kennedy and others.

Breed Theater

"One Round Hogan" starring Monte Blue comes to the Breed theater today and Thursday as the big attraction on a double feature bill

James J. Jeffries, most colorful of World's heavyweight boxing champions, is seen as Monte Blue's father in "One Round Hogan", the latter's latest starring effort for Warner Bros. directed by Howard Bretherton.

"One Round Hogan" is the story of a champion fighter, the son of a champion. With the exception of Leila Hyams, who plays the feminine lead, the cast is composed entirely of famous fighters and figures of the squared circle. Among these is Frank Hagney, heavyweight boxer and winner of the recent row-boat race to Catalina, Tom Gallery, matchmaker for the American Legion stadium in Hollywood, "Texas Kid" Griswold, lightweight who fought Lew Tendler and other top notchers and Abdul the Terrible Turk, wrestler and trainer. Many other well known pugilists do "bits."

"Early to Wed" is the added feature on this bill. It is from the pen of Evelyn Campbell and features Matt Moore, Kathryn Perry and Zasu Pitts

Many a newly married couple could profit from the moral conveyed subtly by this picture. It teaches the wife not to be a nagger, but to be helpful to her husband; and the husband, that it is disastrous to bluff his way through life by living beyond his means.

Important Y. M. C. A. News

Today is what is termed "registration day" for the girls and women who intend to take advantage of the privileges of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and swimming classes each Wednesday of the coming season.

There will be no classes this afternoon or evening, but all who wish may register at the "Y" office. Mrs. Phillips Streeter will again be in charge of the gymnasium classes and Mrs. Arthur J. With will conduct classes in the swimming pool as last year.

Already there are healty indications that large numbers of men and boys will avail themselves of the privileges of the association building during the season about to open, and everything will be done to make the members happy in the various departments. The opening reception is scheduled for early in October and social occasions will be more frequent than heretofore. Billiards and other games will make the lobby life busy. Classes and games in the attractive gymnasium and the Osgood Memorial swimming pool will be arranged for the various groups with the idea of having plenty of fun and also of keeping the body fit for the requirements of this modern day.

There is a growing interest in the Y. M. C. A. Red Cross group, and its members will co-operate in the various activities, especially in teaching the art of life saving. This group will have a club room of its own for their meetings.

A well rounded program for boys will be mapped out along social, physical and religious lines. The association offers unusual opportunities for boys from 11 to 17 years of age; parents will do well to encourage their boys to secure the benefits of this high ideal institution.

The New CADILLAC

has met a great, nation-wide reception from an appreciative motoring public. It is acclaimed everywhere as the most beautiful of all Cadillacs—the greatest value in fine cars ever offered.

Much was expected of this new car. It had to meet the critical approval of the smartest motorists in America. It had to surpass the highest attainments in beauty, in luxury, and in performance known to fine cars. It had Cadillac's own greatest past accomplishments to transcend.

On every score, the conquest was decisive. And more: There was victory, equally great, in the new Cadillac price—which might easily and justifiably have been an advance. Instead, the new line represents values that are overshadowingly the greatest ever offered—and within a price range more moderate than before.

HELEN AUSTIN, AS "MISS NEW LONDON," WILL COMPETE AT NORWICH FAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 20—Miss Helen Austin is "Miss New London," for today she was so honored by the committee appointed to select New London's prettiest girl and represent the city of New London on the float that the municipality will enter in the parade in conjunction with the New London County fair at Norwich this week. Miss Austin went to New Haven this afternoon and selected the colonial costume which she will wear on the float. Miss Austin, who is assistant city clerk, is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Austin, of State street, and has been employed by the city six years, four years as clerk in the office of the assessors and two years in her present position. Miss Austin will be in the fair beauty contest in competition with Miss Evon Broadhurst, who was selected as the prettiest girl in Norwich. The winner will be given a handsome silver loving cup.

George Brown has sold the bungalow, corner of Gilead road and Lorenso street, Waterford, to Edward W. and Ross M. Staplins, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney H. Miner have arrived at their summer residence, at Poquoyogh, Waterford, having spent several weeks in Europe. Mr. and Mrs. Miner visited Italy, Switzerland, France, Belgium, Germany, Holland, England and Wales.

The board of inquiry at the submarine base has concluded its investigation of the suicide of Cecil T. Cunningham, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cunningham, of Harms, Ten. Cunningham's body was found in a rocking chair at the rooming house, 41 Federal street, conducted by Mrs. Katherine Williams, yesterday morning, he having ended his life by inhaling gas. The report has been forwarded to Washington and its contents were not revealed. The body is at an undertaking establishment and is being held pending the reception of instructions from the parents.

Groton taxpayers in town meeting last night refused to appropriate $35,000 for the purchase of fire apparatus for an unprotected section of the borough. William D. Alexander and more than a score of other residents petitioned for the purchase of the apparatus. Clark R. Whaley, selectman, was chairman of the meeting. After much discussion for and against the proposition a vote was taken and carried to indefinitely postpone action, the vote being 154 to postpone as against 106. The main objection to the voting of money seems to be the location of the proposed fire house about a mile from the borough line. Old Mystic, Poquonoc Bridge and Center Groton are the points that should be benefited by a rural fire company. Many taxpayers see a bad precedent in financing one company while the other companies have taken care of their own financial needs. The matter of purchasing apparatus has been before the voters three times within a year and without an appropriation being authorized. Another meeting to consider the question, it is believed, will come within a short time.

Miss Georgia Pierce, 50, formerly of New London, died Sunday at her home in New York. Miss Pierce was a resident of New London 25 years, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Pierce. Mr. Pierce was a contracting mason in New London many years. Miss Pierce was employed 20 years by the McClure Publishing company, New York, but was compelled to abandon active labor five years ago because of ill-health. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Fred M. Chapman, of Quincy, Mass., and by a brother, Courtland Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. The body will be forwarded to Westerly for burial.

NEW LONDON, Sept. 20.—Charles Wesley Lamb, 90, formerly of Mystic and New York, died this morning at the residence of his nephew, Halsey E. Packer, 135 Vauxhall street, after a brief illness. He is survived by numerous distant relatives. Mr. Lamb had been in New London but a short time and had intended to reside with his nephew during the winter. He suffered a decline of health several days ago because of his advanced years. Mr. Lamb, during a period of his residence in New York, was commodore of the former Knickerbocker Yacht club.

Mrs. Ella B. Sprague, 58, wife of Henry M. Sprague, died last night at her residence, 19 Latham street. Besides her husband, Mrs. Sprague is survived by a daughter. She was a member of Seabury Memorial church, Groton. She had been ill for a long time.

Frank Pokornitsky, 185 Bank street, was in the police court this morning charged with breach of the peace. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail. Pokornitsky is lucky that he did not receive a more severe penalty, more because of his utterances than his actions that resulted in his arrest last night. Pokornitsky was drinking yesterday afternoon and when he went to his home about 6 o'clock he was in an ugly mood and quarrelled with his wife. He procured a window weight and placing it in a stocking he threatened to kill his wife and children. Whether he was serious in his threat is not known, but Mrs. Pokornitsky did not wait and give her husband an opportunity to wield the iron weight for she requested police protection. Patrolman George Cockell and Braxton Hill and Motorcycle Officer Elwood Bailey responded. When they arrived at the house, Mrs. Pokornitsky said that her husband had gone to the attic and armed with an axe and that he had declared that he would kill the first officer that entered the attic. The officers ascended to the top floor where they found Pokornitsky, but whether he had an axe secreted it is not known, for he was arrested without force and did not display any signs of fighting the officers.

Charles Wilbur, of Pawtucket, R. I., was in court and was given a suspension of judgment. Wilbur was arrested on North Bank street yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Clarence Wells.

Joseph Claypool, United States Coast Guard sailor, being a member of the crew of the destroyer Trippe, state pier, was presented on a charge of breach of the peace. Claypool was fined $10 and costs on the latter. Claypool went to the Capitol theatre last night during the opening performance. He had not been there long before he started making a nuisance of himself by his loud talking. In order to end the disturbance, Patrolman William Manice on duty there arrested Claypool.

Charles Devine, laborer, was in court. Judgment in his case was suspended. Devine has been a lodger at the B. F. Learned mission several nights. Richard W. Mansfield, superintendent of the mission, made complaint to the police and Devine was arrested by Patrolman William Riordan.

Patrolman George Perkins reported today the existence of a dangerous section of the highway on Montauk, in front of the premises 453, where a hole had been made by heavy traffic and rain. The danger spot was reported to the highway department and repairs were made without delay.

PLAUT-CADDEN BLDG. FIRE ATTRIBUTED TO LIGHTNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 20—A double fire was discovered this morning on the upper floor of the Plaut-Cadden company's building, Bank street. The blaze was extinguished without damage of consequence. The fire was discovered before the store was opened for business and was burning in that section of the building occupied by Nosetta Brothers, wood workers. It had made its way through the partitions and was smouldering in a quantity of sawdust. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters, and Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and the Niagara Engine company and the Allen Hook and Ladder company responded. A small quantity of chemical was poured between the partitions causing the fire to be quickly extinguished. It is believed that the lightning during the storm of last night caused a short circuit of electric light wires, which resulted in the fire smouldering until discovered.

Waldo E. and Daisy L. Clark have sold a stretch of land, known as Quinnepeag road to the city of New London.

Elmer E. Kenerson has sold a house and lot on Adelaide street to Sara B. Sisson.

Annie M. Hislop has sold to the city of New London a strip of land, the same being known as Wassmer court.

Mrs. Gervascio Trintini and infant son, 3 Chappell street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Miss Mary Reed, of Adena, Ohio; Mrs. William Wilbur, Fishers Island; and Wheeler Way, Saybrook, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Lightning struck the building at 341 Bank street last night. The current entering a store along telephone wires, ripped the telephone from the wall and hurled objects about the store.

Hubert W. Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Ryan, of Belden street, and Miss Margaret Elizabeth Boyland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Boyland of Montauk avenue, were married this morning at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. William C. Fitzsimmons in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends. James P. Ryan, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Sarah K. Boyland, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan left at 11:40 o'clock on a wedding trip, which will include a visit in Atlantic City, Washington and Miami, Fla. Mr. Ryan is employed in the accounting department of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad in this city. His bride is a graduate of Williams Memorial institute and until recently was a teacher at the Colt street school.

William D. Connor, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Connor, of Montauk avenue, has entered George Washington university where he will pursue a college course.

James Hickey, son of Mrs. Michael Hickey, of Palmertown and Miss Juliette Rioux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Rioux, of Oakdale, were married at 8 o'clock this morning at St. John's church, Uncasville, by Rev. M. W. Barry. Norman Rioux, brother of the bride, was best man and Miss Rose Hickey, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Hickey left New London at noon on their wedding trip and will visit in Washington and New York. Mr. Hickey is employed by the Massasoit Manufacturing company, Oakdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Keeney, of Fitch avenue, have returned home after having spent a week with Mrs. Keeney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kenyon, Hartford.

Mrs. Wheeler Vibber has returned to her home on Maple avenue having visited Mrs. Charles R. Andrews, of Pequot avenue, who is at her cottage at Crystal lake, Conn.

Two violators of the city's traffic laws were arrested this afternoon and both furnished bonds for their appearance in the police court tomorrow. One of the violators is Stanley Oldden, of Rutherford, N. J., who was arrested by Traffic Officer John Courtney. The other is Arthur Lozovich, 1009 Kelley street, New York. He was arrested by Patrolman John Sullivan.

Antone Enos, 370 Bayonet street, contracting mason, was arrested tonight by Patrolmen William Graham, Harry Watterson and Braxton Hill charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. Enos went to his home and created such a disturbance by abusing his wife that Mrs. Enos requested her husband's arrest.

The residence of Guiseppe Scuzzell, 68 Ledyard street, Groton, was threatened with damage by fire this morning when an oil stove in the basement exploded. When the explosion occurred a quantity of blazing oil ignited shingles that were near the stove. An alarm was rung in and the Pioneer hose company responded. Chemicals sufficed to extinguish the fire, only trivial damage resulting.

The Girl's Friendly society of the Seabury Memorial church held the opening meeting of the fall tonight in the Groton Heights Baptist hurch.

A force of city employes has been making temporary repairs to defective sidewalks this week. The walks in most cases have depressions and these have been filled with fine blue stone and tar composition.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

New London County Fair

The merchants' exhibits at the county fair this year will be far more pretentious than those of previous years. The main hall and booth buildings are all filled and tents are now being resorted to for late comers. Among some of the large firms of both New London and Norwich are the Plaut-Cadden company, which have taken space in the west end of the hall, and Schwartz Bros., are here again. Other furniture exhibits are being made by the Interstate Furniture company, the Silberman Furniture company. The Norwich State Hospital are again showing their products in the same location as last year. The Eldridge Hardware company are on the grounds again with a large array of farm machinery, and so it goes. Space is beginning to be a lost commodity at the fair grounds.

The partial list of exhibitors follows:

Schwartz Bros., State Hospital, Voters League, Chamber of Commerce of Norwich, Yantic Grain, Interstate Furniture Co., Service Appliance Co., Lackenbach's Dying Co., Eagle Clothing, Treat's Cream, Norwich Electric Co., Oxeboxo Lake Co., Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Hanover-Curland Co., Henschell Tire Co., Permatex Co., New London County Social Workers, Silberman's Furniture Co., Chamberlain Weather Strips, Carl Berkoff, U. S. Steamship Co., H. W. Cornwall, Wm. Hale, Stanley Henschell, W. C. Temperance Union, Grason Leather Shop, Porteous & Mitchell Co., City of Norwich Gas and Electric department, Quinn and Desmond, Catholic Women's association, Maytag Co., Tony Longo, Nelson Electric Co., O'Neil Electric Co., Caron's Speciality Shop, W. E. Shanley, Fuellite Co., N. S. Gilbert & Sons, Silent Glow, Norwich Electric Co.

The automobile show is already a big success with over 100 cars signed to the show. Space is practically all taken there. The site is marked with a rustic birch fence and flags from many poles. Special flood lights have been placed and this will be one of the big features of the fair.

Whatever you do, do not miss the dog show. Sterrill Chase has combed the state and New England and has secured some big attractions in his line.

It is not too late for clubs who have not already sent in their request for place in line, to do so. Phone Charles Coit, grand marshal, Norwich 643. Phones have also been placed on the grounds and operators in attendance. Same can be reached through information operator.

Thursday (Club day) has already four full divisions and there will be as many more divisions as expediency demands. It's going to be a jolly time on the old fair grounds three days and nights and if you pass up a single day or night you will miss something.

While the Dempsey-Tunney fight will be broadcast Thursday night the radio programs for all three nights will go over big and will get WJZ every number, through the big amplifiers that FitzGerald has been contributed for your pleasure and edification. Just settle down to the fact that somebody has been doing something for the old county fair this year.

Through the courtesy of Lieut. Ward V. Streaman, troopers from the Groton barracks will patrol the turnpike all three days and nights of the fair in session. The executive committee are tireless in their endeavor to safeguard the public and provide for their comfort.

All lovers of beautiful flowers will have their fill when viewing the wonderful display. The fair officials are to be commended in their selection of Supt. Otto F. Ernst, manager of the Geduldig Nurseries and William Milne manager of the nurseries and hot houses of the big Plant estate Groton, as judges of the show. Ladies who attend the fair this year will find that a special effort has been made for their entertainment and comfort.

New England Adventist Contributions

Seventh-day Adventists throughout this state will be exceedingly interested in the proceedings of the world-wide convention of the leading clergymen of their denomination which will be held in Chattanooga, Tenn., from September 28 to October 5 to make plans for the further advancement of the church throughout North America and also lands abroad. The Southern New England conference which includes Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island in its territory last year contributed $50,788.07 to a similar fund and Rev. W. C. Moffett, the president who will be a delegate to the convention says the fund this year from his conference will be even larger.

MARKET WAS STRONG.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—(AP)—The process of bidding up prices on the New York stock market was resumed today after yesterday's temporary check. At no time was there any doubt that the operators for the advance had regained control. It was noticeable, however, that the recent storm centers, such as General Motors and U. S. Steel, moved in narrow orbits, while pools brought out new favorites, particularly among the copper, sulphur, public utility, oil and railroad issues.

Although some concern was felt at times when banks called about $15,000,000 in loans and call money held firm at the renewal figure of 4 per cent., prices continued to move steadily forward, except in the final hour, when considerable profit taking developed. Little in the way of outside news arose to bear upon the market, except perhaps, the definite announcement from the white house that no special session of congress would be called this year.

An incident to the strong trend of other sections was seen in the sharp rise on National Railroad of Mexico first and second preferred, which attained new high prices for the year following the announcement that Dwight W. Morrow had been selected as the United States ambassador to Mexico.

The Pan American Petroleum common and "B" stocks scored gains of more than 2 points in the face of the action of directors in reducing the annual dividend from $6 to $4. Strength here was attributed to gratified surprise, inasmuch as there had been widespread predictions that the rate would be cut to $3.

The advance of the copper issues was in further reflection of the current good copper market. Anaconda, Greene Cananea, and Magma all sold into new high territory. Buoyancy in the sulphur group embraced such issues as Texas Gulf, Freeport Texas, both of which sold at their best prices of the year.

Motors and accessories generally attracted favorable attention, particularly Mack Truck, Studebaker, Hudson and Mullins Body. Other pool favorites mounted rapidly into new high territory, including Otis Elevator, Great Western Sugar, Great Northern Ore certificates, and Pullman company.

Public utilities continued to derive stimulus from reports of good current earnings. American Waterworks sold at the highest level of the year, and conspicuous strength was exhibited by such important stocks as Public Service of New Jersey, Radio corporation, Pacific Gas & Electric and Commonwealth Power, the last two making new maximum figures.

Strength also was displayed by several of the baking, packing and insurance issues, among which new high prices were not at all uncommon.

Railroads responded at somewhat more favorable outlook for carriers, including belief that traffic will take an upward trend during the remaining months. New York Central sold as high as 168 1-8 fully 2 points above the previous peak, and gains of 1 to 4 points were registered by Western Maryland, Delaware & Hudson, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, the Erie issues, Ontario & Western, Union Pacific, Wabash and several others.

A drop of 22 to 31 points in cotton figures featured the commodity markets. December options closed at 19.97, against 20.66 yesterday. Sugar prices were steady, with a slight firming up in the futures, and coffee sold 15 to 23 points higher. A gain of a point was recorded by wheat futures.

Time money rates were unchanged. The foreign exchange market was featured by a 10-point jump in Japanese yet, which closed around 46.40 cents. Spanish pesetas rose 3 points to 17.35 and the Swedish rate touched a new high, and several other European currencies were slightly higher. Demand sterling and French francs ruled unchanged around 4.80 3-16 and 3.92 1-8 respectively.

NORTH STONINGTON GRANGE OPENS ANNUAL FAIR

North Stonington grange opened its 17th annual fair Tuesday on the grounds in North Stonington, where a most creditable display of exhibits was arranged for the entertainment of the many who attended. Virtually every bit of space in the main exhibition hall and the sheds outside was filled with agricultural and household products, which engaged the attention of the judges during the afternoon. In the evening the principal attraction was dancing from 9 o'clock until midnight.

An exhibit of special interest was that of the American Eugenics society which has a tent near the entrance. This society, which is devoted to the cause of race betterment, has on display printed statistics regarding the principles of heredity, which are illustrated by the use of guinea pigs and samples of corn stalks.

Today (Wednesday) is to be observed as "Old Home Day" when it is expected that many past and present North Stonington people will gather to renew acquaintanceship and attend the fair. There is to be special entertainment and afternoon and evening band concerts by Swahn's band of this city.

William Bremerman of Groton is manager of the fair, Irving R. Maine and John B. Perry of North Stonington are president and secretary, respectively.

Several of the concessions were obliged to close Tuesday by Lieut. Streaman of the state police barracks at Groton who ruled them out of order.

COAST GUARD BAND WILL BE GOVERNOR'S ESCORT

To the Coast Guard auxiliary band of New London has been accorded the honor of escorting Governor Trumbull and staff in the parade at the fair grounds upon the opening day of the fair and after the arrival of the governor the band will give a 45 minute concert in front of the grand stand. Swahn's military band will alternate with the Coast Guard band in providing the musical festival of the opening day. For the benefit of the fair patrons and the automobile show, the Columbus-Italian band will play every afternoon in front of the exhibition hall. The presence of the Italian band is assured through the courtesy of Thames Valley council, No. 309, United Commercial Travelers.

Major Morris Payne of New London has promised the fair management to be present with members of his staff in uniform.

SLATER MUSEUM RECEIVES JAPANESE TOBACCO POUCH

It will be remembered that in 1925 the collection of ivories bequeathed by Mrs. Charles W. Gale to the Slater museum was arranged in the Converse art gallery.

The ivories are chiefly Netsuke. A netsuke is a kind of button or toggle, by means of which an Inro, a tobacco pouch and pipe, might be conveniently suspended from the belt. Of all the art objects found in Japan the netsuke is perhaps the most essentially Japanese, and in them is found a fund of pictorial art in miniature.

It has been felt that the interest of the ivories would be enhanced if, side by side with them, could be shown a typical tobacco pouch. Mrs. Dickson Leavens has procured such a pouch from Japan, and presented it to the museum where it is now to be seen. This pouch is of the type used by the farmers in old days and bears Chinese which roughly translated reads, "The full moon and the sweet pure breeze seem everlasting."

STORRS ENGLISH INSTRUCTOR WEDS SOPHOMORE CO-ED

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Sept. 20—A college classroom romance involving an English instructor and a sophomore co-ed was brought to light today when it became known that Winthroy Tilley, a faculty member at Connecticut Agricultural college and Miss Emily Catherine Wick of Greenwich were married last Saturday in New York at the "Little Church Around the Corner." The bride is a daughter of Mrs. K. B. Wicks of Greenwich, and attended C. A. C. last year as a freshman. She is at present studying at Columbia university in New York.

Mr. Tilley is at present doing graduate work at Boston university, but is expected to return to Storrs when his year's leave of absence is up next fall. Mr. Tilley is a graduate of Amherst college.

$10,000 SUIT WITHDRAWN AFTER HEARING SIX WITNESSES IN COURT

The $10,000 suit brought against John A. MacDonald, state highway commissioner, for the death of James E. Keating of Norwich Town was withdrawn from the superior court at New London Tuesday morning after six witnesses for the plaintiff had given their testimony before Judge Allyn L. Brown.

The suit was brought by John S. Keating, administrator of the estate of his brother, who was instantly killed on Sunday night, Nov. 8, 1925 on Crocker hill in the town of Franklin when the automobile in which Keating was riding with Thomas P. Sheehan and Frank Pratt, who was driver, skidded and overturned.

Pratt was also instantly killed. It was claimed that the accident was due to the oily and slippery condition of the highway.

The plaintiff administrator was represented by the law firm of Brown and James. After hearing the testimony of six witnesses, Attorney Arthur M. Brown asked for a recess of ten minutes at the conclusion of which Attorney James announced that the action was withdrawn.

Witnesses said the afternoon of the accident was rainy and that the accident happened on a grade, although the car was not being driven very fast.

Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve of this city, and medical examiner of the town of Franklin, was the first witness called by plaintiff counsel.

Thomas P. Sheehan, who was riding in the Pratt machine, called to the stand, remembered very little, save that the three men had motored miles before the accident occurred. He said that Pratt was driving and "not very fast."

Under cross-examination by Attorney Berry, Sheehan said that the last stop they made before the accident was at "Duffy's barn" where they went in out of the rain. When asked by Attorney Berry if they had been given anything to drink, the witness replied "only a little sweet cider."

The third witness for the plaintiff was Vernon F. Smith of New London, who was a visitor at the Hanson farm near the scene of the accident and who, with Arthur Hanson helped release the victims from beneath the wreckage.

David M. Sheehan of this city, a garage proprietor, Arthur Hanson, who helped extricate the men, and John S. Keating brother of the deceased, also testified.

Suit for $8,000

The $8,000 damage suit brought by Antonio Ficarra of New London against Edward R. Crane of Essex, as the result of an automobile collision, was placed on trial in court in the afternoon.

The plaintiff who was represented by Attorney Thomas E. Troland, claims that on Nov. 28, 1926, he was passenger in an automobile, driven by Norman A. King of New London, in Salem.

The plaintiff claims that the car was being driven in a westerly direction, approaching the point where the Hadlyme-Norwich road intersects with the New London-Hartford turnpike.

The complaint further states that about 12:35 p. m. an automobile driven by the defendant was also approaching the intersection from the left, and that he failed to reduce his speed, failed to give a signal, failed to grant the right of way, and in a negligent and careless manner, collided with the car in which the plaintiff was riding, causing it to overturn and the plaintiff to be thrown violently out of the machine.

Ficarra claims to have received cuts, wounds, contusions and bruises about the head, limbs and body; concussion of the brain, broken teeth, impaired vision, permanent swelling on the right side of the face and permanent internal injuries.

The plaintiff, who is a barber, claims to have expended large sums of money for medical and hospital care and to have lost wages at $50 a week for period of between Nov. 28, 1926, to Jan. 17, 1927.

Attorneys Arthur M. Brown and Charles V. James represent the defendants in the issue.

MERCHANTS VOTE FOR THURSDAY AFTERNOON CLOSING

In accordance with a recent vote of the Norwich Retail Merchants bureau, Norwich stores will be generally closed, this week Thursday, at 12 noon, on the opening day of the fair. This action was taken by the merchants with a desire to cooperate with the officials of the New London County Agricultural society in making the fair a success, also, as an act of courtesy to His Excellency, Governor John H. Trumbull, who will be the guest of honor, at the fair, on Thursday.

It is expected by the bureau that all local merchants will fall in line with this movement to bring about a suspension of business in Norwich on Thursday afternoon. The barbers have announced that the barber shops will be closed at 12 o'clock, Thursday, and other lines of business, not members of the Retail Merchants bureau have expressed a willingness to suspend business for that afternoon, so that there is every indication that the movement will be general.

The Merchants bureau also voted to put a float in the parade and to march in a body, so that it is expected that all local business men, both employers and employes, will take part in the opening parade at the fair grounds, which will be one of the features of the day.

Full information concerning this examination and the required application blank may be secured from the secretary of the board of civil service examiners in the postoffice at Norwich.

Gives Promise to Leave Town

On his promise to leave town Patsy Grillo, 37, a cripple, was allowed his freedom under a 60 day suspended jail sentence when he was presented in the city court Tuesday morning on a charge of begging. He claims New London is his home. Monday he approached Captain Thomas P. Murphy, who was in civilian clothes, and asked for aid. He was arrested on a charge of begging. Grillo has but one leg.

Chase Cliff Beaten in Finals

At the late Naugatuck Kennel club dog show held on the outskirts of Waterbury., Chase Cliff dogs of this city won two victories only to go down to defeat at the hands of this year's Champion of Holland, imported to this country by the Maraldene Kennels.

Brunolf won his class, and went best of the males, but lost best of breed to a most worthy conqueror the 1927 Champion of Holland.

PAYS $200 FINE ON "WET" DRIVING CHARGE

In the city court Tuesday morning James F. Chase, captain of the steamer Carisco, was fined $200 and costs with a 30 day suspended jail sentence, on a charge of driving a machine while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty to the charge. Chase was arrested Saturday by Officer Barney Keenan at Franklin square to which a bus driver had driven Chase's car after observing that Chase was in no condition to operate the machine. The case was continued until Tuesday to allow him to take the Carisco to New York on schedule.

ASKS FOR DIVORCE WITH ALIMONY CLAIM

Divorce on the grounds of habitual intemperance for more than a year past and intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1920 is sought by Emma Lehtonen Hoilm of Voluntown from William Hoilm of the same town, but now of parts unknown. They were married Oct. 15, 1912. She asks the custody of a 9 year old daughter and alimony on the ground that her husband owns real and personal estate to the value of $3,000.

NORWICH TOWN

NORTH STONINGTON PASTOR PREACHES AT FIRST CHURCH

Rev. Inor Partington, pastor of North Stonington Congregational church, preached Sunday morning at the Norwich Town Congregational church, in exchange with the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey. Rev. Mr. Partington's text was II King's 6:13 to 17.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening was in charge of Miss Jessie E. Hyde. The topic developed was "What Would Happen if All Church Members Were Really Christian?" I Corinthians 13:1-13.

In the study of The World We Live In, the topic Thursday evening for the Congregational mid-week service of conference and prayer will be, "What Shall the Christian Say of Race Relations"? John 4:9, special reference to Luke 10:25-37, will be the scripture reference.

Mrs. Frederick D. Millard of Jersey City, N. J., is visiting at her former home on Scotland road.

Mrs. Fremont Vergason of Vergason avenue is in New York for the dahlia show. She took specimens of her dahlias, which are of unusual beauty this season.

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey and Organist Herbert L. Yerrington, motored to New Haven, Friday, to note the progress in rebuilding the organ of the First Congregational.

Rev. Albert E. Whitten resumed his pastorate at the First Methodist Episcopal church at Sunday morning worship, preaching from Mark 11-22, using only these words, Have Faith in God.

The Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening was in charge of Lewis Aldrich. The topic was "What's Wrong and What's Right with the Movies?" An interesting debate was held pertaining to the topic—"Resolved, That there is more good than harm in the movies." Harold Muttart, of Preston City, president of Norwich C. E. union was on the affirmative side, while Miss Florence M. Bennett upheld the negative. The decision resulted in a tie, arguments presented on both sides were of such merit. Miss Gillette, district instructor for the blind was present at the meeting and gave an interesting reading. Several others spoke briefly. An interesting letter in conjunction with the subject was read by Mr. Aldrich.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Miner entertained Sunday at their home on Vergason avenue, a family dinner party comprising Mrs. Miner's relatives. Those present were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beebe of East Haddam and their children's families: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cone and children, Sherwood, Evelyn and Viola, of East Haddam, Mr. and Mrs. Iverson Ward and daughters, Dorothy and Esther, of Centerbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Pratt and daughter, Barbara, of Essex, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beebe and children, Raymond, Alvah, Eva and Grace, of East Great Plain, Norwich, and Sherman A. Beebe of Norwich Town, an uncle of Mrs. Miner, also Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Halliday and daughter of Essex. Mrs. Miner assisted by others, served a broiled steak dinner, which included the season's vegetables and different kinds of dessert. A large fire was built in the open, over which the steak was broiled.

Mrs. George S. Beebe of Scotland Road, was called to Dayville Monday because of the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Samuel Gillette, remaining there until Wednesday. Mrs. Beebe had just reached her home in Norwich Town, when word came that her sister had passed away. She returned to Dayville remaining until Friday night. Mrs. Gillette was Belle Standish, of Colchester. Her funeral took place on Saturday. Those attending from Norwich Town included Mr. and Mrs. George Beebe, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bushnell, of Scotland Road, Mrs. Bushnell being a niece of Mrs. Gillette.

Mrs. Frederick D. Millard of Jersey City, a former Norwich Town resident, is passing some time at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Beebe of Scotland Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid E. Sabourin entertained over the week end at their home on Town street, Miss Adelaide Greaves and Kenneth Chapin, of Cromwell. Misses Mary and Florence Grady of Willimantic, were also recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sabourin.

Dinner guests Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Peck, of Otrobando avenue included Mrs. Peck's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jones, of Swansea, Mass.

A former Norwich Town resident, Melvin Pieretti for the past four years in the employ of Julian L. Williams, of Town street, left recently to take a three months course at General Motor Technical school, Flint, Mich. He is to resume his duties with Mr. Williams, at the completion of this special course.

GOV. SMITH FACETIOUS IN CHRISTENING NEW BRIDGE

Greeting to Governor of New Jersey: "What Was It the Governor of New York Said to the Governor of New Jersey?"—Gov. Moore's Reply: "It's a Short Jump Between States"—New $60,000,000 Bridge Across the Hudson Will Be the Longest of Its Type in the World—Structure Will Not be Comleted Before 1932.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(AP)—Governor Smith officiated today at what he called the "Christening of the first child of New York and New Jersey, married in 1921 with the creation of the port of New York authority."

The "child" was the mighty $60,000,000 bridge which will span the Hudson river from Fort Lee, N. J., to Fort Washington Park, Manhattan. The governor and Governor Moore of New Jersey, with other notables, took part in the ceremonies which attended the breaking of ground for the bridge.

They were aboard the river steamer DeWitt Clinton, anchored in midstream at a point where the center span of the bridge will tower 200 above the water.

As Gov. Smith stepped aboard the steamer he stretched out his hand in greeting to Governor Moore.

"What was it the governor of New York said to the governor of New Jersey?" he demanded, with a grin.

Gov. Smith characterized the bridge as the greatest achievement of the port authority, pointing to its importance as a new link between two great states whose interests are merged by the common heritage of the world's busiest seaport. The port authority, he said, is performing a task of organizing the port on a basis which will bring efficient transportation and benefit to the commerce not only of this section but of the whole nation.

"This bridge will bring us even closer together," Gov. Smith said, addressing Gov. Moore. "It would be a good idea for you to look to your fortifications, for as a sachem of Tammany hall I'm looking for a site for a New Jersey branch."

The bridge when completed will be the longest of its type in the world, stretching a mile and a half across the Hudson. From anchorage to anhorage its length will be 4,800 feet and the main span will be 3,500 feet ong. A tower at either end will be 625 feet high and the bridge will have 200 feet clearance above high water. This year and next year, it is expected, will bring completion of foundation work.

The task will be completed, engineers estimate, by 1932.

DISARMAMENT COMMITTEE APPROVES FRENCH PROJECT

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 21—(AP)—The weaving of the peace fabric at Geneva advanced swiftly today, bringing out in sharp relief the colors of arbitration and security as vitally essential to the completed tapestry, of which disarmament constitutes the third necessary element.

Unanimous approval was given by the disarmament committee, the most important organ of the league of nations assembly, to a project introduced in its original form by the French delegation, whereby the league of nations preparatory disarmament commission, while arranging for a general conference on limitation and reduction of armaments, will simultaneously center its activities on extension of arbitration agreements and a graduated system of security among the nations.

A comprehensive resolution, which is considered certain to be approved by the assembly, was adopted today, requesting the council of the league to urge the preparatory commission, on which the United States is represented, to hasten completion of its technical work, thus enabling the council to convene a conference for the limitation and reduction of armaments at the earliest possible date.

STATE OF CONN. CAN TAKE CARE OF ITSELF

WOODBURY, Sept. 21—(AP)—"The state of Connecticut can take care of itself and it needs no subsidy from the federal government," declared Governor John H. Trumbull at the corn roast of the Pomeraug Valley Men's Forum held here today in Fowler's field. "That is because the state of Connecticut has a vigorous, business-like, progressive government of its own. If all the other states were blessed with like governments the problem of the violation of state's rights would be solved. There would be no excuse for, or possibility of, federal invasion of state's rights if each state were functioning in its own house as self-sufficiently as Connecticut's government is."

The governor's address followed a dinner attended by about 75 men of Woodbury and Southbury and their guests, in a meadow on the bank of the Pomeraug river.

29 PERSONS INDICTED IN NEW ALCOHOL CASE

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Secret indictments against 29 persons in a half dozen states, returned several days ago by federal grand jury here, were made public today after an investigation of the activities of the Superior Alcohol company ring, in which 112 persons were indicted a year ago.

Thirteen Philadelphians, four San Franciscans, ten Minnesotans, one Chicagoan and one New Yorker are on the list of defendants in the 12 indictments made public today. Another secret indictment returned by the grand jury had not been made public.

Shipments of from 2,000 to 10,000 gallons of alcohol were made and amounts of money ranging up to $30,000 were paid, it was revealed in testimony at the hearing.

Failure to label spiritual liquor, false billing, obtaining cheap freight rates by false billing, and false labelling are among the charges made in the 12 indictments.

FALL OF RETAINING WALL MAY ENDANGER TRESTLE

WINDSOR, Conn., Sept. 21—(AP)—Railroad officials were anxious tonight about the trestle on the main line of the New Haven railroad here, as the result of the falling of a retaining wall on the Windsor Locks highway, while workmen were repairing the highway. A crack has appeared in the abutment to the trestle, and trains are being operated across it only at slow speed.

The highway retaining wall today developed a bulge, and a dam crumbled, resulting in damage estimated at several thousands of dollars to water, gas and sewer mains. The road is temporarily closed to traffic, and the contractor in charge of the work has every available man on the spot.

72 RADIO STATIONS TO DESCRIBE THE BIG FIGHT

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—(AP)—Seven Chicago radio stations and 65 scattered over the country but connected in a chain hook-up, will describe the Dempsey-Tunney fight for millions of radio listeners Thursday night. The National Broadcast Chain, will go on the air through its 65 stations, 9 o'clock, Chicago daylight saving time, (10 o'clock eastern daylight saving time) with Graham McNamee and Phil Carlin in the "Mike."

"PRISON ETIQUETTE" SEALS LIPS OF LAWRENCE M. HIGHT

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 21.—(AP)—"Prison etiquette" has sealed the lips of Lawrence M. Hight, former Methodist clergyman, now serving a life term in the Chester prison for the murder of Wilford Sweetin, he admitted on the witness stand today in the trial of Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, widow of the slain man, and his alleged accomplice in the poison murder.

Hight was placed on the stand by the defense at the trial within a trial that has been in progress for the last two days in which the judge has been hearing testimony in the absence of the jury, before he rules on whether alleged confessions of Mrs. Sweetin made after her arrest shall be admitted in evidence. Hight said he would not have a friend in prison if he gave evidence to convict anyone.

The state introduced evidence to show that Mrs. Sweetin had confessed to four different persons that she poisoned her husband. The first confession the state sought to show was made to Frank G. Thompson, then state's attorney, the next to two newspaper reporters who interviewed Mrs. Sweetin and the fourth to C. C. Sweetin, the father of the slain man.

Mrs. Sweetin, on the stand, related a story of alleged persecution. She charged that she had been kept awake all night, and questioned for hours, not only by the officers of Jefferson county but by newspaper reporters who became abusive and shouted at her.

She said that she had been threatened with mob violence if she did not confess.

TESTIMONY IN NOLIN-REED MURDER TRIAL

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Two witnesses testified in superior court here today that they saw Leo Nolin of South Groveland, the night of the murder and robbery last March with which he is charged. On trial with Nolin is Herman A. Reed of Waterbury, Conn., also charged with the murder and robbery of William H. Griffin, 60 year old Haverhill storekeeper. Mary Cwickla of Suffield, Conn., is on trial as an accessory after the fact in both counts.

Walter Donovan of Bradford, testified today that he was standing in a drug store near the scene of the murder and saw Nolin pass by with another man. He said Nolin stopped a moment in front of the store and looked through the window. Thomas Ingham of South Groveland testified that he saw Nolin the night of the murder driving in an automobile in South Groveland with a man and a woman.

A Lawrence lodging house proprietor, James McCann, was called to the stand and told of Nolin's registering at his place the night of March 5. He said that Nolin and the Cwickla girl posed as man and wife and that Reed registered under an alias.

They checked out, McCann said, the morning of the seventh. At the conclusion of the court session today about a dozen of the 25 witnesses summoned by the prosecution had been heard.

REV. WILLIS J. JORDAN CHARGED WITH BIGAMY

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 21.—(AP)—William T. Gloer, head of the Globe Detective Agency here, announced late today that he had written a letter to the chief of police at Charlotte, N. C., asking that a warrant charging bigamy be sworn out against the Rev. Willis J. Jordon. Mr. Gloer said he acted on the request of the woman here who claims she married the minister in Charlotte, August 19, 1925.

The woman here claiming to be Mrs. Jordon says she was Mrs. Emma Landridge of Washington, and was married to the evangelist by long distance telephone two years and seven months before the ceremony was performed in Charlotte.

Mr. Gloer stated also that efforts were being made to get in touch with a Mrs. Snyder in Roanoke, Va., but who was originally from Herndon, W. Va., she, Gloer stated, was also married to Jordon.

The evangelist, according to the detective, is reported, likewise to have been married at Winona, Minn., and Akron, Ohio.

The chief of police of Columbus said he was awaiting the result of Mr. Gloer's letter before answering a telegram received from Superintendent of Police A. A. Carroll, of Grand Rapids, relative to the possibility of preferring charges against Jordon.

PROGRESS OF FLIGHT FROM GERMANY TO UNITED STATES

ANGODA, Turkey, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Lieutenant Otto Koennecke, who arrived here this morning from Cologne announced today the route that he plans to follow in his flight to the United States.

"I will hop off Friday for Basra, Messopotamia, and thence to Bombay, Calcutta, Shanghai, Tokyo, Sakhalin Island, Alaska, San Francisco, Mexico City and New York," he said. "I don't know how long it will take, but we hope to reach our goal."

Lieutenant Koennecke and his companions in the plane Germania, Johanner Hermann, radio operator, and Count George Cedric Sols-Laubach, financial backer, were welcomed by Turkish aviators and officials. They lunched at the German embassy and then turned in to sleep at Angora's one hotel.

Koennecke declared that the weather was very bad on the flight from Cologne; the winds from Cologne to the Black Sea being contrary. The flying distance between Cologne and Angora was 1,875 miles, which Koennecke covered in something less than 18 hours.

FORT SILL, Okla., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Three hangars were destroyed by fire at th ePost Field Army Aviation camp near here today, with damaged totalling $250,000. No one was injured.

The origin of the fire, which was discovered in a deserted hangar about thirty minutes after men had quit working in it, has not been determined.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21—(AP)—Property losses at Acambaro, in the state of Guanajuato, by the flooding of the Lerma river are estimated at six million pesos (about $3,000,000) by the correspondent of the newspaper Excelsior, who reports the destruction of 2,000 houses in Acambaro alone, with two-thirds of the population homeless.

No estimates of the damage done to other flooded towns and villages, or of the total losses throughout the Lerma valley have yet been made either by the newspapers, government officials or railroads.

The Mexican congress has voted 30,000 pesos for flood relief, and the chambers of commerce and other organizations throughout the republic are raising additional funds.

The waters are reported to be slowly subsiding, bringing the hope that the relief and rescue parties will soon be able to reach the scene of the greatest destruction and alleviate the hardships of the homeless refugees. The government's relief train, sent out by President Calles, has not yet been able to get as far as Acambaro. In the meantime, however, some supplies have reached that city by branch lines, which have been repaired before the main line.

REGULAR REP. CANDIDATES WIN IN PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21—(AP)—Virtually complete but unofficial returns of the primary held yesterday, show that the regular republicans nominated their entire slate of candidates, but with greatly reduced majorities compared with the usual large vote rolled up by the organization.

The high vote polled by J. Hampton Moore, independent candidate for the mayoralty nomination against Harry A. Mackey, the successful candidate, as a protest against the present leadership in the republican party of Philadelphia, startled some of the organization leaders and rendered most of them silent on the result.

Mr. Mackey's plurality over Mr. Moore was 74,002, acording to the unofficial returns. The total vote was Mackey, 226,002; Moore, 151,930. Mr. Moore carried twelve wards of the 48 wards.

FORMER JAIL DEPUTY PLACED UNDER ARREST

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 21—(AP)—Frank R. Baldwin, one-time, clerk, deputy jailer and purchasing agent at the New Haven county jail, was arrested early this evening on a technical charge of idleness and released under bonds of $2,500. The arrest was made o na warrant issued by City Attorney Daniel Pouzzner, of New Haven.

The arrest of Baldwin followed presentation to the county commissioners yesterday of the report of an auditing firm which had gone over the books of the county jail from June 1, 1919 to May 31, 1927, and found defalcations totalling $11,118 53. Last night it was announced that the former purchasing agent had made restitution of this sum, plus interest and the cost of the investigation, amounting in all to $17,363.94.

FOUR STICKS DYNAMITE FOUND IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 21—(AP)—Four sticks of dynamite, enough, if judiciously planted, to destroy a large city block, was found late tonight in an attic room at 693 Kossuth street by members of the bureau of investigation who armed with a search warrant were hunting for liquor in the house. Pietro Tallo, fifty, a laborer who occupied the room, was arrested and charged with breach of the peace. He was held for investigation on a bond of $500. A loaded pistol and a large box of rifle sheels were also found in the room.

OBITUARY

William Sanford Boyden

GREENWICH, Conn., Sept. 21—(AP)—William Sanford Boyden, 62, for many years associated with the Philadelphia firm of Rosengarten and Son, died at his home on Field Point road today.

Born in St. Louis, he spent much of his lifetime in the chemical business, with headquarters in New York. He retired two years ago. He was a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of Gramercy lodge, New York city. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Agnes W. Boyden, and one son, Wilson G. The funeral will be private.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 21—(AP)—Walter M. Tapley, 56, with the auditing department of the Maine Central railroad for the last 25 years, and a former editor of the Rockland Daily Star, died today.

Back at Verdun and The Argonne Sector

Four Train Loads of American Legionnaires Led by General Pershing Visit Battlefields.

VERDUN, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Four train loads of American legionnaires led by General John J. Pershing came back today to Verdun and the Argonne sector, immortal in the annals of American military victories. With them arrived several thousand Frenchmen, including Premier Poincare and General Petain, "the [illegible]r of Verdun."

Five hundred [illegible] and the same numbe[illegible] broke bread together a[illegible] served in the great a[illegible]tt standing on a spot [illegible] years ago in the fl[illegible]ng of the war had not le[illegible] on stone.

[illegible] a brilliant autumn sun and a sk[illegible] of limpid blue, the legionnaires revisited scenes of wartime slaughter and placed flowers beside many of the crosses marking the resting place of French and American dead.

At a great ossuary, built largely with American money as a memorial to 400,000 Frenchmen who in 1916 gave their lives defending Verdun, French orators reminded the legionnaires that the great effort the French made in successfully saving Verdun then was completed by the Americans two years later when three of Pershing's army corps—the third, fifth and first—assisted by the French cleared the whole sector of the enemy in the great drive that soon led to the armistice.

Premier Poincare with the exactitude for details for which he is famous reviewed the whole story of the American effort in the Saint Mihiel and Argonne offensives, citing names of divisions and dates which drew rousing cheers from his listeners, Americans and French.

He told how the Americans took Montfaucon, Varenes, Cerizy, Gercourt, Epinonville, Charpentry, Apremont, Beaumont, Grandpre and other towns and villages liberated by the "Yanks" and he also paid tribute to the work of the second army in the Woevre.

"Two nations that have joined in defense of the same cause and learned to know each other better than ever before appreciate each other more from day to day and discover fresh reasons for their time honored friendship can never become estranged whatever may happen," said Poincare.

"I raise my glass in honor of the American legionnaires. I drink to the undying friendship of France and the United States."

FOUR CARS OF RAW SILK WENT INTO A RIVER

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 21—(AP)—Four cars of raw silk, valued at $1,500,000, went into the Fraser river, near Yale, 160 miles east of Vancouver, as the result of a derailment of a train today on the Canadian Pacific railway.

The locomotive and six cars passed over the obstruction but the remaining ten cars left the track, six turning over on their sides and four going into the river. No one was injured.

CONNECTICUT NOW IN THE BOSTON DRY DISTRICT

HARTFORD, Sept. 21—(AP)—National prohibition enforcement headquarters has placed the Connecticut district under the jurisdiction of the Boston district office in order to better combat bootleggers of the state "who have abandoned the smuggling business in order to manufacture their own product."

This explanation was advanced today by Herbert H. White, of Washington, D. C., chief field supervisor of the national prohibition enforcement department, who came here to help perfect details of the transfer of the local office from the jurisdiction of the New York to that of the Boston district office.

MAYOR WALKER TO SAIL FOR HOME TONIGHT

PARIS, Sept. 21—(AP)—The European tour of Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, has ended and he will sail for home tonight on the Ile de France. As the train bearing him to Havre pulled out the mayor remarked he "would be mighty glad to get a look at the lady out on Bedloes island."

Mayor Walker left Paris, without getting the decoration of the Legion of Honor which it had been said in semi-official French circles President Doumergue would confer upon him when he received him yesterday. Friends of the mayor afterwards said that it had never been planned to decorate him.

Class A and B Planes Arrive At Spokane

Aviators Holman of St. Paul and Charles of Richmond, Va., Winners in Respective Classes.

FELTS FIELD, Spokane, Wash., Sept. 21—(AP)—Leading the parade of air races across the finish line in two 2,300 mile trans-continental derbies from New York, C. W. Holman, St. Paul aviator, and J. S. Charles, Richmond, Va., tonight shared the laurels of victors in the great aviation spectacle.

Taking the lead near the last lap across the mountainous stretches of Montana, Charles spurted away from two close rivals in the Class B race, for smaller planes, and he was followed a few minutes later by Holman, in the Class A race, for larger planes. Holman made a difficult landing on the bare rim of one wheel, after losing one of his tires.

The two flyers immediately were unofficially announced as winners of the events. Holman as winner of the major event, would receive a prize of $10,000 and Charles $5,000.

Charles was the first to arrive after the long flight which started Monday morning from Roosevelt field. In the Class B event, he was followed in order by C. W. Meyers, Detroit; Eugene Dettmer, Tarrytown, N. Y., Leslie Miller, St. Paul; W. H. Emery, Jr., Bradford, Pa., and E. G. Knapp, Ypsilanti, Mich.

Second to arrive after Holman in the Class A event was N. B. Namer Spokane, Wash., who was trailed by E. E. Ballough, Chicago, and John P. Wood.

Nine stops were made by the Class B flyers who took off Monday morning and were followed 24 hours later by the Class A racers. Six stops were made in the Class A dash.

Holman's elapsed time was computed at 16 hours, 42 minutes 52.52 seconds, against an elapsed time of 18 hours, 35 minutes, 3.71 seconds for Nick B. Namer of Spokane, who finished second.

The elapsed time for the arrivals in the Class B New York derby was not available tonight, the referee stated.

EIGHT CLASS A PLANES HAVE ARRIVED AT SEATTLE

FELTS FIELD, Spokane, Wash., Sept. 21—(AP)—Eight of the fifteen starters in the Class A cross-country derby from New York arrived here at Felts field tonight.

TWO PLANES IN THE NON-STOP FLIGHT TO SPOKANE

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 21—(AP)—Two airplanes were hurtling westward tonight in a 2,300-mile non-stop race across the continent to Spokane, Washington. They left behind a third entrant, whose heavy-laden plane failed to rise for the take-off.

Eddie Stinson, Detroit plane manufacturer, the first entrant to take off, lifted his black and yellow plane into the air at 2 o'clock p. m., eastern standard time and the race was on.

Some minutes later, C. A. (Duke) Schiller, of Windsor, Ontario, peering out of the cockpit of the "Royal Windsor," a plane once groomed for a flight over the Atlantic, saw the starter's red flag fall and opened his throttle. He took the air gracefully at 2:11.

Then there came a long wait, for Steve Lacey, of Lomax, Ill., the third entrant, had not brought his plane to the field. It was towed over from Curtiss field, a mile away, half an hour after Stinson's plane had taken the air. Last minute adjustments of the motor were made and gasoline was poured into the tanks. At 4 o'clock Lacey opened the throttle and sped down the runway. The plane was seen to struggle for a grip on the air, but it kept bouncing along the runway to a few feet of a gulley where just a year ago today, a Sikorsky plane, in which Captain Rene Fonck was to attempt a flight to Paris, crashed with four men aboard. Two died when the plane caught fire, but Lacey's plane was kept upright, suffering only the loss of a tail skid. When starting officials learned that it would take two hours to replace the tail skid, Lacey was eliminated. This left Stinson and Schiller competing for the first prize of $10,000 and the second of $5,000.

WOMAN KILLED WHEN EXPRESS BUS STRUCK AUTO

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Mrs. John Bullet, 65, of Pittsfield, Mass., was almost instantly killed and her son-in-law and daghter, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Kaylor of East Windsor Hill, were badly injured when their light touring car was struck by an express bus of the Hartford-Springfield line in Warehouse Point at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Bullet died before she could be taken to a hospital, while the others were taken to St. Francis hospital in Hartford. The driver of the bus, Stephen Healey of Windsor, Locks, was summoned on a technical charge of manslaughter.

19 CHILDREN AND A SISTER WERE BURNED TO DEATH IN CATHOLIC MISSION

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Sept. 21—(AP)—Nineteen children and Sister Lea were burned to death while they slept and an unidentified priest was perhaps fatally burned when fire destroyed the isolated Beauval Catholic Mission on Lac La Plonge, Monday night, according to word brought by a launch which made the 130 mile trip to Big River, Sask., today. Forty-six children were saved. The fire was the third to occur within the last few years.

The launch came out for supplies and clothing and those on board were able to give meagre details of the tragedy. Dr. A. Amyot, of Regind, who had gone to Isle Lacrosse, 60 miles north of Lac La Plonge, to open a new Grey Nun's hospital at that place, has hastened to the mission by airplane.

According to the fragmentary reports, the fire started at midnight in the boys' dormitory and within a few seconds the entire structure was ablaze.

The children who fled to safety from the blazing building huddled in the circle of light and heard the screams of those who had been trapped. The furious heat prevented any atetmpt to enter the mission.

The Beauval mission is in charge of Father Lajaunesse of the Oblate fathers, who is assisted by Father Ancel and Father Adam, eight brothers of the order and eight sisters of the Grey Nuns order. Sisters in the mission are: Sister Superior Raymond, Sister Cartier, Sister Houne and Sister Lea.

The mission is one of the oldest in the north. The buildings were of lumber construction, heated on the hot air principle, and the institution operated its own power and light plant.

R. A. YOUNG TO BE GOVERNOR FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

Now Governor of the Federal Reserve Board at Minneapolis—Treasury Department Statement Says That Mr. Young Will Be Designated Governor as Soon as He Qualifies as a Member of the Board.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Roy A. Young, now governor of the federal reserve bank at Minneapolis, is to be the new governor of the federal reserve board. He was appointed a member of the board today by President Coolidge and later it was said definitely at the treasury that he would be designated governor as soon as he qualifies as a member.

Mr. Young as governor will succeed D. R. Crissinger, of Ohio, resigned.

His designation as head of the federal reserve system must be made by President Coolidge, who is required by law to designate the governor from the reserve board membership.

It had been reported that the president would wait until the senate confirmed Young's nomination before naming him as governor, but the official word which emanated later from the treasury was that he would do so as soon as Mr. Young qualified under recess appointment as a board member.

Meanwhile Edmund Platt, of New York, vice governor, will continue to function as acting governor.

Mr. Crissinger resigned to accept a position as chairman of the executive committee of the F. H. Smith company, a Washington investment banking house.

AN ANONYMOUS LETTER THE LILLIENDAHL MURDER

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 21—(AP)—An anonymous letter that promised to throw some light on the killing of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl, retired New York physician, on a lonely road near here last Thursday, sent Frank J. Harold, chief of the Atlantic county detectives, to Newark, N. J., tonight.

The letter was received today by the Atlantic county prosecutor. It had been mailed at Providence, R. I. "This is not the ordinary letter," said Harold, "it is a letter written by an apparently intelligent person. It was in print script."

Harold refused to reveal the contents of the communication except to say it fit in with some of the information the police already had. Also, he would not say why the letter caused him to decide to go to Newark.

An intensive search for the pistol that killed Dr. Lilliendahl while he was in an automobile with his wife, will be made tomorrow and will be participated in by about thirty detectives and state policemen. Every foot of ground for some distance around the spot where Dr. Lilliendahl's body was found will be minutely searched. The finding of the pistol, the detectives believe, will go a long way in aiding to clear up the circumstances of the killing.

Detectives said tonight that the mention made by eight year old Alfred Lilliendahl, son of Dr. and Mrs. Lilliendahl, of a pearl handled pistol, referred to a weapon the child had seen in the Lilliendahl home at Mountain Lake, N. J. The detectives said yesterday they found two .38 calibre pistols in the Lilliendahl home in South Vineland, where the physician had been living, but their condition showed they had not been recently used. Dr. Lilliendahl was killed with a .32 calibre weapon.

Mrs. Lilliendahl, who told the police her husband had been killed by two negroes who jumped on the running board of their motor car as they were driving along the lonely road, and who was a "volunteer prisoner," in the state police barracks for four days, spent most of today in bed in her South Vineland home, recovering from the strain she has been under since the slaying. Some neighbors called on her to offer sympathy. Police authorities were also at the house today.

FEATURES FRANCO-AMERICAN TARIFF CONTROVERSY

LONDON, Sept. 21—(AP)—The Westminster Gazette makes a first page feature of the Franco-American tariff controversy and declares: "One of the most extraordinary diplomatic notes ever dispatched has been forwarded by the United States to France in connection with the dispute."

In heavy black faced type the paper asserts that the United States demands the most favored nations treatment "without binding itself, as other countries have done, by a special trade treaty and offering any quid pro quo."

The paper points out that the menace of tariff retaliation arising out of the unexpected raising of French duties coincides paradoxically with the united move of European manufacturing countries at Geneva toward freer trade all round.

It is asserted by the paper that the dispute is likely to affect the Franco-American war debt funding negotiations.

MISSING TEACHER WAS FOUND IN A CEMETERY

WALTHAM, Mass., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Leigh B. Huntley, 24 year old school teacher who disappeared a week ago, was found dead today in the Calvery cemetery, just over the Newton city line, a suicide by shooting. He shot hmiself through the head with a bullet from an old fashioned .32 calibre revolver. The weapon was lying nearby.

Willard N. Huntley, father of the young man, who came from his home in Claremont, N. H., two days ago to direct a search for his son, said that his son had been suffering from rheumatism and recently wrote that he was discouraged and homesick.

LEVINE POSTPONED HIS HOP-OFF TOWARDS INDIA

CRANWELL AIRDROME, England, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Charles A. Levine tonight postponed an anticipated hop at dawn tomorrow towards India and points east. His plane Columbia was tuned up and loaded to full capacity, and the English pilot, Captain Walter Hinchcliffe, was eager for the start, but rain was falling here and a southwest wind was blowing.

Levine expects to go to Bristol tomorrow to inspect the airplane works there. He will then return to Cranwell and await favorable weather, which is promised for Saturday or Sunday.

Levine's chief interest tonight appeared to be the coming Dempsey-Tunney fight. He cabled to Dempsey, who is a personal friend, saying: "Expect you to retrive the championship: Know you will win."

CASE OF MAYOR DUVALL WILL GO TO JURY TODAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 21.—(AP)—The case against Mayor John L. Duvall of Indianapolis, charged with violating the Corrupt Practices act, will go to the jury in the Marion county criminal court here tomorrow.

Presentation of testimony was concluded early this afternoon and a portion of the closing arguments made before the jury was locked up for the night. The indication was that the jury would retire about 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mayor Duvall is charged with having made a deal with William H. Armitage, local politician, whereby Armitage could name two members of the board of public works and the city engineer in return for $10,000 and his support at the polls in the 1926 election. Duvall made a sweeping denial of the charge from the witness stand.

The defense's last flair before resting was to attack the veracity and truthfulness of Frank Sipe, former dog tax collector, who testified that Duvall offered him the city market mastership for $3,000. Prior to that, defense counsel introduced another of nearly a dozen witnesses to deny that Duvall had signed an agreement with the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in which he promised that order at least sixty per cent of his patronage in return for its political support.

MOTORSHIP DISFIGURED BY TERRIFIC STORM AT SEA

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Her identity obliterated by the pounding seas, another victim of the terrific gale which lashed the north Atlantic three weeks ago was sighted yesterday 53 miles west-southwest of Yarmouth, N. S., by the Swedish motorship Hjelmaren which docked here today from Gothenburg.

Captain J. V. Jacobsen reported that he passed a 40 foot piece of wreckage, apparently the after section of a small fishing schooner. Masts and pieces of deck housing were floating nearby, but there was no identifying marks on the floating debris.

Waterfront men here believe the wreckage was that of one of several American and Canadian fishing schooners now long overdue or unreported after one of the worst summer gales in years, which swept up the coast from the tropics three weeks ago, scattering the fishing fleets and causing widespread havoc in Nova Scotia and Newfoundlands.

TROUBLE OVER BABIES THAT BECAME MIXED UP

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 21—(AP)—Declaring that all they desired was the truth in connection with the identity of their month old baby, Sam Smith, his wife and their four children submitted to doctors examinations here today in an effort to determine the parentage of a baby girl which Mrs. Smith continues to nurse at the Fairview Park hospital.

Dr. Glendenning examined, the children, three girls and one boy, to study characteristics in the children that might unearth a clew to their relationship to the baby girl in the hospital.

The doctor declared that two year old Peter Smith, whom he examined, "has the same expression as the child at the hospital." He also noticed similarities of the ear of Angeline, 10, to Mrs. Smith and the baby girl she now nurses but disclaims. He particularly noted facial characteristics of the three girls and took notes for presentation at tomorrow's hearing in common pleas court.

AWARDED $4,000 FOR AUTOMOBILE INJURIES

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Frederick M. Woolner, a Worcester minor and his father, Frederick L. Woolner, were awarded $4,000 by a jury in the superior court this afternoon for injuries alleged to have been received when their automobile ran into a parked truck of Rogner N. Perry of Worcester on the highway in Franklin May 3, 1926. The plaintiffs charged that the truck was parked negligently and that smoke from forest fires obscured their view.

WAR PRICES CREATED A NEW LEVEL OF PRICES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Price increases made by and during the war at last are to be recognized governmentally as having created a totally new level of values. The labor department's bureau of statistics today announced that hereafter instead of trying to consider the 1913 level of prices of commodities as "normal," and representing a 100 per cent basis of values, it would hereafter use the average price levels of 1926 as 100 and proceed anew.

THIS AGENT EVIDENTLY TRAVELS BY AIRPLANE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 21—William Ross who made a wide acquaintance hereabouts as driver of the Eastford to North Windham mail wagon for many years before the World war and is now a resident of Bristol, derided the misrepresentation of a real estate advertisement while in this city today. Mr. Ross' conclusion that not all men are honest came as a result of his personal reply to an advertisement for the sale of a fine house "near Hartford". The sale of the property was to obe made through a Montville realtor. Mr. Ross wrote about the place and asked the agent to go to Hartford and show him the place. He was advised to come to Willimantic to meet the realtor and this he did this morning. He got in the agent's automobile and the journey was started but not in the direction of Hartford. "Where are we going?" queried Mr. Ross. The reply was that they were going to see the place he was interested in. "Where is this place?" asked the prospective purchaser. "In Eastford", replied the realtor Mr. Ross ordered the car stopped at once. He claims that he lived in Eastford for 25 years and was mighty glad to move from there after selling his 125 acre farm.

Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock and the house committee, today passed their approval of the extensive decorations just completed in the interior of the Congregational church house on Valley street. The six rooms on the main and second floor have been fineshed in white and cream colors. The large basement has been remodeled into five rooms to be occupied by classes of the Sunday school. The church building was renovated about a year ago, the entire property now being in excellent condition.

Oliver Chartier of Windham road has instituted civil proceedings against Louis and Mary Morrissy of Bristol, formerly of this city, to recover an unpaid note of $700. It is alleged in the writ that on June 25, 1924, Charles Hulling endorsed a note of the defendants' afterwards assumed by the plaintiff. The alleged note remains unpaid. Damages of $825 are sought. Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Blish has agrnished money held by Gideon Lisse, due the defendants and also attached property owned by the defendants in the town of Windham. The case is returnable in the Windham county superior court in October.

Another wave of protest is about to be launched by residents of Chapman street, especially from those in the section from Main to Elm streets. Although one of the oldest residential streets in the city and thickly populated, Chapman street has remained unaccepted as a city street by the city. It has been the jinx of the several administrations as plea after plea has been made to the common councils of years past for recognition by Chapman street residents. Early in 1924 when Lieutenant James J. Lee was alderman from the ward in which the street lies and George W. Hickey became mayor to fill the unexpired term of the late Hormisdas Dion, it looked like action for the street. Arrangements were made with the American Thread company for a new layout of the street where it intersects Dunham street on the company's property. Work of digging through an embankment for the new layout was actually started Then the big strike came. Chapman was forgotten and is in a fair way to remain in the oblivion unless the new appeal is successful. As for lines and grades the street compares about on a par with the average cow-path. The surface, never having received attention, is badly broken and well studded with good sized stones. Early in the spring sewers laid on Ann and Hope streets were run through a section of Chapman street to connect with lower Main street. For a long time nothing was done to replace the street even to the miserable condition in which it originally was. Because of lack of grading water washes down from the railroad tracks and raises havoc. A supply of water is also discharged daily from the milk station and this has worn a culvert across the street. There are 24 houses on the street, all but a few of the buildings housing several tenements. No allowance for the conditions given is made in making tax assessments. Meanwhile residents of the unaccepted section are looking with envy on the lower section of the street, from Ash to Elm, which has been accepted and which is maintained in fair condition.

Mrs. Minnie L. LaFleur, 59, wife of Joseph LaFleur, died at her home in Southington of a heart ailment. it was made known here today. Besides her husband the deceased leaves two sons, Florimond and Henry LaFleur and two daughters, the Misses Emma and Marion LaFleur, all of Southington. She was a former resident of this city.

The large traffic signal with its drum-shaped underground base which has been ordered to be installed at the junction of Jackson, and Spruce streets and Maple avenue, arrived at the police headquarters today. The signal replaces the recently removed watering trough. In addition to controlling traffic at the corners the signal will offer a safeguard to children of the Natchaug grammar school in crossing Jackson street. The installation of the light is the result of a resolution by Alderman William E. Jackson.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER

1—Sets new coast-to-coast record!

2—Wins 1st and 2nd places in Atlantic City Stock Car Race!

3—Climbs Pikes Peak—22 mins. 47 secs.

During the first week of September, The Studebaker Commander, by thrilling victories over time and space, again proved itself "the greatest achievement of post-war automotive engineering."

Endurance — Stamina — Dependability

New York Harbor to San Francisco Bay in 77 hours and 40 minutes—total elapsed time. You may not have Ab Jenkins' craving to shatter records, but you will find in the car which he used dependability, freedom from repair expense, long life, and abundant, eager power for all your needs.

Speed — Smoothness — Comfort

In the 75-mile race for stock cars listed below $2000, at Atlantic City on Labor Day, two Studebaker Commanders finished first and second, with average speeds of 85.95 and 84.58 miles per hour. The latest models of Chrysler "72," Buick Master Six, Nash Advanced Six and Hudson were also entered.

You won't ever want to go that fast, but you can find daily use for the acceleration, the smoothness, the comfort which the quiet Big Six motor offers at ordinary speeds.

Mountain-Climbing

In the stock car race to the top of Pikes Peak on Labor Day, The Commander was second only to a car which lists at three times The Commander price.

Thus we not only claim but prove that this versatile automobile will outperform any other car within a thousand dollars of its price.

No wonder The Commander outsells the combined totals of all the other cars in the world that equal it in rated power.

NEW LOW PRICES

All Studebaker models have more than $100 in extra equipment without extra cost, including front and rear bumpers; shock absorbers; coincidental lock to steering-ignition; engine thermometer and hydrostatic gasoline gauge on dash, etc.

DANIELSON

CITIZENS SEEK TO CHANGE TRUNK ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 21—A unique and interesting proposal is put up to the voters to decide at the annual town meeting a week from next Monday. The warning that has been prepared for the meeting contains a clause, duly petitioned by 26 legal voters, to see if the town will appoint a committee of three to co-operate with the highway commissioner for the re-layout of an east and west trunk line between Providence and Hartford within the town of Killingly, to take the place of the trunk line now employed by traversing Reynolds street.

Another clause in the warning is to see if the town will appropriate $1,500, for the care of trees along the highways of the town and to authorize the treasurer to pay the above amount from its treasury on duly signed vouchers, the appropriation to be used in co-operation with the work that is being done by the state forestry department in caring for the trees along the properly constructed state highways and to authorize the board of selectmen to have authority in awarding contracts for the performance of the above mentioned work.

There is special interest among the members and their friends in the Church Family night arranged to be held at the Westfield Congregational church Thursday of this week, this being the first of a series of such gatherings planned for the fall and winter months.

The evening is to open with a supper in the vestry at 6:30, this served by members of the Ladies' Benevolent society, and to be featured by group singing to be led by J. Wayne Haskell. The period from 7.15 to 8.00 has been reserved for recreation and sociability. During this period there are to be stories in the primary room for little boys and girls, told by Miss Frances W. Danielson, games in the gymnasium for the larger boys and girls, these under the direction of Mr. Haskell, and singing around the piano in the vestry, for the young people. The Jacobs library is to be open to men and the parlor for the women.

At 8 o'clock there is to be an assembly in the vestry. During this period reports on the Congregational Young People's conference at Storrs are to be given by Philip Clarke and Bertram Hammond. Rev. Harding W. Gaylord will give an informal talk and the evening will close with a devotional period led by Rev. Mr. Gaylord.

It was announced at the office of the selectmen this morning that a petition for the laying out of a public highway to be known as Leander street, in the Riverview section between Griffith and Palmer street, has been denied, this following a hearing on the matter yesterday afternoon with all but one of the interested property holders either in attendance or represented.

It now appears that the neighbors of the chief petitioner did not know how far a petition for the town to accept a street must carry, in order to satisfy all the legal and technical demands. For the selectmen, proceeding in the regular manner, had an engineer lay out and plat a street 40 feet in width; and when so platted there was at once the appearance of mistake in bounds, either of the street or the abutting owners.

This was the unusual thing that interposed between willingness to assist a neighbor forward his desire to get mail delivery and the cold fact of serious property damage. For the petitioners at once set up claims for damages amounting to $4,500, while the chief petitioner's plea was only for such official recognition and acceptance of the present used way or "place," as would satisfy the post office authorities in Washington, and produce carrier delivery of mail.

The hearing brought out the facts that the street now has water, gas and household electric light service; and that there is no hardship on the delivery of any commodity except mail. Concerning this latter, Uncle Sam must remain obdurate until all the technicalities are smoothed out; and on the other hand, the town can not propose a street that is less than the legal width, without being accountable for the lapse.

The proposed street is in a section of Riverview that is likely to disclose underlying ledges, when grading is begun, and looks like nearly $2,000 expense in addition to the $4,500 damages to property; and none of those present at the hearing claimed that the project would entitle them to pay betterments. The general opinion of those appearing to "show cause why a public highway should no tbe laid out," in this particular place, was that $6,500 is too much money for the mail service, however desirable. And moreover the neighbors who assisted the chief petitioner in his effort to obtain standing in the sight of the United States mail service, made several sympathetic suggestions as to how mail delivery could be accomplished without going through a process that would disturb ostensible street boundaries to which the abutters have become accustomed.

The selectmen, therefore, taking the facts brought out in the hearing into consideration, and also legal council as related to other phases of the question, made decision to "refuse" the petition.

Here is Danielson's passenger train schedule, as arranged to be effective the coming week: A north-bound train, the 'boat train," arriving here at 6:14 a. m. A south-bound train, again a "boat train" arriving here at 7.22 p. m. Sundays the northbound morning train at the same time as on week days, south-bound at 7.44 p. m. That's all there is, and it is not hard to remember.

The new schedule cutting the mail trains to two a day will set up an arrangement under which Danielson will get only one mail a day, for the postoffice is closed prior to the time the night south-bound train reaches Danielson.

Gerald Rounds, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Allie Rounds of Water street, badly injured his thumb when he struck it with a hatchet while in a shed chopping away at a piece of wood.

When the fire alarm sounded a few times this morning while adjustments were being made to the system, there were many who believed that Danielson's long record without a call for the department—there has not been an alarm since July—had been broken.

Harvesting of the fine corn crop that this territory has produced is now underway, though the bulk of it remains to be cut. There are especially fine crops of corn this fall at the Wauregan Company farm and W. S. Brown's Shepard Hill farm, near Wauregan.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Lambert last evening 35 friends of Miss Nora Killian gathered for a shower in her honor. Miss Killian is to be married on Monday next to Everett Cobb. There were various diversions to make an unusually pleasant evening. Refreshments were served.

Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Charles E. Ayer, with Mr. and Mrs. Ira A. McDaniel, who are visiting here, are to leave Saturday morning for Cedartown, Ga., motoring to the south. Mr. McDaniel, formerly in the same capacity at Goodyear, is assistant treasurer at Cedartown at the fabric plant of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

Ralph D. Brundage, who was a member of the faculty of Killingly high school the past year, has entered the sales department of the Eastern Connecticut Power company, in the Danielson division, beginning his duties this week.

This morning it became necessary for Chief John McFarland to warn drivers of two Putnam public service machines that came here to do passenger business between Danielson and the Brooklyn fair to remove stickers on the windshields advertising the route and the price, the chief holding these stickers and the nature of them in violation of the law applying to what are termed jitney routes.

Excepting for some flooring and the timbers beneath it, the Dowe building had disappeared tonight from the location it has occupied for nearly 100 years. Razing of the structure was undertaken the past week.

Recent guests of the Misses Bernier of Reynolds street were John P. Mudden of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Frank Larkin of Cambridge, Mass. Other guests at the Bernier home were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Cote and Edgar Stanton of Springfield.

A squad of football players has been assembled at Killingly high school and the candidates for gridiron honors are getting regular practice now on the Quinebaug grounds, off South Main street.

It will be of interest to his many friends in this town, and elsewhere, that County Commissioner Urgele Laframce, who sold out his business in Central Village about two years ago, is to establish himself in a new line in Danielson.

PUTNAM

NAME SEVERAL SITES FOR NEW POSTOFFICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 21—L. H Blanton, a special representative of the treasury department at Washington has been in Putnam for the past week looking for an available site for the location of a federal building to be used for a post office It is a matter that is interesting to every business man as well as the citizens generally

He explained the mater at length to the directors of the Putnam chamber of commerce at their meeting on Monday night. The plot at Grove and South Main streets that was purchased by the government 17 years ago as a site for the post office building does not meet the requirements according to the post master general, and without his approval the treasury department, which is the purchaser or builder and custodian of all government owned buildings, cannot use it for that purpose, even if their representatives wished to do so.

Postmaster General New has two objections to the site. One is the distance from it to the railway station.

If a postoffice building is within one quarter of a mile or 1,320 feet of the station, the railway company is required to deliver the mail from the station to the post office without cost to the government. If it is a foot over that distance, the company is absolved of that obligation. The distance is not measured by a direct line but by the number of feet that a vehicle would have to travel. Figured in that way, the corner of Grove and South Main streets exceeds the quarter of a mile limit and would mean a considerable annual outlay by the postal department to have the sacks of mail transported to and from the station.

The second objection is, that Mr. New holds that it would be necessary to maintain a sub-station near where the postoffice is now located in the Union block, in order to give adequate service to the business houses of the city.

When these views were communicated to the treasury officials Mr. Blanton was sent here to study the situation and to learn where an adequate site could be found and what the cost would be.

For several days past in company with Postmaster Macdonald or his deputy, Edmond Gagne, he has gone carefully over the central part of the city looking at every possible location and trying to obtain an idea of the amount for which they could be bought. At Mr. Blanton's request, a special meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce was called to communicate to them the result of his investigation and to ask their advice and co-operation.

At the meeting which was held at the Putnam Inn were President deCoudres, Secretary Arthur S. Macdonald and the Messrs F. F. Russell, Charles E. Dean, Alex Gilman, Charles E. Richard, Arthur E. Smith, George L. Padgett, E. C. Rogers, Armand Lizotte, Charles Seder and Louis E. Law. A. Nikoloff was also present as a member of the Rotary club.

The site that he considered the most desirable is the Charles Bove property on Main street. It is outside the quarter mile limit, but it is possible that the department will have to eliminate this requirement. Exceptions to the rule are sometimes made: Willimantic, for instance, where the postoffice is over the limit.

The Muir property on the other side of Main street, opposite the Victory theatre.

The Farley property at Front and Liberty streets, which would mean necessarily, the acquirement of adjacent property to make up the area that is stipulated.

Union block, where the postoffice is now located.

The property immediately south of the Putnam Inn, comprising the Central Fire station, the Gorman building next to it and the garage owned by Mrs. Alta Joy.

The plot on South Main and Grove would be sold and the proceeds added to the appropriation, which now amounts to $85,000 or it could be traded as part payment in the acquisition of a satisfactory site.

Mr. Blanton also told his hearers that at least $30,000 more would be needed for the purchase of a new site. He urged that a systematic effort be made to place the situation before Congressman Freeman and Senators McLean and Bingham and ask them to advocate the additional appropriation.

"Putnam has been on the list of cities for which money has been voted by congress for a government building," said Mr. Blanton, "that the national law makers will look kindly on a proposal that it be given enough additional money to carry out the project, in view of the changed conditions of values and the purchasing power of the dollar."

A motion was adopted that an adjourned meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce be held next week to which the Rotary club and the city council be invited to send representatives and that a committee be appointed from the three bodies to consider the situation and report what action be taken.

Mr. Blanton returned to Washington today.

The evening school of the town of Putnam will open its sessions next Monday evening, October 3rd at 7:15 o'clock. The teachers for the evening sessions will be as follows: Stenography and typewriting, Mrs. Minnie G. Macdonald; bookkeeping, Mrs. Giselle Magnant Dupre; Americanization, Miss Ruth M. Elliott.

The East Putnam school which was closed last spring when the number of pupils had awindled to six, has reopened for the fall term with an enrollment of 21 pupils. Mrs. Ellen S. Dodge of Woodstock is to be the teacher.

George Harper who formerly owned the garage on South Main street across from the New Haven railroad has bought from Ransom H. Bradley the two story building at Pomfret and Canal streets. It has two large storerooms facing Pomfret street on the first floor and on the second floor are a number of rooms suitable for living apartments.

Warren W. Averill of this city and Arthur Grosvenor of Abington left yesterday for St. Petersburg, Florida, making the trip in Mr. Grosvenor's car. They will stop at a number of places on the way and expect to return in about three weeks.

A very instructive and interesting meeting of the Congregational ministers of the Windham County Congregational churches was held on Tuesday evening at the Second Congregational church of this city. A devotional service was conducted by Rev. George B. Hawkes of Abington and Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock of Willimantic read a paper on Evolution and Religion.

The following ministers of the county were present: Rev. T. H. Jones and Rev. Florence Jones of Mansfield; Rev. George A. Barker of Pomfret; Rev. H. S. Gaylord of Danielson; Rev. William Swanson of Dayville; Rev. G. H. Reese of Central Village; Rev. W. S. Prentiss of Plainfield; Rev. W. H. Muttart of Hampton; Rev. W. Williams of Wauregan; Rev. H. S. Lawson of Union; Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock of Willimantic; Rev. George B. Hawkes of Abington; Rev. James F. English of Putnam; Rev. W. A. Brown of Windham.

A luncheon was served to the assembly by the ladies of the Second Congregational church.

Joe Faber, the pride of Jewett City baseball fans is back home after a most successful season with the York team of the New York and Pennsylvania league.

The team with which he played finished 2nd and was a contender for the pennant most of the season.

Joe played an important role in the fine showing made by his club being rated as the premier shortstop of the league and hitting for the fine average of .325. A few weeks ago Joe made a strong bid to set a new record for organized baseball in the matter of consecutive hitting. In this spurt he made 8 consecutive hits then missed on one time at bat and started hitting again. During this spurt which lasted a week he connected for 13 safeties in 16 times at bat.

The Riverview club has signed Joe to help out in their two important series and local fans will take advantage of the opportunity to see how he shapes up.

Judging from the record compiled by Joe this season it seems certain that some club of class AA will grab him off when the drafts are made known in December.

The Baptist Ladies' Aid society meets at Miss Ruby Thornton's home Thursday.

The funeral of James Foley, Jr., was held from his late home on North Main street this morning. Solemn requiem mass was solemnized at St. Mary's church with Rev. J. J. McCabe celebrant, Rev. Fr. Carey deacon, and Rev. Nicholas Caron subdeacon. Frank Murdy of Norwich sang Vale for the waiting hymn. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Lisbon. The bearers were Edward Walsh, Jr., and John McCarthy, Jewett City, Philip and Paul McNamara of Norwich, Leo Gauther, Baltic and Thomas Dodd of Norwich. There were beautiful floral tokens of sympathy. Relatives were present from Boston, Chelsea, Dorchester, Worcester, Hartford, New London, Canterbury, Norwich, Baltic and Taftville. Shea and Burke of Norwich were in charge of the arrangements.

Chester Littlefield went to Newport on Friday, where he has enlisted in the U. S. Navy for four years.

One of the features of the clam bake at the Quinebaug camps will be a ball game between the married and single men. The single men are out to clean up on the married men and will line-up with Robertson, Juber, Thompson, Durda, Faust, Marshall, Jodoin, Raney and Liberty. The married men will bank on the following well known players to bring home the laurels: LeClaire the old Ashland A. A. player, Hiscox, of Twilight league fame, L. Blanchad, Dudkowski, Liberty, McNicol, Stafford, and one or two other players of local fame.

Byron Sheldon has stated that bird hunters will be out stronger this year than in recent seasons. From his kennels recently a number of dogs have been taken by Westerly hunters, as well as local parties.

Griswold will have three floats in parades at the fair at Norwich this week. The borough enters on on Thursday, the town one on Friday and the Ashland Cotton Co. the third float on Saturday.

NORWICH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The question has been asked: "What is the Norwich chamber of commerce?" The question is a fair one and evidently that organization so considers it for it sets about answering it and does so in the following manner:

It is an organization:

1. Which promotes the commercial, industrial and civic interests of Norwich.

2. Which is composed of over 300 members made up of business and professional men.

3. Which represents all the basic branches of business, such as agriculture, banking, industry, insurance, real estate, public utilities, government, trade and commerce.

4. Whose policies are determined by a board of directors of 12 persons who are elected by the membership and who serve without compensation.

5. Whose programme of work is developed according to the wishes of the majority or its members, and carried out through committees, whose personnel includes over 100 men of mature experience, background and judgment.

6. Which has accomplished and helped to accomplish many constructive things for the welfare of Norwich since its establishment.

7. Whose record is an open book and whose programme of work a challenge to the interest and support of every good, wideawake citizen of Norwich who has the welfare of the community at heart.

Any such organization must of necessity depend upon the work of its members and the backing which they give to it. It is of the greatest importance that Norwich should have such a body, that it should be an active and progressive organization, that it should be constantly alert for the community's best interests. It represents work, but that work can be made to pay large dividends through the results obtained, dividends which come not only to the workers but to the community at large.

The question which was asked has been answered in a full and comprehensive manner, and it is perfectly evident that the stronger the organization can be made the better it will serve its purpose and Norwich.

THE MORROW APPOINTMENT

In the naming of Dwight W. Morrow as ambassador from this country to Mexico, President Coolidge had full regard for the task involved and the ability of the gentleman to efficiently discharge it.

Our relations with the country to the south have been such that much care must be exercised in not only getting capable diplomatic representation at Mexico City but also in getting the right man. Fully cognizant of this the president has gone to a college mate, a man in whom he has the utmost confidence, a man he thoroughly understands and who understands him and the administration's policies. Mr. Morrow has demonstrated in those instances where he has been vested with large responsibilities that he is equipped to conscientiously and successfully discharge them. He rendered a conspicuous service during the period of the war and he later headed the inquiry that was made into air services of the army and navy for the purpose of studying the needs of the air corps and making recommendations for improvements, and in each instance the country benefited from his efforts.

In his choice the president has made an excellent choice, one without political significance but one that is based upon the hope of successful accomplishment. Acceptance of the appointment means abandonment of his financial activities and connections and the devotion of his efforts to the adjustment of the Mexican problem. The president has picked the man he believes fitted for the job which is another case of carrying out a policy long since established.

SPECIAL SESSION SQUELCHED

After giving careful consideration to the requests for a special session of congress, and conferring with many members of congress regarding its need, President Coolidge has come definitely to the conclusion that there will be none. He does not find that there is any need for one, and he is able to reach that judgment at this time even as it appeared probable last spring when the clamor first started. The Mississippi flood conditions have been used as a special argument for calling the senate in special session but even that is not regarded as sufficient for those handling that situation can carry on and do everything possible until the end of the year, and possibly longer.

It is always possible to point out what could be done by congress if called into special session in advance of the regular. It could knuckle right down to business, take up the contested elections, push into the flood inquiry and make up its mind that it was going to do promptly what was expected of it. Such is of course what it might do. That, however, is far different from what it would do if experience amounts to anything.

There is just as much difference between what congress might do and what it would do if gathered in Washington ahead of time as there is between theory and practice. Even though congress knows that it is facing a big volume of business, it doesn't make up its mind to check the loss of valuable time. Rather does it dawdle along, making much of political squabbles, and a few weeks before the end of the session goes into night sessions in order to rush through measures which ought to have been imposed of weeks before.

Had there been an emergency which really called for it, the president would have acted promptly in setting congress about its task. With that lacking, and the knowledge that time would be wasted and that congress has plenty of time to do all that is required of it, if it will but apply itself to the work ahead, the president has refused to be stampeded into unwise action.

STANDARD COUPLINGS

When it is declared that American cities are adopting standard couplings for fire hydrants it will be realized that they are moving for their own protection, for standardized couplings means that they will be available for use anywhere such a system prevails.

The significance of this is that, even though cities have elaborate fire departments and extensive equipment, the time frequently comes when the best of departments are obliged to call upon neighboring cities for assistance. Fire does not undertake to regulate itself in keeping with the provisions made to fight it. When conditions are such that it gets beyond control and help has to be called from other cities it is of vital importance that the assistance sought be able to make use of the hydrants in the city to which it goes. Otherwise it is a limited service which can be rendered. Handicap stares the most willing fire fighters in the face when they find that the hose they have brought to aid in the fire fighting will not fit the screw threads on the hydrants. It might as well be a thousand miles away as to be on the spot and not be able to connect up with the hydrants or other hose lines.

This is the predicament that was encountered by the New York and Philadelphia firefighters when they were sent to help subdue the Baltimore fire. It has been the experience of many others, until such object lessons became impressive enough to demand a change whereby couplings would be interchangeable. The standardization is the answer and while only 40 per cent of the fire protected cities have as yet responded to the need the movement has gotten a good start and is headed in the right direction.

One screw thread may be as good as another but the point is that there should be uniformity and could the bad features of the lack of it been realized at the start much annoyance and much loss might have been avoided. Many a community will probably give heed to the change as renewals become necessary.

RACING HAZARDS

Long before the flying derby was finished it was demonstrated that flying over the land does not insure safety any more than flying over the water, but there is the chance of possible escape through a successful landing when trouble develops when flying cross country.

Different types of machines have been used in the race to Spokane than are employed in crossing the ocean but in spite of the speed demonstrated and the keen competition it is evident that safety is far from assured. Danger exists because there are apparently many times when it cannot be told sufficiently in advance that a machine is going to crash, because defects develop quickly and unexpectedly and because there exists the great hazard from bad weather and fog.

Nevertheless there is much to be said in favor of a cross country airplane race over a similar contest across the ocean. There is the possibility of making stops when bad conditions develop, when fuel runs low or when it is recognized that the engine is in trouble. Through the experiences of those who participate in such contests there will be obtained valuable information that will serve as a guide to others and which will aid materially in overcoming many of the defects. Much is possible in this way from planes flying over land that would not be available, as has been repeatedly demonstrated, from those which go out over long water stretches never to be located. But deaths in air races are probably no greater than those in vehicle races on terra firma for there is more or less chance to be taken in races of all kinds.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: In a fight anything's liable to happen.

All's fair for the next three days, and may the weatherman be kind-hearted.

Mr. McAdoo is the first to put himself out of the candidate class for the good of the democratic party. Who's next?

It is going to be a bit hard if those who attend the big fight happen to draw a foggy night and their ticket calls for a back seat.

For the rest of the week the roads in all parts of the county should have a steady procession of those going to the county fair in Norwich.

Some of those at the big fight in Chicago tonight may be nearer the ring, but those listening to the radio will probably know more about what's going on—static being willing.

THE MATCHMAKER

Juliet Thompkins met Ursula Bingham at the corner of Wayne and Carter streets. In fact, they almost ran into each other, for it was a rainy fall day and each woman was carrying her umbrella low in order to keep the rain out of her face.

"Why, is that you, Juliet?" said Ursula in a whining voice which was fast becoming habitual with her. "I've just been up to your house and I was disappointed at not finding you home. Are you going right back now? If so I'll just run along with you. Awful day, isn't it? I expect I shall catch my death of cold being out in this weather, and this extra walk I've had to take because you were not at home will finish me."

Now, Juliet Thompkins was a widow who had nursed her husband through seven long years of invalidism and she felt she richly deserved any comfort she might derive from the comfortable living he left her. Ursula had nursed an ailing father for a number of years and at his death was disgusted to find the old man had made some bequests to other members of his family, thereby cutting down her income.

It was a strange friendship which existed between these two women of entirely different natures. Julie, hearty and generous never thinking ill of any one, and Ursula, little and brown, sharp of eye and tongue, who constantly found something to complain of and was easy to take offense. The two women lived on the same street and scarcely a day passed that they did not either see each other or exchange telephone calls. Never once in all the years of their acquaintance had there been an open rupture, although there were times when the fabric of their relationship was pretty thin.

Ursula had not spoken two words today before Juliet recognized the fact that she was in one of her difficult moods.

"I tell you, Juliet, if you had to count the pennies the way I do you'd dread catching cold. You would be wondering where the money or medicine and doctor and nurse and perhaps burial expenses was coming from," and Ursula gave a groan that was heartrending.

"Oh," said Juliet, "wait till you're hurt. You won't catch cold today. When we get to my house we'll go in and I'll brew a good cup of tea and we'll have a good time."

The two women entered the comfortable little house and Juliet put the drafts of her stove on and soon they were warm and by the time the tea was brewed even Ursula's spirits were seen to be visibly rising.

Juliet had just told a funny story when the doorbell rang. When she opened the door she was astonished to see a tall man incased in a rubber raincoat standing on the steps.

"Good afternoon," he said pleasantly. "Can you tell me where I can find Miss Ursula Bingham? I was told she lived on this sreet, but I have forgotten the number of the house—say," he added peering at Juliet through near-sighted eyes, "do you happen to be Juliet Frink?"

"I was Juliet Frink when I was a girl. I am Juliet Thompkins now," she added and then after a moment she exclaimed: "Why, you must be Fatty—oh, I mean Quincy John Harper!" And she held out her hand cordially. "Come right in, Quincy," she said and led the way into the warm sitting room where Ursula was sitting.

"Here, Suel," she said, "is someone who is asking after you, and I bet you don't know who it is."

But Ursula did. She had overheard the conversation and she was so surprised that her face for once was suffused with a becoming rosiness, her eyes were bright and her mouth had almost lost its downward droop when she arose to shake hands.

"Why, "Sue", cried Quincy John. "I'd have known you anywhere. I can't see as you've changed a mite. Keeps her looks fine, don't you think, Juliet? Well, well," he said as he sank into a chair and took the cup of tea Juliet handed him. "To think I should find you two girls right here in one home after all these years. But, say, just how many years has it been since we went to school together?"

"Why, I really couldn't say, Quincy," she said. "Not many. I'm sure. You know folks don't count time by years any more. We're so busy being as young as we feel that we haven't time to think how fast time is flying. What a wonderful age we are living in! Why, I was telling Suel just the other day that we had the best of our lives to look forward to." And she adroitly led the conversation into safe channels. Of course she let Quincy and Ursula do most of the talking, and for once Ursula was too interested to more than give an occasional nod and smile.

"Now, Ursula Bingham," she said in a low whisper close to her friend's ear, "there's a man for you, and he's got money. Don't you let me catch you losing him with any of your kill-joy remarks. Keep your mouth smiling even if you have to pinch yourself to do it. And after you've married him for pity's sake cheer up, don't let him ever suspect you ain't naturally light-hearted. There ain't a man living that wants to sit opposite a death's head 365 days in a year, especially if it's his wife, and he supposed to have chosen her from all the other women in the world." And then as they came back into the room where Quincy was waiting, she said: "Now, run along, dear, and good luck to you. Good-night, Quincy; please see that Suel doesn't get wet going home."

"Oh, I won't get wet," laughed Ursula, throwing a bright glance over her shoulder at Juliet. "And it wouldn't matter if I did—rain never hurt anybody yet. Good-night, Juliet. Happy dreams to you," and she went away hanging on the arm of Quincy John.

As for Juliet, she went back into her warm and well-lighted sitting room, drew an easy chair up before her fire, and laughed until the tears rolled down her cheeks. — Detroit News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Harry E. Hull, who advocates a liberalization of certain sections of the United States immigration law to permit the entry of parents of American citizens who under present conditions are barred, has been commissioner general of immigration since 1925. Previous to his appointment to his present position Mr. Hull had served four terms in congress as a representative from Iowa, of which state he is a native. In early youth he removed to New York city and later returned to Iowa to make his permanent home. He located in the town of Williamsburg, of which place he later served as alderman, mayor and postmaster. Mr. Hull believes that the present immigration law has resulted in many cases of unnecessary unhappiness and should be revised as an act of mercy.

YOUR HEALTH

INDIGESTION SYMPTOMS SHOULD BE INVESTIGATED

By Agnes C. Vistor, M. D., Boston, Mass.
Member Gorgas Memorial

Under the term indigestion patients include all phases of discomfort up to severe pain, occurring anywhere from the head to the bottom of the abdomen. These discomforts may include headache, vertigo, eye symptoms, vagaries of taste in the mouth, cankers, shortness of breath, gas or wind from the stomach or bowels, feelings of pressure, sour or bitter or food risings, heartburn, nausea, vomiting, aches or pains anywhere in the chest or abdomen, colic, bloating, and both constipation and relaxation.

The most common cause of symptoms of indigestion is the eating at one time of too great a quantity of food, or the eating of an article of food which the particular patient has difficulty in digesting or assimilating. The treatment of this form of indigestion is both mental and physical. If the stomach is distended by too much contents, or if it contains improper contents, the rational remedy for immediate relief is an emetic and, later, perhaps a cathartic. Then the patient should be made to understand that his suffering has been due to ignorance or an error of judgment, or to a weakness of will power. If it has been due to ignorance or an error of judgment experience has now given him the needed corrective knowledge. If it has been due, as is usually the case, to the stronger urge of desire or taste overcoming the warning sensation of a full stomach, or the warning protrusion of the pit of the stomach, or the warning feeling that his belt is too tight, he should realize that it is as necessary to learn and obey the laws of his body machine as it is to learn and obey the laws of any other machine.

The exclusion of the two conditions of eating too much and of eating what one has learned is unsuitable for the particular individual will eliminate practically all real indigestion. If in the absence of these two causes symptoms of so-called indigestion continue for any length of time or recur in "attacks," then the probability is that the patient has some definite derangement of his body machine. A very important exception must be made here as to the question of continuing or repeated attacks. After the age of 40 the beginning of symptoms of indigestion should have immediate attention. At this time the patient is entering upon the cancer age, and the first symptoms of cancer of the stomach or intestines are usually mistaken for simple indigestion.

Today we know that the symptoms of so-called indigestion may be due to derangement in any organ of the body, from the brain downward. They are often due to mental states of worry or unhappiness or fatigue, or to the displacement or sagging of the various organs; but they are so frequently found associated with such serious organic conditions as ulcer of the stomach or duodenum, infection of the gall bladder, chronic appendicitis, affections of the kidneys or of the heart, and so on, that one should never rest satisfied until it has been demonstrated that these latter conditions do not exist.

Realizing that the human body is the most complex machine of which we have knowledge, one should seek the service of the best health engineer one knows. This is always the family physician. And one should give this physician all the opportunities required for making the repeated examinations and tests necessary for the study of the situation, for the discovery of the cause of the symptoms and for the steps necessary for their removal.

Departures from health frequently give no beginning symptoms, and one should be so regularly and systematically examined by the family physician that any changes from the normal may be discovered in their early stages when the prospect of cure is most promising. Annual or semi-annual health examinations should be the safety-first rule for every member of the family.

Stories That Recall Others

A "Tale" Of Imagination.

Johnny came running into the house the other day screaming, "Oh, mother, I just saw a big mad dog jump over the garden fence." When his mother replied that it was just his imagination, Johnny countered with "Why, mother, has imagination got a tail?"

Did Not Do So Much.

Little Bobby asked his mother why his father went down town every day. "Why, he goes downtown to work and get money so that Bobby can have a good dinner every day," his mother said.

A few days later when Bobby sat down to dinner he viewed the table with a critical eye. Seeing none of his favorite dishes, he disdainfully shrugged his small shoulders and grunted:

"Huh! Father didn't do so much today, did he?"

Fly-Tox Helps Reduce Infant Mortality

Every year in the United States 250,000 children under 5 years of age die. Health authorities say it is significant that more deaths occur during the time flies are most active. Flies transmit more than thirty different diseases. Every fly should be killed. Fly-Tox kills flies. It is fragrant, safe, stainless, sure.—Adv.

Co-operative Fall Opening of Norwich Merchants

Over one hundred Norwich Merchants are convinced it is to the great interest of the people of Eastern Connecticut to patronize this co-operative movement, which makes it possible for them to secure the utmost in value, quality and service. It has been successfully demonstrated in the past that such united effort on the part of the merchants has been appreciated by the public who again will have a chance to have a gala day shopping.

For weeks there has been a great stir among the merchants of the city in preparation for this great semi-annual occasion, in securing the best merchandise the new Fall season has to offer.

The purpose of this co-operative opening is to make it possible for the people of Eastern Connecticut to visit all the Norwich stores the same day and find merchandise specially arranged for their inspection.

Each store is ready to show the best in the particular line of lines it carries and extends to you a special invitation to visit it on these opening days. The event, heralding the new Fall season, ought to impress the people of Norwich and surrounding towns that here is the Mecca for traders who are looking for the latest in style, best in quality and lowest in price. The merchants of Norwich extend to you a cordial invitation to visit them on this occasion. You will be assured of a hearty welcome and most courteous attention.

Although since 1909 all that is necessary is to hold the Bible in the hand while repeating the oath, most people, so says a solicitor here, seem to feel that something is missing from the ceremonial unless they have solemnly kissed the Book.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Henry A. Nichols

Sarah Atherton Nichols, wife of Henry A. Nichols, died Monday at her home, 57 Brattle street, Cambridge, Mass., after a brief illness. Mrs. Nichols was born in Boston, the daughter of Mrs. Francis Lowell Hills and the late Major Hills. Mrs. Nichols is survived in addition to her husband by two sons, Henry Atherton, Jr., and Francis Willard, by her mother and by two sisters, Miss Martha Higginson Hills of Marblehead, and Mrs. George Colt Butts of this city.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at Mt. Auburn chapel. The officiating clergyman was Rev. F. M. Crohers of the First Methodist church of which Mrs. Nichols was a member.

FUNERAL

Bronislaw Porucnik

The funeral of Bronislaw Porucnik was held Wednesday morning at 7:30 from his late home 244 West Main street, followed by a requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church, at 8 o'clock at which Rev. S. A. Iciek officiated. The musical program was in charge of J. Hanem, the waiting hymn was Pie Jesu. Burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Father Iciek conducted the committal services.

Mr. Porucnik was a member of St. George's society for many years and friends of the society acted as bearers as follows: Egnacy Knosatko, Anthony Snurkoski, Peter Ochman, Karol Roganski, Jan Klukoski, Jacob Przekop, Aleksander Sienkowski. Surviving him are daughters and sons and grandchildren.

There were many beautiful flowers from the family, relatives and friends.

WEDDINGS.

Hickey-Rioux

The marriage of Miss Juliette Rioux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Rioux, of Oakdale, and Francis James Hickey, son of Mrs. Michael Hickey of Palmertown was solemnized Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church in Uncasville by Rev. M. W. Barry, L. D., of Hartford, the acting pastor.

The bride was charmingly gowned in turquoise taffeta, wore a picture hat of silver lace and carried a bouquet of Killarney roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Rose Hickey, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and wore a dress of flesh georgette with picture hat to match. She carried a bouquet of pink Killarney roses. Norman Rioux, brother of the bride, was best man.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Palmer Memorial grammar school, Montville, and Worcester Trade school in the class of 1925 where he completed a course in printing. He is now employed by the Massasoit Manufacturing company, Oakdale. The bride attended schools in Fall River and for the past three years has made her home in Oakdale.

Sevigny-Bennett

On Tuesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, Albert Victor Sevigny of Norwich Town and Miss Hattie Marion Bennett of this city were united in marriage at the Central Baptist parsonage in Norwich by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D. Mr. and Mrs. William Davis of Taftville, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, were the attendants. The bride wore a peach colored silk taffeta dress with tan embroidery trimmings, with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of pink and white asters. Mrs. Davis wore a navy blue silk dress and a large black picture hat. The groom gave to his best man a handsome gold watchfob, and the bride gave to her maid a string of pearls. Following the marriage ceremony the newlyweds went to the home of the groom on the Scotland road where a chicken dinner was served to 95 friends and relatives. A large wedding cake was in the center of the table, a gift from Norwich friends of the bride. Concealed under the cake were numerous prizes, and the capital prize, a 10 dollar gold piece, went to William Davis of Taftville. The dinner was in charge of Mrs. William Davis of Taftville, Mrs. William Hope of Hanover, Mrs. Aurore Cote of Hanover. Mrs. Joseph Coushion, Mrs. P. Coushion and Mrs. Peter Sevigny of Plainfield. During the evening vocal and instrumental solos were rendered by the guests and William Davis gave an exhibition in black bottom dancing. Recitations were given by Mrs. Aurore Cote. A Baltic orchestra furnished music for the dancing. The numerous handsome wedding presents included money, linen, household furnishings, glassware, china and chests of silver.

The groom is a veteran of the World war and was in active service overseas. He was previously employed as a traveling salesman for a Chicago wholesale house. Mrs. Sevigny was born in Nova Scotia and has many friends in Norwich where she has been employed for the past seven years.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Sevigny left for a short honeymoon trip and upon their return they will make their home on the farm which Mr. Sevigny has leased for a term of years. Mr. Sevigny will conduct a stock and poultry farm in connection with his cider making interests.

Guests were present from Norwich, Baltic, Taftville, Plainfield, New Haven, Moosup, Jewett City, Willimantic, North Franklin and Westerly, R. I.

NORTH STONINGTON FAIR GROUNDS WERE FILLED ON OLD HOME DAY

"Old Home Day" at the North Stonington grange fair on Wednesday, the last day, filled the grounds with hundreds of visitors, while long lines of automobiles were parked in all available spots, this big attendance making the fair a success, that was very satisfactory to the active officers in charge.

The judges had been at work on Tuesday so that the visitors Wednesday had opportunity to see where the blue tags for first and the red tags for seccond premiums had been placed on the various exhibits.

In the new cattle sheds, the fine Ayrshire herd of John D. Avery of North Stonington were conspicuous premium winners, while Ralph Little's Holsteins from Stonington had their share in the awards.

In the poultry department, which overflowed the space assigned for them, prominent exhibitors and premium winners included the Gem Poultry Yards, Frank E. Fitch, Norwich; John B. Graves, Waterford; Frank Sebastian, Old Mystic; and Rose-Lawn Rabbitry and Pet Stock Yards, A. A. Haley, Old Mystic. Chickens of all the well known breeds, ducks, geese, pigeons, and rabbits were shown, while one exhibitor had a handsome cock pheasant on display.

The tent of the Connecticut department of health was an attraction all day long. Babies were weighed here and literature was distributed with health advice. A sign on the side of the tent gave the information, "1927 so far in Connecticut the healthiest year."

Products of the farm and garden were displayed in great variety and of high quality in the agricultural building where one exhibit showed what the junior farmers can do. This was the 4 H club exhibit of vegetables grown by Kenneth Brown.

One of the features during the afternoon was the farm team pulling contest in which Ellsworth C. Gray of North Stonington took first for double team and first for single with his handsome gray team.

In the entertainment hall during the afternoon there were readings by Mrs. Joel P. Sherman of Westerly and a novelty act presented by Frank Lane of Boston, called a lightning artist, trick pianist and royal entertainer.

In the main building near the entrance were displayed the exhibits of the women's department, including flowers, potted plants, hooked rugs, canned goods, fancy work and needlework of all kinds. On the stage was a collection of antiques among which Mrs. Charles Burdick of Old Mystic was a prize winner for a Currier & Ives picture of the Old Oaken Bucket. A school exhibit in this building also attracted much attention, being a collection of posters, cards and books made by the 100 per cent. Chelsea school club. There was also a fine array of canned goods by the 4 H club girls all under 12 years of age. Charles Burdick of Old Mystic presented something unusual in his display of bees and honey for which he took first comb honey, first on bees, second on honey exhibit and second on extracted honey. He also had a first on popcorn.

The midway was thronged all day long, presenting a varied list of attractions, and the fair closed in the evening with the band concert and free dancing as the features.

WORLD FRIENDLY MEETING FOR CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN

Many of the 1,500 Congregational women of Eastern Connecticut are looking forward to a meeting in the interests of World Friendship to be held on Tuesday, Oct. 4th at the First Church of Christ, New London. The program which is prepared by the Woman's Congregational Home Missionary union of Connecticut, the American board co-operating is as follows:

Morning session, 10:30 o'clock. Mrs. Allen Latham, presiding: Dovology. Prayer, Mrs. J. Beveridge Lee. Hymn, "Ye Christian Heralds, Go Proclaim". Our local interests: "Neighbors", Rev. A. Wallace Canner; "A New Adventure in Religion", Mrs. Robert E. Johnson; "Our Daughter in Bombay", Mrs. Carl Holdridge. Hymn "Ye Servants of God." New text books, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell. "A Trip South," Mrs. W. H. Dawley, chairman New London association. "Adventures", Ruth Isabel Seabury. Prayer, Abby G. Willard. 12 o'clock, luncheon.

Afternoon session 1:30 o'clock, Elizabeth F. Pullen, presiding: Inspirational service, Rev. J. R. Danforth. "Following the Gleam in Wen Shan", Priscilla Holton. Solo, Gladys Pettigrew. Offering received by Sylvina C. Norton. Hymn, "Jesus Still Lead On." "Some Phases of Work on the Border," Rev. O. A. Smith. Announcements, Mrs. B. G. Whitehouse, chairman Windham association. Benediction, Rev. J. R. Danforth. 3:30 o'clock.

Miss Holton who speaks in the afternoon is one of the youngest missionaries and has been near Foochow, China. She returned to this country this spring and has been very popular at Northfield and other conferences. Miss Seabury is well known to many people here. She is educational secretary of the American board and is considered an expert in educational work, particularly along the lines which make for world friendship. Rev. O. A. Smith is pastor of Trinity Congregational church, Nogales, Arizona. The international boundary between the United States and Mexico is an imaginary line running through the center of a city street in Nogales, Arizona, U. S. A., on the one side and Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, on the other. Literally, sitting at the gateway of these two nations is Trinity Congregational church, rendering a most unique service to the throng of immigrants who crowd the government immigration office daily. Rev. Smith will tell of this work.

Every auxiliary in New London and Windham associations has been invited to appoint a chairman of delegates and a chairman of transportation to this meeting. The following have been appointed in Norwich:

First church, Mrs. Chas. Schwenk, Miss Bernice Underwood, Mrs. Ronald Nelson; United church, Mrs. C. T. Bard, Miss Campbell; Park church, Mrs. James A. Bidwell, Mrs. O. L. Johnson; Greeneville church, Mrs. W. L. Clark; Taftville church, Mrs. E. G. Crowdis.

ROTARY DISTRICT GOVERNOR MAKES OFFICIAL VISIT

Allan H. Bagg, of Pittsfield, Mass., district governor of the 30th Rotary district, made his official visitation to the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon and addressed the club on The Fundamentals of Rotary. District Governor Bagg's talk was highly inspiring and at the conclusion he was given a hearty vote of appreciation.

In his talk Mr. Bagg laid special emphasis on the fact that there is no organization in the world that is doing so much to promote world peace and understanding as Rotary. There is hardly a country in the world where one does not find a Rotary club and each and every member, if he is a true Rotarian, is helping to further a spirit of goodwill among nations.

At the business session President Clarence A. Spear presided and William G. Park was the song leader. As always when Mr. Park is the leader the singing was spirited. Two solos by Henry J. LaFontaine were pleasing features of the musical programme. Announcement was made of the golf match at Shenecossett on Thursday with the New London club. Announcement was also made regarding the participation of the Rotarians in the parade at the fair grounds today (Thursday).

MOTOR LAW VIOLATOR IS SENT TO JAIL

Walter Niemeyer, U. S. S. Chewink, now at New London, is serving a sentence of 60 days in jail, given him in the city court Wednesday morning when he pleaded guilty to three charges, driving a machine without the owner's permission, evading responsibility and driving without a license. He was given his choice of a fine of $200 and costs or 60 days in jail and took the jail sentence. He was arrested Tuesday after the machine he was driving crashed into a machine parked near the West Side bridge.

After colliding with the machine the driver kept going. A boy took the number of the registration and the driver was arrested at the Thames river bridge at New London by the state police. The machine is owned by a shipmate at the base.

Mrs. Isabelle Stewart was elected warden of Beulah lodge, New England Order of Protection, at a meeting held in Union lodge rooms, New London, this week.

BELGIAN BLACK WONDER DOG IS BROUGHT HERE

Gordon Eager of Hartford, a member of the Governor's Foot Guard, arrived here Wednesday evening with a famous dog, which he bought in Malines, Belgium, during a tour of Europe by the Foot Guard.

This dog is Erick de la louve, known throughout France and Belgium as "Le noir chien," (The Black Dog.) Erick is a police trained dog, and for three years was schooled at the Brussels police department training station. This dog unlike many other police trained dogs, throws back so strongly to the wild that he was one of but two, of a litter of nine which was saved; the others were destroyed. The remarkable part of this animal is the fact that he has been successfully broken to his present owner, after hours of beating; while some dogs can be broken to different owners at will, the Groenandael differs in this.

He has been the object of the cinema lens during many official functions of the Provisional Regiment in 1926 and has appeared several times on the American screen.

ASSAULT CHARGE MADE AFTER KLAN MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 21.—David Plachon, 22, of Plainfield, was arrested here tonight on charges of assault and breach of peace on complaint of Alfred Nichols of Main street, this city, whom Plachon is alleged to have struck with his fists following adjournment of a Klu Klux Klan meeting. Plachon was placed under $50 bond and will appear in police court this morning to answer to the charges.

The meeting, which was conducted in an open lot on Columbia avenue, caused more or less disturbance at times, due to outsiders interfering with the program, it is said. A cross was burned and members of the order were present from Plainfield, Moosup and Willimantic.

The trouble between Plachon and Nichols started after the conclusion of the session, when Plachon was leaving the grounds. Plachon met Nichols on the street, where, it is alleged, the former struck Nichols with his fists. No newspaper men were allowed to attend the meeting.

RESTAURANT PROPRIETOR IS FINED IN COURT

At the city court session Wednesday morning John Rombowski who runs a restaurant at 9 3-4 Thames street was fined $200 and costs on a charge of violation of the liquor law. Tuesday night the police raided the place, found a small quantity of liquor and arrested Mrs. Mary Sasak, 38, employed there as a cook and who was alone in the restaurant. Wednesday morning after Rombowski, who had been summoned to court, testified as to his restaurant expenses, receipts and profits, Judge Libby found him guilty on the liquor charge. Mrs. Sasak testified that the liquor there was being used by her as medicine for a bad cold. The case against her was nolled.

MERCHANT'S BUREAU NAMES FALL OPENING DAYS

At a recent meeting of the merchant's bureau it was decided to designate Friday and Saturday Sept. 23rd and 24th as official fall opening days of the stores. Accordingly, the bureau is requesting every merchant to cooperate by suitable window displays and announcements. The request is also made that each store display the flags in honor of the opening of the fair today (Thursday.)

JAIL SENTENCE FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATOR

Found guilty of violation of the liquor law, Aleck Swaich, 33, was sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge Arthur F. Libby Wednesday morning in the city court. He was arrested at No. 29 Rose street Tuesday night by a squad of local police who raided his place of business. A small quantity of liquor was found in the place.

Colchester Pays for Turkeys

Tony Rutka found 12 of his turkeys dead in the rear of his barn and his residence on the Hartford turnpike in Colchester early Saturday morning. First Selectman C. A. Kramer was notified and a settlement was made for the damage. Evidently it was the work of dogs, and there is no clue to the owners of the dogs.

Eastern Connecticut Health

The weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health for the week ending September 19th shows the following cases of communicable diseases reported from towns in eastern Connecticut:

Diphtheria, Norwich, 1. Scarlet fever, Groton, 2; Thompson, 1. Measles, Groton, 1; Stonington, 1. Whooping cough, New London, 9.

There is to be a United States Civil Service examination for Shop Apprentice. Vacancies in the Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., and in positions requiring similar qualifications, will be filled from this examination. The entrance salary is $900.

LIEUT. HIGGINS HOME FROM PHILIPPINE SERVICE

First Lieutenant Raymond T. J. Higgins, U. S. A., and Mrs. Higgins have returned from the Philippines, where they have been for four years, and are spending the balance of the lieutenant's two months' leave of absence at the home of his mother, Mrs. M. C. Higgins of 228 Broadway.

While in the Philippines, Lieut. Higgins was attached to the 24th Field artillery, Philippine Scouts, and was stationed at Camp Stotsenberg, an army post about 60 miles north of Manila. Upon the expiration of his leave of absence he is to be stationed at Camp Bragg, North Carolina, and will be attached to the Fifth Field artillery.

Lieut. and Mrs. Higgins left Manila on an army transport on July 18, sailing by way of Nagasaki, Japan, and reached San Francisco on Aug. 6, the voyage across the Pacific being like sailing over a smooth lake. After a stay of ten days in San Francisco, they left for New York by army transport, coming by the Panama canal route and reached New York Sept. 2.

The lieutenant speaks of Manila as being a city where the retail store business is almost exclusively in the hands of the Chinese, but such American and British merchants as are there are in the exporting and importing trade. The city provides practically all the modern conveniences and the large population centers of the island are connected by well built roads of native rock and gravel, cement being used only to a limited extent. The Filipinos are kindly and courteous towards Americans, a characteristic that is convincingly shown towards travelers who may have tire trouble or other difficulties, as the natives crowd around from all nearby points with offers of help and give their aid gratuitously and without thought of recompense.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Powelson, of Warren street are passing part of the week in Bristol, R. I.

This (Thursday) morning, Miss Carrie E. Rogers leaves town for her winter home in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. William Tyler Browne, of Broadway, is at her summer home at Giant's Neck, East Lyme, until Friday.

During Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley, of Slater avenue, reached home, after a three weeks' motor trip to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward's Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Grosvenor Ely and daughters, of Norwich, with Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Ely of New York and their cousin, Miss Anna Lloyd Ely, are still on a motor tour of England.

Mr and Mrs. E. M. Crosthwaite and daughter, Betty, have returned to Pelham Manor, N. Y., after a week-end visit at the home of Mrs. Crosthwaite's father, John Porteous, on Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tilson and little daughter, Barbara, have left for their home in Shelton, following a visit with Mrs. Tilson's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Gallup, of Washington street.

Mrs. Hugh C. Murray, of Willimantic, who has been visiting her sister, Miss Mary Porteous since their return from Europe, has left Norwich for two weeks' visit in Auburn, N. Y., with her sister, Mrs. William B. Hislop.

Arriving in New York Saturday on the United States liner President Roosevelt from Bremen, after two and a half months' tour with friends in the British Isles and on the Continent, Miss Isabel H. Mitchell returned Tuesday to her apartment on Broad street.

Wednesday afternoon at her cottage at Crescent beach, Mrs. Charles J. Twist, of Prospect street, entertained the Sandpipers and several other friends at luncheon and bridge. There were three tables of cards, the prizes being won by Mrs. Eliza B. Maguire, Mrs. Charles A. Gager and Mrs. William H. Oat.

NORWICH TOWN

Callers Sunday afternoon on Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Gremley and the latter's mother, Mrs. Harriet E. Brainard, who with Mr. Gremley's mother, Mrs. Charles Gremley, all of Mystic returned recently from an automobile trip through seven states, covering about 1,100 miles. The party left Mystic Sunday, September 11th, by way of Boston post road to New York, crossing Dyckman ferry to Englewood, N. J., and on to Red Bank, remaining there over night. The second day of the journey was to Atlantic City, where several hours were spent, the party proceeding late Monday afternoon as far as Elkton, Maryland. From this location Tuesday morning, the tourists continued as far as Washington, remaining there until the following afternoon. Wednesday night was spent at Gettysburg, Pa., and Thursday night at Allentown. While not the longest distance from home, Washington was the farthest objective south. When starting on the homeward journey, after leaving Allentown, the route was through Delaware Water Gap, over the Storm King highway and Bear Mountain bridge, to Portchester, New York, a most beautiful and picturesque ride through magnificent scenery all the way. From the last mentioned place Saturday the party left for home, arriving in Mystic, early that afternoon. During the stay in Washington, a trip was taken to Alexandria, Va., to visit the Washington Memorial now under construction at an approximate cost of six and one-half millions, which structure will not be completed until 1932. The party took a sight-seeing bus to several points of interest covering a period of five hours. Government buildings were visited, including the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where they witnessed the making of paper money and stamps, also the National museum, where were numberless things of interest. The Capitol, Senate chamber, House of representatives, Supreme Court room, etc. The Pan-American, was another especially interesting building, with its open court yard where tropical fruit is growing. While at Gettysburg, accompanied by a guide, the tourists motored over the big battlefield which covers 24 square miles, comprising 1,600 acres. The ride around this historic spot registered over 17 miles.

FRENCH TO REMOVE BAN ON SCHOOL SPORT

PARIS, Sept. 21 (AP)—Games of exercise doubtless soon will be permitted in French schools under a proposed law relieving teachers from direct responsibility for accidents. The chamber of deputies passed the bill and the senate is expected to ratify it.

French teachers now are criminally and financially responsible for all accidents to children at school, whether the teachers are at fault or not. All carry insurance but they save themselves trouble, generally, by forbidding all but the simplest games, such as marbles and "catch" with a rubber ball. Some teachers permit nothing but walking at recess.

Sports have thus been held in check. In the large schools where there are gymnasiums, the program of exercises has been limited to calisthenics and work with apparatus that gave no chance for accidents.

The province of Alberta, Canada, will spend $1,200,000 on its main highways this year.

DWIGHT W. MORROW
Named as Ambassador to Mexico

CLERGYMAN HAD BEEN ORDERED TO LEAVE TOWN

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Rev. Willis F. Jordon, formerly of Columbus, Ga., who is ill at a local hospital, planned to leave here as soon as he is discharged from the institution, he told the officials today.

The minister, who disappeared from his home in Columbus last week, did not disclose his destination. He indicated, however, he would not return to Columbus. It was at first reported Rev. Jordon had been kidnapped, but in a conversation with Chief of Police A. A. Carroll today the minister said he had been ordered to leave town by two men whose names he did not disclose.

Hospital authorities said Rev. Jordon would be able to leave the institution within a few days. A diagnosis today revealed the patient was not suffering from typhoid fever as was at first supposed.

No charges have been preferred against the minister here and local officials said he would not be detained. Rev. Jordon denied today that he had a wife and family in Columbus. He admitted having a wife in Roanoke, Va., however.

FRENCH HUNTERS DISCUSS DEGREES OF POLITENESS

PARIS, Sept. 21 (AP)—Just how polite one ought to be is debated, even in France.

A new discussion has been aroused by the obsequious tone of a form that hunters must sign if they wish a license in the Cher department, in central France.

"Monsieur le Prefect: I have the honor to solicit, through your kindness," etc., runs the preamble of the form. It concludes: "And I ask you to accept the expression of my great respect."

A Frenchman doesn't have to depend on an official's "kindness" for a hunting license, comment some critics, and he doesn't have to show any "great respect" but merely conventional decent politeness.

Some suggest that the prospective hunter ought merely to write: "I, the undersigned, ask for a hunting license," etc.

FRENCH MUSICIANS OBJECT TO AMERICAN JAZZ BOYS

PARIS, Sept. 21 (AP)—Americans college boys who jazz their way about Europe, playing dance music to meet their summer tour expenses, have touched off some French indignation.

French musicians say they don't mind professional competition but they balk at being crowded out of their seaside resort jobs by amateurs who cut rates and play only during the height of the summer season when the professional orchestras ordinarily have a harvest.

French musicians, so far, have made no organized protest, but have asked the newspapers to express their feelings. They hope the government may be able to frame some regulation that will prevent those who come as tourists from taking employmenet.

WINE AREA SHRINKING AS EARTH GROWS COLD

PARIS, Sept. 21 (AP)—The earth is cooling much faster than savants think, is the conviction of wine-growing experts. As evidence they point to the fact that the area in which vines can be grown to advantage is gradually receding.

A century ago wine was made in the north of France, and no longer than 40 years ago there were 50,000 acres of vineyards in full growth around Paris. This area now is too cold for growing grapes.

Touraine growers are beginning to realize the danger of the increasing dampness and express fears for the future of their hitherto prosperous industry.

MACHINE RECORDS BIRD-FLIGHT MOVEMENTS

PARIS, Sept. 21 (AP)—How birds fly is now being determined by attaching minute recording instruments to homing pigeons. Their speed variations, wing strokes and other movements are measured.

Man himself may fly without a motor some day, think some commentators, as a result of this study. They say man can exercise more power than should be needed for flying, if that force can be utilized as the birds use it.

Three aerodynamics experts recently gave the Academy of Science a report on experiments with their tiny instruments. It is a mechanism 2 4-5 inches long, 1 1-5 inches wide and 1 1-5 inches high and weighs 2 ounces.

PARIS POLICE TAKES LESSONS IN ENGLISH

PARIS, Sept. 21 (AP)—English in 11 lessons so equipped 20 Paris policemen that they answered 350 questions in the new language.

Frenchmen who have adventured abroad suggest that a notebook and pencil will help out the officers for they have found it simpler in England and America to write their questions rather than wrestle with the foreign accent.

ONLY WOMAN IN PARTY OF 253 METALLURGISTS

LONDON, Sept. 21, (AP)—Miss C. F. Elam, D. S., said to be the only woman metallurgist in the world, had 252 escorts on her trip to Canada to the Empire Mining and Metallurgical congress in Montreal.

Miss Elam, assistant to Professor Carpenter at the Royal School of Mines, Kensington, London, was the only woman in the party. The party is touring Canada, paying particular attention to the principal mining districts.

STAGE SLIGHT LEADS TO WEDDING BELLS

LONDON, Sept. 21, (AP)—"Love at First Sight" might be the title of the romance of Ivor Vintor and Doris Bentley, two of the principals in the play at the Hippodrome theater, here, who have just become engaged.

Vintor and Miss Bentley met in 1922, when they were playing in opposition pantomimes. Vintor sent a first-night congratulatory telegram to every member of the rival show but Miss Bentley, whom he did not know. When he realized his omission he wished to apologize and sought an interview with the slighted actress, which brought about their friendship.

DEMPSEY-TUNNEY CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT OVERSHADOWS ALL SPORT EVENTS

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—(AP)—With its last legal barriers cleared today and the city swarming with the greatest fight crowd of all time, the Dempsey-Tunney battle of dollars, open letters and mixed opinions moved toward its climax of actual fistic combat tomorrow night in Soldier field's spectacular setting.

Subjects of more debate than any two other gladiators in all ring history, Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey will meet in their return battle for the heavyweight championship of the world before a crowd that is expected to shatter all records by numbering close to 150,000, and contributing to a "gate" of probably $2,750,000.

In its attraction of world-wide interest, in the fierce and bitter character of its preliminary debates, in the size of the stakes involved—$1,450,000 for the two fighters—as well as the magnitude of the promotion enterprises, the second chapter of the Dempsey-Tunney feud outstrips any sports event in history.

It will pit Tunney, the soldier, masterful boxer and champion, against Dempsey, the plunging, personally magnetic slugger, badly beaten a year ago by his handsome foe, but now primed for the big act of the most sensational come-back drama the boxing game has ever known.

Who will win?

The answer to that question, eagerly sought and discussed everywhere by millions, debated at the crossroads as well as on Michigan avenue, Broadway and the Rue De La Paix, will be known between 9:30 and 10:30 p. m., tomorrow night, Chicago daylight time, when the ten-round championship match to a decision will hold the little square of limelight amid a cheering mass of fandom.

To the experts summing up rival pros and cons it appears that Gene has the decided edge in speed and boxing ability, as well as three years in age and the confidence that comes to a champion. Dempsey, on the other hand, is conceded the more dangerous puncher, a more aggressive attack and a flaming spirit of combat that is willing to risk everything. They seem well matched.

Men who back their opinions with money evidently think Dempsey will "break through." The longest odds reported in his favor by tonight were 6 to 5.

The last threat of legal interference vanished this afternoon when County Judge Fisher dismissed an injunction petition brought by the Coliseum club. This action was based on an alleged prior contract held with Dempsey for a fight here last year with Harry Wills but it was ruled out on the ground that the contract had expired, as well as on the judge's opinion that injunctive action would do more harm than good. Previous efforts to block the fight on claims that it injured public morals failed yesterday.

Elaborate preparations were made to safe guard the fighters as well as to protect their every move until they climb through the ropes tomorrow night.

Walter Eckersall, famous football star, now a sports writer for the Chicago Tribune, as well as an experienced ring official, was considered tonight as the most likely choice for referee. Davey Miller and Emil Thiry, both also well known as referees, were slated for positions as judges, although announcement of the officials will not be made until tomorrow night.

The votes of the judges will decide the fight, if it goes the limit and if they agree on a verdict. If they do not agree, the referee will cast the deciding vote.

A new ruling on fouls, proposed by Chairman John C. Righeimer of the state athletic commission and agreeable to both managers, was adopted at today's conference. The new rule follows:

"When a contestant is fouled, or claims he is fouled, and the referee is counting him out, and in the opinion of the commission the blow struck does not cause sufficient damage to constitute a foul, the referee will continue his count as in the case of all knockdowns.

"If, in the opinion of the commission, the blow struck is a foul blow and the damage is great enough to warrant the physician in attendance examining contestant so fouled, the referee will be notified by the commission to discontinue his count, and take time out for rest pending the physician's examination, after which the decision will be rendered herewith".

DEMPSEY MEAN AND CRABBY ON EVE OF BATTLE

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—(AP)—Jack Dempsey started tonight on the real come-back trail, the trail leading out of Lincoln fields race track to Chicago and Soldier field, where tomorrow night, he will engage Gene Tunney in quest of regaining the world's heavyweight championship.

With his wife, Estelle Taylor, and a few friends as companions, Dempsey motored 40 miles into the city at dusk to go to his quarters a bungalow 42 stories above the street on the roof of the Morrison hotel. He planned to retire before 10 p. m., for a restful sleep, a sleep that means so much on the eve of what will be the most important battle of his life.

Dempsey spent a quiet day in camp. His wife arrived shortly before noon. Gov. Fred W. Green, of Michigan, and Tom Bigger, chairman of the Michigan State Boxing Commission, posed with Dempsey and his wife for photographers.

The challenger did not go on the road, but took a run about a mile and an eighth around the track. Jerry the Greek, his trainer, went with him. That was all the work he did.

Jack was mean and crabbed in the afternoon, a sure sign of condition, in the opinion of his handlers. But with his wife, close friends, correspondents and photographers around, Dempsey put on a smile and engaged in some repartee.

Dempsey will fight in black trunks with red stripes on the sides, the same he wore for the fight with Jack Sharkey. Leo P. Flynn, his manager, "Jerry the Greek" Luvadis, Gus Wilson, and Bill Duffy, a New York cafe owner, will be his seconds. Flynn will be in complete charge.

GOOD WEATHER FORECAST FOR TONIGHT'S BOUT

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—(AP)—Fair and cool weather with the temperature between 55 and 60 degrees was forecast tonight for the Tunney-Dempsey fight tomorrow night by Professor Henry J. Cox of the United States weather bureau.

"There is but one chance in ten of rain," Professor Cox said. "The temperature will be between 55 and 60 degrees, compared with 41 yesterday. Furs and overcoats are advisable. There will be no moon and this should be ideal for the fight as the ring is to be lighted by flood lights, and the absence of moonlight will make the fighters stand out all the more clearly in the dark stadium."

TUNNEY IS MODEST, CONFIDENT DEMPSEY, A BIT BOASTFUL

CHICAGO, Sept. 21—(AP)—The statements of the fighters and their managers follow:

Gene Tunney—"My first defense of my title finds me quite confident I will be victorious in tomorrow night's contest with Jack Dempsey. I have reached the very peak of condition, and am without a bruise or hurt on the hour of the battle.

"I am even more certain I will win than when I first engaged Dempsey at Philadelphia last year. I feel that as a result of another year's study and application, I have improved considerably and will win without any great dificulty.

"I hope and expect our contest will be a fairly and cleanly waged battle, which will merit the attention given it by the greatest crowd ever gathered to see a sporting event."

Jack Dempsey—"I am ready for Gene Tunney this time. I will win decisively. I think I am good enough now to finish Tunney inside of seven rounds. If he happens to last the limit, I am sure I will be a far enough out in front to win the decision.

"If Tunney will stand up and fight, it will not take long. If I have to chase him, I will catch up with him. I want the referee, whoever he is, to make us fight, and give me all that is coming to me, nothing more.

"Last year I was not myself. Tunney will find me entirely different now. My punch is good, my legs are good, my physical condition is all that I can ask. I will go in there weighing about 195 pounds, just the figure I want to be.

"If I am beaten fairly will be willing to concede that Tunney is a real champion, because he is going to fight a real Dempsey this time."

Billy Gibson, Manager of Tunney—"There is no question in my mind about the outcome of Gene Tunney's contest with Jack Dempsey. I feel very certain that Tunney will decisively defeat Dempsey, probably by a knockout inside of seven rounds. If Dempsey fights fairly and squarely, I do not see any possibility for any other outcome."

Leo Flynn, Manager of Dempsey—"I predict a knockout for Dempsey in three rounds if Tunney is mad enough about that open letter to start fighting at the first bell. If Tunney takes the defensive from the start, it may take Dempsey seven rounds.

"Dempsey is full of fight and confident. He has had no mental worries to handicap his trathing this time. Jack knows when he is himself. He is better now than at any time since he stopped Billy Miske in 1920. That means he will be the only heavyweight champion who ever came back."

TUNNEY TURNS SCHOLAR FOR BRIEF PERIOD

LAKE VILLA, Ill., Sept. 21—(AP)—Satisfied that the physical man has been amply prepared for battle with Jack Dempsey in five months of steady training, Gene Tunney turned scholar today and for three hours browsed through the library of Fred Lundin, Chicago politician, and a near neighbor for the time being.

Although the heavyweight champion must face the bid of Dempsey to regain the title in Soldier field tomorrow night, he forgot the $1,000,000 engagement entirely in scanning the hundreds of rare volumes on the shelves of the tiny glass enclosed library, away from the remainder of Lundin's estate, by the shore of Lake Villa. But like carrying a sandwich to a banquet, Tunney brought along a copy of "On Human Bondage" that he has been atempting to read for the past three weeks.

Before the visit Tunney trotted four miles on the road this morning, his final preparation for the title test. Cameramen took their final "shots" when he returned. Tunney will probably weigh in before members of the Illinois commission at his downtown hotel sometime tomorrow afternoon.

After the roadwork this morning, Tunney started the "drying out" process calculated to tune him to razor edge for the battle.

ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASES 145,000 MILES OF WIRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(AP)—One hundred and forty-five thousand miles of Associated Press leased wires will be used to carry news of the Tunney-Dempsey fight in Chicago from the ringside to more than 1,200 newspapers. Both the morning papers and a record breaking number of afternoon dailies—between 700 and 800—will be brought together in one great group for the event.

Three leased wires from the ringside, two of them directly connected with transcontinental trunk wires that feed into Associated Press bureaus and newspaper offices throughout the country, will speed "blow-by-blow" descriptions.

For the first time in Associated Press history, additional printing telegraph machines have been set up in the composing rooms of members papers to save a few additional seconds in transmission from editor to linotype machine.

Another record to be set is in the number of member newspapers which will broadcast the progress of the fight by radio, sixty such papers having arranged for Associated Press service directly into studios which they own or have leased.

MRS. TUNNEY IS ON AUTOMOBILE TOUR

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(AP)—In order to escape public interest directed toward her on the eve of her son's battle with Jack Dempsey tomorrow night, Mrs. John Tunney, mother of the champion, today was on an automobile trip in the Adirondacks and Maine.

Whether she had arranged to "listen in" to radio accounts of the fight at some point on the tour had not been revealed when she slipped away yesterday with her two daughters from the secluded brick home of the Tunneys in Spuyten Duyvil, near Riverdale, N. Y. She expected to be away several weeks.

However, there will be at least one other Tunney at the fight besides the champion. Gene's younger brother, Tom, who greatly resembles the fighter, has gone to Chicago to see the bout.

CANADIAN AND FRENCH WOMEN CHAMPIONS ADVANCE

GARDEN CITY, Sept. 21—(AP)—Invaders from Canada and France today pressed forward through the second round of match play toward the women's golfing championship of the United States, while Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., one of the strongest of the home-bred hopes, met defeat and elimination.

In a "battle of ex-champions," Miss Collett was beaten by a margin of 2 up and 1 to play by Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, winner of the title in 1916, 1919 and 1920 as an American but now a resident of Ottawa, Canada, and a member of the foreign continent.

The other invaders to come through were Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, champion of the dominion, and Mlle. Simone Thion De La Chaume of France, champion of her own country and of England, while Miss Mackenzie scored an easy victory at 4 and 2 over Miss Helen Payson, Portland, Me., Mlle. De La Chaume had trouble making out a 1 up victory over Mrs. H. G. Higbie of Detroit.

By winning, the little French girl and the veteran Mrs. Fraser entered the same third round bracket and will fight it out tomorrow in what promises to be one of the most interesting matches of the tournament.

The eight survivors and the order in which they will play in the third round:

Miss Ada Mackenzie, Toronto, Canada, vs. Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago; Miss Maureen Orcutt, Haworth, N. J., vs. Miss Marie Jenney, Yonkers, N. Y., Mrs. Miriam Burns Horn, Kansas City, vs. Mrs. Henry Pressler, Los Angeles, Calif.; and Mrs. Frasier vs. Mlle De La Chaume.

YANKS ONLY RUN IS A HOMER BY RUTH

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(AP)—The Yankees gave their worst fielding exhibition of the season here today and lost the opener of a series to Detroit by 8 to 1, running the Bengal winning streak to seven. Sam Gibson pitched a strong game for the Tigers and had the New Yorkers shutout until Babe Ruth hit his 55th home run of the year in the ninth. Not only were the Hugmen guilty of six errors but all sorts of mental lapses cropped out with throws to wrong bases and failures to throw the ball. The score:

CHET NICHOLS WILL PITCH FIRST GAME FOR MARTAFTS ON SATURDAY

James H. Troland, manager of the Martafts, announced Wednesday night that he had secured Chet Nichols, former member of the Pittsburgh team leaders in the National league, to pitch the first game of the Taftville-Riverview series at the State Hospital diamond on Saturday. He also announced that Bunny Hearne, who was with the Springfield club of the Eastern league during the past season and who was chosen on the All-Eastern team, will pitch Sunday's game at the J. B. Martin diamond.

Both pitchers are no strangers to Norwich fans both having pitched here several years ago. Hearne when he was a member of the Boston Red Sox and Nichols before he broke into the big leagues. Nichols is now the property of the Jersey City club having been traded by the Pirates only a week or so ago. Chet pitched for New Haven during the latter part of this season.

Riverview likewise has strengthened and will use either Andy Bush or Jimmy Bishop in the box. Joe Faber who batted for .321 with the York club of the New York-Pennsylvania league will undoubtedly play the outfield as Manager Hamel does not want to break up his infield. Chief Werre is a possible choice for first base.

It looks as though the fans would see some real baseball over the week end.

SECOND OF REVIEWS OF DUSTY LEAGUE TEAMS Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. finished in second place in the Norwich Industrial league race, winning 9 and losing 5 games which figured three full tilts behind the pennant winning Richmond Radiators.

This team had its "spells" of good and bad baseball. Starting the season like real champions they jumped right into the lead and held it for a couple of weeks only to have the Richmonds put on speed and snatch it from them. They drifted along playing just fair ball for a few more weeks until during mid-July a few additions were made to their roster and, once again they started to play nice ball. They came close to seriously threatening the leader until one night they went to pieces against these same Ironmen and from then on their title hopes were gone although they managed to rally and hold second position.

Emory Davis, Harold Hull and Aubrey Brown bore the brunt of the attack during their first spurt while Pete Tombari, Couture and Fenton showed nice work during the latter sprte. Arde Armstrong also did well all the way.

Most valuable—Pete Tombari.
Best infielder—Jim Fenton.
Best outfielder—Harold Hull.

PIRATES PICK UP HALF GAME BEATING BROOKLYN

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21—(AP)—Pittsburgh closed out the series with the Robins with a 4 to 2 victory today thereby regaining a three and one-half game lead in the National league race as the Giants and Cards, who are tied for second place, were idle.

John Miljus, former Brooklyn player who was purchased in mid-season from Seattle of the Coast league by the Pirates, yielded only five hits against nine gathered off Mcweeny of the Robins. The Corsairs attack was concentrated in the fourth inning when four singles and Mcweeny's wildness allowed four runs to cross the plate.

After one batter had been retired, Grantham singled and reached second safely when Mcweeny made a bad throw on attempted force out on a grounder by Harris. Gooch drove Grantham home with a single, putting Harris at second. Harris romped over the plate on a wild pitch and Gooch went to third. Miljus struck out. Gooch scored as Lloyd Waner beat out a hit. The latter stole second and after Barnhart was given a pass, Paul Waner scored his brother with a single.

A double by Flowers and Butler's single gave the Robins a run in the eighth. Statz reached first on Harris' fumble in the ninth, went to second on an infield out and counted on Hendrick's single.

Lloyd Waner made three singles to set a new modern major league record for one base hits in a season. He tied the old mark of 179 achieved by Johnny Tobin with the Browns in 1921 during yesterday's game. The score:

DOUBLE BY ROLLINGS IN NINTH WINS FOR BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 21—(AP)—Pinch hitting in the last half of the ninth with one on base and two out, Red Rollings drove out a double that enabled Boston to defeat Chicago 3 to 2 in the opening game of the series here today. With one out Connally walked Myer, Todt sacrificed and the stage was set for Rollings. Welzer let Chicago down with six hits, but two fast double plays lifted him out of tight places. The score:

RUTH NEEDS 5 HOMERS IN 7 GAMES FOR RECORD

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—(AP)—Babe Ruth ripped off homer No. 55 today against Pitcher Gibson of the Tigers and now is but four away from his own high standard of 59 established in the 1921 campaign. The Bambino made a pair of singles before producing the round trip wallop which sent the ball into the right center bleachers at the stadium. At this same period during his banner year, he had hit 56 home runs. Seven games are left on the Yanks' current schedule.

INDIANS RALLY IN NINTH TO BEAT ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians took the opening game of the series with the Athletics today by a score of 6-5, winning the game on singles by Fonseca and Hodapp in the ninth inning.

Ty Cobb played his last game of the season with the Athletics today and left for the west tonight. Cobb is going on a hunting trip in Wyoming and announced before leaving that he is undecided about playing next year. The Georgian said Connie Mack wanted him to play again next year and stands ready to renew his contract at the same figures. The score:

THE CLYTIE BEATS THE NORWEGIAN BOAT

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 21—(AP)—America retained possession of the Seawanhaka International Challenge cup today when the Clytie, American six-metre yacht, beat out the Norwegian boat, Noreg, over a 12-mile triangular course off Oyster Bay.

The Yankee craft, sailed by C. Sherman Hoyt, was forced into four races before it disposed of the challenger won the first race, Clytie the second and the third had to be cancelled because of adverse weather after both boats had started away.

The margin of victory today was one minute, six seconds.

The Noreg was entered for the international trophy by a syndicate headed by Crown Prince Olaf of Norway and was sailed by Magnus Konow.

Harvard Varsity Beats Scrubs

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 21—(AP)—Head Coach Arnold Horween's varsity football squad administered a 35 to 0 drubbing to Jimmy Knox's scrubs in the first scrimmage of the season at Harvard today. Using simple running plays in which neither lateral or forward passes played any particular part the Crimson regulars, 38 in all, punched out five touchdowns three goals after touchdown and one safety in an hour and 20 minutes of work.

Buffalo Wins Series

ALBANY, Sept. 21—(AP)—Buffalo, International league champion, won the third and decisive game of the post-season series with Albany, Eastern league pennant winner, 7 to 2, here today.

U. S. Polo Team Wins

MEADOWBROOK CLUB, Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 21—(AP)—The United States Army team defeated the Ramblers 6 to 5 in the third match of United States polo championship tournament here today.

GOLF CLUB NOTES

The big match is on today. Massie Miller will play an eighteen hole match at Shenecossett with Brooks, pro at the New London Country club. Miller will be backed by the members of the Norwich Rotary club while Brooks is the choice of the New London club.

The golf team of the Norwich Rotary club will play a return match with the New London club team at Shenecossett this afternoon. In the last match played at the New London Country club, the New London Rotarians were the victors.

Massie Miller put in a practice round with the professional at the Shenecossett club on Wednesday afternoon. Massie turned in a fair score, being just under the 80 mark. On his return to the Norwich course he played another 18 holes for a 72, getting birdies on the last two holes. He will practice at Shenecossett again this morning.

In the first flight of the Labor day tournament J. D. Moulton became finalist on Tuesday when he defeated J. Ralph Howe 1 up on the 19th hole. Howe had Moulton one up at the seventeenth only to have Moulton even the match on the eighteenth with a par 4. Another four gave him the match on the 19th.

Bertie Gager was in fine form on Tuesday and demonstrated it by winning from Goffe Briggs 2 up in a semi-final match of the second sixteen.

H. B. Ford beat Jim Knott in the semi-finals of the third sixteen 6 and 4 and will meet Frank Davis in the finals, Davis reaching the finals when Ally Brown defaulted.

A. H. Chase beat E. A. Harris 4 and 3 to become finalist in the first beaten eight and will meet the winner of the Hunter-Prentice match.

Dr. Howard D. Newton of Storrs defeated G. Everett Harrington, 4 up and 2 to play in the second flight match of the gold championship of the Willimantic Country club. This places Dr. Newton in the semi-final class. Kenneth N. Hillhouse is to meet the winner of the play-off match between J. Francis Keon and Joseph St. Onge.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

British golfers use up 8,000,000 balls and over 1,000,000 clubs yearly.

Lawn tennis professionals in Great Britain have organized an association.

The world's record high jump for women is claimed for Miss Ethel Catherwood of Saskatoon, who in the recent dominion championships cleared the bar at 5 feet and one-eighth inches.

Should Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston, who swam the Cataline channel, succeed in her plans to swim the Mississippi from St. Louis to New Orleans, the feat will entail a swim of about 1,000 miles.

Additions to the Pasadena Rose bowl will give approximately 30,000 more seats for the next East-West football game to be played there on New Year's day, as the sequel to Pasadena's tournament of roses.

Because of the steady increase in the number of entrants each year for the Western Golf association open championship, it is expected that in the future it will be found advisable to hold district qualifying tour

WESTERLY

SEVERAL SENTENCES GIVEN IN COURT WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 21—The attorney general's docket was taken up Wednesday morning at the county court house at West Kingston by Judge Charles Walsh in the third day of the September term of superior court for Washington county.

Following the disposition of pleadings in the attorney general's docket, the 26 petit jurors were qualified by Judge Walsh and sworn by Clerk Caswell. Seven members of the panel then appeared before the rail to claim exemption from jury duty, three of the number being Westerly men.

Alonzo Lenyon, 18, colored, of Hartford changed his plea of not guilty previously made to larceny of a $1,000 diamond ring from Mrs. Isabelle Dauchy of Charlestown, R. I., to one of nolo, just previous to the adjournment of court for the day. Judge Walsh said that he did not like the lying attitude of the accused and sentenced him to one year in Providence county jail.

Other matters on the attorney general's docket were disposed of as follows:

James Antonelle of Warwick, indicted on a charge of offering to bribe a member of the state police, pleaded nolo. He was given a deferred sentence, and gave his personal recognizance in the sum of $1,000.

Arthur Hazard of Providence was charged with forging a check. He withdrew his former plea of not guilty and pleaded nolo. Hazard had been confined in jail for three months, and upon the recommendation of the state's attorney that he make restitution of $11.73, he was given a deferred sentence. The bail was fixed at $2,000.

In the case of State vs. Arthur R. Day, indicted on a breaking and entering and larceny charge, Day entered a plea of nolo and the case was continued for sentence, Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell furnishing surety in the sum of $100.

Robert A. Kamm who was before the court on a similar charge, pleaded not guilty, and the case was continued until tomorrow morning. Bail was furnished in the sum of $3,000, with Asa Church of Charlestown as surety.

Elmer H. Fagan of East Greenwich, indicted for burglary, and who pleaded not guilty yesterday, pleaded nolo this morning, and the charge was amended to read one of "breaking, entering and larceny." The judge said that he would take the chance of giving the boy this opportunity to make good, and warned him that if brought before the court again on any offense he would be given five years. Bail was fixed at $1,000.

In the appeal case of Angelo Murano, charged with assault on George Cook of Westerly, the respondent was given a deferred sentence. Bail was fixed in the sum of $500.

The case of Karl Martin, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was continued to the November session on the understanding that there would be no trial at that time, and the defendant would make his plea.

In the case of Mary B. Johnson, charged with larceny, a plea of nolo was entered through her counsel, and she was given a deferred sentence.

In the cases of Lester E. Johnson, both charging larceny, they were continued to the November session for sentence. Judge Walsh warned the defendant to pay a fine of $50 in each case and costs imposed in the district court by that time or he would give him six months.

Herman Hedman, who was sentenced to 10 days in Providence county jail from the Third district court for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, pleaded guilty. The judge imposed a sentence of 10 days in Providence county jail.

The petit jurors were then excused to report at the Kingston court house on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock daylight saving time, when two cases are to be heard on the criminal docket.

Sylvia Perry, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Perry of 4 Margin street, on Tuesday afternoon darted out into the road on Beach street, and was struck and knocked down by the automobile driven by Alexander Pasetti of 62 Ledward avenue. The child's parents and police absolved the driver from all blame. The girl was attended at her home by Dr. John E. Ruisi who was passing at the time.

Two large motor bus loads of members of Harold W. Merrill post, No. 16, American legion, Abial B. Brown, commander, left town this afternoon shortly after 5:3 o'clock, together with a number of private autos bound for Attleboro, Mass. The legionnaires, to the number of more than 50, were returning a visit of the Attleboro post made to Westerly earlier in the year. The committee in charge of the Attleboro drive, which included a campaign for extolling the advantages of Westerly, consisted of Past Legion Commander George J. Kemp, Edward W. Smith and James Rose.

Rear Admiral Herbert O. Dunn, U. S. N., retired, of Haversham, is the donor of a stained glass memorial window, which is to be dedicated Sunday morning at Calvary Baptist church. The window is in memory of the donor's parents, Deacon and Mrs. Edward M. Dunn. The Rev. Lewis A. Walker, D. D., pastor of the church, is to conduct the dedicatory service at 11:30 o'clock.

The memorial is a fitting tribute to the long and faithful service of Calvary church's first deacon and his wife. Special invitations to attend the service have been extended to the Westerly grange, the W. C. T. U and the D. A. R., organizations with which Deacon and Mrs. Dunn were affiliated.

This afternoon at River Bend cemetery were conducted the burial services for Miss Georgia Pierce, formerly of Westerly, and whose death occured in New York city last Sunday. Miss Pierce was a resident of New London 25 years, being a daughter of the late Mr and Mrs. Edgar Pierce. Miss Pierce was employed 20 years by the McClure Publishing company, New York, but was compelled to abandon active labor five years ago because of ill health. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Fred Chapman, of Quincy, Mass., and by a brother, Courtland Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and an uncle, Charles Pierce, of Westerly.

When Mrs. Julia Trefes, wife of Harry Trefes, residing at 11 Moss street, Pawcatuck, felt the floors in her upstairs apartment growing warmer with smoke filtering in about 9 p. m. Tuesday, she realized that the house was on fire. Her husband was away and six children were asleep in bed, the oldest 14 years and the youngest about 7 years. Taking the youngest, she marshalled the others safely to the street.

A passerby saw smoke issuing from a cellar window on the south side of the house and a fire whistle alarm was turned in from Box. No. 52, Moss and West Broad streets. Well directed streams of water prevented the flames from creeping into the partitions and up the side walls. While men were left to watch for any blaze which might appear in partitions the recall was sounded at 10:30 p. m.

The house is owned by Charles Vardillos, whose family occupies the first floor. Damage of nearly a thousand dollars was reported as covered by insurance.

Mrs. Thomas P. Nichols returned to her home Tuesday from a short visit to Holyoke, Mass., and Colchester, Conn.

C. Wan T. Engert returning from a visit to Waukapaug, left Tuesday for New York.

Mrs. Norman Soules of Norwich is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fancher.

Newell Williams of Pawcatuck has resigned as pianist at the Lyric theater in Westerly and will go to Allentown, Pa., to attend an organ school. He will be succeeded by John Getchell.

Following several month's visit with relatives and friends in Scotland, Miss Mary Ann Lawrence sailed last Saturday from England on her return to her home in Westerly.

After closing her Watch Hill cottage, Neowan, Mrs. W. F. M. Sowers left Tuesday to return to her home in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edison DuBarry, returned Tuesday to Pawcatuck by auto from Hough's Neck, Mass., where they have had a cottage for the summer season. The coming week they will leave for a vaudeville theatrical engagement in the Girard theater in Philadelphia, en route to the south.

Members attending the adjourned session of the dinner meeting last week were Chairman Kingsley of the first voting district; Henry Clarke, Dr. John M. Oconnell and Charles Ruisi, (absentees, Mrs. William C. Clarke, Charles D. Maxson and Mrs. Jennie Nichols); from the second voting district, Mrs. Isabelle C. Chapman, C. Palmer Chapman, Arthur Facquelli, Walter S. Price and Clarence A. Vars, (absentees, Elisha C. Burdick and Mrs. Charlotte P. Stanton.)

As the session was held behind closed doors, at the conclusion, Chairman Kingsley said he had nothing to give out. It was learned, however, that not all possible members of the town council had replied to letters asking them if they were candidates for reelection.

A delegation was present consisting of Capt. Beppo Boumeout, Thomas L. Breen and M. Walter Flynn, Jr., representing the fair play committee. The names presented by them, it was agreed, should not be made public at this time. The next committee meeting will be held Thursday evening next when the caucus day will be set and at which time it was announced the committee will receive additional names, as suggested for town officers.

A slate that has been named with the backing of some prominent business men is Isaac G. Smith, a present councilman, Horace E. Burdick of Avondale, Joseph Frasier, retired business man, W. E. Burk, former member of the town committee, Frank H. Crandall, of district No. 6, James O. Lynch, contractor and Clifford T. Barber, grocer, of Potter Hill.

BOSTON ARCHITECT CHOICE TO DESIGN NEW FIRE STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 21—George Ernest Robinson of Boston was chosen architect, at a full meeting of the new central fire station committee of the Westerly fire district held in the Westerly police station tonight. Clifford W. Campbell was chairman, Louis J. Rossi, secretary, was instructed to write Architect Robinson asking him to set a date to meet the Westerly fire district committee, that as much progress as possible can be made in replacing the Westerly fire station on Union street, burned in the fire of April 3 last.

The fire district committee inadvertently locked themselves in the police station and some of the members had to crawl out of the back way and release the other members.

HANOVER

Frederick A. Barrows of Hyde Park, Boston, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Dwight C. Stone, returned home last Thursday. He was accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. Stone, that they might be present at the wedding of his daughter, Ethel Starr Barrows and Edwin Albert Hamilton, of Somerville, Mass., at the Barrows home Friday evening. Mr. Stone performed the ceremony.

Miss Jean C. Peck went to South Hadley, Mass., Monday to begin her studies at Mount Holyoke college. Two prospective students of the college drove up with her, her sister, Miss Anna and Miss Eunice Lebourveau.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Alexander of Fullertown were in Hartford Monday to visit their nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hough. Friends of Mrs. Hough are pleased to learn that she is somewhat improved in health, after spending three months in the hospital.

Deacon and Mrs. William S. Lee and their daughter Dorothy left at daybreak Tuesday for a tour among the Vermont mountains. Storrs Lee went with them as far as Middlebury, and will resume his studies at Middlebury college, where he has been doing excellent work during the past three years.

Rev. Mr. Stone began a series of four sermons on Manliness at the Congregational church Sunday morning. The Church school was well attended, and an increased attendance at Y. P. S. C. E. indicated work upon the part of the leader, Miss Gladys Crombie, as well as the stimulus resulting from the gathering of the Union at Norwich Town Saturday evening at which the Hanover society was well represented.

On account of the conference with the Pachaug church this week the Missionary society omitted its meeting, until next week Wednesday. The leader will be Mrs. Henry A. Hazen, and the hostesses, Misses Caroline and Jane Gallup.

Lumber is arriving for the new store to be erected by Henry Smith. It looks as though the building were to be pushed to a speedy completion, and can be occupied before cold weather sets in.

Some local people whom business has kept from taking a vacation during the weeks of the year supposed to be warm, are considering a vacation trip to Florida shortly.

A bandit stopped A. M Utt, of Springfield, Ill., late at night and ordered him to "stick 'em up." Utt has only one arm, but put that up and chided the bandit. "Ain't you ashamed to rob a one-armed man?" asked Utt. "I never was so mortified in my life," the thug answered, "but business is business."

EXHIBITS AT BROOKLYN FAIR THIS YEAR ATTRACTING WIDE ATTENTION

(Special to The Bulletin).

BROOKLYN, Conn., Sept. 21.—Out of the highways and by-ways of this countryside there poured a stream of humanity today to give Brooklyn its greatest day of the year and to afford the thousands who came their annual opportunity to visit the famous Brooklyn fair, the exhibition of the Windham County Agricultural society.

Scenes of late September days for generations past were re-enacted. The attendance appeared to approximate the high records of the past. An ideal day largely contributed to this end, for be the fair as good as it may and no matter how great its appeal, bad weather does affect the attendance.

It may be said that the Brooklyn fair this year is a good fair. It is not materially different in any of its outstanding aspects than it has been for a decade. It has its usually fine displays in all departments, though the cattle and poultry entries this year are numerically smaller than in years that have gone. This is largely due to the fact that the agricultural society is this year for the first time showing only tested cattle and poultry.

There were approximately 60 head of cattle in the pens at the show today, all of them tested animals and the majority splendid examples from the fine herds that are to be found on the farms of the county. Wolcott Witter, who has been familiar with the fair for more than half a century, and for many years in charge of placing the cattle for exhibition, recalled today that he has in the past counted as high at 325 head at the fair. However, this year's showing of tested animals was regarded by the fair management as very satisfactory, the restrictions on untested cattle being shown considered, and confidence expressed that many more tested herds will be on display next year.

The general atmosphere of today's fair was that of an Old Home day. On every side an observer might witness the happy greetings exchanged between people who seldom see each other except at this fair. And there was a holiday air about the crowds, who found plenty to interest them along the midway, from which, it may be mentioned, that shyster games and devices have long since been banished. State officers from the Danielson barracks were on hand to see that the gambling laws of the state were not flaunted, but there was little along this line to claim their attention.

Four of the granges of the county, Brooklyn, Canterbury, Plainfield and Senexet of Woodstock, have contributed most worthily to the impressiveness of the exhibits in the main exhibition building. In fact, the grange displays rather overshadow the individual displays of the various products of the farms and skilled work of those who live upon them. These grange displays include splendid assortments of vegetables, dairy products, preserves, fruits, flowers, fancy work and a myriad other things immediately suggesting to one who inspects them the innumerable activities of those who are patrons of husbandry and there enviable independence of their less fortunate brethern in hundreds of activities of life. Contemplating these really splendid grange displays one is at least tempted with a desire to live in the sphere of life that makes them possible.

Two of the granges, Brooklyn and Cantrebury, appear to have hit upon a similar idea in developing their displays. The Brooklyn section with cleverly worked out use of tiny covered wagons and toy trains and locomotives and motor cars and trucks and other devices interesting illustrate what is termed "The Evolution of Science and Agriculture" from the days back in 1810, when the westward movement was getting underway, down to 1927, the period from the oxdrawn covered wagons and old plow shares down to this day of farming with tractors and other power-operated devices and of farms with electrically lighted buildings, telephones, radios and other aids to comfort and happiness. This idea is very well worked out by Brooklyn grange, which has a wonderful display of farm products of all kinds.

Likewise, Canterbury grange works out its "Progress of Travel" over the period from 1827 to 1927. Here, too one is taken back to the days of "Westward Ho" and the little panorama that has been arranged carries one from the growing east across the plains and over the Great Divide to California's golden shores. While the development of a century is made outstanding in this display, the grange showing of farm-grown and farm-made things, and they are many and all high class, is made the chief part of the exhibit.

Senexet grange of Woodstock, always novel and always good, has a grand showing of fruits, flowers, pastry, vegetables, fancy work, preserves and many other things this year. The setting for this is a roadside inn such as one encounters everywhere on a motoring trip, and it is worked out in very considerable detail. It's very good.

Plainfield grange makes a high class showing for itself and the town it represents. Here, too, is an impressive bid for a place in the sun of agricultural honor. The detail of this display, as to products of one kind and another, is very similar, generally, to that of the town granges, and offers for the judges an additional burden in awarding the special prizes offered for grange displays. An aeroplane, in minature, attracts attention ni the Plainfield section.

Fruit displays at the fair this year are limited, but high grade. Some especially fine McIntosh apples, graded and packed as for shipment, are shown by H. B. Buell of Eastford, a well known grower and producer of as fine apples as grow in America.

The Danielson division of the Eastern Connecticut Power company has a section in the exhibition building for the showing of electrical and other devices. Manager William Sangster and a force of assistants are in charge of this booth.

A display that attracted more than average attention was of vegetables, in a score of varieties, and all grown by boys under 16 years of age. Every specimen was of the finest, an evidence that a generation is coming along that will keep alive and advancing the county's agricultural reputation. Adrian and Vincent Espinosa, of East Brooklyn, were the outstanding exhibitors in this boys' vegetable section

The Windham County Farmers' association has a booth at the fair for the distribution of literature and such information pertaining to agricultural work as one may happen to seek.

Much of the outdoor space between the main entrance to the grounds and the beginning of the midway is given over to an automobile show this year. There are so many new and handsome cars out there that one walks away feeling a better before I am tempted into investing in the intriguing contraptions.

A group of Danielson Boy Scouts, in charge of Scoutmaster Sidney P. Marland, pitched a tent on the grounds today. They wore their scout suits and were prepared to demonstrate first aid work to the interested or to those who might come to need it.

Down in the cattle sheds many an appraising eye looked over the fine animals shown there. Everill James of the Echo Valley farm on the Green Hollow road had an entry of 21 head from his fine herd of pure-bred Ayshires, all fine, sleek animals, the list headed by the grand herd sire Echo Valley Farm Imperial. Freeman Marrotte also had three handsome Ayshires on display. Anthony Wallow of the Wauregan road showed a pen of six Jersey calves, some Jersey yearlings, a Holstein cow and a bull, a total of 16 head. Other exhibitors were Edward Moran of the Bush Hill farm, West Brooklyn, showing Holstein-Ayshires; the Meadowbrook farm, Brooklyn, with a herd of Jerseys. H. A. Tibbetts of Brooklyn had the only sheep entries.

The outstanding feature of the poultry exhibit was that of Amasa Pierce's Squaw Rocks farm. Here were shown 500 3-day old Rhode Island Red chicks, as lively and chirpy a lot as one could imagine. Along with them was ranged a variety of chick and poultry feeds, these shown by The Kennedy corporation of Danielson.

E. Newton Searls of Pomfret had a number of pens in the poultry section. Mr. Searls is one of the leading poultry raisers in the eastern section of the country. He is showing R. I. Reds. George Baker exhibits barred rocks, James H. Nuttall S. C. Rhode Island Reds and Plymouth Rocks. Fred Wood has entries of White Rocks, White Plymouth Rocks, R. I. Reds and American Dominique. Howard White is showing R. I. Reds.

Adrian Espinosa has S. C. R. I. Reds. Joseph Hopkins, with a number of entries, includes black Jersey giants, buff leghorns, white wyandottes, barred rocks. L. Langevin shows buff orpingtons and anconas. Anthony Wallow shows the strange Japanese Silkas.

Clifford Nagle exhibits Toulouse geese, a pair of magnificient bronze turkeys and guinea hens. Morris Nuttall has Pekin ducks and bantams on display. F. B. Payne shows white Leghorns, among others. Grace L. Dawley has entries of blue Andalusians, Black aucona, white leghorns, brown leghorns, buff orpingtons and R. I. Reds. John Stalzer has barred rocks and S. C. R. I. Reds. Margaret Lapsley shows black giants and R. I. Reds.

All day today women crowded into the woman's building, filled with fine displays of needlecraft and examples of the culinary art. This feature of the fair did not attract many men, but proved particularly appealing to the women.

There was, of course, the usual diversions to keep the crowds intent on the holiday nature of the day. Band music, vaudeville and the like all added to making the fair constantly entertaining.

This afternoon at 2.30, the track became the center of attraction, the crowd filling the grandstand and overflowing along the rails on the stretch. There are 27 race horses at the fair this year, an unusually large number for Brooklyn. This afternoon's card called for two races, the free for all and the 2.30 trot or pace.

There were three races this afternoon, one of them the 2.20 class, trot or pace, remaining unfinished after five heats and will be concluded Thursday afternoon. J. Carl Witter of Danielson acted as starter and the following judges and timers were in the stands: Dr. F. W. Baldwin of Putnam, Dr. F. W. Page of Danielson Dr. James Hutchins of Abington, Samuel Roberts of Webster, J. Otis Fox of Putnam and George Miller of Putnam.

This illustration shows a racing car of 2 years ago, compared with a modern racer of one-fourth the piston displacement, and twice the speed, reliability and endurance

ESSEX truly follows . . . Racing Car Development

Thus There is Greater Power—Greater Reliability—More Economy And For The Same Reason Every Part is Engineered to Perfectly Balance Every Other Part

Twenty years ago racing cars were twice as heavy and were powered by motors four times as large as the racing car of today. Yet they were only half as fast and had nothing like the endurance of the present day car.

Engineers learned that big motors did not mean greater power. Faster and more enduring motors were found in the smaller high-compression type. And then to make full use of the motor development, the chassis throughout had to be redesigned. Every part had to be engineered in perfect balance to every other part.

Since every racing car is virtually hand made, and cost is no object, these things offered no obstacle.

But such practice is not customary in building stock automobiles. To save costs many makers use the same axle, transmission, clutch and motor.

Essex, however, follows racing car practice. Its Super-Six motor develops more than 2½ times the power its size ordinarily rates it. It converts waste heat to power and gives economy in fuel and oil that is astounding.

The distinction, however, is not limited to the motor. Its chassis is in true balance in every part. Clutch, transmission, axles and frame are especially engineered to make a perfect unit. This permits compactness and adds 15% to the length of the body without extending the body beyond the rear axle.

This unity of construction assures added advantage in every particular of performance, reliability, comfort, safety and economy.

SELESNITSKY HEARING, NEW LONDON, SET FOR 27TH BY CITY MANAGER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 21—City Manager William A. Holt today ordered that the hearing of Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky, charged with conduct unbecoming an officer, take place at the office of the city manager, municipal building, next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. With the edict of the city manager it was revealed that it had been intended to quash the complaint against Selesnitsky making an apology to Whiteside, but another alleged act of indiscretion by Selesnitsky caused the city manager to order the hearing. City Manager Holt has had in his possession the complaint of Whiteside several weeks and the announcement that the hearing would be held came as a big surprise. Selesnitsky and Whiteside were informed of the date of the hearing this afternoon and were instructed to have their witnesses with them when they present themselves at the hearing. The complaint specifically recites four counts against the officer.

About two months ago and when Selesnitsky was performing duty at Ocean beach he was taken to task by Whiteside, for the alleged interference by Selesnitsky with Whiteside's business. The altercation resulted in Whiteside being arrested on a charge of breach of the peace by Selesnitsky. The next day in the police court Whiteside was found guilty. It was after the court trial that Whiteside preferred his charges. Selesnitsky was compelled to undergo an operation a day or two after the court trial and Whiteside refrained from making formal complaint against the officer until Selesnitsky had returned to duty. Whiteside claimed that Selesnitsky favored certain concession proprietors by allowing autoists to park on Stuart avenue, contrary to city law, while purchases were made, but also contended that if a patron of the Whiteside store desired to park in restricted area the autoist was either ordered into court or was reprimanded. The controversy resulted, it is claimed, in Selesnitsky using harsh language to Whiteside and then arresting him. After formal charges had been preferred against the officer, nothing was done in the way of ordering a hearing, but instead, it was planned that Selesnitsky tender an apology to Whiteside. Knowing that the apology would be accepted, it was supposed that the matter was a thing of the past. However, yesterday Constable Chester H. Brigham, of Waterford, was driving through Bank street and at the corner of Howard street, where Selesnitsky was perfroming traffic duty, Brigham was given a signal to stop that pedestrians might cross the street. Where Brigham brought his auto a stop displeased Selesnitsky and he is said to have used harsh language to the Waterford constable. When Brigham received a signal to proceed he drove to a point beside the curb and then returned to Selesnitsky to explain the reason he stopped the auto as he did. He claims he would not displease a fellow-officer intentionally. When Brigham attempted to explain his act to Selesnitsky, the latter, it is claimed by Brigham, attacked the constable with another flow of abuse. Brigham then went to the municipal building to lay the facts before City Manager Holt, but as the latter was absent from the city he did not do so. The city manager was acquainted with the facts of the incident this morning. Brigham said that he was not making a charge against Selesnitsky, but he believed it proper for the city manager to be acquainted with the temperament of Selesnitsky, inasmuch as the officer is a public servant and constantly coming in contact with the public. It was after Brigham's statement had been heard by City Manager Holt that the city's head decided to go through with the hearing of charges, as preferred by Whiteside.

The body of Cecil T. Cunningham, submarine base sailor, who committed suicide last Sunday night by inhaling gas at 41 Federal street, presumably because of a love affair, was forwarded today to Fayetteville, Tenn., at the request of J. R. Cunningham, father of the sailor.

The first death from infantile paralysis since cases have been reported in New London and vicinity two weeks ago, occurred last night when John Morris, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morris, of George street, Groton, died at the residence of the child's parents. The boy had been ill but a few days and was one of about a dozen children to be stricken with the malady in New London and Groton. The funeral was held this afternoon with burial in St. [illegible]'s cemetery.

William J. Easterly, 41 Madison street, Hartford, came to New London last night and recovered an automobile stolen in Hartford several months ago. Easterly went to police headquarters and displayed a letter of identification from Chief of Police Garrett Farrell, Hartford, so that he could get possession of his car. The auto was recovered in this city where it had been abandoned. Since its recovery, the auto has been stored in a garage.

The driver of a milk truck made complaint to the police today that bottles of milk that are left in the doorway of the store of Jacob Lazerow, Blackhall street, were being stolen practically every morning. Patrolman George Perkins was assigned to the complaint and when he saw John Davey, 67 Blackhall street, go to the store entrance and take a bottle, Davey was arrested. He said that he had been given permission by Lazerow to take the milk because the store was not open when Davey went to his work. Davey was taken to Lazerow's house and the store proprietor corroborated Davey's statement. The thief was not detected, but probably will be if he continues stealing the milk.

Kenneth C. Larsen, one day old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Larsen, 109 Willetts avenue, died last night at the Home Memorial hospital.

Morris Rogoff, station 5, Waterford, parked his automobile in front of the Garde theatre last night and while he was away a thief stole a spare tire, tube and flashlight. The thief also tampered with the engine, presumably in an attempt to start the car.

Mrs. George Erickson, of Groton, and Harry Mack and infant son, 154 Green street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The old Reeves building on Bank street, next south of the customs house, is being demolished today, one of a half dozen structures that have been allowed to decay till they have become unsightly and a menace. The building has been unoccupied of late. It was formerly part of the estate of Shadrach Reeves, then passed into the ownership of Frederick W. Mercer, who bought it with the idea of erecting a modern building on the site. Later he abandoned that idea and sold it as it stood. Since then the property has degenerated and now is being demolished. There were formerly some four stores in the building, which was a landmark in the city. One of the other condemned buildings has been demolished, the Daly place on Atlantic street, and others condemned will follow. All the buildings were fire menaces, the sleeping places of vagrants and liable to be burned through carelessness or design.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY HEADED BY ERNEST E. ROGERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 21—The New London Historical society held its annual meeting in this city yesterday afternoon when the principal business transacted was the election of officers. The choice of the meeting was as follows: President, Ernest E. Rogers; vice presidents, George S. Palmer, Christopher L. Avery of Groton and Daniel I. Phillips of Jewett City; secretary, Miss Elizabeth Gorton; treasurer, Winthrop Trust company.

COMING CITY ELECTION AROUSES SLIGHT INTEREST

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 21—The city election has been called for next Monday when two members of the city council will be elected from four candidates, and members of the board of school visitors will also be chosen. The candidates for councilor are Mrs. Grace Bitgood, Lucius E. Whiton, William C. Fox and Cornelius D. Twomey. All were voted for at the election two weeks ago, but no one had a majority vote. There is very little interest manifested in the election and an even smaller vote than was cast two weeks ago is anticipated. Rosemary O. Anderson and Philip Z. Hankey, candidates for the school board, will both be elected.

Sidewalks about the city are being patched with gravel and coal tar, the preparation known as cold patch.

Henry T. Wells, 245 Crystal avenue, was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital tonight and within a day or two will be operated upon, the result being problematical. Mr. Wells, who is 85, suffered a fall a year ago, receiving a fractured leg. Recently gangrene of the foot developed and that infection has created a condition that makes necessary amputation of a portion of the limb, if his life is to be spared.

Commissioner of Motor Vheeiles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Pete Peterson, 59 Willetts avenue; James B. Smith, United States Coast Guard academy; Leo Democh, 5 State street, John R. Wall, 81 Hempstead street and Walter Muraski, submarine base. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered suspended the right to operate of William J. Lawn, 63 Jay street. Lawn has been driving an automobile although he has no license to do so.

New London's police force is crippled tonight for two officers were unable to perform patrol duty because of indisposition, Officer Patrick Sheehan and Officer Lawrence Fardy, the latter having been released from Lawrence-Memorial hospital today.

Patrolman George Labous, 19 Grand street; Mrs. Julia Gaudett, Waterford; Mrs. H. R. Cole, 60 Federal street, patients at Home Memorial hospital were discharged today.

The smouldering fire reported to have been discovered on the upper floor of the Plaut-Cadden building on Bank street Tuesday morning, was not in the building where the Plaut-Cadden store is, it is stated, but was in a building in the rear.

BURIAL OF CORNELIUS TOBIN IN CEMETERY AT NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre.

Monte Blue again wins the unanimous verdict of the crowd in his newest picture, "One Round Hogan," which closes tonight at the Breed theatre. Once before he played a fighting Irishman. That was in "Hogan's Alley." Since then a big array of characters have been portrayed by the virile young westerner. Now he is again a Hogan, son of an ex-champion heavyweight, played by the always popular Jim Jeffries. Having the cleverness to knock out all comers in one round, the youth wins the title of "One Round Hogan." His best girl does not know that he is a fighter, and urges him to coax her brother to get out of the profession. Later, by machinations of a crooked manager, the brother is killed and "One Round Hogan" is tried for manslaughter. Though he is acquitted, the girl believes him guilty, until the confession of an embittered outsider, clears the air. Hogan then whips the manager and wins the lady. "One Round Hogan" is big, human, clean and exciting. It is everywhere acclaimed as Blue's roughneck best.

"Early to Wed" is the added feature on this bill. It is from the pen of Evelyn Campbell and features Matt Moore, Kathryn Perry and Zasu Pitts.

Many a newly married couple could profit from the moral conveyed subtly by this picture. It teaches the wife not to be a nagger, but to be helpful to her husband; and the husband, that it is disastrous to bluff his way through life by living beyond his means.

Burton's Agency Sells Another.

Theodore Northdorft has sold his seven room house on Mohegan Hill in the town of Montville to Joseph and Addie Pieretti, who will occupy it for their home. The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

New England Industries

HATS

(Note: The information, on which this article, issued by the research department of the New England council, is based, was obtained by the domestic commerce division, United States department of commerce, through an industrial survey of New England conducted in co-operation with the New England council. The department of commerce is now preparing for publication a full report of this industry which will contain additional information of practical value to all New England business men.)

Nearly a third of the country's fur felt hats are produced in New England. Of hats and caps other than fur felt, wool felt, or straw, 5.5 per cent are made here, as are 13 per cent of the nation's untrimmed straws for men, women, and children. The survey, conducted by the United States department of commerce and the New England council, considers the hat industry as divided in these groups.

The average period of operation of the fur felt hat plants is 24 years, and under present management 16 years; for the straw hat group 36 and 24 years; and for the miscellaneous group 23 years and 12. Changes in management have been fewest in the hats and caps group and greatest in the straw hat group. The reasons given for locating in New England were for the fur felt group labor conditions, accessible raw materials, and nearness of market.

The fluctuation in demand for straw hats is a grave problem in that industry, and no supplementary products or method for uniform employment have yet been devised. A few fur felt hat concerns manufacture hat bodies in the rough during slack periods. The variation in average number of employes between maximum and minimum periods of 1923 was 20 per cent for the felt branch, 120 per cent for the straw hat branch, and 10 per cent for the hat and cap group.

In 1925 the figures were 14 per cent, 122 per cent, and 22 per cent, respectively.

The chief raw materials for fur felt hats are hatters' fur, shellac, and dyes, most of these coming from outside New England. Straw braid comes mostly from sources outside the United States, and hat bodies are chiefly bought outside New England. Fur is usually purchased in Australia, Italy or other European countries.

Incentive wage methods are applied to 77 per cent of workers in the fur felt plants, and to 72 per cent in the straw hat factories. In the hat and cap group virtually every concern is using such methods, but the average of workers per plant receiving such payment is only 28 per cent.

Sale of a major part of products outside this area is reported by practically all the companies in the fur felt and straw group, New England sales being 14 per cent in the former and 22 per cent in the latter. The other group sells most of its product in this section.

Sales for the fur felt and hat and cap group have been steadily upward since 1921. Total sales of straws have declined since 1923, due to competition from other sections, principally from foreign companies. One manufacturer said that straw hats were imported from Italy and other European countries at prices that New England concerns could not meet. In the other two groups, increases were reported due to the development of new products, extension of sales territories and better selling methods.

The average of trademarked or branded goods in the fur felt group is 51 per cent, in the hat and cap group 71 per cent, and is unreported in the straw group. The principal channel of distribution for straws is the commission agent; in the fur felt group a majority of concerns sell to the wholesaler or jobber. Two firms that produce fur felt hats reported exports averaging 11 per cent of total sales in 1921, 26 per cent in 1922, 11 per cent in 1923, and 2 per cent in 1924 and 1925.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

Starting today for a three day run the Palace offers a variety combination stage and screen entertainment that will surpass anything seen for many a day. Five big acts of vaudeville have been booked, the feature headline act being Step This Way, a six people song and dance revue with beautiful settings and gorgeous costumes. Jones and Marsh two comedians in an offering of laugh bits. Raymond Barrett and company, a domestic skit called Too Much Married Life. Hall and Moore a man and woman team of songs and chatter. The two Martelles in a sensational offering Whirling Around. The screen feature W. C. Fields in Running Wild is a new kind of a Fields from what you have seen before. The former stage comedian has never appeared to better advantage than he does in this true-to-life characterization of a timid soul who changes his entire outlook on life when a stage hypnotist convinces him that he has become a "roaring lion!" You will thoroughly enjoy this picture, because it is human. The hero is the sort of a brow-beaten clerk and henpecked husband you meet day in and day out. As the title writer puts it, he is only the head of his family on the income tax blank. Even at home, a man's rightful castle, the poor fool is made to feel as small as a pin head. Wifey jumps on him, step-son pulls his leg, the dog bites it and—well as the philosopher has it, life is sad. A very interesting story as well as a very funny angle and we feel from reports of this picture wherever it played, it is a riot.

Broadway Theater

The Broadway continues to interest the movie goers of Norwich and is in a class by itself for presentation. The new booth equipment projects every detail of the picture showing every trick that is meant to be portrayed.

Commencing today for the next three days, one of the biggest hits New York has seen in many a day, now comes to Norwich in pictures. Alias the Deacon with Jean Hersholt, June Marlowe and Ralph Graves. The story is of a girl who ran away from home in a box car disguised as a boy. She meets with several hoboes in the car who after exposing her identity try to take advantage of her. She is saved by one of the men who grabs her and leaps from the moving train. The Deacon a card shark, saves her from many a bad situation and you will love him right from the start. It's big and was considered the best bet for the Roxy theater in New York, who held the picture over for the second week.

The management is pleased to announce that they have booked the picture millions of people all over the country have been waiting to see, The Rough Riders, a Victor Fleming production, with Noah Beery, Mary Astor, George Bancroft, Charles Farrell, Frank Hopper and Charles Emmett Mack. Every man, woman and child remembers hearing about the famous Rough Riders of the Battleship Maine. The battle of San Juan Hill. This one you'll remember for a long time.

ASHFORD

Frank Greene has sold his timber lot. The frame for the new store in Warrenville is being sawed out.

There are complaints about here, about potatoes rotting.

Mr. Wolmar and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Grant of Willimantic and Rev. F. B. Smith, of New York, were at Grant's grove Thursday afternoon. A lunch of roasted corn, frankfurts, cake and pie was enjoyed by all.

Several large trucks are hauling crushed stone from Abington to Warrenville, for new bridges on the state road.

An Indian mirror, made of a thin slab of highly-polished black stone, with one end narrowed to form a convenient handle, has just been discovered near Hazleton, British Columbia, by an archaeological expedition of the Canadian government. The mirror was found in the prehistoric part of an ancient Gitsan Indian village site, Dr. Harlan I. Smith, Canadian archaeologist, says in a communication to Science Service.

NOANK

MEAN TRICK WITH LIGHT MAY CAUSE BAD ACCIDENT

A mystery light is fooling everybody in the village. It is a young fellow with a high powered light stand on the overhead bridge that leads to Groton Long Point and shining it into the eyes of Flagman William Wilcox at the railroad crossing on East Main street. Several times Wilcox was out to flag a train, but found out it is the light instead of a locomotive headlight. The joke held up a line of automobiles. Night cop Elmer Baker was called from his beat to hunt the man who is doing the mean trick. He put chase after him but could not catch him for he was too fast a runner. The cop stayed around for three hours but the fellow did not show up again. This light stunt has been going on for the last three nights. The man also shines the power light into windows of different houses around town. Frank Pray was coming home one night from New London at midnight, driving his car. He got near his home at West View. The light was in his eyes, but at first he thought it was another car. The fellow told him to stop, but he could not see the road ahead on account of the light. The fellow was 5 feet, 11 inches tall, weighs 180 pounds, and wore dark clothes. When young Pray came back, the man was out of sight in the near-by woods. Crossing-tender Wilcox says sometimes, as an express is coming from Boston and the light is being thrown from the west automobile drivers will think that a train is coming from the west and it might mean a bad accident, two lights going at once. The crossing has no gates or bell to tell when a train is coming.

Mrs. Everett Ducan and son, Benjamin, of Chelsea, are visiting Mrs. Susan Morgan.

The local fire department has started its series of checker games. Rollin Rathbun and Alden Brocky, the two best players of the company were picked out of 30 men to go up to the mill town of Montville Tuesday night by automobile to take on two well known checker players of the Montville Hose company, beating everything in town, Doc. Brenner and Earl Bassham. The room was packed to see the men in action. Rathbun, from the village by the sea, won two out of three matches from Hoseman Brenner; once the latter did not get across the board to the king row. The crowd gave Rathbun a big hand for his playing. Next was Never Lose Earl Brassham, the Montville smoke-eater, against A. Brocky, the best player from the village fire company. The matches were close. Brocky won the first and Brassham the second. Some loud cheering was heard when Brasshaw won. The last match was a tie, and was not played off. Sam Carson was referee. Steward G. Bloomer gave them a round of clam chowder with coffee and cake. Noank fire fighters won the first game of the series and the next will be played in the fishing village next week. The two players of the Hose company said the next time will be different, but Rathbun said, "Bring them on!"

Noank Crushers, football team, was called to their club rooms on East Main street for a blackboard talk by Coach John Bracci and to talk over plans for the coming season. The village is going to see the best and strongest team in years. Coach Bracci has some ex-college men on the team: Big Ed Murray of St. John's college, Red Blake of Pittsburgh college will be in the backfield. The boys have not forgotten the bad trimming the Speed Boys from the paper mill of Jewett City gave them last year. A few days ago in the Morning Bulletin they wanted to play the crushers for the first game, but Coach Bracci said his men of the gridiron could not make it then, but let the manager of the Speed Boys keep an open date for them. A captain and manager will be elected the next meeting night.

The Clark Tea garden has closed for the year, after the best season since the tea room was opened four years ago. Over 15,000 persons paid a visit there during the summer. Some came from the Golden State, California, and from as far east as Maine and Cape Cod and autos from 17 different states to see the white house with pretty flowers around it and to sit under a big yellow umbrella to look across the water as far as Block Island. Mr. Clark said that ex-lightweight champion of the world, Benny Leonard, was there and such people as J. P. Morgan. A traffic cop was kept on duty to tell where to park. Mr. Clark and his partner, Jerry Bacon, will spend the winter in Cuba.

Cubby Digs a Retreat

A hole you choose not to reside in May be a handy place to hide in.
—Cubby the Bear.

There was no getting Cubby down out of his favorite tree. He just wouldn't come down while any one was around. He didn't want to be caught and he didn't intend to be caught. Farmer Brown's Boy placed food down near the bottom of the tree and spent a lot of time watching, hoping to catch the little Bear when he came down to eat. But Cubby was to smart for him. Finally Farmer Brown's Boy took the food away.

"Hunger will bring you down, you rascal, sooner or later," said he. "You'll probably come up to the house then and tease for food. I can't spend any more time trying to catch you. I have too much to do."

So Cubby was left alone. He knew when Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy went down to the cornfield. From up in the tree he watched them go down the long lane. Then Cubby scrambled down. He hunted vainly for the plate of food Farmer Brown's Boy had taken away. Mother Brown saw him and came to the kitchen door. Cubby scampered off to a safe distance and then began to tease for something to eat. Now, despite all the work Cubby had made Mother Brown, she couldn't resist the teasing of that little Bear. She had been very, very angry, for you will remember he had tracked molasses and syrup all over the house, to say nothing of having wasted all the molasses in the molasses barrel and having broken several jars of fruit. Despite all this, she at last took pity on Cubby and put a plate of food out for him. As he ate he kept one eye on the door. The instant it opened even a little he would run away. He was fond of Mother Brown, but he had no intention of letting her catch him.

When he had finished his meal and had licked the plate clean he went around

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks: Firm; public utilities scale new peaks.

Bonds: Quiet; Mexican issues strong.

Foreign exchanges: Steady; Sterling reacts slightly.

Cotton: Steadier; commission house buying.

Sugar: Higher; Cuban support.

Coffee: Lower; liquidation.

Chicago

Wheat: Easy; lower foreign markets.

Corn: Lower; absence predicted heavy frost.

Cattle: Irregular.

Hogs: Lower.

MARKET WAS FIRM

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Prices of stocks moved erratically in today's market, giving it a decidedly ragged appearance. Heavy selling pressure was directed at intervals against many of the recent leaders, which have been relatively active of late, and bid several of them up sharply into new high territory. Low priced shares were particularly attractive to purchasers, to the old high priced favorites showed signs of hesitating.

The bears, however, did not press down the pivotal stocks without resistance. The General Motors issues, for instance, had periods of strength, when they sold above yesterday's closing figures, and Steel common at one time had a gain of 2 points. At the close, General Motors old stock was down to 286 7-8 mad the new at 133 3-8, with net losses of 3 5-8 and 2 points respectively.

There was little change in the money situation, call loans holding steady at 4 per cent., and there were no further calls by banks. Neither of the day was of an indifferent character, including a drop in freight loadings, partly explained by the brevity of the Labor day week, and disappointing notes in the steel trade reviews. There was a disposition to regard the car-loadings report as a failure to bear out hopes that traffic would show an upward trend during the later months of the year. The steel reviews intimated that ingot production might scale downward, rather than improve in September, while a softening of prices was reported.

The heavy selling of General Motors in the late dealings dragged down some other automotive issues and accessory shares, particularly Timken Roller Bearing, accompanied by weakness in such outstanding stocks as Dupont, Allied Chemical and several of the recently buoyant copper issues. Nash Motors, on the other hand, refused to follow, moving up more than 2 points to 92 1-2.

Several of the public utilities continued to give good accounts of themselves, American Water Works, Commonwealth Power, American Power and Light, and a few others selling at their best prices of the year. Food shares were also in demand, especially Purity Baking A, which reached a new peak, and 1927 maximums were attained by a few of the mercantile issues.

Some of the high priced shares which displayed moments of strength, were American Smelting and Otis Elevator, which touched new peaks, and General Electric, which had an extreme gain of 4 1-2 points. These issues, along with many others, relinquished a fair portion of their advances in the late dealings.

Except for a spurt to the best figured in 25 years by New York Central in the early hours, the railroad group was not particularly interesting. The central stock subsequently lost all its gain, closing with a fractional net loss. Oils, after a temporary response to declining crude production, grew rather indifferent, some of them dropping below yesterday's final figures.

The principal commodity markets showed an irregular trend. Cotton futures were quoted 40 to 54 points higher, but coffee displayed a tendency to decline. Sugar prices held steady, with the future contracts stiffening slightly. Wheat reflected bearish reports of general rains in the Argentine.

Heaviness of Demand Sterling which, sagged back to $4.85 was the outstanding development in foreign exchange. French francs ruled just above 3.92 cents. Japanese yen gained 4 points to about 46.44 cents, but several of the central European currencies displayed softening tendencies. Time money rates showed little change.

GREENEVILLE

Stanislaw Marchiel, 62, died at his home on White street, at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening following a brief illness. He was born in Poland, but has resided in Greeneville practically all his life. He was a member of St. Joseph's church. Surviving him are his wife and five children, Mrs. Joseph Podurgiel, Mrs. John Kozlowski, Andrew and John Marchiell all residing in Norwich and by a sister, Mrs. Anna Tarasiewicz of Kulpmont, Pa.

At Fordham university this year are Frank Bielecki, Leslie Carroll and William Higgins. Mr. Carroll and Mr. Bielecki acted as playground instructors during the summer.

Arthur McGowan has resumed his studies at Georgetown university, entering on his sophomore year.

The stores in Greeneville close at noon today (Thursday) to permit the merchants and their clerks to attend the New London County fair.

After completing a course in interior decorating at Springfield School of Design, Frank Sullivan has entered the employ of Hawkins, the florist.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick F. Bray and family are at home, after spending the summer at Block Island.

Rev. Dr. Patrick J. McCormick, of Washington, D. C., is making a brief visit with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth McCormick, of Prospect street, having recently returned from Europe.

Mrs. George Gardner was hostess Tuesday evening at a miscellaneous shower given in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Agnes Bradley. Refreshments were served. Miss Bradley received many beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. George Farrell have returned to Willimantic after spending the week-end with Mr. Farell's mother, Mrs. Frank Marsh of Fourth street.

Numbered among the teachers at Tolland, is Miss Veronica Roberts of Prospect street. Miss Roberts was graduated from Willimantic state normal school in June.

Louis Kimball Geer was a week-end visitor in Moodus.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hourigan, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Portelance and Edward McNerney have returned from an automobile trip, during which they visited Springfield fair.

Albert Marion is at home, recovering following an operation for appendicitis at W. W. Backus hospital.

Joseph Nolan has returned from Fishers Island, where he spent the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marikle are spending this week in Boston and New York.

NEW LONDON REALTY SALE SUIT IS SETTLED WHEN PARTIALLY TRIED

When the $5000 damage suit brought by Reuben Lubchansky against Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Brunner, all of New London, had been partially tried in the superior court at New London late Tuesday afternoon before Judge Allyn L. Brown, a settlement out of court was reached in the case. Testimony from six witnesses was taken in the trial.

The case was one in which the plaintiff sought specific performance of real estate in Main street near the corner of Federal street, New London. Lubchansky claimed to have paid $500 down to purchase the property and alleged that the deed was not forthcoming but the defendants claimed that on the day the deed was to have been given the plaintiff he was not ready with the balance of the money.

Some repairs had been made to the property by the plaintiff and he was reimbursed for this and his $500 was returned. The defendants retain the property.

When the trial was ready to begin in the suit of Antonio Ficarra, a New London barber, against Edward R. Crane of Essex for $8,000 damages, the attorneys held a conference as a result of which a settlement was reached.

The suit resulted from an automobile accident on Nov. 28, 1926, when a car driven by Norman A. King, of New London, and occupied also by Ficarra, collided with a car driven by the defendant at a point in Salem where the New London-Hartford turnpike intersects with the Hadlyme-Norwich road. The plaintiff claimed that he was thrown from the car and suffered many injuries and lost wages as a barber at $50 a week from Nov. 28, 1926, to Jan. 17, 1927, besides having expended large sums for medical and hospital care.

Another suit settled out of court was that of Joseph and Conrad Nassetta, operators of a woodworking shop at New London, against Leon C. Buzzell of East Lyme, in which a claim was made for $1,311 alleged to be due on a mechanics lien for repairs done at the Buzzell home.

STATE TREASURER ROGERS WILL REPRESENT GOVERNOR

Owing to important state business which calls him to New York today (Thursday) and Friday Governor John H. Trumbull will be unable to come to Norwich today as the guest of the New London County Agricultural society on the opening day of the New London county fair, according to information received Wednesday night from State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers of New London. However, the state treasurer has been designated to represent Governor Trumbull at the fair. State Treasurer Rogers will be accompanied by Major General Morris B. Payne, commanding the 43rd division, U. S. A., Major Payne's staff, Col. H. B. Bissell, chief of staff of the 43rd division, Col. Thomas E. Troland, aide, Capt. Alfred Ligouri, aide, and Capt. A. D. Lambdin, commanding Headquarters Co., of the 85th brigade, aide. They will arrive in Norwich at noon today and will go to the fairgrounds at one o'clock.

RALLY DAY GOAL SET AT ATTENDANCE OF 500

Rally day for the Central Baptist church and Sunday school will occur next Sunday for which an attendance goal of 500 has been set, this being divided as follows: Officers, 6; men's class, 125; Class thirty-two, 30; Gleaners' class, 35; Mrs. Post's class, 8; Capt. Tarbox class, 8; young people, senior, intermediate departments, 135; junior, 67; primary, 50; beginners, 30; visitors, 6. Both the morning worship at 10:30 and the Sunday school at 12 will be on standard time.

A special program has been arranged for the Sunday school hour when diplomas will also be awarded those being promoted into the primary, junior and intermediate departments. The primary and junior departments will meet promptly at 12 o'clock at the Community house and march to the Central Baptist church auditorium. Each class is working to get out 100 per cent. attendance, thus reaching its quota.

MRS. ANDERSON SPOKE TO LEBANON WOMEN VOTERS

The Lebanon League of Women Voters met Monday in the First Congregational church parlors with a good attendance. The meeting was very fortunate to have Mrs. Rosemary Anderson a prominent New London lawyer for the speaker. Mrs. Anderson gave a most interesting and instructive lecture on "Child Welfare" and "Juvenile Courts," bringing out the childs needs as well as our duty towards the child. Mrs. Anderson's forceful talk will remain with all who heard her a long time.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Belval of Riverside grove and Mr and Mrs. Christopher Caron of North Fourth avenue returned early in the week from a trip over the Mohawk trail, and an ascent of Mt. Greylock.

Miss Sallie I. Grant, R. N., of Haverhill, Mass., has been a guest this week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Grant and family of the Old Canterbury turnpike.

Raymond Yerrington of South Second avenue left town Monday to take up his studies at the Y. M. C. A. college at Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Walter W. Kellner and her children, William and Virginia, of Preston were visitors early in the week at the home of Mrs. Kellner's father, Axel L. Aberg and her sister, Miss Helen C Aberg of North Third avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Troland of Providence street had as guests over the week-end, the latter's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Gilbert of Pawtucket, R. I. On Wednesday, Mrs. Troland and her son, James Troland, accompanied by Mrs. Augusta Chapman and Walter Johnson of Norwich motored to Springfield to attend the Eastern States exposition.

After spending some time at the home of Mrs. Smith's father, John Krauss and family of Germania avenue, Mr and Mrs. Don Smith have returned to their home in Chicago.

Miss Elizabeth Jackson and Miss Sadie Jackson of North B street have returned from a motor trip to Southbridge and Fiskdale, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert of North B street have had as recent guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Emile J. Dubeau of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sim and family and Malcolm Sim of Philadelphia, are spending several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Murphy on South Third avenue.

A workers conference was held Wednesday evening in the parlors of the Taftville Congregational church, with superintendent Victor H. Davis presiding. Miss Freida Saroski acted as secretary. There was a large attendance of officers and teachers of the church school.

The regular weekly business meeting of the members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society was held Wednesday evening at the society's rooms on Providence street, with the president, Miss Mary Ward presiding.

Alfred Senecal has returned from a visit of several weeks in Canada, St. Anne de Beaupre being one of the places visited.

EXPECT LARGE ATTENDANCE AT WOMEN'S MASS MEETING

Indications at present point to a large attendance at the women's mass meeting to be held at the Wauregan hotel at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon. This meeting is a part of the one day congress program and its purpose is to formulate a discussion on the retail shopping conditions in Norwich. The discussion will be led by Edwin S. Niles, general manager of the Springfield Shopping News, a man who has had a great deal of experience in improving shopping conditions.

For a number of years chambers of commerce and retail merchants organizations throughout the country have been spending huge sums of money in promoting or encouraging the idea of trading at home and in quite a number of cases the reaction of this effort has been unfavorable.

It has been found that no amount of advertising will induce the average housewife to trade in her home town if she has good reasons for buying elsewhere, so that the more recent idea is for the chamber of commerce to encourage the housewife to offer constructive criticism and do the talking and tell why she is buying out of town or why she doesn't trade at home.

If there is something wrong with the retail shopping facilities of Norwich, the chamber feels that it cannot accomplish a great deal with the program of rectification unless the women who do over 80 per cent of the buying make their wants known. So it is asking the women of Norwich to cooperate on this occasion—to come to the meeting with an open mind—to feel that there will be no one to hear what she has to say except the other women who may be present and with the assurance that everything said will be treated confidentially so far as the individual is concerned. There will be no merchants or press representatives invited to the gathering. The main purpose is to formulate a program as a result of the consolidated suggestions.

Letters have been addressed to all the women's clubs and organizations in Norwich and a special committee under the general managership of Earl Taggart, is arranging the details of this part of the program.

COMMANDER HOBSON FOR CONNECTICUT MASS MEETINGS

Hon. Richmond P. Hobson, noted lecturer, author and naval hero, has been secured for a series of mass meetings covering the state of Connecticut for the month of October. Captain Hobson as hero of the Merrimac in the Spanish-American war, as the author of many important books on naval matters, and during these recent years as platform orator, has always been somewhat of an idol to the American people, and Norwich is most fortunate in being included in his Connecticut itinerary.

On Thursday evening, Oct. 6, a Norwich mass meeting will be held in the Community house, at which Captain Hobson will speak.

These mass meetings are in connection with the Woman's Crusade of the Women's Christian Temperance union.

26 IN WEEKLY LIST OF SUSPENDED DRIVERS

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are twenty-six names on the list. One case was appealed. Four were Connecticut operators convicted in other states. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles. The list follows:

Paul Boska, Greenwich; Jeremiah Brown, Waterbury; Frank J. Drake, New Preston; Edmond D. Driscoll, Norwich; Ezra G. Dumore, East Hartford; Ralph Eno, East Granby; John E. Feighn, Hartford; Daniel Flynn, Manchester; John F. Foley, Waterford; Joseph C. Gardner, New Haven; John H. Johnson, Meriden; Frank Lynch, Norwalk; John Marcy, Cos Cob; Chas. McDonough, New Haven; James McNerney, Danbury; Joseph Messier, Winsted; Wm. J. Newman, Rocky Hill; Stephen F. Panczak, Woodbridge; Clarence F. Rivett, Jewett City; Thomas Schenickie, Torrington; Frank J. Schultz, Bantam; Wm. H. Slattery, Hartford; John Terry, Greenwich; Robert Thomas, Hartford; Walter H. Tupper, Norfolk; Henry J. Willingham, Marble Dale.

SURPRISE SHOWER GIVEN FOR MISS WINIFRED FITZGERALD

A surprise was given Miss Winifred Fitzgerald Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Elizabeth Eckstein in honor of her approaching marriage. During the evening games and dancing were enjoyed. A mock marriage was performed, Miss Minnie Williams acting as minister, Miss Jennie Dugas as bridegroom and Miss Pauline Bentley as bride. A supper was served by Mrs. John Eckstein. Exhibition of the black bottom dance was given by Miss Jane Lawson and Mrs. Louis Mitchell, piano selections by Charolette Palmer and singing by Mrs. Isabel Donohue. All left at a late hour wishing Miss Fitzgerald a happy and prosperous married life. Among those attending were Misses Winifred Fitzgerald, Jennie Dugas, Viola Bolduc, Charolette Palmer, Pauline Bentley, Minnie Williams, Ruth Robinson, Jane Lawson, Avilla Kenfield, Elizabeth Eckstein, Mrs. Isobel Donohue, Mrs. Ethel Donohue, Mrs. Louis Mitchell. Music for the dancing was furnished by a victrola very courteously loaned zy the Plaut-Cadden Co.

ARRESTED FOR DRIVING AFTER LICENSE SUSPENDED

Early Wednesday evening Charles Yuraszek of No. 197 West Main street was arrested by the local police on a charge of driving a motor truck while his license is suspended. Yuraszek was early in the month convicted of driving while under the influence of liquor and the motor vehicle department of the state notified him by registered latter that his license was suspended for one year and ordered him to return his license to the state. Yuraszek claims that he did not receive the notice from the state until 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. When arrested he had the notice from the state motor vehicle department and his driver's license with him. He was released on bonds for his appearance in the city court this (Thursday) morning.

STORRS HENS AVERAGING BETTER THAN LAST YEAR

Egg production fell off a little more than one point during the 46th week of the Storrs laying contest, when 4,602 eggs were produced for a lay of 46.9 per cent. This is 105 eggs less than the production of the previous week, but a gain of 897 eggs when compared with the lay for the corresponding week a year ago. Up to last Sunday night the contest flock had averaged approximately 170 eggs per bird, and an average of better than 1,699 eggs for each of the 140 competing pens. At the present time, this year's contest flock has an average gain of 19 eggs per bird over the 1926 competition, which means an increase already of 26,600 eggs over a year ago for the same period of time.

White Leghorns owned by Roselawn Farm from Joplin, Mo., headed the week's honor roll with a production of 56 eggs. Rhode Island Reds owned by Hall Brothers from Wallingford, Conn., placed second with a score of 53 eggs. This pen, it will be remembered, led all competitors from the fourth through the eighth week of the contest last fall. White Leghorns entered by Broadview farm from Winsted, Conn., placed third for the week with an output of 51 eggs. Two pens were tied for fourth place with a lay of 50 eggs each. They are the White Leghorns entered by F. M. Johnson from Waldoboro, Maine, and the Rhode Island Reds owned by F. E. Freeman from Middletown, Ohio.

Only one change took place among the leading pens, and that was in the Rhode Island Red division. F. E. Freeman's entry went up and into third position, displacing the pen owned by L. T. Whitney from North Weare, N. H. The Hollywood Poultry farm White Leghorns from Woodinville, Wash., with a score of 2,446 eggs to the end of the 46th week, continue to lead all competitors by more than a 100-egg margin. The next three pens are those owned by George B. Ferris, Grand Rapids, Mich., White Leghorns with 2,322 eggs; Mayhill Poultry farm, Marion, Ind., White Leghorns with 2,313 eggs; and E. A. Hirt, South Weymouth, Mass., White Rocks with 2,252 eggs.

Three individuals among the 1,400 birds entered in the contest have a chance of laying 300 or more eggs in the 51-week period marking the length of the competition. All of the three are White Leghorns. The high pullet to date is the No. 9 bird in the Hollywood pen, and her score to last Sunday night was 286 eggs. George B. Ferris's No. 8 pullet has 280 eggs to her credit for the same length of time. And the No. 2 bird in the entry of W. S. Hannah and son from Grand Rapids, Mich., is third with a score of 270 eggs to her credit.

These three birds are laying well at the present time, and with 35 days of competition remaining have an excellent chance—the first two at least—of laying better than 300 eggs.

STAMINA A GREAT FACTOR IN DEFEAT OF DEMPSEY BY CHAMPION TUNNEY

Former Champion Put Up a Gruelling Battle to Reclaim His Lost Title—Tunney's Laurels Were in Jeopardy in the Seventh Round, When Dempsey Floored the Champion For the Count of Nine—In the Last Three Rounds the Champion Gave Dempsey a Severe Beating—At the Close of the Final Round Dempsey Was Groggy and Reeling, "Out on His Feet."

By Alan G. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

SOLDIER FIELD, Chicago, Sept. 22—(AP)—Gene Tunney, the man of destiny, is still heavyweight champion of the world but his crown was perilously close to being toppled from his head tonight by the gallant thrust of the old warrior, Jack Dempsey, in the greatest boxing spectacle of all time.

Tunney's hand was raised in victory at the end of a slashing, smashing battle but only because he had the courage and fighting power for a sensational finish after being knocked down for a count of nine in the seventh round by Dempsey's vicious two-handed attack.

Only one second, in this seventh round, separated Dempsey from the greatest victory of his career, and an achievement no other ex-champion had ever recorded, but Tunney, back on his feet, slipped from range, cleared his head and weathered as stormy a session as he ever has experienced.

Tunney Finished Like Champion

Safely past the crisis, Tunney finished the last three rounds like a champion, regaining confidence, taking the worst Dempsey and beating Dempsey into defeat with a two-handed, well-timed attack to the head. With his title in danger, Tunney had the stuff to put in a victorious rally. At the close of the final round, Dempsey, both eyes cut and badly bleeding, was groggy and reeling, "out on his feet." So battered was the old champion his large charge expended, that he did not seem to know the battle was over and had to be led to his corner.

Tunney's victory was not without its dispute, however, for there were scores in the ringside section who thought the champion was saved from losing his crown in the seventh round by a count that was actually several seconds longer than the toll of nine.

Why Count was "Long"

It was unquestionably a "long count" —from 13 to 14 seconds in all, to take the varying count of ringside observers—but its explanation lay in the fact that Illinois boxing rules compelled the fighter scoring the knockdown to go to his corner before the count starts. The time elapsing during Dempsey's backing off to a corner accounted for the late start of the count, boxing commissioners explained.

Tunney Groggy in Seventh

Tunney took the count with his left hand holding the ropes. He was groggy and in bad shape but fully conscious of the count. Had it started sooner he probably would have been able to regain his feet but he might have been wobbler and an easier target. As it was, he had the advantage of the few seconds added rest, a chance to collect his faculties and ward off Dempsey's attack.

The mightiest throng in fight or sporting history, estimated at 150,000 paid the record-smashing sum of $2,800,000 to see the handsome ex-marine weather the spectacular challenge of the old mauler and to defeat, as convincingly if not as decisively, the man from whom Gene took the crown a year ago in the rain at Philadelphia.

Victory unquestionably went to the better man, the crafter boxer, the faster and stronger fighter, but was his only after the closest call he ever has had.

The drama of Tunney's title defense, stirring as was his decisive finish, was enacted principally in that seventh round. For it was here that the flashy old fighting spirit of Dempsey, making his greatest bid, came so close to accomplishing the unprecedented.

Tunney Cool—Dempsey Aggressive

Through the first half of the battle Tunney had boxed coolly and cautiously shooting only when he saw his target and shooting accurately, while Dempsey, always going in, found himself brought up time after time by jolting rights to the head or smart left jabs.

Once or twice Jack had lashed out with smashing body blows that hurt the champion but there was little warning of what was impending when the former champion suddenly launched a vicious drive to the head in the seventh round. Perhaps Tunney was off guard, for his foe had aimed his attack previously at the body. But at any rate Dempsey connected solidly with a series of staggering smashes.

Pandemonium was loose in the vast arena. Men and women screamed as Dempsey stood menacingly over his fallen foe and then moved to a corner.

Slowly the time-keeper began his count. It was inaudible, even to those in the first row of the ringside, but it finally was made out by the form of the time-keeper's mouth as he took up the toll.

"Six, seven, eight, nine," it went and there was a "ten," it seemed, on the time-keeper's lips as Gene slowly crawled to his feet and backed off, a dazed and surprised look in his eyes. This was a new experience for the champion. He had felt confident of his defense but it had been pierced by the tigerish attack of the old Dempsey.

"Come on and fight," Jack beckoned, stopping in his track and dropping his gloves, as he looked disdainfully at the retreating figure of the champion.

Finally Jack leaped in and lashed Tunney about the head again but he was capable of taking care of himself again. He tied up the challenger in a clinch and the bell saved him from further damage.

Crowd Yelled for Dempsey

"Come on Jack," the crowd yelled as Dempsey, bobbing and weaving, came out of his corner for the eighth round. Tunney, worked over feverishly and freely administered to with smelling salts between rounds, was still cautious, wary against taking a further taste of Dempsey's dynamite.

But Dempsey, it seemed had shot his big bolt, made his main bid for the title. The fact that it had failed seemed to sap something of the fury of his spirit. He seemed slower.

Regaining confidence, Tunney was quick to seize the lead again. Before the round was half over, Gene had opened a gash over Jack's right eye. Dempsey went to one knee, partially by slipping and partly from the effect of a right to the chin, but he was up and back at his foe without taking a count.

Tunney Slashed His Foe

Throughout the tenth, Tunney slashed and ripped his foe. Dempsey landed one more right, a hard smash to the head that sent Tunney back to his heels, but it was only the wild lunge of a fighter whose biggest guns had been spiked.

Dempsey Game to the Finish

Until the final bell separated them, however, Dempsey kept plunging in. His knees wobbled and his body sagged but he was a fighter to the finish. But he was also as groggy a battler as ever stood on his feet. Almost blinded by the blood, the old champion stood swaying, in the center of the ring as the referee parted them. He did not know the fight was over. He was trying to plunge in again when he was stopped and turned toward his corner.

Rally Saved Tunney

Tunney's magnificent rally had saved his crown and there was no murmur of protest when the unanimous decision of the two judges and the referee, Dave Barry, in his favor, was announced by the lifting of Gene's hand.

There was a sharp division of opinion among ringside experts in scoring the rounds. Some had the honors evenly divided but the majority gave Tunney a decisive advantage. On The Associated Press score sheet, Tunney was given seven rounds and Dempsey, three; the third, sixth and seventh.

HIP FLASHS PERMITTED IN GREAT FIGHT ARENA

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Prohibition agents were not assigned to look inside the stadium at Soldier field for violators of the prohibition law, Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowly stated today. The South Park board agreed to allow about a dozen prohibition agents to enter to watch for violators among the soft drink stands.

TWO MEN ARE HELD ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

WILMINGTON, Mass., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Edward Sands, 23, of West Medford, was formally charged with manslaughter tonight and three companions were held as accessories after the fact as a result of the death early today in a flaming cottage at Silver Lake of Richard Fogarty, 24, of East Boston.

All day questioning of Sands and his companions revealed that Sands and Fogarty engaged in a squabble soon after midnight outside a local dance hall and that the argument culminated in a "friendly wrestling match" in the Silver Lake cottage in which Fogarty was "knocked out."

The men were unable to explain a fire which enveloped the cottage and automobile outside. The police announced they were as yet unable to determine whether the flames started from a lamp overturned in the scuffle or whether fire was set in an effort to cover Fogarty's death.

HARTFORD POLICE CAPT. ON THE WITNESS STAND

LAWRENCE Mass. Sept. 22.—(AP)—Captain Thomas Hickey of the Hartford police department, who assisted in the arrest of Leo Nolin of South Groveland in a Hartford lodging house on March 17, spent most of today on the witness stand under direct and cross-examination at the trial of Nolin and Herman A. Reed of Waterbury, Conn., for the murder and robbery of William H. Griffin, Haverhill storekeeper, on March 7 last.

In addition to describing the struggle against arrest by Nolin, the officer read an affidavit of Mary Cwiekla Suffield Conn. girl who is also on trial as an accessory. The affidavit written from notes taken by Captain Hickey on March 24, traced the movement of the three on trial during the entire night of the murder.

REAL ESTATE MAN WAS DROWNED IN LAKE

DANBURY, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Benjamin Harris, a prominent real estate man of Stamford, was drowned in Lake Tonetta, 10 miles west of here tonight. Harris with another man, went out on the lake in a row boat tonight and when the pair did not return to Harris' cottage on the shore of the lake, friends became anxious and started on a search which resulted in the finding of the overturned boat with the friend clinging to it.

Police and firemen of Stamford were notified and squads from both departments were despatched to the lake with dragging apparatus to seek Harris' body.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LEIPSIC, Germany, Sept. 22—(AP)—Fifteen school children have died and 84 are ill in a sudden outbreak of cerebral spinal meningitis here.

BERLIN, Sept. 22—(AP)—Germany's August trade balance shows a marked improvement over that for Juy. Imports exceeded exports by 292,000,000 marks, as against an unfavorable balance of 430,000,000 in the preceding month.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 22—(AP)—A request that the Nicaraguan supreme court prohibit marriages between U. S. marines serving here and Nicaraguan girls until the marines' civil status has been investigated, has been transmitted to the government by the commanding officer of the marines stationed here.

LONDON, Sept. 22—(AP)—If weather conditions at Angora, the Turkish capital, do not interfere with Lieutenant Otto Koennecke's plans, he will take off tomorrow morning for Basra, Mesopotamia. Telegraphic communication between Angora and western Europe is very imperfect, and brief dispatches reaching London do not mention the hour of Koennecke's proposed departure.

MOTORIST BENT ON MATRIMONY FATALLY INJURED CHILD

HARTFORD, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Love's impatience at the five day delay imposed by the statute of Massachusetts for all those contemplating matrimony brought John J. Davis, 25, of 203 Norfolk avenue, Dorchester, Mass., speeding in an automobile to Hartford last June in the hope that he might be married at once.

Before he got out of the state, he found that the same law prevailed here, fatally injured a 10 months' old baby in a Thompsonville automobile accident, and injured himself and fiancee so badly that they have been unable to marry since. This was revealed in the superior court today when Davis was presented on a charge of reckless driving.

The toll of damage and personal injury was great. In the Hartford car, Dorothy Kennedy, 10 months old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, of 40 Sisson avenue, was fatally injured; her parents were badly cut and bruised, and two passengers, Duncan J. Oliver and Dorothy Richelieu, were lacerated and injured internally. In the Davis car, Davis and his fiancee, Miss Alberta Babb, of 555 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, Mass., were injured so badly as to be patients at the Wesson Memorial hospital in Springfield, Mass., several weeks; and the couple he had brought to witness the marrige, Thomas Gerard, of Cambridge, and Miriam Clifford, of Roxbury, Mass., were severely cut, bruised and shaken up. Both cars were wrecked.

NEW APPEAL TO NATIONS FOR ARMENIAN REFUGEES

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Threatening to resign as the league of nations commissioner for Armenian refugees unless the powers really do something to create an Armenian national home, Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, the noter Arctic explorer, succeeded in inducing the council of the league today to make a new appeal to the nations to contribute funds to settle on the soil of the Armenian Republic Erivan some 50,000 refugees now scattered over different parts of the far east.

Dr. Nansen bluntly told the council that the league had failed in its efforts t ohelp the Armenians.

M. Titulescu, Rumanian foreign minister, took the lead in appealing to Dr. Nansen not to insist upon his resignatolon, which the Norwegian delegate eventually withdrew on the promise that he would have an opportunity to air the whole Armenian promieb in the assembly. He informed the council that he had been unable to secure the consent of the Servian government to the refugee settlement plan because he could not guarantee material help from the nations member of the of the league.

M. Briand, French foreign minister, promised French assistance in settling Armenians on the soil of Syria.

Dr. Nansen has succeeded in obtaining guarantees of large sums for the Armenian home from Armenian residents of the United States, provided the league carried out its part of the project.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASES ON THE INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—An increase in the number of infantile paralysis cases in the various states during the week ended September 17 is shown in reports to the public health service, which announced today that the total under treatment was 656, compared with 550 reported for the week previous.

The reports, which came from 41 states, showed Massachusetts with the most cases, 106 compared with 92 the previous week. Ohio reported 89 compared with 85 for the week before; California 66, an increase of 17 during the week; Pennsylvania 43, an increase of seven; New Jersey 39, an increase of 5, and Illinois 26, one more than the total reported for the week previous.

It was announced that the number of cases in Minnesota increased from two to 11.

TENANTS IN ARREARS OBJECT TO PUBLICITY

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Enfield, a suburb of London, is in a turmoil because the town council has posted notices on the municipally-owned houses whose tenants have failed to pay their rent.

The town clerk explained to angry householders that this procedure was followed only in cases where it had been impossible to serve the notices personally to tenants.

One happy home was seriously threatened when the notice appeared on the front door. The householder had given his wife the rent money, but she had failed to turn it over to the town officials.

The chairman of the town council says rents are more than L300 in arrears.

Norwich Man Given From 10 to 15 Years

HARTFORD, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Th[illegible] young men who held up the ma[illegible] of three gasoline stations i[illegible] last June paid the pena[illegible] crimes in the superio[illegible].

The oldest of th[illegible] Boloslaw Dwojakowsky, [illegible]wich, described by S[illegible]rney Hugh M. Alcorn, as a [illegible]nd a robber, was sentenced by [illegible]ge John R. Booth, of Danbury, to the state prison for from ten to 15 years.

The other two, Konstanty Wojtkowsky, 19, of Norwich, and Fred Howard 19, of Hartford, were sentenced to the state reformatory at Cheshire. All pleaded guilty to the single count of robbery with violence on Earl D. Moilander, proprietor of a Gulf gasoline station in Hartford, June 30.

They confessed to working under a plan by which Howard bound the victim with picture wire to a chair, Dwojakowsky held a gun over the victim, and Wojtkowsky took the money. When arrested several sawed-off shotguns were in their possession.

STORY OF HER LIFE TOLD BY MRS. LILLIENDAHL

VINELAND, N. J., Sept. 22—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl in the living room of her home between Vineland and Millville, today told the story of her life and her marriage with Dr. William Lilliendahl, 69, who was found shot to death a week ago.

Alternately weeping and speaking in calm, collected tones, she went into the details of her girlhood, her courtship and marriage, declaring that she had devoted the best years of her life to caring for the physician, who, she says, was killed by two negroes who jumped no their automobile on a lonely road near Hammonton.

Miss Gay Sommers, a close friend of the widow, was at Mrs. Lilliendahl's side throughout the interview.

"I was born in Baltimore," said Mrs. Lilliendahl, "and when I was 18 my mother died. I was sent to St. Joseph's academy at Emmetsburg, Md.

"Father amrried again, and we lived in Pittsburgh, going later to Philadelphia.

"In 1907 we moved to New York, and in 1915 we moved to the Trussac apartments on Washington Heights, N. Y., there I met Dr. Lilliendahl.

"My father returned to Baltimore and Dr. Lilliendahl and I were married in November, 1915.

"I once rescued a woman from suicide. A girl helped me get her out. She got the Carnegie medal, I got no credit."

"Your life then was one of saving and service?" she was asked.

"Yes and no," she said, trembling and crying.

"What was your life in New Jersey?"

"My life here was just one drive after another. The doctor had been in wretched health for the last two years."

"Did Dr. Lilliendahl have any enemies?"

"Did Dr. Lilliendahl make a new will recently?"

Mrs. Lilliendahl paused a long time and seemed to be thinking deeply.

Then she said, "That question is not a generality."

"Did you ever receive any letters addressed to Peggy Anderson?"

"That is not fair," exclaimed Miss Sommers.

"I will not answer," answered Mrs. Lilliendahl, and rising, she left the room, but returned to submit to further questioning.

Mr. Lilliendahl said she was confused as to time proceeding and after the killing.

"Did you or did you not kill Dr. Lilliendahl?" she was asked.

"That is unfair," broke in Miss Sommers.

AGREEMENT TO FUND THE RUSSIAN DEBT TO FRANCE

PARIS, Sept. 22—(AP)—Surprise was evinced here today over the reported announcement of Maxim Litvinoff, Russian vice foreign minister, in Moscow that a complete agreement had been reached by the French and Soviet delegations studying the question of the funding of the Russian debt to France.

Apparently the French delegation has no knowledge of such an agreement, and it is declared semi-officially that the Litvinoff statement was "far from the facts". No information was forthcoming from official quarters, but it was promised that the French representatives concerned in the negotiations would set forth their view of the situation at an early date, which would "put the affair in its true light."

The Russian pre-war debt to France is placed at 6,738,000,000 gold francs (approximately $1,350,000,000). In addition the Bank of France advanced to Russia great sums of money during the war, amounting to probably more than $1,000,000,000.

The Moscow dispatches make no mention of the total debt, announcing merely that the agreement was concluded on the basis of a first payment of 30,000,000 gold francs and of 62 annuities of 60,000,000 gold francs each, which would bring the total up to 3,750,000,000 francs, or about 55 percent of the pre-war debt.

MERIDEN, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A spectacular fire of unknown origin destroyed two large sheds and a barn on the farm of A. J. Watrous in the southern section of this city early tonight and resulted in damage estimated at approximately $7,000.

Because of the lack of hydrants, the firemen of this city, Tracy and Yalesville were forced to stand practically idle as the buildings burned to the ground.

The buildings were used to store farm implements, fruit and hay.

MARINES AGAIN REPULSE BANDITS IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Bandits who again attacked the garrison of United States marines and Nicaraguan constabulary at Telpaneca last night, were repulsed after two hours of fighting with the loss of 12 wounded. There were no casualties among the marines or constabulary men.

Bandits also attacked the ungarrisoned towns of Saklin and Quezalgual, pillaging and robbing.

Close of the Legion Convention in Paris

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The American legion brought its greatest convention to a glorious close today after the legionnaires had come again to Paris, seen it with eyes nearly ten years older than when they saw it last, and completely conquered the French capital.

Staging its convention in a city 3,000 miles from its nearest base, the American legion had heard conditions described round the world as antagonistic, but 22,000 men and 6,000 women came to Paris and captured not only the friendship and gratitude of official France but the very heart of its people.

The legion chose Edward Elwell Spafford, New York lawyer, as commander and adopted 45 resolutions many of them designed to improve conditions of American war veterans, their wives and children.

Verdun, Saint Mihiel and Chateau Thierry vied with Paris to make the "boys" feel at home, as many scattered to visit the battlefields where they fought.

Others have gone to Italy and Belgium and still others prepared to return home, their mission and pilgrimage accomplished.

Jay Ward, five year old citizen of Pennsylvania, shared with Stafford the honors of the closing day of the convention. Jay, the mascot from his state, had been referred to by the commander as a "Typical American Boy", and was elected national mascot. Work of the child welfare committee stood out in the day's proceedings. Undesirable immigration, approval of the boy scout movement and American aviation were other matters treated by the convention.

General William A. Mitchell again took off in behalf of a separate aviation department for the United States government. He lost yesterday in a stirring fight for elimination of the words "as soon as warranted", in a resolution favoring creation of such a department. He won today when the text was changed to read "as soon as possible."

In addition to the national commander, the convention named vice commanders, James Raftis, of Washington, Paul R. Younts of North Carolina, Ralph T. O'Neil of Kansas, Dan Spurlock of Louisiana and J. M. Henry of Minnesota. The Rev. Gill Robb Wilson of Trenton, N. J., pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church there was elected National Chaplain.

Shopping was again a feature of the day and the men almost kept pace with the women in filling their trunks with a variety of articles, large and small and at every color and description.

This evening most of the state delegations had their own reunions or dinners perparatory to the big reception at the Hotel Deville and ball at the opera, two culminating events of the reception of Paris to the honored visitors.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY LEGION AUXILIARY

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(AP) — France's convention of the American legion auxiliary passed into history when the gavel fell late this afternoon. The delegates had remained at their posts all day in the face of an inviting Paris sun, beckoning them to the great outdoors.

Mrs. Irene McIntyre Walbridge of Peterboro, N. H., was elected national president at the final meeting.

The entire procedure of the Paris convention must be ratified when the seventh annual convention meets at New York, Oct. 18, as the constitution provides that the organization must hold its official meetings within the United States.

Mrs. Walbridge was elected by a vote of 333 to 251 over Mrs. Boyce thirdFicklin, Jr., of Washington, Ga., a third candidate, Mrs. J. E. Barcus of Indianapolis, Ind., withdrawing on the second ballot.

Divisional vice presidents were elected without opposition, with one exception, where a contest developed. Elections without opposition included: Mrs. Belle Simpson, Juneau, Alaska, western division; Mrs. Frances King, Cheyenne, Wyo., northwestern; Mrs. W. W. Townes, Petersburg, Va., southern; Mrs. W. M. C. Speakman, Wilmington, Del., eastern.

GERMAN STUDENTS SPEND VACATION IN FRANCE

BERLIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—Eighty boys and girls of high school age, all from families of modest means, have left for France to spend the vacation as guests of French families having boys or girls of the same age. In return, eighty French boys and girls will come to these German families five weeks later for a stay of equal length.

The project for this novel exchange of students was managed by the League for Human Rights, an international pacifist organization. The league feels that if Frenchmen and Germans of the generation now growing up learn to know each better, the talk about the "traditional Franco-German enmity" will be bound to die out.

Both the German and the French governments showed their sympathy for the scheme by granting free visas and greatly reduced railway fares. Teachers accompanied the students as far as Paris, where the German embassy took them in charge and saw to it that they reached their final destination safely.

THOUSANDS OF AFRICAN SLAVES TO BE FREED

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Thousands of Slaves in Sierra Leone, a British protectorate on the west coast of Africa, are to receive their liberty by act of law. A daily mail dispatch from freetown, Sierra Leone, says that an ordinance introduced in the legislative council today providing for freeing all slaves in the protectorate after Jan. 1, 1928, was unanimously adopted.

There has been strong agitation against slavery under the British crown, and recently conversations have been carried on between the British government and the Sierra Leone administration, more than 200,000 slaves, it is declared, will enjoy the benefit of the new law.

Eddie Stinson, America Entrant, Was Forced Down at Missoula, Mont., by a Broken Rocker Arm—Schiller, Canadian Entrant, Was Forced to Land at Billings, Mont.—Steve Lacey, After Take-Off For Spokane, Was Unconscious From Gasoline Fumes as He Returned to Roosevelt Field.

FELTS FIELD, Spokane, Wash., Sept. 22—(AP)—Failure tonight met the efforts of Eddie Stinson, of Detroit and C. A. "Duke" Schiller, of Windsor, Ont., in their projected non-stop trans-continental air derby from New York to Spokane.

Stinson was forced down at Missoula, Mont., by a broken rocker arm and a stuck valve He was pursuaded from continuing in the plane by Fred Koebler, his mechanic, who said it would be dangerous. Stinson finished the flight in the plane of R. A. Dake, of Pittsburgh and landed early tonight at the airport.

Schiler was forced to land at Billings, Mont.

AIRMAN LACY UNCONSCIOUS FROM GASEOUS FUMES

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 22—(AP)—Steve Lacey, of Lomax, Ill., returned a few minutes after his second take-off for Spokane today and was unconscious from gasoline fumes when his plane was reached on the field.

The plane landed at 2:15 p. m., eastern standard time. Lacey was lifted from the cockpit. After a few minutes he was revived and taken from the field by automobile.

L. A. Yancey, Lacey's co-pilot, was not affected by the gasoline fumes. He explained that they had gotten over New York city when motor trouble developed. They decided to return to the field. In order to land with less danger it was decided to dump the gasoline. The dump valves were opened and the gasoline was allowed to pour out over New York city.

It was at this time that Lacey began to lose consciousness.

CAPTURE OF SLAYER OF SWEETHEART'S SISTER

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Elmer Peterson, 28, who shot and killed Miss Janet Foley, his sweetheart's sister and seriously wounded her father in an assault on the Foley home here Tuesday night was captured late today at the home of his brother-in-law in Purdy, Wis., police here informed.

Peterson's brother-in-law, Chris Medland, informed authorities of his whereabouts.

"Is that what I did?" the slayer is said to have exclaimed when confronted with a newspaper account of the shooting.

Peterson was taken to the Virocqua jail under heavy guard, awaiting the arrival of Milwaukee authorities.

"I knew there was some shooting, but I didn't know it was as bad as that," he said, according to Martin Gulbranson, district attorney. "My mind was a blank after the trouble began. But I couldn't do anything else except what I did.

"I went to the Foley home armed because I was afraid Foley would do the same thing to me if I didn't protect myself.

"I want to go back to Milwaukee and get it all over with" the district attorney quoted him as saying. "I loved the girl so much I didn't know what I was doing."

WOMAN CREATED SCENE IN COURT IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 22.—(AP)—An uproar in the criminal superior court was caused late this afternoon, when Mrs. Eva Shaevitz, of this city jumped to her fet and declared that testimony being offered by James Connery, of this city, a state's witness in the trial upon a charge of arson of Jack B. Sigall, of Brooklyn, a "dirty lie."

Connery who was at one time in the emupol of Segall at the Raduco Rubber Products company's plant at 1481 Main street had stated that he entered the plant on a night a few weeks before a fire swept through the factory and found Segall and Mrs. Shaevitz, factory forelady, in a compromising position. This testimony was brought out in cross examination of Connery as to the reason why Connery had severed his connection with the company.

Connery was one of many witnesses examined during the day, the principal one being Frederick Rosenthal, 1-161 Iranistan avenue, Bridgeport, who made an appraisal of the goods and machinery in the factory after the fire on the night of May 3. He declared that his appraisal showed stock worth $3,200 and machinery worth $1,100.

Segall in proofs of loss to six insurance companies declared that his loss to stock was $23,274.40 and to machinery $4,349.50 for a total of $27,623.90. He carried insurance to $23,500 on the plant.

In cross examination Rosenthal admitted that he had made the appraisal for the insurance companies and that at the time the Niohcsl Underwear company of this city, by whom he is employed, had brought an action against Segall, whom it was pointed out was indebted to the company.

MOTHER HEART BROKEN OVER "BABY TANGLE"

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Legally the Smiths' "baby tangle" was solved tonight, but in the mind of a heartbroken mother doubt still lurked, undisturbed by the hand of justice.

"I shall accept the baby girl as my child, but doubt as to its parentage will never be dispelled in my mind," Mrs. Sam Smith said tonight through a veil of tears after she had partly recovered from her hysterical reaction to the judge's decision in the court room.

Judge Weygandt dismissed the Smith's habeas corpus petition demanding their child "George Smith" after he had heard nurses, doctors, hospital attaches, and the Smiths themselves tell their story from the witness stand.

"Mrs. Smith, the only thing you as a mother will do, I know, is to accept this baby girl as your very own," Judge Weygandt said in dismissing the petition. "Three is no evidence any place that any other baby might be yours."

MEXICAN SLAYER OF MISS ANDERSON WOUNDED

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22—(AP)—The leader of the bandits who shot and mortally wounded the American schoolteacher, Mrs. Florence Anderson, during an attack on a train near Acaponeta, Nayarit, August 22, has been wounded by federal soldiers who pursued him, the Mexican foreign office informed the United States embassy today. The name of the bandit chief was not given.

The foreign office said that federal soldiers had been trailing the bandits since the attack and overtook them recently and wounded the chief in a battle in the mountains of Nayarit. The chief succeeded in escaping but pursuit is continuing.

MAYOR OF INDIANAPOLIS WAS CONVICTED BY JURY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 22—(AP)—Mayor John L. Duvall, of Indianapolis, was found guilty tonight of charges of vioating the corrupt practices act. The verdict calls for a fine of $1,000 and a sentence of 30 days in jail.

The jury was out a little more than three hours, but more than one hour was taken for dinner. The jury reached a verdict at 7:40 p. m., and reported to Judge C. C. Shirley at 8:05.

Under the law Mayor Duvall is ineligible to hold public office for four years from the commission of the crime.

"I have nothing to say," Mayor Duvall said. He was pale when the verdict was read.

KLAN MEETING DREW HUNDREDS TO SCENE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 22—There was much commenting here today on the big Ku Klux Klan meeting held within the city limits on Columbia avenue Wednesday night and which proved at once a great attraction and a source of disturbance. Arrested on a charge of having assaulted Alfred Nichols, local young man, David Planchon, 23 of Plainfield was arraigned in police court this morning. He received a continuance of the case until Saturday, October 1 from Judge Frank H. Foss. Later in the day Nichols notified the police that he had withdrawn the charges against Planchon, stating that he was willing to let the case be dismissed as he had not received any injuries as a result of the encounter.

The meeting was a sectional one and invitations had been sent through the mail from Plainfield. It was estimated that nearly 500 members and prospective klansmen were in attendance. The long triangular field off Columbia avenue, which leads to the main Hartford highway, was well crowded with automobiles. The speaking program was carried out at the end of the lot several hundred yards from the highway. The main address of the evening is claimed to have been made by a prominent member of the klan from New York. This information tallies with the fact that a New York roadster was among the cars to leave the field. The fiery cross was touched off shortly before 11 o'clock. By 11 o'clock all but a few of the automobiles had left the field, passing unmolested through a crowd of onlookers who had gathered near the well-guarded entrance. After this exodus of cars two newspapermen strolled into the field. They were met by a score of robed guards armed with formidable "Billy" clubs. Thus amply escorted the scribes were marched off the field. The guards said that the land had been rented for the occasion and they would contenance no uninvited guests even from the newspaper family. One Plainfield man retained his club in his right hand as he drove his car from the field, apparently fearing attack.

To the hundreds of curious who drove by the field or parked in cars along Columbia avenue, the big konclave was a thriller. White robed klansmen made a fantastic scene as they walked about, their pointed hoods making them look towering. Automobile headlights and flashlights were used to illuminate the approaches to the field which is surrounded by a fence.

The schools of Windham will be financed well within the appropriation of $182,000, it is indicated tin the 30th annual report of the condition and cost of the public schools just issued by Secretary Egbert A. Case and signed by the members of the town school committee.

The report continues: "Because of the fluctuations which may occur in the amount due the state, it is necessary to have a contingent fund. In 1926 and again in 1925 there was need of every dollar appropriated; but the unused appropriations of 1922, 1924, 1926 and 1927 amounting to about $20,000 must have served some useful purpose in financing other obligations of the town.

"For next year $182,000 appears to be sufficient for school needs, and indicates the smallest advance in school expense since 1914. This year's unexpended balance of $5,865.25 will more than cover the increase of expense over last year and any special appropriation that may be made for maintenance of trade school.

"First, to provide the best possible school opportunity for all the children of the town, and then to get the largest possible return for every dollar expended, is the policy which has enabled this committee to work with enthusiasm and complete harmony."

Recommendations included in the report follow:

1—To lease a trade school building not later than January 1, 1928.

2—To make an appropriation of $8,000 for maintaining a trade school from January 1 to September 15, 1928.

3—Authorize the selectmen to dispose of the buildings adjacent to the high school.

4—Secure an option on two acres of land at the rear of the school in North Windham.

5—Submit to vote of the electors the question of free text books and supplies. Secretary Case states that it is not likely that the new trade school will be in operation for several months, as preparations will remain to be done once a site is chosen. The matter of a trade school for Willimantic has been approved by the state board of education and an appropriation of $50,000 made by the general assembly.

Announcement has also been made of the reappointment of Dr. W. P. S. Keating as school physician.

A barn and contents and a shed on the small farm owned by Mrs. Elizabeth A. Rossiter of Warrenville were destroyed by fire of unknown origin early this morning. The destroyed barn and shed contained considerable farm machinery and tools and an automobile truck owned by a state road worker. Mrs. Rossiter places her loss at $4,000. Insurance carried on the barn amounted to $600.

The new boas are made in all shades, chiefly pastel and sweet pea colorings. The colored boa has completely displaced the black, white, and grey boas of 20 years ago. Sometimes a feather muff is carried for decoration with the boa. The feather influence affects other articles of women's attire. The very latest use for ostrich feathers is to have silk stockings delicately fringed with matching fronds up the back seam. Parasols are made wholly or partly of soft feathers.

German Baker Wins $50,000 Marathon Swim

Ernest Vierkotter, the German baker, photographed about an hour after he had won the Lake Ontario swim. Vierkotter took the first prize of $35,000. He is also a conqueror of the English channel. Although over a hundred swimmers started the race, only three finished the 21 mile triangular course. Vierkotter does not show the effects very much of his swim.

JEWETT CITY

SIX CHURCH CONFERENCE WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 22—Pachaug church entertained the Six Church conference on Wednesday with an attendance of 123. The platform was beautifully decorated with fall flowers. Rev. Newell Whitman, pastor of the church presided. The service was opened with an organ prelude by Mrs. Harold Geer, followed by the doxology and invocation offered by the pastor. The responsive reading was led by Rev. G. W. Clark of Preston City. The Scripture from Isaiah 58 was read by Mrs. Cecil Butler of Plainfield, and prayer was offered by Miss Lucy Baldwin of Canterbury. The offering was received by Rev. G. F. Goodenough of Jewett City and Rev. D C. Stone of Hanover. The sermon was by Rev. Warren S. Archibald, D. D., pastor of the South Congregational church at Hartford. The Holy Spirit was his subject, and he delivered a splendid discourse. He defined the Holy Spirit as the divine spirit within every human being, the best that is within everyone. The best is the spirit that was in Jesus Christ The Holy Spirit has various characteristics. It is real, more real than anything else in the world. The thing that has lasted the longest is the spirit of men and women. The spirit that was in Jesus is the most real thing today. It is intelligible. A thing does not have to be seen to be understood. The Holy Spirit within one can be understood in the sense of living, co-operating, increasing and developing it. It can be practiced. One may grow better and better or worse and worse, as we may develop Nothing in this world can be so mean as a human being, for the reason that he has a spirit within him which may go up or down. The business of a Christian is to develop the spirit so that it may become everything lovely, and look upon themselves as the vessels of God to be filled with the Holy Spirit. At the close, a rising vote of thanks was given Dr. Archibald.

Dinner was served by the women of the church in the Grange hall, Rev. W. J. Reynolds of Lisbon asking the blessing. The Scripture in the afternoon was read by Miss Carolyn Gallup of Hanover and prayer offered by Mrs. E. H. Faust of Jewett City. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, of Jewett City, the scribe of the conference, called the roll. There were four from Newent, 26 Preston City, 5 plainfield, 15 Jewett City, 16 Hanover, Pachaug 30 and 27 visitors. Rev G. F. Goodenough offered a vote of thanks to the women of the church for their hospitality, especially appreciative of their work, as they have just been working a three-days fair. The organist and choir which was composed of singers from various places also received special mention. Rev. Mr. Stone gave notice of Missionary meeting to be held in New London on October 4th. The afternoon program was Vacation Experiences by the ministers of the conference. Revs. Mr. Clark, Goodenough, Stone, Prentiss and Whitman told interesting tales of their experiences drawing several morals from them. Mr Reynolds was obliged to leave as his name was called, saying he had not had any vacation, so could give no experiences. Rev. Mr. Chambers of Sterling, Rev. William Muttart of Hampton and George A. Ross of Lisbon spoke on the same subject. The service closed with benediction by the pastor. The purpose of the conference as expressed on the program was To give and to receive a blessing. The prayer, "O Christ, revive Thy works in my church and begin it in me"

DANIELSON

ATTENDANCE OVER 8,000 AT BROOKLYN FAIR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 22—The Brooklyn fair is over for another year. Only a handful of people attended it today compared to the thousands that poured into the grounds on Wednesday, but they found getting about the exhibition buildings and all about the grounds, in fact, a much easier, more comfortable and more satisfactory task than in the crush of the day before.

Excepting for the cattle, the exhibits remained undisturbed today and there was opportunity to examine them in more detail. This privilege seemed to appeal to many who had come back to the fair for a second time.

In making awards for grange displays, first honors went to Brooklyn grange, second to Canterbury grange, third to Senexet grange of Woodstock and fourth to Plainfield grange.

Today there appeared to be a little tendency among some of the concession people to step over the lines a bit as to indulging in gambling. One rather innocent appearing citizen who claimed that he had been inveigled into a game of chance reported to a state officer on duty at the grounds that he had been "done out of" three or four dollars in a game of chance. The man shamefully admitted that he had agreed to gamble, something in itself, the officer pointed out, that is against the law. The matter was made the subject of an investigation by the officer, who sensed it was but an isolated case.

Out on the grounds numbers of practically-minded people inspected the water-pumping and oil heating systems displayed by D. Blumenthal of Danielson, who also kept that section of the grounds lively with radio concerts from the Fada sets he was displaying.

Secretary Marshall J. Frink said today that an accurate check-up of the attendance at the fair on Wednesday had not been made, but estimates placed the number at between 8,000 and 10,000. In any event, it was one of the largest crowds that ever attended a Brooklyn fair.

This afternoon the horse racing and the vaudeville commanded the almost undivided attention of those attending the fair. In addition to the regular races listed for the day, there was the unfinished race of Wednesday to be completed. J. Carl Witter again acted as starter. The summary of the races follow:

The unfinished race in the 2.20 class was won in the first heat by Cosswego Kate with Peter Belmont second.

Miss Margaret V. Murray, 39, is dead in Oakland, Calif., relatives here learned by telegram today. Miss Murray was a native of the town of Plainfield and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Murray. She leaves a sister, Miss Annie Murray in Oakland where she had been a secretary for the chamber of commerce, and Mrs. Edward Farrell of Wauregan is a cousin.

Supt. W. E. Parker of the schools of Killingly and Brooklyn announced this afternoon that an evening school will again be maintained here during the fall and winter if a sufficient number of persons indicate their interest and register to attend. Mr. Parker pointed out that it is very essential that a sufficient number register to warrant the expense of having an evening school. Those who wish to attend must register not later than September 30. That they may have ample opportunity to do so, they may sign at the high school afternoons between 1:30 and 4:30 and between 7:30 and 8:30 p. m. on the evenings of Sept. 27, 28, 29 and 30.

On the subject of evening schools, mention should be made of the opening of evening courses at the State Trade school in Putnam on October 3. Here again the courses are free. Here, too, is an opportunity for registrants from all the towns hereabouts to have the benefits of practical courses tending to fit one to be a better craftsman and a larger wage earner. There are courses in the electrical, drafting, machine, textile, carpentry, masonry and home economics department.

There were no developments today relative to plans to maintain Danielson's mail and express service on its present basis of efficiency, though this week end will be marked by the taking of two trains that carry mail and express service on its present basis of efficiency, though this week end will be marked by the taking of two trains that carry mail and express.

Enumeration of the children of school age in Killingly is progressing, with enumerators working in the various districts. In Danielson and as far north as the bridge at Elmville the figures are being taken by James R. Walsh. Arthur F. Burton is making the listings in the Dayville territory, William S. Hunter in Goodyear and A. D. Sayles in East Killingly and territory near that section.

Electric energy will be turned off on Sunday, September 25, at 7 a. m., until 11 a. m.; current will be on from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; current again will be off from 12:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., standard time. PUTNAM

NEW LONDON MAN TO TALK ABOUT NATHAN HALE

(Special to The Bulletin).

PUTNAM, Sept. 22.—The trustees of Woodstock academy announce that Walter A. Towne of New London, who has been principal and teacher in the Buckeley high school, will give his lecture on Nathan Hale to the students at Woodstock academy on Thursday evening of next week, September 29th. The lecture has been highly praised by those who have had the opportunity to hear it. Friends of academy and residents of Woodstock, Pomfret, Putnam and Eastford have been invited to attend.

The large bowler, formerly located on the hill side back of the Israel Putnam schoolgrounds, and which has figured in the past few years in a number of broken arms and legs, has been blasted out and removed in sections.

A Putnam man in looking over some heirlooms in an attic trunk, discovered an envelope on which was written "Grandmother Day's pension money." The envelope contained a five franc silver piece dated 1827 and bearing the likeness of Charles X of France. The Grandmother Day referred to was Annis Bowman Day, wife of Captain John Day of Dayville and a soldier in the American Revolution. The present owner of the coin can give no information as to why a widow of an American soldier should receive her pension money in a French coin.

As the new football rules make it necessary to increase the distance between goal posts, it has been necessary to transplant three maple trees which marked the boundary between the Putnam high school lawn and the high school athletic field. They have been transplanted to border the field on the School street side. The trees were planted about seven years ago and are now quite large.

Edward deCarlo, who has served for the last six years in the Coast Guard service of the navy, has returned to his home in the Sawyer district on the completion of his term of enlistment. He has entered the employ of the Putnam Steam Laundry where he was employed prior to his enlistment.

James McCulloch, the six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James McCulloch of Ring street is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital where he has undergone an operation for appendicitis. He is as comfortable as can be expected.

The sophomore class of the Putnam high school have elected the following officers for the year: President, Stewart Sabin; vice president, Miss Edith Kent; secretary, Miss Rose Bove; treasurer, John Elliott. At the meeting, the class began many plans for the winter.

About 80 members of the Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R. enjoyed the pilgrimage Wednesday to historic Lebanon. All of the members took their own lunch and coffee was served by the Governor Jonathan Trumbull chapter D. A. R. of Lebanon. Each year the members of the local D. A. R. make a pilgrimage to some historic spot.

The quarterly meeting of the Women's Board of the Day Kimball hospital was held Wednesday at the chamber of commerce rooms. It was reported that $300 was turned into the treasury from the musical given recently at Carolyn Hall and sponsored by Mrs. A. Vonsiatsky. A new steam table was voted to be purchased for the hospital also an electric bassinet and two vacum cleaners. The steam table will cost $250. Reports of the last meeting was read an approved.

At the drill of Headquarters company, 43rd Division C. N. G. Captain J. J. McGarry read the special orders which promoted Second Lieutenant Charles G. Ward to first lieutenant and Sergeant Francis Murphy to second lieutenant. Lieut. Woodward succeeds Owen J. White, resigned.

These appointments are made upon the recommendation of Capt. McGarry and are effective immediately. Captain McGarry appointed Fred McCulloch as top sergeant to fill the vacancy left by the appointment of Lieut. Murphy.

Dr. Harry Sharpe, Harry Morse, Walter Aldrich, Frank Sayles and Delor Viens motored to Scituate, Mass., a few days ago and spent the day fishing off the coast at that point. They caught about 150 pounds of fish. The largest catch of the day was made by Delor Viens who landed a halibut weighing about 32 pounds and is said to have been the largest fish caught in these waters for many years. The other fish caught were mostly cod.

Erwin E. Robbins has been appointed executor of the estate of Louisa F. Robbins, later of Putnam by Henry N. Benoit, judge of probate.

Louis E. Law has been appointed executor of the estate of Ellen M. Hassard, late of Putnam by Henry N. Benoit, judge of probate.

Selectman and Mrs. William F. Warren have returned from Buttonwoods, R. I., where they have closed their summer cottage for the season.

THE EAST WINDSOR ACCIDENT

In connection with the fatal accident in East Windsor this week, where an express motor bus crashed into a touring car and caused the death of a woman and injuries to other occupants of the car, the Springfield Republican says it "challenges attention because of the high speed at which the bus, apparently, was being operated—an accident so serious as to require a thorough investigation of bus schedules and the operating speed that they require."

After the investigation is concluded it will probably be possible to tell more clearly where the responsibility rests for that accident, whether the responsibility rested upon the bus driver who did not stop his conveyance on a down grade within 100 feet and 35 feet after he had struck the auto broadside and pushed it along in front of it, but when the Republican declares "It is surely not consistent with good public policy that such a heavy conveyance as a bus should be among the fastest-traveling vehicles on a crowded highway," it is bound to be heartily endorsed.

The big vehicles that operate on the highways have equally big responsibility when it comes to contributing to highway safety. It is important not only from the standpoint of the other users of the highway but from that of those who are passengers in the buses. There may be times when it is possible to maintain the speed of a railroad train on the highways by private cars or public busses, but it is to be expected that it will be done only under those conditions where the cars are under control and where they do not menace other highway users.

Highway safety is not assured by too much speed. The investigation should determine whether that was the case at East Windsor and throw important light upon the conditions involved in the maintenance of fast schedules upon roads which are built for the accommodation of the general public. It is unfortunate that fatalities are necessary to bring such matters to proper attention.

MUCH CAN BE PREVENTED

It cannot help attracting attention that just as the president issues his proclamation for the observance of the 9th of October as Fire Prevention day, the United States department of agriculture makes report to the effect that the losses from forest fires during last year reached a total of appoximately $27,000,000. That is more than a half million each week of the year and it is invariably estimated that a big majority of those fires could have been prevented.

Ground for the belief that most of the fires were unnecessary is found in the fact that 72 per cent of the fires were known to be caused by man, the remainder being due to lightning and unknown causes. When it is realized that 72 per cent are preventable and such fire losses continue to occur and possibly increase each year it becomes apparent that there is need for every possible effort that can be put forth in behalf of fire prevention, and that means something more than the setting aside of a special day or a week for giving emphasis to this situation.

Large though the forest fire losses are, they are slight in comparison with the other fire losses throughout the country each year. But in each instance there is the same conspicuous need for anticipating the fire hazard and so acting that it will be eliminated. Such desirable results are not gained by the careless or the thoughtless. They are in fact the ones who make possible the great national ash heap each year.

We are disposed to find fault with insurance rates, to complain over waste and to frown upon those things that make higher prices but we fail to devote the slight attention that is needed in order to prevent all this. Prevention is not mysterious. It simply requires the devotion of a little thought to acts and their consequences, a recognition of such simple facts as the throwing of a match into a lot of rubbish will cause trouble or the holding of a lighted cigar around gasoline fumes will invite an explosion. There are numerous ways in which prevention can be accomplished but it calls for thought before rather than after a fire is started.

ANOTHER NEW YORK BRIDGE

New York and New Jersey put quite a little effort into the ceremony attending the breaking of ground for the new bridge to be erected across the Hudson. There will be a much bigger time when the structure is completed and ready for use, and yet both of the events are worthy of recognition.

Bridging the Hudson has been under consideration for a long time. It has run counter to the efforts for tunneling but it has gained the preference, and there can be little surprise that the people on both sides are desirous of keeping above ground as much as possible. They are even willing to put far much more money into a bridge than into a tunnel, for the latter would probably be the cheaper in the end, but New York has gotten excellent service from the bridges over the East river, and even though spanning the Hudson is a much different proposition it is unquestionably needed.

New York needs it to relieve the congestion of that constant stream of traffic that is endeavoring to get around the big city, it needs it to overcome the delays occasioned by the ferry service and it needs it to better communications between the two shores of the Hudson.

Constructing such a bridge, involving as it will an outlay of about $60,000,000, will require five years, but that will be looked upon as speedy when it is realized that Brooklyn bridge was 13 years in building, and by the time it is ready to handle the traffic it is intended to relieve the conditions will be much more congested. It will be the third bridge across the Hudson south of Albany and one that will be in constant use. As for popularity there can be no question but what it will far outrank any tunnel that might be constructed for tunnel conditions to New Yorkers or anyone else are not what can be considered highly desirable.

What was done, however, in the way of marking the start of the new bridge will be insignificant in comparison with the throwing open of the structure for public use.

GENERAL WOOD'S SUCCESSOR

Many influences are at work in behalf of those who are regarded as desirable for the post of governor general in the Philippines made vacant by the death of General Wood. It is a fact that there are those who have a good understanding of the situation in the islands and the responsibilities of that office, and what may be said in behalf of anyone of those who have been mentioned will probably be fully substantiated by facts. Nevertheless it rests with the president to make the selection and regardless of the guessing that may be done it is to be expected that when decision is made it will rank on the high level with other similar appointments.

President Coolidge has a way of giving conscientious consideration to the ability of his appointees to administer the partcular office to which they are named. He is fully cognizant of the responsibilities involved in the Philippines. It was his hope that General Wood would continue to direct affairs in the islands for a long time to come. Death put an end to that and interrupted the ambition of General Wood to stick to the job until his difficult task had been accomplished.

In the selection of a successor care will be taken to pick the man who will be fully in harmony with the administration's attitude who will possess a thorough knowledge of islands' conditions and who will be alert at all times to give due consideration to the best interests of the Filipines. It is not a job that every one would be anxious to assume and it isn't everyone who is equipped to handle it. The selection thus must and will get the thoughtful consideration of the president and when he acts it will be because he believes he has got the right man for the place.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE

Just because the United States is not a member of the league of nations does not mean that it does not send representatives to conferences at Geneva. It has already had representation at many of such gatherings and will participate again in October when there will be a conference for the making of an international agreement concerning the abolition of prohibitions and restrictions on imports and exports.

This country will send representatives because it has been invited to and the invitation has been accepted. We participated in the economic conference earlier in the year and because of it we are desired at the coming one. When the countries of Europe disclosed so much in regard to trade practices it was inevitable that efforts should be made to better the situation.

This discussion, it is to be understood, does not involve the American tariff. That was fully disclosed before this country agreed to participate. This doesn't mean that Europe is entirely satisfied with our tariff but it knows that it isn't being changed every month or so, but in Europe it is different. There tariffs and restrictions are constantly changing and it is the desire to put a stop to this steady trade war that prompts the league to see what it can do to straighten out the retaliatory attitude and actions.

Since the problem was set forth at the economic conference, it is expected that the study which has followed has prepared the members with such an understanding that a solution will be possible. Whether the countries vitally concerned are ready for the question remains to be seen.

THE LOCKED DRAWER

Ting-a-ling!

The telephone's clamor summoned Manners from his typewriter.

"Hello, Manners? This is Van Hess. Can you come over for a few minutes?"

"Why, yes, I guess so," Manners answered, "What's up?"

"Just wait until you get here," answered the voice of Dr. Van Hess. "I've stumbled on something that looks like a gold mine, and if you hurry I'll let you share the fun. I won't do anything until you get here."

"But—" Manners heard the click of his friend's receiver. With a smile that was both amused and annoyed he put down the telephone and donned his hat and coat.

"I wonder what he's got hold of now," he mused as he walked the few blocks to his friend's house. "Probably another antique. Ye gods! When they get that craze they certainly are hopeless!"

"Come in, Manners. Come in! I didn't interrupt you, did I? It's in here. Come in!" Manners gave the little man an indulgent smile and followed him toward the door of his study. Arrived there, Dr. Van Hess paused.

"Just a minute." The doctor's hand remained on the knob. "I will tell you why I called you over. Of course I know that you are not interested in furniture, but when I got this thing home I found one of the drawers locked. After much trouble I finally got it open, and what do you think was in it?" There was a flicker of real interest in Manners' eyes.

"What was it?" he queried.

"Letters!" replied the doctor. "Papers! Documents! As you are a writer and are interested in such things, I called you at once. Now I'll let you have the fun of being the first to examine them."

"Good!" answered Manners. The doctor paused a moment, then slowly swung open the door.

With the doctor bustling ahead of him, Manners entered and approached the strangest piece of furniture he had ever seen. It was not an ordinary desk, nor was it a secretary. The wood was of rough boards, yet it seemed to have been put together with some skill.

"Well, doctor," said Manners, after several minutes of study, "I'm afraid I haven't the slightest idea what this is. I am inclined to doubt that it is colonial, however."

"But it must be very old," chortled the doctor. "Come, we will look at the papers. They should tell us a lot, for they must have been in that drawer for years and years." With a fine show of ceremony he pulled open a drawer near the top of the desk. Within it lay a bundle of envelopes, tied loosely with a piece of cord and covered with a film of dust.

Manners untied the package and opened the first letters. Then his face took on a strange expression. He opened another envelope, and another, and another, the doctor watching him with vain attempts to control his excitement. Finally Manners turned. The muscles of his mouth were twitching.

"These documents, my dear doctor," he said gravely, "contain a very interesting story. I should judge from them that the owner of this desk was a carpenter, and a rather poor one at that, as this is evidently a piece of his handiwork. He was rather hard pressed for funds, it seems, and—"

"What period do you think it is?" interrupted Dr. Van Hess impatiently.

"At a rough guess," replied Manners, "I'd say that it was early Calvin Coolidge." He laughed. "You see, doctor, these documents are all bills, and delinquent ones, judging from the saucy notes attached by the butcher, the grocer and the baker. And the oldest one is dated only some five years ago!"

The doctor's face was a study. Finally a forced smile curved his lips.

"Unpaid bills!" he murmured. Then, with sudden inspiration:

"Why, really, Manners, this is even more than an antique. It belongs to no period, but rather to the ages, a testimonial to the universal and never-changing nature of man!"—Chicago News.

IN DAY'S NEWS

CAPE VERDE ISLANDS

The Cape Verde Islands, famous as one of the stopping places of Vasco daGama during his epoch-making voyage to India, and more recently in the spotlight as a landing place for transatlantic flyers, has developed its trade to a point where the state department has announced the establishment of a new consulate on the Island of Sao Vincent (St. Vincent)," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"St. Vincent is one of the 14 islands of the Cape Verde group which form a crescent about 300 miles west of Dakar, the easternmost city on the African continent. Porto Grande, capital of St. Vincent and one of the few large port towns in the Islands, is the probable location of the new office. Porto Grande is built in a well protected location with high mountains at its back and in front the massive heights of the Island of St. Anthony almost shutting in a wide, deep harbor from the sea.

"The 14 islands could be placed on the state of Rhode Island and only a few rugged edges would extend over the borders," continues the bulletin. "Sao Thiago (St. Jago,) the largest of the Cape Verdes, is slightly smaller in area than the city of Los Angeles, while the smallest island is measured by square yards.

"The governor general, appointed by the Portuguese government, resides at Porto Praia on St. Jago, a city of about 3,500 inhabitants, most of whom are negroes. Porto Praia rivals Porto Grande in commercial importance. Unlike the St. Vincent capital, which is built from tidewater up the mountainside, Porto Praia occupies a tableland about 100 feet above the water's edge, with three roads approaching it from red painted docks. It was at St. Jago that Vasco da Gama stopped before sailing around the Cape of Good Hope.

"All the larger islands are inhabited, the majority of the population being quartered in compactly built villages and towns built in small recesses in the steep mountainsides, overlooking the sea. But it is in the interior of the larger islands that one finds the real native life of the Cape Verdes. It is said that the ancestors of these people of the interior once lived along the seashore. But for a 100 years after Spain took control of the islands, the Cape Verdes were plundered by pirates. During this period the inhabitants fled to the valleys from which they seldom emerged except to trade. Most of these valley people are black but one often notes Portuguese features. They speak a poor quality Portuguese which is difficult for the European to understand.

"Like Greenland, the name Cape Verde is deceptive. It was taken from Cape Verde, Africa, and in good English means 'Green Cape' but there is little on the Islands to suggest that the Cape Verdes deserve to be called 'Cape Green Islands.' Here and there along the shore and in a few interior valleys are patches of fertile land, but rocks and sand claim the greater portion of the area. Fresh water has always been a luxury, lack of which has caused serious famines in the past.

"That the natives make the best of their barren islands is indicated by the fact that they produce indigo, coffee, castor beans, fruits, tobacco, poultry and yams. Salt is also an important product. Many of the inhabitants who are not employed in agriculture or shipping, are good fishermen and adept in making rum, curing fish and manufacturing straw hats and seats.

"When the Islands were discovered more than 500 years ago by two Portuguese sea captains, they were devoid of human life. The only excitement was the occasional overflowing of a volcanic crater. The latest eruption occurred in 1680.

"For more than 200 years, the Cape Verdes built up a flourishing trade and became Portugal's principal outpost of trade with Africa. Until the middle of the last century the natives reaped a harvest from the African slave trade. This probably accounts for the majority of negroes in the present population of about 140,000. Those inhabitants who are not black are Portuguese or of mixed blood.

"In the early days when New England was famous as a whaling center, many of the crews of the whalers were recruited in the Cape Verdes. Those who did not return to the Islands settled in southeastern Massachusetts in the vicinity of New Bedford. 'Bravoes,' the name by which they are sometimes known, comes from the name of the island from which most of the recruits migrated—Brava, the southwesternmost island of the Cape Verde group."

YOUR HEALTH

EXPERT PRENATAL CARE IMPORTANT

By C. Jeff Miller, New Orleans, La.
Member Gorgas Memorial

From an economic standpoint, if for no other reason, modern civilization no longer tolerates the loss of life for which such preventable diseases as tuberculosis, typhoid, diphtheria and other acute infectious diseases are responsible. On the other hand, it is a curious commentary on our sense of proportion that annually, here in the United States, we permit 20,000 women to die in childbirth, at least 50 per cent of them from preventable causes, and that some 25 per cent of our future citizens perish before they ever enter upon life.

Statistics are notoriously unreliable, but it is beyond question that in no other country of the civilized world is it quite so unsafe to bear children as in the United States. The material deaths for the same period were relatively greater than the casualties of the World war. The death rate per 100,000 among childbearing women has increased from 13.3 in 1900 to 16.9 in 1921, and the death toll is taken at an average of less than 30 years.

From the standpoint of the child the situation is even worse, for the fatal death rate is 13 times as high as the maternal. It has been estimated that 100,000 stillbirths occur annually in the United States, and that equally as many babies perish within a month after they are born.

The clue to these appalling figures lies in the fact that the majority of American women are not receiving adequate prenatal care. In Baltimore, for instance, where the opportunities for medical attention are unsurpassed, a recent report of the department of labor shows that more than 47 per cent of pregnant women receive no prenatal care at all. A recent analysis of deaths in Massachusetts for a single year shows that 35 per cent of the women who died after labor had no prenatal care at all, and that 60 per cent of the obstetric deaths were from causes which experience has shown can be practically eliminated by proper sort of prenatal supervision. At the New York Lying-in hospital the death rate for emergency cases is ten times what it is for cases supervised in their own clinics throughout pregnancy.

The responsibility for these figures must, to a large extent, be borne by the women themselves. In spite of campaigns of education and in spite of unparalleled opportunities for medical treatment, many of them persist in ignoring their condition until some complication develops for which even expert treatment is of no avail. Supervision cannot be given to women who will not apply for it, or who believe that obstetrics is the sort of thing that anybody can handle, forgetting that in no other branch of medicine are more special qualifications necessary.

For the sake of themselves and of their unborn children, women should not view this, their greatest function, as a light thing. They should expect and demand for it the most expert treatment that can be secured. Childbearing in itself is not an inherently dangerous thing, but neglected childbearing is, and until that realization comes to all women, the death rate for mother and babies is not destined to improve.

CHILD TRAINING

DEVELOPING JUDGMENT THROUGH CHOICES

Edith Lochridge Reid

"Shall we make the roof of the house green or red, Allen?" the teacher asked, in the drawing lesson.

"You tell me," Allen replied. "You know."

"Why do you say that?" the teacher questioned.

"Because my mother always tells me what to do," Allen answered, and he seemed almost alarmed when confronted with the opportunity for using his own mental powers.

Now Allen may be an exception as he is a very much petted little boy, being the only child of the family and the constant companion of a mother sometimes unwise in her devotion. However, there are many other boys and girls who are not watched as closely as Allen, and yet are not developing judgment.

Between too much supervision and unlimited freedom there is a happy middle course with regard to training that both mothers and children may enjoy. In this the children are permitted and encouraged to choose between "this side" and "the other side" with the help of Mother's guidance.

"What dress shall you wear this morning?" Rosemary's mother asked her little daughter.

"My pink gingham," replied Rosemary, this being her favorite.

"But you haven't looked out of the window," suggested Mother.

"Why, it's snowing!" Rosemary exclaimed in surprise. "Then I must put on my flannel dress."

And so Rosemary made a choice—a voluntary choice based on environment. It would have been quicker, but much less valuable in training, for Mother to have laid out the flannel dress with the command to put it on.

So many times mothers discount the ability and the intelligence of the little children in the home, and underestimate their powers for choosing wisely. Yet we can contribute every hour to their character building if instead of telling them the best course of action, based on our experience, we lay the facts before them and permit them to weigh the evidence and decide for themselves.

Training children to think takes time and patience and is more "trouble" than commanding, but the thinking method will live and influence future conduct when direct dictation is impossible and after home contacts have been broken.

Almost any child can tell the difference between right and wrong when both are definite, but to be able to tell why one thing is right and another wrong, or to distinguish between shades of good and evil when the border line is indistinct, requires a developed intelligence.

To demand blind obedience is weak discipline. To inspire idealism and to encourage loyalty to principles of conduct in working out the simple little problems of the home and playground develop character.

"It's wicked to fight and I want you to promise me that you'll never do such a naughty thing," Billy's mother admonished, and Billy complied with the arbitrary request. But before the day was over he had a grand scrap with the boy next door. His mother of course expressed chagrin and reproof.

"Gee, Mother," pleaded Billy, "I had to make him stop kicking my dog."

If Billy had been obedient he would have allowed his mother's teaching to submerge and obscure a righteous principle—humane protection. And so it can be observed that commands and promises are often futile but the ability to discern right and to dispense justice are among the best characteristics that we can develop.

"But He Ain't Went Yit"

Every little while they tell us that the horse has got to go!
First the trolley was invented 'cause the horses went so slow,
And they told us that we'd better not keep raisin' colts no more,
When the street cars got to moting that the horses pulled before.
I thought it was all over for old Fan and Doll and Kit,
And I thought the horse was goin',
"But he ain't went yit!"

When the bike craze first got started people told us right away
As you probably remember, that the horse had saw his day;
People put away their buggies and went kitin' 'round on wheels;
There were lots and lots of horses didn't even earn their meals.
I used to stand and watch 'em with their bloomers as they'd flit, S'posed the horse was up and done for,
"But he ain't went yit!"

Then they got the horseless carriage, and they said the horse was done,
And the story's been repeated twenty times by Edison;
Every time he gets another of his batteries to go
He comes whoopin' out to tell us that the horse don't stand a show.
And you'd think to see these chauffeurs, as they go a'chauffin', it
Was goodby to Mr. Dobbin,
"But he ain't went yit!"

When the people get to flying in the air I s'pose they'll say,
As we long have been a-saying, that the horse has had his day.
And I s'pose that some old feller just about like me'll stand
Where it's safe and watch the horses haulin' stuff across the land;
And he'll maybe think as I do, while the crowds above him flit,
"Oh, they say the horse is done for,
"But he ain't went yit!"

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Major Gen. James G. Harbord, U. S. A., retired, whom Filipino leaders have signified would be acceptable to them as governor-general in succession to the late Gen. Wood was chief of staff to Gen. Pershing in France and one of the outstanding American military leaders in the World war. West Point cannot claim the credit of educating him. He graduated from Kansas State Agricultural college and at one time expected to be a farmer. He was attracted to the military service, enlisted as a private, and got his commission as a lieutenant in the cavalry in 1891. In the war with Spain, both in Cuba and the Philippines, he made an admirable record, especially in the Asiatic archipelago, where, more than any other man, it is said, he so shaped the native constabulary as to make it one of the best auxiliary forces ever known to nations with dependencies. Since his retirement from the army in 1922 Gen. Harbor has been president of the Radio Corporation of America.

Compliment Your Guests

THE instinct of hospitality is inborn in most of us. It is pleasant to entertain our friends when we know that every detail of the dinner is perfect.

Somehow, a good cup of coffee at the end of a dinner makes everything that has preceded it seem more delicious. The thought of that last lingering sip of amber clarity will tinge every remembrance of the dinner . . . Make your dinners successful — always — by serving the Arbuckle Guest Coffee—YUBAN.

How to Make After-Dinner Coffee

At formal dinners Yuban appears in the form of black coffee. To make this, merely increase the amount of coffee by one-third, using any method you prefer.

COLOGNE CATHEDRAL IS SCENE OF SUICIDE

BERLIN Sept. 22, (AP)—For the first time in its history, the venerable Cologne cathedral, whose foundations were laid in 1248, has been the scene of a suicide. A young man of 25, from Stettin on the Baltic, shot himself in the famous house of worship.

The incident carries with it far reaching consequences. According to the regulations of the Roman Catholic church, an ecclesiastical edifice is considered polluted by an act of suicide, and the whole ceremony of consecration must be gone through anew. The consecration will be in charge of the archbishop of Cologne, Cardinal Karl Joseph Schulte.

COUNTY FAIR WITH DAY AND NIGHT PROGRAMME DRAWS BIG CROWD

Under perfect weather conditions the New London County Agricultural society opened its 73rd annual fair Thursday at the Norwich fairgrounds. The attendance for the afternoon was estimated at 7,500 and the attendance during the evening swelled this figure to about 9,000.

Thursday was Governor's Day and practically all of the stores, business houses, offices and a number of the manufacturing plants closed at noon in order to give their employes an opportunity to attend the fair. Unfortunatey Governor John H. Trumbull was unable to be present, as official state business made it necessary for him to be in New York yesterday and today (Friday)

However Governor Trumbull delegated State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers to represent him at the fair. The treasurer arrived about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and with him came General Morris B. Payne, of New London, commanding officer of the 43rd Division, U. S. A. and the general's staff; Col. Harry B Bissell, chief of staff; Lt. Col., Thomas E. Troland, assistant chief of staff; Captain Alfred Ligourie, aide; Captain Allen B. Lambdin, commanding officer of Headquarters company, 58th Brigade and Captain William t. Denison, adjutant of the First Battalion, 192nd Field Artillery. The coast guard band from New London acted as an escort for State Treasurer Rogers and General Payne.

Arriving on the grounds Treasurer Rogers and General Payne and staff were escorted to the large platform in front of the grandstand from where they view the float parade, one of the feature events of the day. At the conclusion of the parade Swahn's band was massed with the Coast Guard band to play the Star Spangled Banner.

The racing and vaudeville program then got underway and it was 6:30 o'clock before the final heat was run off It was an afternoon crowded with events.

All in all this year's fair is one full of interest for everyone. The midway is much larger and has a far greater variety of attractions than ever before. From the main gate straight back to to the grandstand the midway is covered with tents. There are booths of all descriptions, soft drink stands, hot-dog stands, cigarette, cigar and tobacco stands, novelty booths, a merry-go-round and attractions too numerous to mention individually. This year there is a new dance pavilion on the grounds and it was largely patronized throughout the afternoon.

The main exhibition building, crowded with exhibits, an up to the minute style show, an automobile show and a splendid dog show are only a few of the attractions that may be seen on the grounds.

PARADE AROUND TRACK MADE COLORFUL PICTURE

The parade around the track, which was put on at 2:30, was a colorful feature, moving around in front of the grandstand an dpast the stage where State Treasurer Rogers stood and reviewed the line.

The parade formation was as follows:

Marshall, Capt. Charles Coit; aides, Maj. F Russell Smith, Lieuts. Meredith Lee, H. W. House, E. W. Jewett and Wilbur; U. S. Coast Guard band; Jewett City Borough officers in automobiles; Jewett City float; New London city officers in automobiles; New London float; Norwich city officers in automobiles; Norwich float; Swahn's Military band; New London County Medical Association float; Retail Merchants Bureau float; retail merchants; Columbus Italian band; Thames Valley Council float; Thames Valley council, 309, U. C. T.; Norwich Rotary club.

State Treasurer Rogers Speaks

Shortly after the conclusion of the float parade, Herbert R. Branche, president of the New London County Agricultural society, introduced State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers of New London. "Governor Trumbull is absent from the state for two days" said Tenasurer Rogers. "He has asked me to represent him here," he continued, "and to express his regret that he can't be with you. Governor Trumbull is deeply interested in the promotion of agriculture and he has asked me to say he hopes New London county will use every effort to further agriculture."

Prizes Awarded

Mr. Rogers then stated that he had been asked to award the prize cups in the float parade The prizes were awarded as follows:

To Miss Mildred Olson of Jewett City, the best looking girl in the parade, first prize. Second prize to the Jewett City, the best looking float. To Mr. Mitchell, representing the United Commercial Travelers, for the civilian organization having the largest number of members in line, a camp blanket.

The judges were Mrs. Avery of Montville, Mrs. Smith of Preston and Charles A. Dowsett of Norwich.

Judges to Give Desicion

As the judges in the contest between Miss Norwich (Miss Evon M. Broadhurst) and Miss New London (Miss Helen Austin) were not able to reach a decision as to which the prize cup should be presented the announcing of the winner went over until such time as the judges could pick the winner

Floats In Parade.

Several beautiful floats made a feature in the parade around the track, each elaborately trimmed and symbolical of the city or organization by which it was entered.

Jewett City In 1771.

The Jewett City float was arranged to represent the earliest times in Jewett City at the time of its founding by Eleazer Jewett in 1771, all on the float being in colonial costume and powdered wigs. L. D. Howe represented the founder, Miss Mildred Olsen had the place of honor and her attendants were the Misses Margaret Gill, Madeline Gill, Eileen McNally, Frances Kolbus, Louise Maynard and Helen McLaughlin. There was much of historical interest attaching to a number of articles used on the float. The chairtable in which Mr. Howe sat was once the property of Spalding of Pomfret who wrote the Mormon bible. The cane he carried was brought to America by his ancestor Patrick from Ireland. The chair in which Miss Olson sat was once the property of the grandmother of United States Senator McLean. The spinning wheel was once the property of the granddaughter of Walter Palmer, founder of the family of that name in the United States and the Indian mortar on the float was found in 1920 in the planting grounds of the Mohegan Indians near Packerville. Accompanying the float in automobiles were the borough officers, Burgesses John McDermott, Edmund Jodoin, Ernest French, Edward Gray and Thomas Broome and Warden Matt Geary.

Rose Of New England.

The float for the city of Norwich appropriately represented the Rose of New England, with Miss Evon Broadhurst as Miss Norwich, the fairest daughter of the rose, who was in white, making a lovely appearance as she was seated in a large basket of American Beauty roses and carrying a large spray of the flowers. The float was covered with laurel and profusely decorated with American Beauty roses which were used along the sides and over a pergola which was arranged over the front of the machine. The city seals were shown with the words, "Population Center of 100,000."

Mayor Milo R. Waters and members of the common council accompanied the float in automobiles. The float was designed and executed by Daniel J. Hinchey.

New London Float.

The New London float attracted much admiring attention as it gave a faithful representation of Ye Old Tower Mill, 1650, The First Community Enterprise. An exact reproduction of the old mill, with its mill wheel turning, was arranged on the front of the float, behind which was arranged a bower of flowers where Miss Helen Austin, who represented Miss New London, was seated, wearing a rich old dress of the colonial period.

Thames Valley Council, U. C. T.

Thames Valley council, No. 309, United Commercial Travelers, had an exceedingly pretty float that featured the widows and orphans work of the council. It was done in white and blue, with a big blue globe of the world on which were shown North and South America, with the slogan, "The U. C. T Encircles The World." Mrs. Daniel Connelly of Jewett City, with her son and daughter, represented the widows and orphans work and George W. Mitchell appeared as a salesman. Representatives of the women's auxiliary, wearing white, seated in the front of the float were Mrs. Ernest Dean, Mrs. George W. Mitchell, Mrs. W. H. Bromley, and Mrs. Phillip Sheridan. Along the sides of the float was the name of the council in gold letters.

Norwich Retail Bureau.

The Norwich Retail Merchants bureau was represented by a float done in the national colors on which a pennant was arranged carrying the name of the bureau.

County Medical Association.

The New London County Medical association was represented by a beautifully decorated automobile, completely covered with laurel among which were twined and festooned long ropes of red and white asters. The front of the machine bore the insignia of the medical profession.

Vaudeville Program

Throughout the afternoon seven high class vaudeville acts were seen on the large outdoor platform and on the track in front of the grandstand. Swahn's Military band, led by John M. Swahn, provided a splendid concert program and also the accompaniment for the vaudeville artists. Official Announcer Edward T. Connelly, well known to thousands of fair patrons, and who has served in the capacity of announcer for some years past, as usual kept things moving right along. Mr. Connelly announced as the opening event on the vaudeville program a number by The Bluchers. Two men, both high class acrobats, appeared in this act. Their specialty was tumbling and fancy swinging and their efforts were rewarded with a hearty burst of applause. Next on the program came Laddie LaMont in a novelty act He entertained with clever juggling while standing on the top rungs of an upright ladder. It took expert balancing to keep the ladder from crashing to the stage floor. In addition to his commendable ladder act Mr. LaMont exhibited his skill in balancing himself on a large ball and also played a saxaphone number while standing on the sphere.

LaDora, announced by Mr. Connelly as "Queen of the Air" appeared in a daring flying trapeze act that won her well deserved applause. Hip Raymond, of New York Hippodrome fame, assisted by Miss Mason, appeared in a clown act that provided amusement in plenty for the large crown.

The Two Rubes, Si and Mary, staged a comedy hay wagon act on the track in front of the grandstand. Their specialty was novelty tumbling on the load of hay. It was a comedy act that was appreciated by the audience

A feture number of the vaudeville program was an act that has appeared in the best theaters in Europe and in this country. It was presented by The Australian Woodchoppers and the two artists of the saw and axe certainly deserved the applause showered on them. Their's was an act new to Norwich and one of the best ever staged at a local fair.

The woodchoppers started their act by rapidly sawing a large hickory log in two. Then they exhibited their skill in throwing axes at a large board, cutting strings which released flags of all nations. Skillfully swinging the Australian bull whip they cut paper with as much ease as if the whip were a razor and concluded their act with a chopping contest during which they chopped through hickory logs, at least a foot in diameter, in a marvelously brief period of time.

The Flying Beekmans brought the vaudeville program to a close. Three acrobats appeared in this event which was a daring and breath-taking flying trapeze act. They also were heartily applauded for their efforts to please.

The entire program was repeated during the evening and will be seen again at the fairgrounds this (Friday) afternoon

Flower Show

The flower show, for which Otto Ernst is superintendent and William Milne of Groton judge, is an interesting point of attraction for lovers of the beautiful. Dahlias, gladioli and asters predominate in the exhibition with Mrs. R. M. Gallup of Norwich taking all the prizes but one in the dahlia class, showing about 40 varieties, and Bonney gardens of West Warwick, R. I., always a consistent exhibitor at the fair, sweeping the field on gladioli with a display of 25 varieties. Geduldig greenhouses have fine looking palms on exhibition and others to show fine flowers from their gardens were E. M. Wilcox and Agnes McCloud.

Bees and Honey

Insights into the apiary were presented by the honey and bee display of Telley E. Babcock and of his son, Stuart, both of this city, who show hives of bees behind glass and delicious looking honey, both in the comb and extracted honey in jars.

John H. Sherman of this city is another exhibitor in this department, with hives of bees behind glass and a fine line of honey in the comb and extracted.

AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Gleaming nickle and glossy paint reflect the rays of the brilliant sun to mark the automobile show at the left main entrance to the grounds. Some 50 brand new, up-to-the-minute cars are displayed in a rustic white birch enclosure where salesmen and demonstrators extoll the various features of their models. The cars range from high priced limousines to the lowly but efficient tractors and speed-eating motorcycles.

The highly polished finishes of many hues make a brilliant show that in the bright sunlight fairly dazzle the prospective purchaser and those who wish they might be prospective purchasers. Most of the models shown this year are the closed jobs, as the high pressure salesmen tell one, and there is a noticeable lack of open models. The convertible model has taken the place of the strictly open type both in the two and five and seven-passenger models. Longer wheelbases and more accessories together with a distinctive type of body mark the majority of the new 1928 models which are being shown at the exhibition here for the first time.

The commercial display, trucks, light delivery cars and tractors with commercial equipment, is a feature of the show. For these models is claimed greater power, easier control and more efficient all around service. Several models of trucks are shown as well as four to five models in the pleasure cars.

The exhibit is in charge of W. S. Williams with James Osten as assistant and has been attractively laid out. Twenty-two dealers exhibit their cars with two accessory men showing their wares together with two motorcycle dealers and an auto-painting exhibit make up the show. The exhibitors are:

A. C. Swan Co., Norwich—Cadillac and LaSalle. Two models in each make.

FARM MACHINERY AND IMPLEMENTS

A tour of the farm and rural equipment row shows one that living in the country nowadays is not a hardship but rather a decided pleasure. What the city dwellers have in the way of modern comforts is now accessible for the resident of the rural districts plus good clean and invigorating air. After a walk through these exhibitions the city man can not say "ain't it tough to live in the country" nor can the rural inhabitant say with envy "Gosh, them city fellers have it purty easy with all them new fangled electric dojiggers." Both have or can have them.

Then the new models of farm equipment, besides the patent lighting and water system, show how many steps can be saved around the farm by the use of these. It also shows how labor and expenses can be cut through the use of this modern efficient and labor saving equipment.

The exhibits show latest improvements on mechanical milkers (electric and engine driven,) hay and corn cutters, water systems, electric lighting units, plows, hay-tedders, mowing machines, barn equipment such as patent litter and feed carriers, patent stanchions, engine driven saw equipments, 2-3-6 cylinder gas and kerosene engines, barn and house ventilating systems, steel silos, brooder houses and garages, ensilage cutters and many other of the small but handy farm necessities.

Many of the older firms are back this year with their exhibits while a few of the old standbys are missing. The exhibition is smaller this year but just as complete lines as ever are shown. The exhibitors are:

Eldredge Hardware Co., Norwich. De Laval milkers (electric and engine driven), separators, water systems with fresh water attachment, litter carriers, etc.

S. F. Leffingwell, Norwich—McCormick-Derring farm equipment and motors.

W. P. Holmes, Pachaug—Ross Co. ensilage cutters, steel silos, brooders and garges, Kohler lighting units and water system, Burk engines and pumps.

Aetna Engineering Co., Ashaway, R. I. and Hanover, Mass.—Burk line of engines, lighting and water systems and other farm equipment.

PET STOCK AND POULTRY

The pet stock, pigeon and poultry exhibits were on display in the space under the new grandstand, which was filled to capacity with one of the finest and largest that has been on exhibition at any local fair This department was in charge of Superintendent Carl A. Ricker of Norwich Town, who had the assistance of George M. Wilson of Bozrah. The judge was Lloyd M. Hallenback of Greendale, N. Y.

Poultry

The display of poultry was larger than the previous year, many new exhibitors being entered with large numbers of birds, some of which were of the prize variety. The two largest exhibitors were Harry W. C. Main of Old Mystic and Gem Poultry yards, Norwich Town. Frank Fitch, proprietor, each of whom showed about 100 birds of various varieties. Mr. Main Had a unique display in the Frizzles, whose feathers run the wrong way. Another rare variety, the Anconas, was entered by John B. Graves of Waterford.

The exhibitors were:

MASSIE MILLER BEATS CHAS. BROOKS 5 AND 4 IN MATCH AT SHENECOSSETT

Massie Miller, pro at the Norwich Golf club, shooting a magnificent 76 over the tricky Shenecossett course on Thursday afternoon, won 5 and 4 from Charlie Brooks, veteran professional of the New London Country club, in a special match in conection with the Norwich-New London Rotary golf match. Chief interest centered on the Miller-Brooks match although the Norwich Rotarians won easily from their New London members.

The local boy played mighty steady golf faltering only once and then on the seventh hole when he drove a ball out of bounds. This was the only time that he took a six during the entire eighteen holes. Miller was out in 38, two over par while Brooks took a 41. On the inward journey the local boy maintained the same stride that he started with and at the thirteenth had Brooks dormie five and then proceeded to halve the fourteen with a five to win the match. He continued on for the remaining four holes but eased up on the last two finishing with a 76.

Miller was playing straight down the fairway from the tee while Brooks was often in the rough on his first shots. Brooks short game was very brilliant. Massie started off strong with a birdie three on the first hole and with a par four on the second was two up in the early stage of the match. Brooks evened the match by taking the next two holes in par golf. The fifth was halved and Massie was one up on the sixth with a par three. The seventh saw Brooks even the match when Miller drove out of bounds but he made a good recovery on the next two holes getting a brace of fours for par golf and was two up at the turn.

Continuing his par golf Massie picked up another hole on the tenth but both had a par three on the eleventh. Miller then came through with his second birdie of the match of the twelve with a four making him four up on the New London opponent. Brooks was in difficulty on the 13th and took a six while Miller holed out with a par five making him five up and five to play. The local boy won on the next hole when he halved the hole with a five one over par. Brooks shot one birdie, that on the fifteenth when he laid his tee shot dead and holed out in two. The cards:

AGGIE BACKFIELD IS HEAVIER THAN ITS LINE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Sept. 22—For the first time in many seasons the Connecticut Aggies will have a backfield that outweighs its line. This was disclosed today after a study of weights of all candidates for the eleven and particularly the probable starters against the U. S. Coast Guard Cadets here Saturday afternoon.

Taking the squad as a whole the Aggies will be light averaging 163.1 pounds per man. Taking the linemen as a group, they average 166.1 pounds, while the backs as a group average only 157.8 pounds.

No definite lineup has been announced as yet by Coach Alexander, who will not pick his first eleven men until tomorrow. Despite this evident uncertainty it is a safe bet to pick Captain Eddy and Williams in the halves, Knaut at full, and either Lamoreaux or Ryan calling signals as the quartet that will start behind the line for Connecticut. And these men, as a group, carry considerable more poundage than any other Aggie backfield for seasons past. Williams is the heavy weight of not only the backfield, but the entire Aggie squad, tipping the beam at 208 pounds. Captain Eddy weighs 183 pounds, and Knaut carries 164 pounds. Lamoreaux scales at 156 and Ryan at 157, so there is practically no difference in total backfield weight regardless of who starts at quarterback. This backfield will average exactly 173 pounds to the man.

Its not the weight, but the speed and shiftiness of this quartet that is going to count most according to those who have followed practice closely. The elusiveness of both Eddy and Williams in the open field was well demonstrated a year ago and they are both showing even better form in practice sessions this fall. Connecticut followers will be disappointed if they do not get away for long runs Saturday.

While it is impossible to predict who will start in the line, Callahan and Kennedy on the ends, and Wilson and Sayers at the tackles seem like fixtures in their positions. There is little weight variation among the candidates fighting for the center trio positions, and a careful check on the possible starters in the Aggies' forward wall indicates a line averaging approximately 172 pounds to the man. All of which means the backs will on the average outweigh the linemen about six pounds to the man.

Work today was light and nothing strenuous will be attempted until the Coast Guard game starts Saturday at three o'clock. All plays to be used against the cadets were carefully rehearsed in a long session of dummy scrimmage with Coach Alexander directing backs and Coach Bitgood the linemen. Eddy, Williams, Hawkins and Ryan went through a long punting drill, and some time was also devoted to place and drop kicking. The backs and ends were drilled half an hour catching forward passes, with Eddy, Williams, Ryan and Knaut doing the throwing. The afternoon's session ended with forty-five minutes of signal drill.

ACADEMY TEAM HAS FIRST SIGNAL DRILL

The Academy football squad had its first signal drill of the season Thursday afternoon at the campus. Coach Courtland C. Whitney put two elevens through a long workout and a fairly definitely line on the first strong material was gained.

The team that looked most like the first one lined up with Billy Tirrell at quarter, Jim Kelly and McGlone at halves and Jack Marks at full back with Murphy at center, Fox and Mish at guards, Gilman and Shea at tackles and Johnny Green and Buck LaCroix at ends.

The other team had Abugel, Wotasiak, Lillibridge, Cruickshank, Hertz, McInnis and Boots Greene on the line and Aldrich, Villano, McVeigh and Fagan in the back field.

There is little more than a week now before the first game, that with Chapman Tech here Saturday, Oct. 1.

THIRD OF REVIEWS OF DUSTY LEAGUE TEAMS

Insilcos

The International Silver outfit finished in third place because of a decided falling off in their play during the last few weeks. They started well and stayed above the average ball for over a month. Their first defeat at the hands of the Richmond Radiators set them down a bit but they rallied slightly only to fall seriously during the last three or four games. They won 3 and lost 6, one full game out of second place and four from first position.

However, considering the inexperience of some of their men they did mighty well. Serafin, just off the playgrounds played nice ball for the first part only to go to pieces in the latter part of the schedule while other new comers on their squad, Zaremba, Blow, Pierce, Cripps did well, all things considered.

Johnny Greene, the two Leos—Morrin and Hamil, Eddie Koslowski and Al Mish did the best work for this club.

Most valuable—Johnny Greene.
Best infielder—Leo Hamil.
Best outfielder—Johnny Greene.

PIRATES AND GIANTS BREAK EVEN IN DOUBLE

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 22—(AP)—The Pirates retained their three and one-half game advantage over the Giants today by dividing a double header with the New Yorkers before 40,000 fans, the largest crowd to witness a National league engagement in this city. Ray Kremer twirled the league leaders to a 5 to 2 victory in the opener while Fitzsimmons hurled a 7 to 1 verdict for New York in the closing contest.

Rogers Hornsby hit a home run in each game with a man on base bringing his season's total to 26. Manager John McGraw and President Stoneham of the Giants witnessed the struggle from the stands. McGraw arrived in Pittsburgh this morning and showed the effects of his recent illness.

Benton, who started for the Giants in the initial battle, gave way in the fifth to a pinch hitter after the Corsairs had scored all heir runs, four of which came in the third. Plitt, recently acquired from Brooklyn, and Faulkner, succeeded Benton on the peak.

The second game was started by Aldridge for the Pirates, but he was driven from the mound before the first ended. With two down, Hornsby lifted his second home of the day on top of Roush's single. Terry doubled and counted on Jackson's single. Dawson replaced Aldridge and retired the side. Dawson was replaced by Peery in the ninth. Fitzsimmons gave only six hits one of which was a home run by Joe Harris in the fifth. Score:

RUTH'S 56TH HOMER WINS GAME FOR YANKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—(AP)—The Yankees tied the American league record for games won in a single season today by defeating the Tigers by 8 to 7 for their 105th victory. That feat was accomplished by the Boston Red Sox in 1912. Detroit took the lead with a three run drive in the ninth only to have Babe Ruth plank out his 56th home run in the New York half and Koenig on base to decide the contest.

Leo Gehrig established a new major league record for driving in runs when he sent two across to raise his total to 172. Ruth formerly held the record with 170 in 1921. Score:

WHITE SOX LOSES 12TH STRAIGHT GAME

Boston, Sept. 22—(AP)—Chicago lost its 12th consecutive game today when pinch hitter Carlyle singled in the tenth, scoring Myer from second with the run that won for Boston, 2 to 1. Up to that time the veteran Faber and the youthful McFayden had waged a pitching duel. In the fourth Metzler hurt his hand while attempting a shoestring catch in short center, and was forced from the game. The score:

ATHLETICS WIN BOTH ENDS OF DOUBLEHEADER

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22—(AP)—The Athletics took a doubleheader from Cleveland today, winning the first game by a score of 4-3 in thirteen innings and the second by a 5-2 margin.

Charley Bates a rookie outfielder, recalled from the Pittsfield, Eastern league club, made three hits in each game. The youngster started the rallies that tied and won the opening game. His hits include a triple and two doubles and he also starred in the field with a couple of sparkling catches. The scores:

SENATORS POUND OUT VICTORY OVER BROWNS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—(AP)—Although St. Louis batsmen forced the veteran Walter Johnson to cover with one out in the fourth innig, they failed to do much with the offerings of two other senators, enabling Washington to capture its second consecutive game, 10 to 7. Before retiring, however, Johnson took revenge by pounding out a circuit drive. Score:

ESTELLE TAYLOR COLLAPSES AFTER DEMPSEY'S DEFEAT

CHICAGO, Sept. 22—(AP)—Estelle Taylor, wife of Jack Dempsey, collapsed in her suite at a fashionable North Shore hotel tonight, the Herald-Examiner says, after she heard over the radio that her husband had been defeated in his come-back attempt against Gene Tunney.

Dundee Loses Decision

BOSTON, Sept. 22—(AP)—Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, world's welterweight boxing champion, lost a ten round decision bout to Johnny Indrisano, peppery young East Boston fighter, here tonight. The title was not at stake. Both men weighed 148.

The gloves to be worn by the principals in the Tunney-Dempsey fight cost $14.50 a pair. As a precautionary measure two pairs are ordered for each fighter, in the events of a rip or other mishap.

MRS. FRASER ELIMINATES FRENCH THREAT FROM WOMEN'S NATIONAL GOLF TOURNEY

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 22—(AP)—A little French girl's triumphant sweep over the golf courses of the world was brought to a sudden end today in the third round of the national women's championship tournament at the Cherry Valley club.

After crossing the ocean in the hope of adding the United States title to those of France and England Mlle. Simone Thion De La Chaume was beaten by a count of 3 up and 2 to play by Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, American ex-champion now living in Ottawa, Canada.

By winning, the blonde links veteran who last gained the title in 1920 advanced to a semi-final round bracket with Mrs. Myriam Burns Horn of Kansas city. Mrs. Horn sprang a surprise by defeating Mrs. Henry Pressler of Los Angeles, western champion 2 up and one to play.

The other semi-final tomorrow also will pit a Canadian against a resident of the United States. Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, champion of the dominion, gained a one up victory over Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, while Miss Maureen Orcutt metropolitan champion, fought her way through by the same count in a 20 hole match with Miss Marie Jenny, a rival for honors in the New York district.

A fatal uncertainty on the greens cost Mlle. De La Chaume three of the holes, while she could get no better than halves on the other two. From that point on the honors were even, but the damage had been done.

Mlle. De La Chaume found renewed hope at the fourteenth tee when Mrs. Fraser flubbed her drive woefully, unworried still, the ex-champion played an iron to putting distance of the hole and cooly shared the short hole with a three. It was another fine approach coupled with Mlle. De La Chaume's unsteady putting that won Mrs. Fraser the sixteenth and the match.

Her mashie second was on the green and she needed but two puts to her opponent's three. Mlle. De La Chaume congratulated her with a swift hand shake and a smile.

Miss Orcutt and Miss Jenney were evenly matched and finished 18 holes in a deadlock. The 19th was halved in fours but on the 20th Miss Jenney found a trap, took three strokes in vain effort to get out, and finally conceded the hole and match.

Mrs. Horn's match was won at the 17th hole when Mrs. Pressler momentarily lost her sure touch with the putting wand and needed three attempts.

Only a brilliant 40, two below womens par on the incoming nine saved Miss Mackenzie from defeat as she was two down at the turn. In the last four holes she was able to gain the lead and hold it.

CARDS RALLY IN NINTH TO TAKE SECOND PLACE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22—(AP)—The waning pennant hopes of the St. Louis Cardinals were bolstered up today when the Cards rallied in the ninth inning to win the first game of the series from the Boston Braves, 6 to 5, and to take undisputed possession of second place.

The Cards now are three games behind the league leading Pirates and the Giants, who split a double header with the Pirates, are three and a half games behind.

It was a pitchers' battle, Haines and Sherdel for the Cards, allowing seven hits, and Greenfield and Robertson for the Braves allowing eight.

The Braves went into the lead in the seventh with two runs, only to be overtaken in th esame frame by the Cards who added two runs. Boston again spurted into the lead in the eighth with two runs. Singles by Southworth, Toporcer and Douthit, together with a sacrifice, a walk and a Brave error, gave the Cards the tying and winning runs in the ninth.

WESTERLY

JURY NOW HEARING DYNAMITE THEFT CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 22—Theodore M. Reynolds, of North Kingstown, was named foreman of a jury selected in the fourth day's session of the Washington county superior court. The jury with Judge Walsh on the bench is hearing the case of the State vs. Robert A. Kamm, alleging the breaking and entering of a shed on the property of J. Phelps Stokes in Charlestown, R. I., and the larceny of 12 cases of dynamite to the value of $168 on or about April 4th last.

Trial of the case will be continued Friday. Kamm is under $2,000 bail with Capt. Asa Church, surety.

Arthur Church of Charlestown was arraigned on a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor and pleaded nolo. Sentence was deferred.

Thomas DePaolo, who had been arraigned on April 20 last and pleaded nolo to a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was re-arraigned this morning and pleaded nolo. The court gave the respondent the option of a 10-day sentence or to pay a fine of $250 and costs. The case was continued for sentence to Oct. 3.

The Seventh-day Baptist Missionary society held its annual meeting Wednesday at the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church. When former officers were re-elected and the General Conference recommendations adopted last August at the Westerly session as to Board of Managers were adopted as the following list:

Water getting behind one of the granite steps in the entrance to the Westerly post office building has forced it from its foundation so that it was deemed unsafe for use. Today under direction of Postmaster Thomas Lenihan the granite step was lifted and then it was found that a section of the re-inforced cement landing had dropped. New and heavier tie rods will replace the old and a new cement slab will be poured to replace the one removed.

Following a four day illness, the death of John C. Ferguson, 83, retired, occurred Wednesday at the Westerly hospital. He was born in St. John's, New Brunswick, Canada, and was the son of the late Philip and Ethel McK. Ferguson.

The rear smoking coach of the east-bound Bay State express on the New Haven road, making the Westerly station stop at 1:28 p. m. today, developed a hot box and was left on the main line track while the occupants were sent into the car ahead.

The working of wrecking the former Alling Rubber block, the northern section of three stores had progressed today to the point where practically the entire roof had been removed.

Edward Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Clarke of Westerly, returned to Amherst, Mass., the first of the week, where he will resume his studies at Amherst college.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barrie, having occupied their cottage, Breezy Lodge, Watch Hill, returned today to their home in Haverford, Pa.

Building Romance in Your Home!

In an air of romance you begin your married life and wouldn't you like to keep it? To do this you must keep happy and contented and there is nothing more conducive to happiness and contentment than pleasant home furnishings.

Our job is to bring the best furniture, in both design and quality, to your home, at prices you want to pay. We know we have accomplished this, especially during our great ALTERATION SALE

Four Room Outfit

The Living Room

This is the most important room in your home, for here you live and entertain your friends. Hence this room must be furnished correctly. With this in mind we selected for this room a 3-piece suite upholstered in jacquard velour consisting of a club chair, a fireside chair, and a well proportioned davenport. With this suite are included a mahogany finished davenport table, an end table, a table lamp, a Windsor chair and a 9x12 Axminster rug.

The Dining Room

Another important room, for here you will also occasionally entertain your friends at dinner. And they will judge you by your home's furnishings as by your own clothes. The dining suite chosen for this room has dignity and refinement and will give your room an atmosphere of extreme good taste. It consists of a buffet, an extension table, a china cabinet, a server, an arm chair, and five side chairs in walnut. An 8.3x10.6 Axminster rug completes the group.

The Bedroom

A room of privacy, your bedroom should be furnished as you, and you alone, wish it. It may be simply furnished or elaborately. As a suggestion of the former we have included a 4-piece walnut suite composed of a dresser, a full size bow-end bed, vanity and a wardrobe; a 4 band-spring, a rolled edge cotton mattress, a pair of feather pillows and a pair of scatter size rugs. It makes a very attractive group.

$155

The Kitchen

The kitchen is the workshop of the home. Here the lady of the house does much of her work, and the ease with which she does it depends on the efficiency of her equipment. Everywhere else efficiency is demanded, so why not in the kitchen, too? This up-to-date kitchen is equipped with a gas range with 4 burners, an oven, and a broiler; a porcelain top table, 2 white enamel chairs, and a room size rug.

$54

The Four Rooms Complete, as Listed

Each room group may be purchased separately at the prices given.

CONVENIENT PAYMENTS MAY BE ARRANGED.

NIANTIC

Hermon J. Gibbs left Tuesday for Los Angeles, California, where he is a delegate to the American Telegraphers' convention. He will be gone from his duties as agent at the Central Vermont station for a month.

Millard Manning has resumed his studies at Trinity college, Hartford, after spending the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Manning.

Now that school sessions have been resumed and more children than usual are on the streets, it makes the villagers wish that signs might be put at the village limits restricting traffic to 12 or 15 miles an hour. Heavy limousines of high power speed through the village at 65 miles occassionally. Lighter cars think nothing of a 40-mile clip. In view of the fact that three children under ten have been killed on the highway within the past five years, a caution sign might prevent a recurrance of such tragedies.

AFFLICTED WITH CONSTIPATION 30 YEARS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought relief in two weeks!

Read Mr. Weller's sincere tribute to the power of ALL-BRAN in relieving this dread disease:

"I have been constipated for the last 30 years. Have taken stuff from all over the world without any result. A couple of weeks ago I got a package of your ALL-BRAN. Have taken two spoonfuls with sugar and milk at every meal and ever since I am not constipated any more."

G. Weller
South San Francisco, Cal.

Constipation leads to more than forty serious diseases. Don't let it begin its deadly work on you. Headaches, pimples, spots before the eyes, dizziness—all are tell-tale symptoms.

Kellogg's is 100% bran—100% effective. Delicious with cream or milk—and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Served and sold everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Recipes on package.

POETRY

Good-Night

Good-night to all the world! there's none
Beneath the 'ever-going' sun
To whom I feel or hate or spite,
And so to all a fair good-night.

Would I could say good-night to pain,
Good-night to conscience and her train
To cheerless poverty, and shame
That I am yet unknown to fame!

Would I could say good-night to dreams
That haunt me with elusive gleams
That through the sable future's veil
Like meteors glimmer, but to fail!

Would I could say a long good-night
To halting between wrong and right,
And, like a giant with new force,
Awake prepared to run my course!

But time o'er good and ill sweeps on
And when few years have come and gone,
The past will be to us as naught,
Whether remembered or forgot.

Yet let me hope one faithful friend
O'er my last couch shall tearful bend
And though no day for me was bright,
Shall bid me then a long good-night.

By Robert C. Sands.

The village expects a saving of $8,000 to $10,000 from this economy.

A hitherto unknown letter of Friedrich von Schiller was found at the town of Asch, Czechoslovakia, by the college professor, L. Hueller. The letter, not dated, is addressed to Amalie von Imnoff, a niece of Frau von Stein, whose epic poem, The Singers of Lesbos, was included in Schiller's Almanac of the Muses in 1800. It is assumed that it was written during the last years of the great German author's life.

The hereditary of fatness, but of mice not human beings, is undergoing investigation at Leland Stanford university. Dr. C. H. Danforth, of the department of anatomy, points out in the Journal of Heredity that yellow mice are almost always fatter than their gray, white or spotted brothers and sisters. They are not only fatter but seem to have much greater resistance and ability to survive on a restricted diet than their skinnier confreres. It seems probable, says the scientist, that the fat is stored in a manner to make it readily available in time of need. Further studies are in progress to ascertain the ratio in which the mice that are fat and yellow transmit their qualities to their offspring.

THE FARMING FUTURE.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

"The old order changeth, giving place to new,
Lest one good custom should corrupt the world."

So Tennyson makes King Arthur find consolation for his own passing and that of his noble Round Table, both destroyed with all that was knightly and beautiful in the world at the great battle in the west.

Poetry is not always a mere pastime in melodious and pleasing language: it is sometimes the vehicle of a great and breath-arresting thought.

As in the couplet quoted above.

King Arthur had established a stable and, on the whole, beneficent government among the tribes of early Britain. He had substituted law for anarchy, order for chaos, security for peril, peace for endless wars and comparative comfort for universal semi-famine. To maintain this state of affairs he had instituted the famous Round Table of tried and proven knights, all solemnly pledged to defend the right and battle the wrong in every quarter of the realm. And then came treachery to undermine and topple over the whole structure and effectually exterminate all its adherents, including the good king himself. It was as he lay dying at the shore of the mere that he bade his last surviving knight not to despair because the old order had been overthrown.

It had been a good custom, but it's day was done and it had been discarded in the great scheme of things, lest its too great success should lead in a vicious circle to the very evils it was planned to combat.

"But how can a good custom corrupt the world?" you ask. "How can the defense of righteousness lead to an increase of wrong?" To say such a thing seems a paradox, a self-contradiction.

Ah, well, dear friends, this human world is full of paradoxes and self-contradictions. We are compelled to admit and accept them, whether we can explain them or not. We simply can't deny that which is plainly evident or withstand that which is irresistible, even when we can't see the reason for it. The history of the world is full of cases where the noble ideals of founders and organizers have become camouflages of infamy in the hands of unworthy successors.

Take, for a single illustration, the case of the Tammany society of New York city. It was founded as a charitable and benevolent order with purely patriotic aims and purposes. None of its founders ever dreamed that it would, through the mismanagement of later generations, become a mere aggregation of political banditry, preying soullessly on the very public it but would have cut off his right hand would have cut off his right hand rather than sign its first membership roll, had he foreseen to what a depth of debasement it was destined to fall. It began as a good custom. It has developed into a canker-sore corrupting a great city.

The thoughtful student of history and observer of current events can add to that single illustration scores of similar degenerations. Practically all "movements," so called, begin in the sincere belief of well-meaning men and women that they will lead to world-betterment. And practically all wind up, sooner or later, in a Slough of Despond or a Valley of the Shadow of Death.

King Arthur was gloriously right in founding his Round Table of virtue-defending knights: He was equally right in the welcoming its eventual dissolution and wiping out. Who doubts that, if it had been preserved, it would slowly have debased itself into a prototype of Tammany? It seems to be an impossibility for human nature to exist long in the clear hights of the upper air. Men and women have to get down into the fog of the valleys and the dust of the highways to feel themselves at home. Many of us would honestly like to go up like rockets, forgetting that, if we did, we should be sure to come down as sticks.

Now, if all this is true in the world of manners and morals it is exactly as true in the world of sordid daily tasks. It is as true for the farmer of eastern Connecticut, today, as it was for the mortally wounded king on the shore of that dim western lake 2,000 years ago.

"The old order changeth." Farming isn't what it was 50 years ago. Nor 25 years ago. Nor 10 years ago. For the last three decades I've been watching a transformation scene unfold before my eyes. It has gone "by fits and starts," erratically and unforeseeably year by year, yet with the steady certainty of fate when viewed from 10 year intervals. It has been like the hour hand of the clock. Stare directly at it and you can't see it move. Turn away for half-an-hour and then look again, and you'll know that it has moved, nevertheless.

Up to a comparatively recent date, the average farmer in my bishopric kept horses and cattle and sheep and pigs and poultry; he raised hay and grain for his animals; potatoes and cabbages, etc., for his family and for sale; some fruit to pay taxes, church dues, and like imposts; and sold cordwood for fuel in the winter.

Now that same farmer has small use for hay because he keeps but two horses and an automobile. Nor can he sell it to the city livery stables. There are not enough horses left in any average city to eat one-half the hay which is going to waste within 10 miles of this typewriter. The farmer who used to look upon "haying-time" as the heyday of the year and his hay-crop as a stand-by, now lets the grass rot on the stump, uncut, because he can't get for it what it costs him to have it gathered. I have no means of computing acreages with any exactitude, but I am sure that in this strictly rural town more grass is left standing, dry and dead, today, than has been cut for hay all summer.

So far as my neighborhood is concerned, hay-farming has gone into the discard.

Potatoes? We used to raise them, here and hereabouts, not merely by the car-load but by the train-load. Once in a long while there would be a year when rot would spoil the crop. But such disasters were rare. A dozen prolific seasons more than made up the loss of one bad year. Of late, however, blight and rot seem to be practically epidemic and almost annual. Ordinary spraying such as the average farmer can do is ineffective as a preventive. Only those who can afford to give at least semi-weekly treatments of expensive sprays with high-cost appliances save some part of the crop,—which they can rarely sell for as much as its protection has cost them. All the old time potato-growers I know of have dropped their attempts at raising the tubers. A few new ones are bravely trying to see if they can get anywhere by hiring high-salaried experts to select their seed and direct their spraying campaigns. But the average farmer, who used to put in from two to ten acres a year as a matter of course now contents himself with as small a patch as he thinks will supply his own family demands, taking the practically inevitable loss from blight and rot into consideration.

So far as my neighborhood is concerned, potato-raising is no longer accepted as a part of wise farming.

Corn? We can still raise good corn, —if we use judgment in planting and can take care of the crop with our own labor. But, if we have to hire help to do the work, the entire cash income from a reasonable yield won't more than pay the hired men's wages.

So far as my neighborhood is concerned, nobody is trying to raise any more corn than he himself can take care of.

Dairying? If one has "a milk route" and can sell direct at the door to paying customers and do his own delivering and collecting without too long a haul being required, he still has the right to look for some profit. But the average farmer, too remote from a market to make such methods feasible, who must sell to the city companies in quantity or not at all, at such prices as they choose to pay, is simply worrying and sweating for their enrichment and his own pauperization.

So far as my neighborhood is concerned, the dairying phase of farming is passing.

In other words, the old order is changing. It hurts us old fellows to see it go. We have been used to hay-grain-cattle farming, and the spectacle of abandoned meadows, vacated dairy barns, and empty granaries grieves us. We are inclined to wonder what the world is coming to, and to grow pessimistic over the outcome.

This is perfectly natural. But is it quite wholesome?

I am no prophet able to foresee the future, only a plain man using such opportunities to study the past as come in my way. And I am inclined to think that what has been will be: that history will repeat itself: that something,—I don't know what,—will eventually result not only for the improvement of agriculture but for the betterment of the farmer himself.

"Captain, will it ever stop raining?" querulously demanded a fidgety passenger on a stormy Atlantic passage. "It always has, madam," he responded and passed on.

In my day the world has gone through more crises than a June lamb could shake his tail at during daylight. Yet it has always kept on rolling. And the sun has, thus far, come up every morning.

Sometimes, indeed, it has come up behind thick clouds that we couldn't for the time being, see through. But they have always cleared away, sooner or later.

I have faith in the farming future. Apparently it will be a future of a quite new sort, not much like the past in details. The old order changes. What the new one will be I don't know, you don't know, they don't know. But somebody will know, sometime.

Such "good customs" as the old farming had may prove parents of better ones. Why not hope so, anyway?

I often wonder what I'd do if I couldn't get Rinso for my washer. Why, it works just like magic! It makes the water so sudsy that all the dirt comes right out of the clothes, and in no time at all they're ready for the lines whiter than ever. The clothes last much longer, too, this way, now that they get so little rubbing. Rinso also washes dishes, floors and tiles just as nicely as it washes clothes. No wonder every woman in town is talking about it!

MRS. GEO. C. LIEFOLD,
30 Hedge Avenue,
Norwich, Conn.

Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this.

These rich safe suds soak out dirt ~clothes get whiter!

No scrubbing — no boiling

TINY grains of soap that dissolve in a jiffy and make the hardest water soft, rich and sudsy.

That's Rinso! There's nothing like it. It soaks dirt and stains free without one bit of hard rubbing. No boiling, either — for soaking in Rinso soaks clothes so clean they're actually sterilized!

Safe—and so economical!

Best of all, Rinso gets the wash whiter, brighter than ever!

Even the most soiled parts—cuffs, hems and edges—come snowy with just a gentle rub or two between the fingers. They don't need to be scrubbed threadbare. And Rinso is so safe! Contains no acids or bleaches of any description.

With Rinso, you need nothing else on washday. It takes the place of bar soap, chips, powders. It's so economical. Feel how heavy the package is. Rinso is closely packed granulated soap—not fluffy chips.

Try Rinso this washday!

You'll never know how easy washday can be until you try Rinso. See how it saves your hands from getting red and washworn. See how it gets the week's wash the whitest white you ever saw.

Get Rinso at your grocer's and for economy and best results, follow the easy directions on the package.

Best for washing machines

Because it is efficient and safe, and because it gets clothes whiter and brighter, Rinso is highly recommended by the makers of 31 leading washing machines.

Mother Brown Misses Things

Once aroused, until 'tis dead
Suspicion ne'er will lay its head.
—Old Mother Nature.

The eyes of Cubby, the mischievous little Bear, twinkled when he discovered two towels which Mother Brown had left on the grass to dry. "Just what I want," said he to himself. "Those things will help make a very nice bed." He took one by a corner and dragged it after him under the porch and into that big hole he had dug. Then he went back for the other and did the same thing with that. Then he tried curling up on them to see how they felt. "They are a lot better than the sand. But I want more. I wonder what else I can find."

Out went Cubby again and looked all around the farmyard. But there was nothing that he could find to make a bed with, so he had to be satisfied with those two towels. After a while he gave up looking and climbed back up in his favorite tree, and that is where he was when Farmer Brown's Boy and Farmer Brown returned from the cornfield. They wondered if he had remained up there all day, and when they reached the house they chided Mother Brown for having fed Cubby.

"We'll never catch him if you are going to feed him," declared Farmer Brown's Boy. Then he went out and tried to induce Cubby to come down. But of course Cubby did nothing of the kind. He knew when he was well off and he proposed to keep that way. So he wouldn't come down.

It was after supper that Mother Brown went out to get her towels, and of course there were no towels. When she went back to the house she asked the others if they had brought them in, and of course they said "No." Mother Brown decided finally that she must have taken those towels in and forgotten it; and then she gave it no further thought.

It was two or three days later that Mother Brown missed an old piece of carpet. It was just a small strip which she had hung over the clothesline to air. When she went to get it there was no carpet there. This was queer. Who could have taken that carpet? Farmer Brown came along just then and she asked him if he had seen that carpet.

"It was hanging there when I was along this way last," said he. "I can't imagine what anybody would want of an old piece of carpet like that."

"Neither can I," replied Mother Brown, "but evidently somebody wanted it. I haven't seen anybody around here either."

Later Farmer Brown's Boy said that he knew nothing about that piece of carpet, and so its disappearance remained a mystery. To add to this mystery an old apron which had been hanging in the back shed had disappeared. So had the doormat. Though

"Just what I want," said he to himself

Mother Brown looked high and low she could find no trace of any of them. It was very provoking and decidedly upsetting. It looked very much as if there were a thief of some kind hanging around, though what any thief could want of a piece of carpet, a doormat, an apron and a couple of towels was more than Mother Brown could reason out. It got so that she didn't dare put anything in the way of clothing outside for fear it would be taken, and there was no trace of the thief. The things disappeared and that was all there was to it.

"I'm going to trick that thief," declared Farmer Brown's Boy. "I'm going to keep watch until I catch him at it."

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

THE FARMER MUST NOW LEARN TO DO HIS OWN HORSESHOEING

Instead of learning his father's trade the son of the village blacksmith has learned to turn the handle of the gasoline pump and to manipulate a grease gun. And many of the spreading chestnut trees that have not been killed by chestnut blight may have succumbed to oil seepage and no longer provide shade for the new-art filling stations. As a result the shoeing of farm horses is a serious problem in many communities. Farmers have been forced to do their own shoeing or take a chance on a unshod horse going lame just at the moment he is most needed.

To guide the farmer the United States department of agriculture has issued Farmers' Bulletin No. 1581 on Farm Horseshoeing. Farrier supply houses and hardware merchants are ready to meet the demand for ready-to-wear shoes of various sizes. The advice in the bulletin is competent and the pamphlet is well illustrated but the foreword warns that "trimming and leveling hoofs, fitting shoes and nailing them on are much more readily understood if presented in an actual demonstration by a competent horseshoer" and suggests that farmers who have seen the old village smithy supplanted by the new filling stations and garage get together and apply to their agricultural college for a community demonstration by a state specialist who knows his business.

POULTRY DISEASES DESERVE MORE ATTENTION

Because the poultry industry represents an annual turnover of more than a billion dollars, and because of recent changes in the organization and management of egg and poultry production, Dr. J. R. Mohler of the United States department of agriculture recommended to the members of the American Veterinary Medical association, meeting at Philadelphia, "what we as veterinarians must do to keep our flocks healthy in order that meat and egg production shall not diminish. We are dealing with fowls not only from a pathological standpoint, but as commercial units on which a great industry is based."

Doctor Mohler pointed out that the United States is the most important poultry raising country in the world, producing more than one-third of the world's supply, that breeders sold 800,000,000 baby chicks last year, that the hens collectively lay eggs at the rate of 750 a second or 2,000,000,000 dozen a year, and that the annual value of poultry products is now considerably in excess of the $1,000,000,000 or 16 per cent. of the total livestock production of the country, and outranked only by dairy products and the swine industry.

There is definite need, Doctor Mohler believes, for wider and more fundamental investigations not only of avian tuberculosis but of other infectious and parasitic diseases. He explained that it had been found true but was not generally known, that turkeys harbored the little worms which cause the disease of gapes in chickens, although the turkey is not usually affected. When turkeys and young chicks are penned together it is difficult to avoid losses of the young chicks. Advance has been made in the development of vaccines for several poultry diseases. Determination of when to use such remedies must rest with the veterinarians. Other fields for fundamental research in poultry husbandry include feeding mixtures and balanced rations for various purposes. Some diseases, it has been found, can be controlled by proper nutrition.

The most effective control of poultry diseases must come through poultry raisers themselves who will employ veterinarians skilled in poultry diseases. Governmental and state action in case of diseases of poultry should aim at the protection of domestic fowls from foreign contagion, to prevent the spread of poultry diseases from state to state, and to eradicate communicable diseases within a state when they appear. Cooperation among states would be advisable, and each state in which poultry raising is important should establish a competent veterinary poultry service which should include poultry research laboratories and competent workers. Quarantines should be based on scientific information and not on business expediency, and funds should be available for control or eradication of communicable diseases. In all such efforts Dr. Mohler pledged the aid of the bureau of animal industry to as full an extent as congress may authorize.

FALL PLANTING FOR VEGETABLES

Asparagus, multiplier onions for the earliest crops, and rhubarb are the vegetable roots for fall planting to give early spring crops. In seed planting for vegetables the fall work is limited chiefly to spinach, which is now planted quite as often in the fall as in the spring. Late planting is advisable so that the seed will not be started into too much growth. The seed is sown thinly in rows late in the season and the rows covered with a mulch of leaves or straw to be raked off as soon as the frost is out of the ground in spring, whereupon the spinach will start about its business at the earliest possible moment.

While spinach is always in the market it is never quite so good or so valuable a food factor as when freshly pulled from the home garden and cooked. Spinach is a cool-weather plant. It will spin up to seed as soon as the sun grows hot. The aim of plant breeders has been to produce a race of spinach that is not so addicted to the seed habit as the old-time varieties, and Danish experts have done very well in this line, giving us new heavy-leaved sorts not so fast to spin up to seed production. When the seed-stalk starts its upward career the value of spinach is over and it might as well be pulled.

Plant some of the newer sorts to get the full benefit of the crop. Leaf lettuce seed is another vegetable that may be sown late in the fall for the earliest crop. This will start into growth as soon as growing conditions permit in the spring and give early lettuce without any effort in spring except to keep weeds down and the lettuce will have a start on the weeds.

Multiplier onions may be set out this fall to give the earliest young onion crop. They are hardy perennials and, once established, are a permanent garden fixture, provided only enough bulbs are left to reproduce. This onion never makes one large bulb, but is continually dividing into small bulbs, which gives its name of multiplier. It is also known as the potato onion. Chives may be set out this fall and given a mulch and will give their grassy foliage so excellent for a mild onion seasoning in salads and many other dishes.

A few hills of rhubarb, four good healthy ones, are sufficient to supply the average family. Rhubarb roots should be set out this fall, given plenty of fertilizer and a mulch to keep them in the ground.

STARTING AN ASPARAGUS BED

Asparagus beds are family institutions that are as permanent fixtures as a heating plant, once established. They will endure for years with a minimum of care. No vegetable is more desirable and it is never cheap in the market. It is a simple matter to have a supply for cutting at will during its season. Fall is an excellent time to start the bed.

Buy two or three-year-old roots, the former usually taking hold the quicker. Find a convenient spot out of the way of the rest of the garden for the bed, which won't accommodate much of anything else except rows of the earliest vegetables such as radishes, spinach and lettuce between the hills of asparagus. Plant the hills three feet apart each way. Dig a hole a foot deep and two feet wide—it is no light work to get asparagus started right, but worth the effort. Raise a mound six inches high in the center of the hole upon which the asparagus plant should be set with the roots spread out like the spokes of a wheel. When covered, the crown is six inches underneath the surface.

Give liberal fertilizing. It is difficult to overfertilize the asparagus bed. In two years the bed will be established. It should not be cut the following season. But after that it is a family institution.

For the convenience of limited quarters asparagus may be planted to form a hedge or border about the garden, the feathery plumes making a solid wall of green from July on and a fine background for flowers. It can also be planted along a boundary fence. Often these long rows are the most convenient arrangement for the small place and the only way an asparagus planting can be conveniently placed.

Select a good variety. The rust-proof strains developed by the United States department of agriculture are excellent ones to try. Bonvallet's Giant is another standard and popular variety with good sized tender stalks. The tenderness of asparagus is more a matter of fertile soil, moisture and good cultivation than of variety as any of the kinds will give good asparagus with good growing conditions.

Salting the bed is an ancient formula and arose out of the fact that the asparagus in its native haunts is a salt marsh plant. It likes a salt dressing, although it is not necessary.

Digging in a mulch of manure (put on in the fall) each spring will be much better than a dressing of salt. Light feeding with nitrate of soda is also excellent treatment.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE FARMER

If lambs are to be born strong and vigorous, a moderate amount of exercise is necessary for the ewes during the winter. This can be obtained by scattering their roughage over a field and allowing them to work back and forth over the field while eating, or by feeding some of the roughage some distance from their shelter. If winter pastures are used, no other arrangements are necessary.

Successful training of horses requires great patience, gentleness, and firmness. A horse should be trained to think there is no limit to his power to do the things required of him, and that he has no power to do that which is against the wishes of his master. Never try to make a horse do something he cannot do. It may make him balky. Do not work a colt after he is tired. Always, if a horse cannot do, or cannot be made to do what is asked of him, make him do something else. So long as he is not allowed to do what he himself chooses, he will consider man his superior and master.

In making butter the proper time to stop churning is as soon as the butter granules are the size of wheat or corn kernels. When churning is continued until the butter forms in large lumps it is impossible to wash out the buttermilk. Too much buttermilk in the butter injures the keeping qualities.

The simplest way to keep leather articles from mildewing is to keep them in a well-ventilated, dry, well-lighted place, preferably one exposed to the sunlight. When mildew develops it should be washed off with soap and warm water, or wiped off with a moist cloth, and the leather dried well afterward.

When silage is fed to cows immediately before milking the odors of the feed may be imparted to the milk. If fed just after milking, however, the silage odors will have passed from the cows' bodies before the next milking.

In regions of extreme winters it is advisable to winter bees in cellars rather than outdoors. In such climates the bees are compelled to generate sufficient heat to overcome the severe cold. This calls for the expenditure of much more food and vitality than are required when they are kept in a good cellar during the months of extreme cold.

GALES FERRY

At Sunday morning worship in the Methodist church, Rev. Jerome Greer's sermon was the first in a series on the Lord's Prayer. The opening sentence, Matthew 6:9, Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be thy name was used. At the offertory, Day by Day, My Saviour Leads Me, sung by a trio, Miss Grace A. Chapman, Mrs. Amos Main and D. R. Povey.

In the church calendar for the week it was noted that the moving pictures under the auspices of the Men's class were omitted until further notice. All interested in the Needlework guild were invited to the vestry, Wednesday at 11 o'clock.

Miss Jennie G. Perkins was leader of the Epworth league evening service with the topic, League Ideals in High School Life, closing talk by Rev. Mr. Greer.

Margaret Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker, met with a peculiar accident Saturday evening, while she and a friend were sitting on a rug on the floor making dolls' dresses. Miss Margaret placed a sewing needle in the rug and sometime after as she was moving, or leaning over, the needle pierced her leg, in the thick part, between the knee and the ankle, and disappeared. She was taken to Dr. Edmund L. Douglas' office in Groton immediately, where only a piece of the needle was extracted. Sunday morning he was taken to the Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London, where by the use of the X-ray Dr. Douglass located and extracted the entire needle.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Turner of Long Cove, entertained a party on Mrs. Turner's birthday Saturday. The guests included Mrs. Winifred Stoddard, Mrs. Wellman Stoddard, and son Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Purvis and son, Joseph, all of Pequonnock Bridge, Mrs. Agnes Latham, Mrs. William Sandford and son, William, of Groton, Charles Turner, Hartford, Mrs. S. Annette Wilcox, West Dennis, Mass.

The Long Cove auxiliary of the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church is to meet at Mrs. Carl B. Lawson's Tuesday to tie quilts.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Latham and daughter, Miss Esther Latham with J. R. Morrill, all of Noank, motored here to call on Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop Sunday afternoon.

Nathan A. Gibbs and Miss Natalie K. Gibbs, who motored to New Bedford, Mass., Saturday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Spooner, returned Monday, accompanied by Mrs. Delia Nash.

UNION

There is to be a meeting of the Union Parent-Teacher association in the town hall Monday evening, September 26.

Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Coolidge returned from their vacation and were out making calls about the parish the Thursday before church opened. They covered a wide territory during their brief vacation, motoring in sections of Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire and meeting many friends. At the service here, last Sunday morning, there were five people from Norwich and four from Willington in attendance. The Buckley highway, past the church, makes a great difference in the ease with which people can come from a distance.

Mrs. George Kostur was called to Northampton, Penn., to attend the funeral of her uncle. She remained, the guest of friends, for a few days.

Miss Annie Towne was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Towne and family in Southbridge, Mass.

Mrs. Sarah Ballou returned from Willimantic Camp ground last Sunday evening. She had been the guest for four weeks of her daughter, Mrs. Edith Mathews.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the past week in Norwich and vicinity a good deal of progress has been made on building projects, several dwelling houses having been brought to the completion stage. Work on the addition to the Silberman store on Main street is well along the foundation for the new building being practically completed.

Since the building of the new road over Gallows Hill to Taftville there has been a large amount of building during the past six months, especially on the Norwich Town end. Here four houses are now in various stages of construction. One house is practically complete while another has been boarded-in and a third which has a field-stone first story is well along.

At the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton eight permits were granted during the past week. These permits call for an outlay of approximately $15,000 and include a number of garages, additions, a filling station and a two-story brick addition to the Eagles' Home on Cliff street.

The permits are as follows:

To George N. Zurcher to erect a frame garage at 330 Prospect street for Jeremiah D. Shea. The garage will be 18x20 feet.

To John Thoma to build a garage and filling station for Amiel Brosofske on Boswell avenue. The building will be of frame construction on a concrete foundation.

To Iva Johnson to build an addition to the present frame house at 171 Broadway for James J. Moore. The addition will be 25x10 and will contain two rooms.

To Wladyshaw Slowikowski to erect a frame garage, 20x12 feet, at 51 Twelfth street for himself.

To Paul Stecewicz to add a frame veranda to his present house at 60 Roath street. The veranda will be 5 1-2x11 feet.

To Hugh Coughlin to erect a two-car garage on Boswell avenue. The building will be 20x20 feet and of frame construction.

To W. S. Spencer to build a two-story addition to the brick building at No. 6 Cliff street owned by the Fraternal Order of Eagles. The addition will be 5x24 feet and will be of brick with stone foundation.

To W. S. Spencer to build a porch on the front of the present brick school on Boswell avenue. The porch will be 6x11 feet with concrete floor and brick walls. The roof will be of wood construction.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

There were seven sales of real estate in Norwich during the past week as compared to nine sales for the corresponding week in 1926. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $90,887 and $33,950.

In New London during the past week there were 15 sales of real estate, an increase of seven sales over a like period a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $74,367 and $42,807.

New London

Warren street will stand out in the records of this year's building program as one of the building centers of the city, in that for the short length of the street there have been five new houses built there this year so far and two more are under way. The record is quite unusual for a city the size of New London, and is more pronounced when the fact is considered that nearly all of the houses in Warren street have been built within the past few years, practically utilizing nearly all of the building lots in that thoroughfare. A new street is being cut from the west end of Warren street to the west end of Cutler street and further development is expected there. Warren and Cutler streets run west from Colman street, which incidentally has had more than its share of new residential construction work during the past few years and has now been opened through to Jefferson avenue.

The latest addition to the Warren street houses is a pretty bungalow built for James A. Verga. The lower part of the exterior is attractively painted white over clapboard and the gables and sides of dormer windows are of dark brown stained shingles, setting off the white very effectively. The roof is of asbestos composition in generous slabs which lends an artistic touch to the general appearance and there are attractive stone steps for the entrance. It has a frontage of 28 feet and is 42 feet deep. There are seven rooms and bath and unique combination sun parlor and entrance hall.

The next house which is expected to be completed in Warren street is located on the lot north of Mr. Verga's new place, and is also to be a bungalow. The heavy stone foundation has already been completed and work is well under way on the framework of the first floor. This dwelling is being built for G. S. Montrello. It will have a wide front porch and the usual attractive characteristics of the bungalow, close to the ground.

Work has already been started on the foundation for another new house just north of the Montrello site in Warren street and the foundation is practically complete. Pending the next session of the city council work is being held for the formality of having the building application acted upon.

The foundation has been completed and work is progressing well on the construction of the framework for a new house being built for J. P. Maloney in Colman street in that section between Warren street and Garfield avenue. A local contractor has the contract for the work, the plans for which specify a two-story cottage, 22 by 26 feet, with all modern improvements, including modern heating equipment, plumbing and electrical fixtures.

A two-family house being built for Andrew Gannon in Colman street is coming along nicely and work was completed this week on the plastering. The new structure is located in that section of the street between Warren street and Garfield avenue on the north side of the street along where two other new houses were recently completed. Of frame construction, 24 by 45 feet, the house is of substantial proportions and of modern design with a gable roof. The sides have been shingled entirely with the natural wood as have the front porches, a large one downstairs and a smaller one upstairs. The building is set off with bay windows on the side and the appearance is further enhanced by the construction of dormer windows on each side of the roof. Contrary to the usual procedure, the house was plastered before the windows were put in.

A two-family house being built for John Burgess is nearing completion and should be ready for occupancy in a few weeks. The structure is of frame construction, 24 by 40 feet, with the sides shingled in the natural color. Large porches adorn the front of the house, both upstairs and down. The house has five rooms and bath on each floor and is equipped with steam heat, and modern electrical and plumbing fixtures.

Westerly

A week of pleasant weather was the cause of much progress being made in completing the wooden roof to the old town hall building now occupied as a manual training school. With the placing of scaffolding about the clock tower the completion of the gabled roof to the tower was completed. Workmen at the rear of the courthouse on Union street from a temporary staging were able to reface much of the stone work damaged in the fire station fire. Bricklayers have advanced the rear wall of the Castagna and Morrone block on Canal street to the point where the wooden window casings have been set a short distance from the rear cement retaining wall near the Alba Inn.

For the second week of September Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi has issued the following zoning permits:

Sept. 7. Sarah Delehanty, 12 Summer street. Two-foot addition to present garage at the rear of 12 Summer street. James O. Lynch, contractor.

Sept. 8. John Murray, Nooseneck Hill road, R. F. D., No. 1. Bungalow 26 feet by 30 feet on Nooseneck Hill road.

Sept. 9. Flora C. Mooney, 57 School street. Two-car garage, 20 feet by 20 feet at the rear of 57 School street.

Sept. 10. Barlow Walker, Pleasant street. Two-car garage, 18 feet by 18 feet at the rear of house on East avenue.

Sept. 10. John DeKanti, 45 Ledward avenue.

Building Permits

Westerly Building Inspector Thomas Wills from his office in the Washington Trust building has issued the following permits for the second week in the month of September.

Sept. 9. Mrs. Flora C. Mooney, 57 School street. Two car garage, 20 feet by 20 feet at the rear of 57 School street. Nicholas Mooney, builder.

Sept. 10. Barlow G. Walker, 31 1-2 Pleasant street. Two car garage, 18 feet by 18 feet, at the rear of the residence of William C. Mudge on south side of East avenue.

New Zealand exports as many as 5,000,000 frozen rabbits and 8,000,000 skins a year, and it is estimated that altogether 300,000,000 skins have been sold. The most of them come to America.

NOANK

Boat Catherine, Capt. Fred Fitzpatrick, and Mate Arthur McDonald, left the packing house dock for the Race near Fishers Island to haul their lobster pots, then to try their luck at blue fishing. Setting around with their lines in the water for ten hours they never got a bite. Also no lobsters were in the pots. Coming back to the dock, when near the ship yard, Capt. Fitzgerald's cat, Mike, saw the boat coming and started for the dock which was one-quarter mile away. But when the boat tied up the cat was there for his bluefish for his supper. Mate McDonald looked at his captain and said it was fishermen's day for hard luck. The cat was waiting for his fish, but none was in sight. Captain Fitzpatrick went down in the cabin and got a can of salmon and gave it to Mike, but that was not what the cat wanted.

Linton Wilcox, third mate on Steamer Mexican, arrived in New York from a five months' trip from the west coast. It was a rough trip, striking storms on the way back, so that the steamer only made seven knots an hour. Some of the crew were sea sick, but young Wilcox is used to the water and has followed many bad storms along the Seven Seas. He said to his friends at the waiting room that the weather in California is beautiful. He also told about the sunset in that golden state and that he had never seen anything like it. Mate Wilcox will spend a few days' furlough at his home on Prospect Hill avenue.

John Jensen, Jr., has returned to New York after a visit at his home.

The American Mechanics held a meeting recently in their lodge room on Front street, for which a good number turned out. Councillor Billie O'Brien was in the chair. After the meeting the new hall built by the mechanics of the lodge was opened, by having present guests from Norwich, Westerly, New London and Stonington, also the Daughters of America were in attendance. The Six Brothers orchestra from Westerly played for dancing. Prof. Halstead Brown was prompter. The last couple on the floor got a prize, Mrs. Julia Cross and Elbert Rathbun. A short programme was put on. Eli Schoonmaker gave a banjo solo, then a one-act play was given, "His First Time in the Big City." The country boy was Elbert Rathbun. George Moore was Billie O'Brien, Mrs. George Moore was Miss Nellie Jackson. The stranger's part was played by Charles Patterson and made a big hit with the crowd. At 10.30 o'clock Steward John Bentley sent sandwiches, cake, pie, ice cream and pine apple punch. Drummer Sam Crane in the orchestra, gave an exhibition with the drum sticks, the best seen in the village in a long while. The committee was, Chairman, John Bentley, Councilmen Billie O'Brien, Elbert Rathbun.

Foreman Jack Ebbetts and men are hauling out boats for Captain Everett Davis at West View ways. After finishing his summer season at Fishers Island with his boats they will be put away for the winter. It has been a busy summer at the island for boats Captain Davis said he never saw anything like it, he could not get enough boats to supply the people there. Captain Davis will leave soon after his boats are all hauled out for South Carolina.

John Bowles, a well known watch trader from New York has been coming to the village for the last 35 years trading watches. He also carries a large stock of diamonds. One old resident got a watch from him 25 years ago and it is still keeping good time. News reached the village this week from Old Lyme that the old watch trader passed away in that town.

Many from the village attended the Springfield fair Wednesday

Sidney Butson of Bayshore, L. I., is spending a vacation of two weeks at his home.

Mrs. Edward Camway of Greenport, L. I., payed a visit to Mrs. Jane Carson on her way to Montaug Wednesday.

Paul Sullivan has returned from a visit with friends in Providence.

Elmer Hewitt was a caller in Hamburg recently.

John Daboll attended the fair in Springfield Wednesday.

co-operative fall opening Friday and Saturday

new fashionable frocks

These are practical frocks from the standpoint of fabrics. Many of them increase their silken smartness by the addition of removable vestees and jabot drapes. If the skirt is flaring or rippling, the frock is typical of the smartest fall styles. Appropriate for many semi-formal occasions, for afternoon wear and for business. Black, the queen color from a standpoint of serviceability, is fashion's first favorite. By all means make a point of viewing these groups at the fall opening Friday and Saturday.

fall hats stress various fabrics

New fall hats are notable perhaps for their versatility. Felt appears in some of the smartest, but more often it is felt combined with velvet that is more popular. Satins are shown and velvets, tiny modes, the manipulated crown being of chief interest. Ornaments of sparkling rhinestones, or glittering marcasite relieve their sombreness, since most of them are of black. Wines, browns and beiges are also popular.

$7.95 to $16.00

And you will find many fine inexpensive hats in our large fall display.

coats for fall

sport dress travel

There's an air of superiority in these new fall coats, an air easily detected in the materials, styles and furs. Venise, camel's hair, suede finished fabrics, tweeds, and the season's popular broadcloth are fashioned into coats that are irresistible. Manchurian wolf, pointed dog, fox and beaver are the furs that add the final touch of superiority to these beautiful fall coats.

Bite yourself an Alphabet

My dear, pretzeleering is so educational

Really, you know, this younger generation is SUCH a problem. Why Junior just simply COULDN'T learn his letters until we PRETZELIZED him. Showed him how to BITE his alphabet. Simply MARVELOUS the progress he's making. You should SEE him spell out:

Juniors bite them. Then they eat them. There's no age limit for pretzeleering, particularly if you bite things out of O-So-Guds, made by Uneeda Bakers.

They're crispy, and crunchy, and salty. They're good to eat and good for all who eat them.

Try O-So-Guds with soup, with salad, with cheese. Serve them with tea and iced drinks. Have them handy for between-meal nibbling.

NEW LONDON ROTARY CLUB HEARS ADMIRAL BILLARD PRAISE U. S. C. G.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 22—Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the United States Coast Guard service was the guest of honor today of the Rotary club at the weekly luncheon of the organization at the Hotel Mohican. Admiral Billard, who was formerly stationed in New London, spoke at length on the service. He said that there were 2,000 young men in the coast guard service here at present. "I can assure you," he said, "that they are not going to interfere with the rights of New London citizens, but what are you going to do with them?" Admiral Billard said that he realized New London was philanthropic and that he knew of its splendid churches and the city's religious atmosphere. He said that here was a "God-given opportunity." Admiral Billard further declared that the keynote of the coast guard is "service." He said that his audience was made up of business men and he hoped that they were conducting successful business enterprises. He said that it was not money that kept the officers of the coast guard in the service for they receive small compensation. He asked why these men displayed such earnestness, loyalty, was zeal. One reason, he explained, was because sub-consciously these officers realized they were serving the flag and government of the United States and they were representing the dignity and power of the nation. He gave a history of the origin of the coast guard, which was to aid fishermen, ships and big liners. He referred to the great memorial being constructed at Arlington cemetery, Washington, to the officers and men of the coast guard who were lost in actual conflict, the number of whom he said, on a percentage basis, was greater than in any other line of the service. Admiral Billard stated that more lives were lost last year and more assistance rendered to valuable property than in any other year in the history of the coast guard. He was given a rising vote of thanks, at the conclusion of his address.

PUTNAM DRIVER COLLIDES WITH TRUCK FROM VERMONT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 22—Gabriel Nelson, 47, and his son, Edward, 16, both of White River Junction, Vt., and Howard D. Glason, 2 Farrow street, Putnam, are patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from injuries sustained this morning when the truck the two Nelsons occupied and another driven by Glason collided in Waterford. The elder Nelson has a possible fractured skull, a bad laceration of the scalp and numerous bruises and contusions. His condition is serious. The younger Nelson received a possible fracture of the skull, a fractured rib and bruises and contusions. Glason received lacerations and bruises.

Glason's truck was being driven in a westerly direction on the New Haven turnpike and the other truck was headed in the opposite direction. When the two trucks were approaching Mossbroker's corner, Glason diverted his truck toward the shore road, or the highway for Niantic. Nelson undoubtedly believed that the Glason truck was to continue on the trunk line and did not figure on Glason's truck taking the Niantic road. The result was a head-on crash, for as Glason's truck left the trunk line it was crashed into by Nelson's truck. The force of the collision hurled all the men to the highway, besides completely wrecking both machines. Nelson and his son landed on their heads and the elder Nelson was rendered unconscious. The father and son were found in the highway by John W. Barrett, Station 12, Waterford, who brought the injured man and boy to the hospital. Glason was brought to the hospital in another conveyance. The state police were notified of the crash and an officer made a partial investigation. He will not be able to conclude it until Nelson and his son are in a condition to speak.

RAID AT LEFEMINA' S YIELDS VARIETY OF BOOZE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 22—The first liquor raid in this city in many weeks took place this evening when the raiders ransacked the residence of Francesca LaFemina, 44 Smith street. LaFemina was arrested charged with keeping with intent to sell. He was released upon being presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran, as he furnished a surety on his bond of $1,000. The raiding force consisting of Prohibition Enfocement Agent Joseph Fitzpatrick and Sergeants Nelson Smith, Samuel Hick and John Cavanaugh and Patrolman William Manice and Motorcycle Officer Elwood Bailey went to LaFemina's house shortly after 6 o'clock. Entrance was easily gained and a systematic search was started, resulting in the finding of considerable liquor which was seized. The liquor consisted of a barrel of wine, one gallon of alcohol, 12 bottles of wine, one bottle of gin and a quantity of home brew beer. Besides the liquor seized, four pea-coats belonging to sailors were found there and seized. It is believed that the coats were being held by LaFemina until such time as the sailors redeemed them for money advanced the latter. It is also understood that complaint had been made to the prohibition agent because of LaFemina selling liquor to uniformed men. LaFemina and his wife were arrested several months ago for the same offense and in the police court they were fined $400.

FRANK A. COMSTOCK GIVING COLLEGE 20 ACRES OF LAND

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 22—Frank A. Comstock of Williams street will within a few days present Connecticut college as a gift 20 acres of land adjoining the college property in Williams street. The land is at the westerly side of the trunk highway and is bounded on the north by land of the college, on the east by college property, west by the old Philip Bindloss property and on the south by land belonging to Mr. Comstock. The skating pond used by the college girls is on this land and there is also a quarry there. Mr. Comstock will reserve the right to use stone from the quarry for a period of ten years. The deed to this land has not yet been transferred, but it will be before Oct. 1. The property is situated within the city limits and will be a valuable asset to the college.

Some time ago Mr. Comstock sold land to the college and he promised that at some future time he would make the institution a gift of land. Not so long ago he promised that he would give the college a deed to these 20 acres by Nov. 1, so he has decided to transfer the property on or before the first of next month.

Making the claim that the city of New London failed to live up to its agreement in regard to building and maintaining a public highway from Ashcraft road to Cedar Grove avenue in consideration for a certain portion of her land, Mrs. Annie R. Morgan, through her son and counsel, Attorney George Curtis Morgan, has instituted a $20,000 damage action against the city. This is believed to be the first suit of its kind ever brought against this city. The papers were served by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs and are returnable to the superior court in October. In the situ, Mrs. Morgan charges the city with having carted away for its own use, tons of dirt, stone and filling and with having torn down fences and walls upon her property, leaving her land high above the way which was cut through, compelling her to expend large sums of money to grade and put her property back into shape.

An automobile truck owned by the Troy Laundry of this city and driven by Bernard Fabricant, backed against a delivery auto owned by S. A. Weit, Groton grocer, on Chester street, Groton, yesterday afternoon, the Weit auto sustained a damaged radiator, bent axle and shattered windshield. The crash resulted from Fabricant driving against traffic, it is claimed. No arrest was made.

Mrs. Gasparre India and infant son, of Mystic and Austin Mattson, Hartford, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Capt. Adolphus Andrews, commandant at the submarine base, has issued an order, which, he believes, will greatly reduce the number of automobile accidents on the military highway. Capt. Andrews' edict is that no automobile shall be driven on the base reservation at a speed greater than 20 miles an hour. The order carries with it provision for penalty for a violation, the penalty being disciplinary action and cancellation of permit to drive an automobile within the limits of the submarine base.

F. J. Morrissey, 169 Naples road, Brookline, Mass., made complaint to the New London police tonight that last Tuesday night his gray top coat was stolen from his automobile while the car was parked on Broad street, near Huntington street. Because of the delay of Morrissey in reporting the theft there is little likelihood that the thief will be caught or the coat recovered.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. William E. Golding of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Laura Golding, to Charles L. Raymond of Flanders, son of Mrs. I. Q. Raymond, of this city.

Max Fern, State street merchant, is in Buffalo, N. Y., where he will attend the restaurant world's fair. He will be absent from New London several days.

At a meeting of Joynt assembly in Temperance hall last night delegates were chosen to the annual convention of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus, which will be held in New Haven, Oct. 14 and 15. The delegates are Mrs. Charles H. Cables, Mrs. James Harkins, Mrs. Annie T. Henley, Mrs. Margaret Watterson and Mrs. William S. Guerin. Mrs. Andrew Rowley and Mrs. Frank Spellmen were elected alternates.

Mrs. C. D. Prince, of 197 Bank street, was operated upon yesterday at the private hospital. Her condition today was reported as being as comfortable as could be expected.

Benjamin T. Marshall, Jr., son of Benjamin T. Marshall of Connecticut college and Mrs. Marshall, is pursuing studies at Deerfield academy.

Miss Prudence Geer has returned to her home in Gainesville, Fla., after spending the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. William Geer, of Hempstead street.

The Fishers Island Navigation company, owners of one of the largest piers along the city's waterfront, is to make important repairs there. The pier, which adjoins the municipal pier, has been in need of repairing for a long time and the city's dock having received new planking and stringers, the Fishers Island company is to cause the repairs to its property to be made without delay. At the approach to the pier is a wooden building, which is now used as a confectionery store. This building will be razed and where the foundation exists, will be filled in and surfaced with concrete for the owners have decided not to build on the site. The entire pier will also be re-planked It is planned to have the razing of the building and the re-planking of the pier started on October 1.

Mrs. John Neidermann, of Lyme; Miss Doris Morin, Mystic; Miss Daisy Crandall, Mystic and Floyd Carling, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial associated hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Ella B. wife of Henry M. Sprague, of Groton, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Seabury Memorial church, Groton, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The service was read by Rev. Frederick Haist. The bearers were Howard A. Edgcomb, Loren Perkins, Frank Walker, Clark Smith, Charles Bloeser and Louis MacKenzie. Burial was in Riverbend cemetery, Westerly.

The funeral of Charles W. Lamb, formerly of Mystic, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of his nephew, Halsey E. Packer, 135 Vauxhall street, the services being conducted by Rev. L. J. Shepler, pastor of the First Baptist church, Mystic. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic.

Lawrance Wilson, of Crystal avenue, went today to Middlebury, Vt., where he will pursue studies at Middlebury college.

William Garvis, Victor Titus and Edward Foley, sailors, stationed at the United States Coast Guard station pier, were in the police court this morning charged with breach of the peace. All of the sailors were found guilty and were fined $10, but the execution of the sentence was suspended. Garvis, Titus and Foley met on North Bank street, corner of John street, about 11.30 o'clock last night and within a short time they were fighting each other. The police were notified of the battle and Motorcycle Officer Elwood Bailey and Patrolman William Riordan arrested the three.

Stanley Olddan, of Rutherford, N. J., and Thomas J. McGuire, 42 Pleasant street North Attleboro charged with violation of the city's parking ordinances, failed to present themselves in court and their bonds were declared forfeited.

Mrs. Leybovitch, of 21 North Bank street, made complaint to the police today she had been robbed of $45 and that she suspected one of her lodgers of committing the theft. Mrs. Leybovitch does not know when the money was stolen for she deposited it in a supposed secret hiding place last Monday and did not have occasion to using it until this afternoon. When she went to where she had placed it she discovered the theft.

George Mills, of West street, this city, employed as clerk at the Economy store, Thames street, Groton, was found unconscious in the store this morning. It was at first believed that Mills had suffered a shock, but when a physician examined him it was determined that he had fainted. Mills went to the store as usual and a short time afterwards he was stricken with the fainting attack and collapsed. When a customer entered the store and found Mills on the floor a physician was summoned. After Mills was revived he was taken to his home.

Henry T. Wells, 245 Crystal avenue, who was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital last night suffering with gangrene of the leg, will probably undergo an operation tomorrow or Saturday. The affected member will be amputated at the knee.

Adrianna Caracausa has sold a house and lot on Brooks street to Irene Limas and Manuel Marshall.

Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky, against whom changes have been preferred by Jack Whiteside, proprietor of a concession at Ocean Beach of conduct unbecoming an officer and who will be given a hearing in the office of City Manager William A. Holt, next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, today flatly denied his latest accusation, conduct unbecoming an officer, which was informally made yesterday by Constable Chester H. Brigham, of Waterford. Not only does Selesnitsky deny the accusation of Brighman, but he denies even talking with or seeing Brigham last Tuesday when Brigham claims he was subjected to verbal abuse from Selesnitsky, who was performing traffic duty on Bank street, corner of Howard street. Selesnitsky today retained counsel to protect his interests. Selesnitsky in referring to the latest accusation intimated that he was "being framed." He also said that he intended to contest to the bitter end, any charges. Brigham may formally bring against him. Selesnitsky is one of the youngest members of the New London police department.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lyceum Theater, New London

In bringing Dracula to the Lyceum theater, New London, for an engagement of two nights beginning, Monday, Sept. 26th, Horace Liveright is following his desire to give the theatergoers of this country plays that are different. Mr. Liveright discovered the author of The Firebrand and was responsible for the production of that play. Next was his production of Hamlet in Modern Dress. Many theatergoers thought Mr. Liveright was taking liberties with the classics, but those who saw the play were enthusiastic about it. Following on the heels of Hamlet, Mr. Liveright gave to the stage Dreiser's. An American Tragedy which ran all last season at the Longacre theater, New York.

Last spring Mr. Liveright saw Dracula in London and immediately purchased the American rights for this country. Mr. Liveright commissioned John Balderston, representative in London of the New York World, to make the Americanization of the play. And this is the version that will be given here and in New York, where it opens October 3rd.

Bela Lugosi, a famous Hungarian actor will create the role of Dracula for this country. Dorothy Peterson, last seen in All God's Children, will play the girl. Edward Van Sloan, whose performance in Sweiger is still an outstanding memory, will play the Dutch scientist; Terence Neill, with Jeanne Eagels in The Cardboard Lover, will play Jonothan Harker, Clarence Derwept, of Rapid Transit and The House of Ussher, will be seen as Lucy's father. Bernard Jukes, imported by Mr. Liveright to play his original role will be seen as Renfield. Alfred Frith, an Australian actor, and Donnee Waldron complete the cast.

Real Estate Sold

Norwich Land Title and Ins. Co., sold for John Senetzki at 246 Summit street a handsome 7 room cottage with all modern improvements to Henry E. and Madeline B. Burke, which is going to be their permanent home. This makes the fourth house this agency has hold for this builder.

Although "face-lighting" may keep a person looking youthful in looks, science has yet to discover any method of rejuvenating hands, which give away age even more thoroughly than faces.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Today marks the opening of the Autumnal season.

One hundred years ago today died Freeman Walker, one of the early U. S. senators from Georgia.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

If you want to see a real show, one that is sure fire from start to finish, don't fail to see it at the Palace for the last times today and tomorrow. Five acts of real vaudeville may be seen, featuring Billy Goldie Revue, a fast flashy song, dance and fun revue. Sherrie and Bill Matthews billed as The Personality Girl and Boy Friend sure live up to their billing. Raymond Barrett and company, a marital skit on Too Much Married Life was a wow, very cleverly put over and was afforded a lot of applause. Hall and Moore a man and woman team with pleasing voices and lots of pep held up their end of the program with songs and funny chatter. The Martelles two eccentric performers opened the bill with sensational novelty and comedy hits that went big. All told a peach of a show and was very well received.

Literally speaking, the audience at the Palace last night, went wild about W. C. Fields' new Paramount comedy Running Wild. The former stage comedian has never appeared to better advantage than he does in this true-to-life characterization of a timid soul who changes his entire outlook on life when a stage hypnotist convinces him that he has become a "roaring lion!"

Why? Because Running Wild is human. Elmer Finch, the hero, is the sort of browbeaten clerk and henpecked husband you meet day in and day out. As the title writers puts it, he is only the head of his family on the income tax blank. Even at home, a man's rightful castle, poor Elmer is made to feel as small as a pin head. Wifey jumps on him, step-son pulls his leg, the dog bites it and—well as the philosopher has it, life is sad. To add to his troubles, daughter wants to marry Jerry Harvey, his employer's son and Harvey Sr. is opposed to the match because of this spineless man which he imaginess must run through the whole family.

Broadway Theater

If you want entertainment of the highest order, in which comedy, drama, pathos and all the other qualities of our lives are intermingled, don't fail to see Alias the Deacon, the Universal-Jewel production which opened its engagement of three days at the Broadway theater, yesterday afternoon.

Jean Hersholt, in the part from which the name of the picture is taken, gives a performance which will live long in our memories. So human, and handled with such delicacy and restraint, he establishes himself, if he has not already done so before, as one of the very finest actors the screen has ever seen.

The cast which plays in support of this brilliant character star is no less capable. June Marlowe and Ralph Graves are ideal as the girl and boy for whom the amicable old "deacon" sacrifices so much.

Myrtle Stedman, Ned Sparks, Lincoln Plummer, Tom Kennedy, Maurice Murphy, George West and others play principal roles in the supporting cast.

The "incomparable screen cast" is due at the Broadway theater next Sunday, when The Routh Riders opens.

On the side of youth there are Mary Astor, leading woman, and Charles Farrell and Charles Emmett Mack, leading men. The so-called veterans are Noah Beery, George Bancroft and Fred Kohler, who have great followings. Frank Hopper, double of Theodore Roosevelt, has a superb role.

WESTMINISTER

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Baker were recent guests of the Koch farm.

Summer guests at Mr. and Mrs. Allen Moody's were Mrs. Selma Kusch and son of Westbury, N. Y.

Mrs. Amanda Stahlberg and son, Elmer, with her three little daughters, Eleanor, Edith and Evelyn, also Miss Emma Jacobson and R. Johnson and little Ethel Johnson were recent guests of Axel Helstrom and wife, returning to New York.

Miss Wilhelmina Linnell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Linnell with Miss Minnie Frost, has returned to New York, where she is principal of the city's high schools. Miss Frost is a junior high teacher, arriving on steamer Pennland Labor day. Together they have toured England, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, France, Scotland and Wales.

Recent week end guests at Elm Arch farm included Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nash, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Albin and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Sutton, all of Darien, making the trip by automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. A. Jones entertained the Kennellys from New Jersey. Mrs. Kennelly is a daughter.

Earle MacLeod was at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. MacLeod, returning to his work with the Western Electric company of New Jersey, in Jersey City.

Before most of the summer folks left two social events of interest occurred in the shape of the annual Band of Mercy gathering, this year at the Moody home, with ice cream and other refreshments, and the community picnic, on the lawn of the church. Both entertainments were well attended.

Ernest Wilhem of Richmond Hill, N. Y., was a week end guest at Mill Dale farm last week.

Henry and Dorothea Miller spent the week end at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller whose other guests were Joseph Lebenna, of Mineola, Jack Smith, of Unionville, Joseph Grundle, Karl and Marie and Ruth Grundle, all of Hempstead, L. I. Jack Grundle has been spending a month with the family of his uncle and aunt at Mill Dale, while Elmer Miller has been spending a month with his relatives in Hempstead.

The republican caucus was well attended. In the absence of the chairman of the town committee, Levi Clark, the deputy chairman, Mrs. Lillian Frink called the caucus to order. W. F. Herr was elected moderator and Mrs. Frink, clerk. Among the various nominations was that of Howard A. Rix for the school board. Christian Kerr was unanimously nominated as first selectman, he having filled that office very acceptably, for three years. The last chance to become voters in Canterbury was Saturday the 17th, when several were "made."

The few able to be present at Echoland farm, the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Malcomb R. Wibberly, at the September W. C. T. U. meeting greatly enjoyed the afternoon.

Mrs. Martha Warren returned from a business trip to her home in Hartford, Sept. 12, after an absence of two weeks.

The Six Church fellowship planned to meet in Wauregan, Sept. 13, was given up to allow pastors wishing to do so, to attend the Interdenominational pastors' conference of two days at the new buildings of the Hartford Foundation School of Theology. The fellowship of Six churches at Wauregan usually meets in May, but was then postponed so as not to be held during the 15 church evangelistic meetings under Dr. and Mrs. Milton S. Rees.

The Ministers' union of Windham county held an all-day meeting in the second church, Putnam, Tuesday, Sept. 20, with Rev. J. F. English, the pastor.

Miss Caroline Perkins, a pupil in Westminster Hill school when living with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Perkins, some years ago, and who has since been with her mother in Massachusetts has decided to spend the winter with her grandparents, where she has been visiting for some weeks.

Raymond school was reopened with 16 pupils, for the present school year, Wednesday, September 14th. Mrs. Holmes agreed to substitute until a regular teacher is obtained.

The Westminster Hill school club has reorganized, with Harry Helstrom, president, Beatrice Newton, executive and Clara Green, secretary. Birthdays of noted Americans and others are to be a special feature.

Supervisor Floyd has the town of Scotland schools added to those previously under his charge. He visited schools in this part of town during their first week of the year.

Mrs. Jessie A. Meade formerly of Sunnymeade farm is spending the fall and winter with her sister, Mrs. Ida Shorter, returning from Ancram, N. Y., where she was for several weeks with her son Fred and family in time for the caucus. Another son, Murray and family of New London accompanied her for a short visit here.

Charles Lewson has not yet fully recovered from a shock received some weeks ago, but is much improved.

The road work is progressing more rapidly than when hindered by frequent rains.

Among many summer guests of Mrs. Ida M. Shorter were two of her sisters, the Misses Bunce of Richmond Hill, N. Y.

Clifford Williams was suddenly smitten with pneumonia, and Monday was reported in a critical condition. Mr. Williams was driving a large truck for the construction company last week, as he had for some time.

Arthur Edmond was a guest recently in the Barber home, Lisbon, where he was employed some years prior to the death of his father, Deacon Edwin Edmond.

Tony Bruno, 34, blacksmith for the Amos Bridge's Sons Construction company in their road work here, was found sitting in a chair in the Huling house, dead at about 11 a. m. Monday, by Supt. Barnes. He was a native of Italy where his wife lives. It was remembered that he said he did not feel well in the morning and ate nothing.

Sunday next the morning worship will be in charge of one of the young people of the congregation. In the evening the local Laymen's league will conduct the 16-church meeting at Westminster, at 7 o'clock. There will be special music, instrumental and vocal.

President Of U. S. Steel

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, whom it is rumored has a good chance of becoming the chairman of the board of that corporation, succeeding the late Elbert Gary. This is a recent photograph of Mr. Farrell.

Iowa Woman Found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Always Helpful

Vinton, Iowa.—"When I was seventeen years old I had to stay at home from school. I finally had to quit school, I was so weak. I suffered for about two years before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then I picked up one of your books and read it. I began taking the medicine. Now I am a housekeeper with six children, and I have taken it before each one was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. When I am not as well as can be I take it. I have been doing this for over thirteen years and it always helps me. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone I know what the Vegetable Compound does for me."—Mrs. Frank Sellers, 510 7th Avenue, Vinton, Iowa.

Many girls in the fourth generation are learning thru their own personal experiences the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mothers who took it recommend it to their daughters as a dependable medicine.

MARKET WAS WEAK

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A wave of selling in the stock market, having its inception at the opening and continuing throughout the session, was the principal development in the financial markets today. The unloading process was widespread, but principal pressure was brought to bear on recent speculative favorites which have been rapidly moving forward.

The few business developments during the day were mostly bearish in character, including a 3 per cent decline in steel operations, and expectations that a large increase in brokers' loans was due to follow settlement of contracts today in the new stock of General Motors corporation. The appearance of the market gave an impression that many traders were disposed to get out of stocks which could be absorbed only at considerable concession in price. Banks called about $35,000,000 in loans, but the money market showed little change, the call rate holding steady at the renewal figure of 4 per cent.

One of the sensational features of the day's trading was a sudden 14 point break in Baldwin Locomotive common, which sold as low as 240 for the first time since early in August. A partial rally set in toward the close and the stock ended the day around 250 with a net loss of 3 3-4 points. The selling followed the announcement that no change had been made in the directorate.

U. S. Steel common was sold in huge volume, getting to 150 1-4 and closing only a half point above that figure, down 3 3-4 on the day. General Motors fared little better, the old stock ending the day at 264 after rallying from 262 1-2, against yesterday's close of 266 7-8. The new stock sustained a net loss of 1 3-8 points.

Losses ranging from 1 to as much as 9 points were sustained by a long line of recent pool favorites, such as Cable Threshing Machine, American Smelting, Dupont, Eastman Kodak, Postum Company, and many of the copper, oil and motor and accessory shares. Houston Oil declined more than 5 points and Midcontinent 6 1-8, selling off the latter being accelerated after the commission of the dividend.

Railroads participated widely in the reaction, particularly such outstanding issues as Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, Baltimore & Ohio, Kansas City Southern and New York, Ontario & Western. Most of the utilities also displayed consistent weakness.

A few of the low priced issues reached new lows for the year, including Fabre Exchange, Foundation Company, National Bellas Hess and Briggs Manufacturing. During the morning, efforts to stem the tide of selling were successful in bidding up a few specialties into new high ground. Among these shares were Purity Baking A and B, Cudahy Packing, Goodrich Rubber preferred and Warren Brothers. These issues, however, failed to maintain all their gains, but joined the general decline after their moment of strength.

An advance in Sterling Cables to a new high for the year around $4.8625 marked the firm foreign exchange market. Spanish pesetas went up 14 points to 17.47 cents, and Japanese yen 19 to 46.63. French francs ruled slightly higher, just above 3.92 cents.

The principal commodity markets showed only minor changes, except 29 to 36 point recessions in cotton futures. Coffee prices held firm and sugar futures were virtually unchanged. Wheat futures sagged fractionally.

TAFTVILLE

Miss Sarah Oliver observed her 11th birthday Saturday at her home in Occum by entertaining a number of her young friends. Many games were played and the hostess received a number of birthday remembrances. A delicious collation of sandwiches, cake, ice cream and cocoa was served by Mrs. Bert Oliver, assisted by Mrs. Lillian Brouillard, Mrs. William Hassler and Mrs. Ira Leonard. The guests who attended included Bert Brouillard, Marceline Oliver, Julia Oliver, Eva Oliver, Katherine Topliff, Ruth Hassler, Ora Chabotte, Cecile Fornier and Agnes Carr.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. DeCelles of Blissville have purchased the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown on Boswell avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Brown are moving to Lebanon, where they have purchased a residence.

Miss Doris Bateson has returned to her home on Occum Heights after spending several days with friends in Blackstone, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Parr have returned to their home in Schenectady, N. Y., after a visit of several days with Mr. and Mrs. Felix Parr of Occum.

The last meeting of the Phi Alphas was held with Miss Flossie M. Meyer at her home in Blissville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bauer of New Bedford, have been guests of friends in town this week, making the trip in their motor. Mr. and Mrs. Bauer are former Taftville residents, Mr. Baeur being the time being overseer in the No. 1 weaving department of the Ponemah Mills, at which time they resided on North Second avenue. Since leaving here, Mr. Baeur has been connected with a weaving plant in New Bedford and has just recently returned with Mrs. Bauer from a European trip.

Mrs. George Cole entertained the Sunshine class of the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church school at her home in Versailles Wednesday evening. Games of various kinds were played nad refreshments were served. The next meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. William Hassler.

A new residence for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spielvogel and family is being erected on the Jewett City road.

Miss Ruth Clark of Stratford, Conn., has been a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Mell at their home on Baltic road.

John Coffey of Occum is enjoying his annual vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Airey and their children, Albert E. Airey, Herbert Airey and the Misses Phyllis and Elsie Airey of North Second avenue, who are touring the Province of Quebec, are sending their friends in town cards from the city of Quebec, where they were on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Laroche of Occum have had as a recent guest Theodore Demers of Providence.

Recent dog show records show that Klepetovsky, a young Samoyede dog bred by Rurik kennels of Taftville, and now owned by Albert E. Crowell of Edgewood, R. I., went to winners and the best of the breed at the Haverhill, Mass., show this week. This dog was the sensation of the Samoyede class at this year's Providence show, when he went through to best of the breed although it was his first appearance in the ring and he was competing against two champions and other veteran show dogs. He was sired by Champion Snyeg of Rurik kennels.

TRINITY METHODIST HOLDS FIRST BOARD MEETING

The first board meeting of the year was held Thursday evening by Trinity Methodist Episcopal church at which plans for the fall and winter work was decided upon. Among other things it was decided to inaugurate a go-to-church campaign in October. J. B. Stanton, vice chairman, presided at the meeting.

Continuance for a Year

The case against Charles Yuraszk of No. 197 West Main street, charged with driving a machine while his license is suspended was continued for one year, when it came up in the city court Thursday morning. This action was taken because of the fact that he did not receive official notification of the suspension from the state motor vehicle department until late Wednesday afternoon. He was arrested early Wednesday evening.

MAPES SILK WINS FIRST MONEY IN FEATURE TRACK EVENT AT FAIR

Mapes Silk owned by N. P. Wheeler, White River Junction, Vt., and driven by R. Nickerson, won first money in the feature event, 2.20 class pace, for a purse of $1,000 at the fairgrounds, Thursday, the opening day of the New London County Agricultural society's annual three day fair. In the 2.25 class, trotting, purse $500, first money went to Good Time Peter, b. g., owned by T. Squares, Hartford and driven by C. Swan. First money in the third event, two year old trotters, purse, $600, went to Azure Volo, a Taunton, Mass., horse driven by H. Brusie. The three events were run off without mishap. The 2.25 class event went five heats and it was 6:30 o'clock before the horses passed the wire for the last time Thursday afternoon.

Mapes Silk Gets First Money

The racing got underway shortly after 2 o'clock when the 2.20 class was called. This was a pacing event for a purse of $1,000 and the Bliss cup, donated by the Bliss Jewelry Co. There were seven starters, Jazz Direct being an added entry. The first heat was somewhat delayed as one of the horses broke a check rain just as he entered the track. After scoring a half dozen times the horses got away to a good start. Frank Chidister and Miss Yerger were leading in the first half mile but Mapes Silk closed up on the home stretch and won the heat, Frank Chidister coming in second. Gipsy Woolworth was distanied.

In the second heat Jazz Direct was well in the lead at the half and maintained first position throughout the mile, finishing first, Mapes Silk coming in second.

However in the third and final heat Mapes Silk again took the lead, finishing first and winning first money, $500 and the Bliss cup. The summary:

2.20 Class, Purse $1,000
Pacing, Three Heats, Bliss Cup

Money division, $500 to winner; $200 to second horse; $120 to third; $100 to fourth; $80 to fifth.

Six Starters in 2.25 Class

The 2.25 trotting event, in which there were six starters, went the full five heats. The first two heats were won by Catherine J. S., Good Time finishing both heats second. In the third heat of this race S. Swant, who had driven Good Time Peter in the previous heats, was replaced by H. Bruise, with the consent of the judges. Bruise drove Good Time Peter through for a win in the third heat and then proceeded to win the next two. Catherine J. S. finishing the last three heats in second place. First money went to Good Time Peter, Catherine J. S. getting second money. Dewaretta Boy and Vonia Cres were distanced in the third heat. The summary:

The Race Officials

This year saw a new starter in the stand, Lester Dorr of Boston, Mass. Mr. Dorr who is a well known New England horseman and who in years past has driven on many a track handled the race events in a manner that marks him as an expert in his line. That he knows horses and drivers was evidenced by the commendable manner in which he handled the three events.

Othr officials are as follows:

Judges, P. H. OBrien, New London; Frank Williams.

Timers, H. E. Lane and Henry T. Gorman.

Clerk of the course, John F. Craney.

Sped secretary, James H. Craney.

Official announcer, Edward T. Connelly.

Sixty Horses on Grounds

James H. Craney, the speed secretary, is to be congratulated on having a record number of horses on the grounds, 60 in all, this year. Some of the finest horses ever seen on the local track are stabled at the grounds.

Announcement was made that the track events, three in number, for this (Friday) afternoon will include a 2.12 trot, three year old pace and a 2.22 pace. The races will be called at 2 o'clock sharp this afternoon.

Trophy Cups Exhibited

During the afternoon the several beautiful trophy cups which are being awarded this year in addition to the usual purses were exhibited to the crowd from the judges' stand. These include the Wauregan hotel cup for the winner of the 2.12 trot; the Hanover-Curland cup for the winner of the three year old pacing event; (both to be contested for this afternoon); the Ferguson cup for the winner of the 2.20 trot purse $1,000) and the Cadillac-LaSalle (A. C. Swan Co.) cup for the winner of the 2.12 pace, purse $1,000. The latter two events will be run Saturday afternoon.

Ducks

Ducks, a fine display, were shown by Harold Frink, Norwich, muscovy; C. A. Ricker, Norwich, blue muscovy; H. C. W. Main, Old Mystic, blue muscovy, Indian runner, mallard; Horace Main, Old Mystic, mallard John B. Graves, Waterford, mallard, young ducks.

Geese

Horace Main of Old Mystic and H. C. W. Main, Old Mystic, were the two exhibitors of geese, the former having white China and yellow buff and the latter, wild and African geese.

Pheasants

The two Mains also showed a number of pheasants, Horace displaying Mongolians and Harry, ring necks and Mongolians. Bronze and Bourbon red turkeys, were entered by Harry W. C. Main.

Monkey and Parrots

This combination was the feature of the department, especially for the youngsters, who took great delight in feeding peanuts to the parrots and monkey. These were entered by Clark's pet shop.

Juniors and 4-H Club
Poultry

An interesting exhibit was entered by the 4-H club and Juniors, which included a number of varieties of poultry and several fine pens of rabbits. Louis Garceau showed barred rocks; Donald E. Chappell, white rocks; Bernard Crandall, white rocks, S. C. R. I. reds, Clifton Brant, S. C. R. I. reds, cockerels, pullet. Steven Manning, S. C. R. I. reds. George and Alfred Clark, S. C. R. C. white leghorns and S. C white leghorns

Rabbits

Several pens of different varieties were shown and in the main were worthwhile seeing, especially the pens entered by Peter Christensen of Hanover, who had several chinchillas. His exhibit included old bucks, old does, young buck, young doe and old doe with young. C. W. Tourtellotte had a nice display of steel gray, light gray and black flemish giants. Walter Baker showed New Zealand reds, as did C. W. Tourtellotte.

CATTLE SHOW

Quality was the watchword of the cattle show at the fair this year, 138 head of tested cattle being exhibited by eastern Connecticut cattle men, including such breeds as Ayrshires, Guernseys, Jerseys, Holstein and Milking Short Horns. The Guernsey class, with over 40 entries, was the largest at the show, while the Jerseys, with about 30 head, ranked second. The showing of about 24 Milking Short Horns marked the first time these cattle have been shown at the fair and they attracted wide attention.

Griswold H. Morgan was superintendent of the cattle show and the judging was done by Prof. L. V. Tirrell of the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs.

Milking Short Horns

George B. Gale of Petersham, Mass., showing 24 head of Milking Short Horns carried off all honors in this class, the entry marking the first exhibit of this breed in many years and attracting wide attention among those interested in the cattle show.

Ayrshires

As in past years the Houghton farms, George G. Grant, owner, had the largest number of head in this division, 19 head of tested cattle being shown. William B. Lathrop of Norwich, showing three head, was the other exhibitor.

Guernseys

A fine exhibit of Guernseys was made this year by Fairview Home of the Order of Odd Fellows, Groton, 24 head being shown by this farm. The Branford Farm, J. K. Shaughnessy of Groton, proprietor, had the largest exhibit with 13 head and William B. Lathrop of Norwich is showing seven head of cattle. The Cummings brothers, youths of 11, 13, and 15 years, are showing one Guernsey heifer and C. D. Smith of Norwich also has one heifer. There are 43 head in this class, the largest single exhibit in the show.

Jerseys

Pineloft farm of Raymond Hill, James Lathrop, proprietor, is showing independently in this breed of cattle, having 19 cows, three calves and two bulls in his entry which carried off all honors in the class. A feature entry made by Theron Lathrop for his brother, Tryon Lathrop, is the Hartford bull, "Lucky Day", won by Tryon Lathrop at the state fair at Hartford recently, when Tryon was judged the best herdsman. This bull carried off junior championship at the Norwich fair, while another entry by Theron, a heifer, also won in its class. William B. Lathrop of Norwich has one heifer under two years entered and C. D. Smith of Norwich has entered two grade Jersey cows. Twenty-nine head are being shown in this class, making it the second largest exhibit in the show.

Holsteins

Twenty head of Holstein cattle are entered in this years exhibit, many of them by members of the 4-H club, taking prizes in both senior and junior classes. This class has the largest number of individual entries although the total head shown ranks last. Those exhibiting cattle in this class are George Wood of Waterford, Camp View farm of Waterford, Thomas Wood, proprietor, Harrison Abell of Leonards Bridge, Francis Dimmock of Waterford, Nathaniel Manning of Franklin, the Cummings brothers of Lebanon, Theron and Tryon Lathrop of Norwich and Arnold Manning of Norwich.

Sheep

The exhibit of sheep this year is the smallest ever seen at the fair but this division is expected to be one of the largest at the fair in the coming year. The sole sheep displayed is a ewe by George Clark of Ledyard.

Swine

Some 25 swine are entered in the exhibit this year with Edward J. Edwards of Norwich having the largest single entry of 19 swine, all Berkshires and Chester Whites. A litter of pigs in this exhibit attracts much attention. Edward J. Edwards, Jr., shows one sow and Peter Nawrocki of Yantic shows six swine, one sow with litter of pigs being a feature of this entry.

Dog Show

An important and interesting feature of the fair was the dog show held under the rules of the American Kennel club in the big tent to the east of the old grandstand. About 80 dogs were on exhibition during the hours of the show, which were from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., affording dog fanciers ample opportunity to view the various breeds.

Dogs were entered by dog lovers in eastern Connecticut, including Norwich, Taftville, Hartford, Fitchville, Staten Island Training school, and other places. In the show were shepherds, Belgian sheep dogs, Boston terriers, English bull dogs, cairn terrier, salukis, spitz, Pomeranian, Pekingese, cocker spaniels collies, pointers, English setters, Irish setters, Chihuahun, samoyedes and others, with the shepherds predominating. The salukis entry is one of 17 dogs of that breed in existence in North America.

Notable in the list of exhibits was the Belgian sheep dog, Erick de la Louve, which is owned by Gordon Eager of Hartford, a member of the governor's foot guard, and purchased by him in Malines, Belgium. Erick de la Louve is a police trained and one of two saved from a litter, the others being destroyed, so wild and fierce was their nature.

A local dog, Snyeg, a Samoyede, owned by Earle M. Wood of Taftville, attracted no little attention during the hours of the show, as did the female, Snyneg is the American Kennel club champion, having won this honor from Captain Yukon Mit, who had previously beaten the fields at the shows in Philadelphia, Boston and New York. Snyeg beat Champion Yukon Mit at the show in Danbury in 1926.

The greater part was devoted to judging the dogs, this work being in charge of the sole judge, A. C. Wilmerding of New York city. Dr. James E. Mair of Townsend, Vt., was to have been one of the judges, but due to some reason he did not appear and the entire judging was done by Mr. Wilmerding, who carried out his part in an efficient manner.

In the high scaling event, which was open to all dogs in the show, proved to be a close race between Erick de la Louve and Brunolf of Pine Tree, the well known high scaling dog from Chase Cliff kennels, Norwich. This event was won by Brunolf of Pine Tree the winner of which received a silver cup and $5.

The superintendent of the dog show was Sterrill M Chase of Norwich, who, through his untiring efforts and zealous interest in the show, should be commended for the large entry secured and for the success of the dog show, which has not been a part of the fair for a number of years.

Fair Notes.

Summer temperature Thursday did not prevent a crowd of interested women visitors from gathering about the booth where Caron's Specialty shop had a fine display of the season's newest fur coats.

An emergency tent near the main gate was in charge of the Boy Scouts, Young Men's Christian Association, and Salvation Army.

Two mothers rest tents were provided, one in charge of the Salvation Army and the other at the end of the exhibition hall in charge of the New London county social workers and the United Workers.

John McDermott was appointed by the Jewett City borough officials as a committee of arrangements for the float. He appointed Miss Margarey Leyden and Louis D. Howe. They were ably assisted by George H. Prior, Edward Jodoin, Earle Hiscox, George Tormey and others. Antonio Gauthier was driver of the float.

Lieut. Streaman was on duty with officers from the state police barracks at Groton.

The United Commercial Travelers marched in the parade wearing a large 3-inch button with the words, "You're in Thames Valley, Wake Up."

FIREWORKS AT NIGHT PROVIDED FINE SIGHT

After the vaudeville programme on the stage in front of the grand stand at 8 o'clock in the evening, the closing event for the night was the magnificent display of fireworks put on by the American Fireworks company of Boston, and for which the fair association had made an expenditure of $600. Its feature was the spectacular set piece, the Spirit of New London County, and it closed with a grand bomb salute that fairly split the air apart and filled the air with myriads of colored lights.

Following the fireworks exhibition the crowd remained in the grand stand to hear the Tunney-Dempsey fight which was broadcast in the stand over a Stromberg. Carlson radio installed by A. J. Fitz-Gerald.

BEAUTIFUL STYLE SHOW WAS POPULAR FEATURE

The style show, a new feature in the fair this year, was a winning feature. It was given in the afternoon and again in the evening in the new pavilion with crowds attending at both showings. Living models wore beautiful hats, coats, dresses, fur coats and shoes, the young women appearing on the platform and passing down onto the floor space, where room was opened in the crowd. Music from the panatrope, furnished through the courtesy of the Hanover-Curland company, made an appreciated accompaniment for the show. The ladies apparel shown demonstrated that Norwich shoppers can enjoy advantages equal to the big metropolitan centers.

Hats, coats and dresses were displayed from the Reid & Hughes Co., with Miss Nonie Nagle, Miss Mary Giraid, and Miss Alice Gallup. Hats and dresses were exhibited from the Porteous & Mitchell company with Miss Charlotte Bellows and Miss Catherine Guinan as models, who also served as models for the exhibit from Mandell's and Caron's Specialty shop. The shoes were from the Model Booterie, displaying advanced fall styles, with Joseph Alexander in charge.

Joseph Todd Hynd was the announcer and the committee in charge was Simon Mandel, Alexander Sharp and W. C. Marsh.

May Become General Counsel Of Anti-Saloon League

HENRY MILLER, WASH. D.C.

Francis Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, of Westerville, Ohio, has been prominently mentioned as a successor of the late Waynne B. Wheeler. Mr. McBride had virtually filled the shoes of Mr. Wheeler when the latter was in bad physical shape during the closing days of the last session of Congress, and some dry leaders forecast that he again would assume temporary control pending the appointment of a permanent successor.

BULLFIGHTS TOO ROUGH TO PLEASE THE FRENCH

PARIS, Sept. 22 (AP)—Bull-fighting seems in a fair way to kill itself in France.

The public putting-to-death of the animals in the "Corrida" at Orleans recently stirred opposition, hen one of the bulls mistook a dress rehearsal for the real thing and gored the Spanish matador Chiquito there was further indignation.

The real thing in bull-fighting is forbidden in France but it is said that enforcement of the law in the south has often been very lax. Many have thought bull-fighting would die a natural death, although at Nimes the amusement goes on year after year.

FRENCH PRESS WANTS CHANNEL SWIM RULES

PARIS, Aug. 22 (AP)—An organization to control channel swims is being advocated by the French press.

The agitation began when the Czechoslovak swimmer, Vencelas Spocek, breezed into Paris the other day and told the world he had swum from France to England in 10 hours and 45 minutes, breaking all records. Efforts to find anyone at Dover or Boulonge who hd seen or heard of Spocek's feat were unavailing, whereupon the French newspapers decided a committee should guard the channel's reputation.

In France the Parisian baker Georges Michel is still considered the record-holder in channel swimming.

"SLIM YOUNG GENTLEMEN" CAUSE "PUTSCH" RUMORS

BERLIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—Rumors of another "Putsch" were flying about when a crowd of young men estimated at more than a thousand were seen storming a large hall near the Friedrichstrasse railway station.

It turned out that they had come in response to an advertisement for "20 slim young gentlemen of good appearance to take part in a vaudeville show."

Only nine passed the test.

BERLINERS DIVIDED ON AIRPLANE WEDDINGS

BERLIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—Marriages in airplanes are not viewed favorably here either by church or state authorities.

Some registrars argue that the law compels them to perform their function at their offices, except in serious illness of one of the parties. Others say it is impossible to conduct the official ceremony in the deafening noise of motors. Moreover, they add, it is extremely undesirable for official registers to be taken up into the air.

Pastor Teichmann who solemnized an air marriage some time ago, remains under suspension at half pay until his case shall be thoroughly investigated by a church consistory.

INDIANAPOLIS MAYOR IS IN OFFICE PENDING SENTENCE

Judge Shirley Has Deferred Pronouncing Sentence of $1,000 Fine and Thirty Days' Imprisonment to Give Opportunity For Motion For a New Trial—Mayor Duvall Was Convicted of Having Promised Certain Appointments in Return For $10,000.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept 23—(AP)—Cheered by resolutions of faith passed by various departments of the city administration, Mayor John L. Duvall of Indianapolis, who was found guilty last night of violating the corrupt practices act, was back at his desk today after passing of sentence had been deferred until Oct. 3.

Special Judge C. C. Shirley deferred pronouncing the sentence of $1,000 fine and thirty days imprisonment to give Duvall's attorneys opportunity to prepare a motion for a new trial. If that motion is overruled, the case will be appealed to the Indiana supreme court.

Duvall was convicted of having promised certain appointments to William H. Armitage in return for $10,000 and Armitage's political support in the 1925 election. Armitage testified that Duval returned his money after the election, saying he could not go through with the agreement.

The resolutions of faith were drafted by members of the mayor's official family and formally presented to him late today While apparently feeling keenly the result of the trial, Duvall bore up well and expressed his appreciation.

Mayor Duvall said he had no intention of resigning. The fact that the conviction carried with it the additional penalty that Duvall should be ineligible to hold public office for four years from the date of the commission of the alleged crime—Nov. 2, 1925—will not make it compulsory that he resign, attorneys declared today. The situation might be altered should he still be in office and the higher court uphold the conviction, other attorneys said.

PHILADELPHIA,S ept. 23—(AP)—A $20,000,000 merger of the Philadelphia Electric company and the United Gas Improvement company of Philadelphia, with ramifications in many states, will be recommended to the directorate of the two corporations next week by a joint committee representing both companies.

Announcement was made today by the committee that it would recommend in order to bring about a "closer relationship between the two companies" an exchange of stock on the basis of two shares of Philadelphia Electric stock of the par value of $25 each for one share of the United Gas Improvement company of the value of $50.

If the proposal is approved and recommended to stockholders, it will bring about a merger whose intricate interests can be traced into 28 states and which will be identified with public utility property, by virtue of either ownership, lease, operation, control, or investment, valued at approximately $1,000,000,000 dollars. It also will be identified with what eventually will be the largest pool of electric power in the world.

The United Gas Improvement company has a capital of more than $106,000,000, while the Philadelphia Electric has more than $92,953,000. Book assets of the two corporations stand in excess of $364,000,000.

The U. G. I., has an interest in more than 100 gas, electric light and street railway companies in 28 states.

The Philadelphia Electric company in addition to its interest in the gigantic electric power pool, supplies the entire city of Philadelphia and many suburban cities with light. It also furnishes power to many of the largest industries and the railroads entering Philadelphia.

PLEADS FOR DEATH RATHER THAN RETURN TO PRISON

MOUNT VERNON, Ills., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Weeping loudly, Mrs. Elsie Sweetin appealed to the jury in her second trial for murder to "give me death, if you think I killed my husband."

"I don't want to go back to prison, away from my children," she said in concluding her testimony. "I don't want to go back to prison."

Taking of testimony was concluded late today and arguments started. The closing arguments will be made tomorrow.

Few witnesses were called by the defense, which relied almost entirely on the story that Mrs. Sweetin told the jury. When the defense rested, the state put on several witnesses in rebuttal, seeking to discredit Mrs. Sweetin's statement that she had had been mistreated by Jefferson county officials who questioned her an entire night after her arrest.

These witnesses said that while Mrs. Sweetin was questioned for hours, there was no abuse or threats. Other witnesses testified there was no evidence of a mob about the courthouse, although there was a crowd on the streets the early part of the night.

Mrs. Sweetin testified that Lawrence M. Hight, former clergyman and co-defendant at her first trial, had led her to believe a mob was forming and thus caused her to make her first confession that she had given poison three times to her husband, Wilford. Hight is serving a life sentence for the murder.

FATALLY INJURED WHILE WAVING TO A CHUM

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Turning to wave to a chum as he stepped off a street curb here tonight, Harvey Shemitz, 6, of 93 Brownell street stepped directly in the path of a heavy truck and suffered injuries from which he died a half hour later.

Joseph J. Murphy, 19, of 101 Lamberton street, driver of the truck was arrested and later released on a $500 bond.

Although there were no indications that the truck, a heavy machine owned by Miner, Read and Tullock, wholesale grocers, had passed over the boy's body, his hip was apparently crushed and he had also suffered a fractured skull and many bruises about the face and arms.

The boy's father, partner in a wholesale electrical supply firm, and his mother, survive him.

SMOKING BY MOTHERS POISONOUS TO BABIES

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(AP)— Sixty per cent of all babies born of cigarette smoking mothers die before they reach the age of two, due primarily to nicotine poisoning. Dr. Charles L. Barber of Lansing, Mich., told the annual convention of the American association for medico physical research.

"A baby born of a cigarette smoking mother is sick," he declared. "It is poisoned and may die within two weeks of birth. The post mortem shows degeneration of the liver, heart and other organs."

THREE FIGHT FANS DIED LISTENING TO RADIO ACCOUNT

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—(AP)—That seventh round of the Tunney-Dempsey fight, nearly fatal to the hopes of the champion, was accompanied by the death of three fans listening to the radio account of the match. Four others died while tuned in on the fight program and one man fell dead in the excitement of an argument after the bout.

Two of those who died in the seventh round lived in Detroit. They were Theodore J. Carron, 66, and Henry Koenig, 62. They collapsed when Dempsey smashed Gene to the canvas. Charles F. Brown, 64, of Watertown, N. Y., dropped dead during the same round.

James S. Dempsey, a Detroit factory worker and a booster for his namesake, the challenger, died during a heated argument after the judges had held Tunney's hand aloft in token of victory. Other deaths were: Joseph M. Deegan, 32, Bridgeport, Conn., Robert J. Glick, Shamokin, Pa., Spencer W. Crowell, city clerk and justice of the peace at Altoona, Iowa, and William J. Reardon, Valley Falls, N. Y.

BRIDE OF A YEAR FELL 15 FLOORS TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Clothed for the street and wearing several pieces of costly jewelry, the body of Mrs. Alice Ardis, 24-year old bride of less than a year, was found o nthe pavement today, 15 floors below the bedroom window of her Fifth avenue apartment.

Death was accidental, the medical examiner said. No one was found who saw Mrs. Ardis fall, and none of her three maids was in the room when she toppled out of the window.

Her husband, J. P. Ardis, a wealthy broker, was out of town on business, it was said at his offices. Mrs. Ardis formerly was Miss Alice Raftree, of Chicago. She had come to New York several years ago to study music and had known Ardis for about five years. Ardis was divorced from his first wife in May of this year and married Miss Raftree in June, according to the husband's business associates.

Mrs. Ardis, it was learned, had recently been under a physician's care for a nervous ailment, and this fact led police at first to investigate the possibility that she might have taken her own life.

The force of the fall was so great that two iron steps leading up from the courtyards were broken by the impact.

PROTEST TRANSFER TO BOSTON DRY BUREAU

HARTFORD, Sept. 23—(AP)—A storm of protests from the leading manufacturers and wholesale pharmacists of Connecticut followed the announcement yesterday of the orders transferring the permissive division of the Connecticut district of the United States prohibition enforcement bureau from the Hartford office to Boston. The transfer was ordered effective October 1.

Led by U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham and E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association, a movement to retain the permissive service for Connecticut was launched. U. S. Senator George P. McLean, Congressman E. Hart Fenn and the leading business men of the state joined in the action to protect Connecticut industry.

Immediately following the anouncement today the manufacturer's association got in touch with Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman asking for an interview before the orders were made effective.

Senator Bingham said tonight that he had done everything to call Washington's attention to the seriousness of the situation and of the undesirability of interfering with the industries of the state.

"LESS THAN $10,000" IN W. M. ROSENBAULT ESTATE

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—(AP)—William M. Rosebault, Marlton, N. J., lawyer, left his entire estate valued at "Less than $10,000," to his widow, Sarah W. Rosebault, of Marlton, according to the terms of his will filed today for probate. Rosebault died in November, 1924, leaving directions that his body be cremated and the ashes "thrown into the waters of the Connecticut river, on which I spent many happy hours in my boyhood."

WAYNE B. WHEELER ESTATE HAS BEEN VALUED AT $50,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—(AP)—The estate left by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, was valued at $50,000 today in District of Columbia supreme court, where his will was filed for probate several days ago. Mr. Wheeler named his wife administratrix but inasmuch as her death preceded his, the estate is left to their children.

PARIS, Sept. 22—(AP)—P. St. George Bissell, New York lawyer, was unanimously elected Chef de Chemin de Fer of the Forty and Eight the "Play" society of the American Legion.

LEGIONNAIRES HAVE DESERTED FRENCH CAPITAL

PARIS, Sept. 23—(AP)—The American Legionnaires have deserted Paris, overseas caps are absent from the boulevards and the stirring tunes of American bands no longer are heard.

The legion, its convention ended yesterday, has evacuated the French capital, journeying to the battlefields of Saint Mihiel, Verdun, Chateau Thierry and the Argonne, and today Paris presented its usual typical French appearance without American sidelights.

A squadron of one hundred aviators flew over Le Bourget flying field in honor of the legion and a committee of the legion headed by its new commander, E. E. Spafford, called upon France's wartime premier, Georges Clemenceau. The old "Tiger" drew in his claws and purred a welcome and then the Legionnaires departed and scattered.

General John J. Pershing, former National Commander Howard P. Savage and Commander Spafford alone were received by M. Clemenceau in his temporary Parisian home. As soon as the latter caught sight of General Pershing, he leaped forward and clasped the American war time commander in his arms. Both men were deeply moved, General Pershing was pale and his eyes heavy as though he were feeling the strain of the past few days, while Clemenceau's "Mongolian" mustache was twitching and his keen little grey eyes snapping.

COMMISSION WANTS PROTEST TO COME FROM DEMPSEY

CHICAGO, Sept. 23—(AP)—Leo P. P. Flynn, manager of Jack Dempsey, made formal protest to the Illinois state athletic commission today over the "long count" accorder Gene Tunney in their world's heavyweight championship match last night, but the appeal, insofar as the commissioners were concerned, was in vain.

John C. Righeimer, chairman of the commission, told Flynn that inasmuch as there was no contract between Flynn and Dempsey, as manager and fighter, on file with the commission, that nothing could be done about the protest at this time.

He was told he was not recognized by the commission as Dempsey's manager, but that if Flynn returned with the protest in affidavit form, signed by Dempsey, the commission would be glad to give the apeal its attention.

"If anybody squawks, I want the squawk to come from Dempsey himself," Righeimer said.

Whether Dempsey will suport Flynn in the issue remained an unsettled problem tonight. Arthur F. Driscoll, a New York attorney representing Dempsey, told Chairman Righeimer that the former world's champion was content to abide by the decision rendered in Soldier Field last night, and was considering no protest.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR WAS AMONG SIX KILLED

BERLIN, Sept. 23—(AP)—Baron Ago von Maltzan, German ambassador to the United States, and five others were hurled to death today when an airplane in which the baron was flying to meet his wife and child crashed to earth near Schleiz in Thuringia.

The accident has plunged the German nation into grief and caused consternation in German flying circles.

The plane was operated by Lufthansa, the government subsidized aviation company and was of the Dournier-Merkur type. It had been in operation for several months. Mechanics inspected it this morning before it left for Berlin. The exact cause of the accident has not bee ndetermined.

An eye witness told of seeing the plane over Schleiz and of how a wing crumpled as the plane plunged to earth. The pilot in charge was Willy Charlett, a trusted navigator, who had been pilot since 1912 and had flown more than 150,000 miles for Lufthansa without an accident. The inability of aviation authorities to establish a definite cause of the accident gave rise to rumors that sabotage was responsible. Officials of Lufthansa said there was no foundation for this report.

AGED WOMAN ABOUT TO BE MARRIED DROPPED DEAD

PENN YAN, N. Y., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Five minutes before she was to have married her childhood sweetheart from whom she had been separated for 40 years, Mrs. Sarah Tompkins, 67, was stricken with a heart attack. Instead of the wedding which was to have taken place today, the funeral will be held tomorrow.

William Emerson, 70, was to have been the bridegroom. The pair had spent their childhood together. A childhood romance was interrupted when Emerson left Beacon, N. Y., Mrs. Tompkins' husband died six years ago, while attending the Baptist Association conference at Plattsburgh, N. Y., last spring, the childhood sweethearts met again for the first time in 40 years.

FRANCE AND GERMANY FOR DISARMAMENT DRIVE

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Resumption of the league of nations disarmament campaign has been provisionally set to begin on Dec. 1.

France and Germany joined in a determined expression not to allow things to lag, both fearing that delay will ruin the changes of eventual success and achieving a reduction in armaments.

The disarmament drive will be made by the so-called league of nations preparatory commission on a disarmament conference of which the United States is a member. This commission failed last spring to frame a draft treaty considered justifying the convocation of an international conference.

WESTERLY DRIVER HELD AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 23—(AP)—After being struck down while crossing Newfield avenue at 6:30 o'clock tonight, Francis Vertussi, nine, of 199 Smith street, died at 10:30 o'clock at the Bridgeport hospital where he had been taken following the accident. Howard B. Rawlings, box 201, Westerly, R. I., driver of the car was arrested and later released under a $1,000 bond. Death was caused by a fracture of the skull and other injuries.

May Discipline Rear Admiral Magruder

For Assailing the Navy as Being Overorganized and Failing to Practice Economy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. —(AP)—Secretary Wilbur is seriously considering taking some disciplinary action against Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder for his recent article in the Saturday Evening Post in which he assailed the navy as being overorganized and failing to practice economy, it was learned today at the navy department.

Secretary Wilbur declined to discuss the matter further except to say that the admiral had failed to abide by naval regulations requiring filing with the secretary of the navy of all military articles written by persons in the naval service.

Admiral Magruder has been in active naval service for 36 years. He was second in command of American naval forces in European waters during the war, receiving the distinguished service medal for his services.

Soviet Proposals on the French Debt

Call For More Credit Than Payment During the First Six Years.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The soviet proposals on debt payments and merchandise credit upon which the declaration was made in Moscow that the French and soviet delegations had agreed, were delivered in Paris tonight.

The proposals show that the soviet government wants one and two third times as much credit as it pays on the debts during the first six years, while the French, says the Russian note, indicated that their limit was credits equal to payments during a five year period.

The note, which came from Soviet Ambassador Rakovsky was dated Wednesday, but was only delivered to the French Ecomoic delegation this evening, it included none of the assertions made by Maxim Litvinoff, chief of the soviet delegations abroad, who stated yesterday in Moscow that a full agreement had been reached. The ambassador's note, however, indicates that the proposals ought to be acceptable to the French although there is a wide diverence in the amount of credits provided for.

The soviet proposal is that 30,000,000 gold francs (about $6,000,000) be deposited in a French bank within six months as the starter on 61 annuities of 60,000,000 gold francs on pre-war Russian securities held by French citizens and quoted on the Paris bourse provided France grants a total of $120,000,000 commercial credits in six equal yearly installments bearing interest with each installment repayable in six years.

Interest on these credits would be guaranteed in a manner yet to be determined and the merchandise bought with the credits "destine solely for productive purposes such as industrial equipment, agriculture, transportation and municipal purposes."

The soviets, the note said, would agree to give to the French any advantages that might later be extended to other nations under similar agreements.

The 61 annuities are classified in the note as follows:

Forty one as the principal payment; ten as back interest and ten as a "supplementary bonus."

Ambassador Rakovsky's letter transmitting the offer says that the soviet government previously gave way to the French on three points such as the French demand for most favored nation commercial treatment. The note also reveals that the soviets originally asked for credits of $220,000,000 one third in cash, in four yearly payments each payment repayable in ten years.

PROGRESS OF THE NOLIN AND REED MURDER TRIAL

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 23—(AP)—The state expects to complete the examination of its witnesses Monday in the murder trial of Leo Nolin of South Groveland and Herman A. Reed of Waterbury, Conn., who are charged with killing and robbing William H. Griffin late March in his store in Haverhill during a holdup.

Richard Griffin, a state police officer of Haverhill, was on the stand throughout most of the court session today. He described conversations he had had with the defendants at various times and told of taking Reed back to the scene of the crime. Griffin said that Mary Cwickla of Suffield, Conn., charged with being an accessory after the fact of murder and robbery, was also taken to the scene and there admitted that she had been in an automobile in front of the store the night night of the murder.

PROHIBITION AGENTS ABSOLVED OF CHARGES

HARTFORD, Sept. 23—(AP)—Prohibition agents who conducted a raid on the Club Grill at 274 Park street, New Haven, early in the spring, were absolved of charges preferred against them by William Bender, the proprietor, in a report filed with U. S. District Attorney John Buckley today by operatives of the intelligence unit of the treasury department of Washington, who conducted an investigation.

Mr. Buckley said that the case had been marked closed and that no further action will be taken by the district attorney's office.

Immediately following the complaint Mr. Buckley referred the matter to the intelligence unit at Washington and operatives were sent to conduct an investigation. The full report of their findings was not given out, but it was said that it completely exonerated the agents who were on the raiding party.

LEVINE'S NON-STOP DISTANCE FLIGHT ENDS

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 23—(AP)—Charles A. Levine, whose attempt to set a new non-stop distance record ended today when the monoplane Columbia landed here in a pouring rain having covered about 900 miles, tonight told the Associated Press that he would abandon the rest of the flight to Delhi the point for which he had originally set out.

Levine added that he might attempt it again at the end of October when the Indian monson season has passed, using London as his starting place.

After necessary adjustments to the Columbia Levine and his pilot, Captain Walter Hinchcliffe, said they would probably fly to Venice to see the Schneider cup race there.

CLERGYMAN ASCRIBES BIGAMY TO AMNESIA

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. Sept. 23—(AP)—Declaring that if he has more than one wife he must have obtained the surplus mate while suffering from one of "my frequent spells of amnesia," the Rev. Willis J. Jordan, Columbus, Ga., preacher, announced tonight he will not fight extradition to Charlotte, N. C.

Mr. Jordan, who disappeared from his home in Columbus, last week, was arrested here today for Charlotte officials who are understood to be enroute to Grand Rapids for the preacher. The southern officials did not specify the charge contained in the warrant issued in Charlotte.

The preacher was arrested at the home of Mrs. Ella Thomas here and removed to the detention ward of a local hospital on the plea that he was ill.

"I am going back to Carolina and ask them to bring my only wife to me," the preacher told the police. "Any others claiming to be wives, I will repudiate."

IRVING THALBERG AND NORMA SHEARER TO WED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23—(AP)—Norma Shearer, film star, and Irving Thalberg, picture producer, applied for a marriage license here this afternoon. Miss Shearer gave her age as 23 and Thalberg gave his 28. They would not say when nor where they would wed.

JAMES S. DONAHUE, CITY CLERK AND TREASURER OF WILLIMANTIC, RESIGNS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 23—City Clerk and Treasurer James S. Donahue, Jr., resigned at a special meeting of the common council tonight. The aldermen stated that the resignation is the aftermath of the report on the city clerk and treasurer's office, recently submitted by the city auditors, John M. Bransfield and Charles Dondero.

In view of the fact that a considerable amount of money remained in the city clerk's office tonight without responsible supervision, the council ordered a police officer stationed at the door until the opening of the office at 9 o'clock in the morning.

The finance committee will take charge of the office Saturday. Miss Hilda Berard, who has been in the city clerk's office for the past few years, will remain to take care of the duties under a temporary arrangement.

Mr. Donahue would have completed his second two year term next Dec. 4. He was first elected in December 1923, during the great democratic landslide; at the last election he was the only democrat to be elected, being swept into office by an overwhelming majority.

WESTERN DEMOCRATS MAY ENDORSE GOV. AL. SMITH

Such Action Has Been Recommended in Report of Committee on Order of Business at Conference in Ogden, Utah —Opposition Was Voiced by the Utah Delegation, But Sentiment is Strong For the Governor of New York For Democratic Presidential Nominee.

OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 23—(AP)—Nomination of Alfred E. Smith, governor of New York, as the democratic candidate for the presidency was recommended here today by the committee on the order of business at the opening day's session of a conference of party leaders from seven western states. Representatives attended from Idaho, Montana, Colorado, California, South Dakota, Utah and Wyoming.

After hearing one of its purposes outlined by Fred W. Johnson, Wyoming, as the formation "of a bloc that can be heard and heeded in the party convention," the committee on the order of business offered for favorable consideration of the resolution. The resolution declared "it is the sense of this meeting, that Alfred E. Smith of New York represents the best traditions and ideals of the party and is the most available candidate mentioned for the nomination for president of the United States.

Louis H. Francisco, San Diego, Calif., was politely asked to withdraw from the conference when, as a prospective member of the committee on order of business, he announced that he was a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination.

After he left the committee room, Francisco said he did not come to the meeting to disrupt it; but to advise them. "I think the meeting is very inopportune. I had understood that it was a meeting of the democratic organization, but now it is apparent to me that it is more than that. It is an Al Smith booster gathering."

In calling the meeting to order Fred Johnson told the representatives that "we are here to discuss issues, get acquainted and to form a working organization in these western states."

A discordant note was sounded by Judge Joshua Greenwood, of Salt Lake City, who said he doubted that if the republicans nominated Charles E. Hughes, Smith could carry his home state.

This brought a storm of protest from W. H. Maloney, Butte, T. S. Taliaferri, of Wyoming; Holton Davenport, South Dakota, and Chapman, all of whom charged the Utahan with "making a fine republican speech."

John H. Moyle, Utah national committeeman, said he had been assured by Fred W. Johnson, sponsor of the meeting, that a resolution on the tariff, which he had been asked to prepare and present would be given consideration.

"But I see, by the report of the committee on order of business," said Moyle, "that the tariff has no place on the program.

"This resolution does not represent the sentiment in Utah," Moyle continued. "Neither are you from your representative states expressing the sentiment of your states. So why kid ourselves and try to tell the east there is a great wave of sentiment in the west for Al Smith for president?"

"However, for me to express further opposition to the proposed resolution woul dbe out of harmony and inappropriate. In time, I may be for him. I believe he is a progressive and perhaps understands the problems of the west, as neither Cleveland nor Wilson understood them."

Mrs. D. M. Draper, the only woman speaker at the meeting, expressed the belief that the tariff problem would be solved for the benefit of the west through international trade, which also would solve the problem of the farmer. The liquor question had been settled, she said, "by being written into the constitution, and the religious issue has no place as a political issue in our democratic form of government."

LEGISLATIVE CHANGES IN JUDICIAL SYSTEM CRITICIZED

HARTFORD, Sept. 23—(AP)—Legislative changes in the judicial system of the state without the sanction of the judges or any other responsible body, were sharply criticized by Chief Justice George E. Wheeler of the supreme court in an address to the judicial council made public today, by the lips, of Hartford.

He declared the handling of receiverships in the state courts as unwholesome; he urged a most careful investigation of the procedure, the trial, the sentences and the abuse of suspended sentence in city and town courts; and recommended stringent methods to require counsel to try cases when reached in order to avoid congestion in the state courts.

The council was created by an act of the 1927 legislature to help improve the conditions in the judicial system of the state. The address was made when the council was organized July 1 with Chief Justice Wheeler as chairman; Mr. Phillips as secretary, and the following as members: Judge Arthur F. Ellis, of Waterbury; Charles E. Waller, of New London; Joseph G. Shapiro, of Norwalk; Arthur M. Brown, of Jewett City; Ernest A. Inglis, of Middletown; Charles D. Lockwood, of Stamford; Donald J. Wagner, of Salisbury, and James E. Wheeler, of Bridgeport.

MADE AVERAGE SPEED OF 138.394 MILES AN HOUR

FELTS FIELD, Spokane, Wash. Sept. 23.—(AP)—James Ray of Willow Grove, Pa., emerged victorious in two events in competition with civilian aviators and Selfridge field, Mich., fliers carried away the honors in the first military race of the 1927 National air meet here today.

Attaining an average speed of 138.394 miles an hour, Ray, flying in a Pitcairn sesqui-wing plane, raced to first place in the aviation town and country club trophy speed and efficiency race for commercial planes, and came back strong to win the Seattle chamber of commerce trophy race. E. E. Ballough, Chicago, finished second in both events.

Lieutenant W. L. Cornelius of Selfridge field, flying in the first military event, won the pursuit race for army ships with an average speed of 158.412 miles an hour. Lieutenant I. A. Woodring was second at 155.046 miles; Lieutenant L. C. Mallory third at 153.660 miles, and Lieutenant W. A. Maxwell of Kelly field, the only other contestant, fourth at 153.583 miles an hour. This race was sixty miles around a six mile course.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS IN ARSON CASE POSTPONED

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 23. —(AP)—Closing arguments in the case of Jack P. Segall, 28, of Brooklyn, N. Y., on trial in criminal superior court before Judge Leonard J. Nickerson and jury, scheduled to have been presented this afternoon, were postponed until Tuesday. It is expected that the case will be in the hands of the jury early Tuesday afternoon.

Segall is charged with having set fire to his Reduso Rubber Products company, of 1483 Main street on May 2, in an attempt to defraud six insurance companies with whom he had placed a total of $28,500 in policies.

Segall did not take the stand in his own behalf.

A motion for a directed verdict in favor of the defendant was made by Attorney Clifford B. Wilson of this city and denied by Judge Nickerson.

ANCIENT TOMBSTONE DUG UP AT TURNERS FALLS, MASS.

TURNERS FALLS, Mass., Sept. 23—(AP)—A tombstone dated Aug. 10, 1755 was dug up today by Gus Roumallard of Gill, while excavating for a cellar. the stone was well preserved except that the last name of the person could not be deciphered.

The inscription read: "Lucy ——, age 2 years, Aug. 10, 1755."

An effort will be made to learn if the body was buried beneath the stone, or whether the marker had been removed from its original place.

EXPLOSIONS AND FIRE IN AMMUNITION DEPOT

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Fire which raged for more than an hour in an ammunition pit at the Curtis Bay army ordnance depot, several miles from here, threatened for a time tonight to wipe out that district in a disaster similar to that at Lake Denmark, N. J., in 1926.

Shells dumped into a 15 foot pit for salvage purposes were detonated in a series of explosions heard and felt within a radius of a mile. The number of explosions was variously estimated at from 20 to 100 by residents of the neighborhood.

It was understood that the fire broke out in the pit. A silent alarm summoned Baltimore fire apparatus and coast guardsmen also were called upon for aid.

The fact that the main ammunition storehouse, containing hundreds of thousands of shells and shrapnel and 12,000 tons of powder, were situated some distance from the pit, afforded the workers opportunity to seal them as soon as the fire was discovered.

When the first explosions occurred, alarming residents of Curtis Bay, an estimated 150 families hustled what belongings they could take into any available vehicle, and started for Baltimore. They returned, however, as the fire was brought under control.

GIRL BABY ACCEPTED BY MRS. SAM SMITH

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Gurgling and cooing her way into a mother's heart, the tiny bundle of humanity who has been the center of Cleveland's "baby tangle" for the past month was named "Georgia" today after she had been warmly accepted by Mrs. Sam Smith.

"She is a little angel and I will keep her," Mrs. Smith said today as the month old baby girl crinkled up her little nose and smiled while the mother cuddled her close to her breast.

Torn by doubt that the baby girl she nursed was not the child born to her Aug. 22, but one substituted by hospital officials for the "boy" to whom she believed she had given birth, Mrs. Smith at first failed to respond to the baby's gurgling, cooing and smiling. Hot disappointed tears splashed on the baby's cheeks at the mother's breast as her heart was torn by doubt.

A little brother and three older sisters joined in the jubilation today to celebrate the entry of "Georgia" into their home. The parents said since they had named the baby George when they thought it a boy they decided that no better name could be found for it than "Georgia."

HELD IN $50,000 BOND FOR BANK ROBBERY

HARTFORD, Sept. 23.—(AP)—William Kappello approached the end of the long trail which the police said led to a bank robbery in Plainsville and flight to Chicago, when he was returned to the superior court of Hartford county this afternoon.

Handcuffed and heavily guarded, the young bandit was held in default of $50,000 bond on a charge of participating with three others in the Plantsville bank robbery on June 22. The way for the detention has been paved by a bench warrant issued during the day by Judge John R. Booth of Danbury, at the request of State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn.

He was taken to the county jail this afternoon to await the calling of his case next Tuesday with those of his alleged accomplices, Stuart R. Florian, Thomas Di Marco and Albert W. Meyer, who are held in default of the same bond.

STILL CONDUCTING THE SEARCH FOR MISSING MAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 23—The police, assisted by Boy Scouts and other volunteers conducted an all-day search of the roads and woods of this vicinity in an unsuccessful effort to find Harvey Bengle, 24, who left his home on Bricktop road shortly before noon Thursday. Despite various other conflicting reports, the police believe that he was last seen by a neighbor when he turned into the backroad at the rear of St. Joseph's cemetery. The missing man has always been a sufferer from asthma and weak spells for which he has been receiving medical attention practically all his life. His father believes that the young man suffered from a weak spell and that he will be found near a roadside, probably dead. In the hope of regaining his strength the young man was in the habit of taking long walks along the back roads of Windham. He would often walk a considerable distance. The father and a friend, Leo Routhier searched the section throughout the night. The police were notified this morning and Motorcycle Officer Grant Bombria assigned to the case. The Boy Scouts and students of Windham high school joined the searching parties and were assigned to patrols by Officer Bombria and Scoutmaster Anthony W. Meehan. Wearied by his apprehensions and his all-night tramp through the woods, the father continued to search today. About five o'clock this afternoon the search was temporarily halted. The theory that the man may have gone into one of the many unoccupied buildings in the wooded sections when he became weak is being considered by the police and a check-up of these is being made. It was learned that Bengle was averse to bathing in the river, having great fear of water, but despite this information the Natchaug river was dragged with grappling irons and the scouts scoured the river banks. Led by Scoutmaster Meehan, Officer Bombria, George Timmins, David Peacock and Clifford Greene, high school boys including several scouts, who aided in the search today were: W. Costello, H. Jacobs, R. Williams, K. Lavigne, John Costello, H. Lester, S. Mills, James Timmins, A. Metkie, M. Mills, G. Ahern, U. Marcoux, Rice, Chick, P. Grayson, J. Hendry, B. Greene, Bass, and Cohen.

Harvey Bengle was born in North Stukely, Quebec, Canada, in August, 1902, son of Louis William and Celanire Gaucher Bengle. He has a brother, Louis C. Bengle of this city. The family have resided in this city since Harvey was a child.

Willimantic may now quite safely boast of streets that are in excellent condition, the result of an unswerving drive on the part of Street Superintendent Edwin O. Sumner and the employes of the department for improved streets. There are but few exceptions to this general rule of good streets as the season of repair reaches a close. Notable improvements have been made to the thoroughfares leading into the city, although the sections of Jackson street from Bolivia to the city line and from the Busy Corner to Valley street cannot be fairly considered in this light. Quarry street has been resurfaced for over 1,200 feet and to a width of 20 feet. A gravel and road oil dressing has been used. The upper section of Mansfield avenue from Quarry street to the home of Alfred R. Handfield has likewise been treated. Two catch basins have been installed from Quarry street to drain water across Mansfield avenue. Two new houses have been built on Quarry street and eventually that thoroughfare will be completed to connect with Holbrook avenue which joins West Main street. Pleasant street, especially the western section is in good shape. The building of new homes has extended the residential line quite a distance on that street. The section of that street from Card street to Cards Mills has been ransformed from a rough road to a smooth city street. Mr. Ricard donated gravel for this work, which is greatly appreciated by residents of Lebanon and Columbia who come into the city over that street. Card street has been surfaced with gravel furnished by the American Thread company.

South street is being rebuilt at the present time. Concrete sidewalks and gutters have been built there during the summer and the street will be one of the most attractive on the "Brooklyn" side of the city when the work is completed. Other streets that have been dolled include Lebanon avenue, Willard street and several new short streets. The criticisms of the cost of repairing Quarry street the books at the department office were opened today and showed that the total cost was but a little over $1,200. The city has saved several thousands of dollars this summer in material in repairing some of the streets. The contract for rebuilding West Main street including the removal of the material ploughed up by the contractors. This material, removed without cost by the contractor, was used to resurface Pleasant and Valley streets, Trapella Road, Holbrook avenue, Quarry street, Winter street, Arnold's Lane, Willard, Birch and other streets. Potter street has been graded to conform with the grades of Francis street and Windham road. Street Superintendent Sumner admitted that residents of the neglected section of Chapman street have just cause for complaint. He stated that the city would not be in the class having close to one hundred per cent good streets until Chapman street has been fixed.

M. M. Kleso, employed at Storrs community was charged with driving a car without his operator's license in the Mansfield town court this morning. He pleaded not guilty explaining that he had sent for his license and paid for it some time ago but had not received it at the time he was arrested. Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews imposed a fine of $5 and costs, amounting to $13.13 which was paid.

A prayer service was held at eleven o'clock this morning for Paul Pericles Negroponte, at the late home in Hampton. Rev. W. L. Muttart officiated. The remains were taken to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., for services in the Greek church there. Burial was in Poughkeepsie. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and Van Zandt.

The Nathan Hale hotel will observe the first anniversary of its opening for business Saturday. There will not be any program but several officials and directors of the American Hotels corporation will come here and dine with Manager Daniel F. Daley. President William P. Jordan and others of the William Community Hotels corporation

Berard Carson was working at West View hauling out boats for E. Davis. He stepped off a row boat and thought he was on the shore but went out of sight in the water. His mate John Scoggins had to throw him a rope, for he went into the mud and was sinking fast. After 20 minutes of hard work Scoggins got him safe out of the mud and water. He ruined a 26-dollar watch but outside of that he suffered none for his wetting.

Daylight saving time is to leave the village Sunday morning, "back to God's time" that is the good old standard time, where the sun and tides cannot be changed. The mill and stores and everything in the fishing village will be back on standard time again, after all set back their watches and clocks Saturday night.

Jerry Sullivan has purchased a lot on Prospect Hill and will break ground this week and will build a new model two-story house, taken from a design in Good Housekeeping magazine.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Packer of Meriden were in Noank Thursday.

The Sardine club held a radio party in their club room Thursday night to hear the fight between Dempsey and Tunney. Over 100 fans crowded the room. While waiting for the big fight a short program was put on. The Sardine Trio sang several songs, then Light Foot Jake from Montville did the black bottom, while President Billie Fitzgerald told about the last Tunney and Dempsey fight in Philadelphia and said it was some battle. Battling Billie Monroe of Canada is paying a short visit in town and he has seen them all fight, like Battling Nelson, and he said that Tunney is a clever boxer, so he stacked his cards on him. An odd bet was made by George Deveau and Howard Brown. Deveau said if Dempsey lost he would walk blindfolded from the waiting room on East Main street to the town dock; if Tunney lost, Brown, would let his beard grow for four months and his hair go too. Both men shook hands on it. Refreshments of cake and down east doughnuts with coffee were served before the fight. Clarence Mallett gave a solo with a cornet and banjo accompaniment and had to play again it was so good the crowd cheered him.

Tunney is still the champion and the room was in an uproar, so glad were all over the victory.

When all the radios in the village were tuned in for the big fight in Chicago Thursday night and in a gray house at Noank's expert on picking fighters at his radio to see if he had the right dope, Lyle Chesebro. MYSTIC

Mystic Garden club met at the home of Mrs. N. Stanton Gates at Pequotsepos and the attendance was large. The old Denison homestead is one of the landmarks of the town of Stonington and is visited by many from all parts of the country during the summer. Mrs. Denison at great expense has it kept in good condition and while it is modern within, it has not changed its original architecture. Mrs. L. P. Allyn called the meeting to order and after a short business session she presented Rev. William F. Williams of Stonington who gave a delightful talk on gardens, speaking especially on the English gardens, he visited in his recent travels abroad. He explained why some thrived there on account of climate and soil, also spoke of American gardens. A vote of thanks was given him for his interesting talk. The next meeting will be with Miss Elizabeth Mallory, Sept. 29. All visited Mrs. Denison's flower garden after the meeting.

Frank Burroughs, Frank Buckler, Samuel Gorman, A. N. Williams, D. Dolan, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steadman, Mrs. John Hartley, Mrs. E. D. Lathrop and Miss Jennie Denison attended Norwich fair Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Abner Geer were callers in Pequonoc Bridge Thursday.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Taylor of Old Mystic remains very ill and a specialist from New London was called Friday in consultation.

Mrs. Sarah Spink is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morgan in Stonington.

Rev. Arthur W. Shaw, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church in Dorchester, Mass, is to officiate at St. Mark's church Sunday and while here will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Blunt White.

A fund of $130 has been raised for and presented Mrs. Lucius W. Shey by the members of St. Mark's church in appreciation of the labors of the late Rev. Mr. Shey.

Mrs. J. D. Fullerton of Boston is visiting Rev. and Mrs. L. P. MacLennen in Old Mystic.

The second meeting of the Congregational church Aid society was held in the parish house Thursday afternoon. Many of the sunshine bags were brought in and the amount will not be announced until the others are handed in. Plans are progressing for a supper and sale.

Horace S. Williams, Mrs. Ellen Williams, Mrs. F. E. Williams and Mrs. Joseph D. Austin of Old Mystic attended the Norwich fair Thursday.

MANSFIELD CENTER

Echo grange accepted an invitation to visit Hampton grange Friday evening and provided half the programme.

At the next regular meeting of Echo grange, which will be Tuesday evening, the programme will be given by the children.

The tenth annual Mansfield fair is to be held at Hawley armory, Storrs, Thursday next. Under the new plan there will be no admission charge, nad for the first time there will be a midway.

The Women's Church guild of Mansfield Hollow held the first meeting of the season Thursday, at the home of the president, Mrs. A. E. Anthony.

Prof. and Mrs. F. A. Ferguson and daughter of Storrs have moved into their new home, formerly the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brooks, which they purchased from James G. Taylor the last occupant. Mr. Taylor and family moved to Westrely.

RED CROSS DISPLAYS THIRTY CHRISTMAS BAGS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 23—The Jewett City chapter, American Red Cross, has on exhibition in Mourigan Bros. window the 30 Christmas bags and their contents to be sent to ex-service men in foreign places. The different churches and fraternal organizations donated the money necessary to buy the gifts. The display shows the 12 articles, and also shows the same gifts wrapped in vari-colored gay tissue paper and tied with bright tinsel ribbon. Christmas cards furnished by the National chapter will go in the bags which contain writing pad and envelopes, pencil, tooth-brush and tooth-paste, face cloth, soap, tobacco pouch, knife, comb, memorandum book, harmonica and handkerchief. On the window glass is shown an article taken from The Red Cross Courier, telling of two bags which were received containing worn out and useless articles to be sent to homesick boys at Christmas time. In direct contrast are the new articles all so attractively arranged in the local chapter gift bags.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie Zagaranski was held at St. Mary's church this morning. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. J. J. McCabe, celebrant, Rev. John Carey, deacon and Rev. Nicholas Caron, sub-deacon. The bearers were Messrs. Ambot, Matakonis, Boltoumovicz, Brodacki, Levoinovica and Rimvoici. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

The Dempsey-Tunney fight gave one man a wheelbarrow ride from Ruszena's store on Factory hill up through Main street this evening. Charles Ruszenas pushed the wheelbarrow in which John Stutz enjoyed the result of a bet. An admiring crowd enjoyed the trip, too. It covered the road to Brown avenue and the ride back for good measure, although it was not included in the terms of the bet.

Nathan A. Lillibridge, 67, died very suddenly at his home in Glasgo, Thursday evening. He had not been well for two months, but was much better. Without any warning he fell from his chair dead. Mr. Lillibridge was born in Exeter, R. I., the son of Nathan B. and Lucinda Douglass Lillibridge. His home has been in Voluntown most of his life, until he came to live in the Boardman house in Glasgo. His wife died ten years ago. He is survived by three sons, Claude of Voluntown, George of Glasgo and Ralph of Taftville.

An unknown person drove his automobile through the railroad gates Wednesday evening, while they were lowered. He kept right on going and turned in the direction of Voluntown, Pachaug or Glasgo at the top of the hill, probably to escape discovery. The gate tender had no opportunity to see who the man was, for the car slammed through and was gone with incredible speed.

The Jewett City Grain Co., successors to the Green Avenue Grain Co., will be closed next Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 27 - 28, in observance of the Jewish New Year. Jewett City Grain Co.—adv.

DANIELSON

DAYS OF OVERLAND MAIL NOW RETURNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 23—The days of the overland mail are coming back again. Not with the galloping steeds, the rolling stage coaches and all the romanticism of the past, but with high-powered, speedy motor trucks that are expected to function so efficiently that the two mail trains the N. Y., N. H., and H. R. R. is removing from the local line with the coming of the new fall train schedule Sunday will not be greatly missed—insofar as the mail service is concerned.

It was made known by President M. H. Berthiaume of the Danielson chamber of commerce this afternoon, following a morning conference here with T. M. Rawley, New London, representing the railroad company, that this mail truck service will be instituted at the earliest possible moment, possibly on Monday.

The trucks are to be operated for the postoffice department and are to run between New London and Worcester, one trip each way each week day. Mr. Berthiaume said that the government has asked for bids for the performance of this overland mail service and that the time limit for filing them expired today. Contingent upon the bids being satisfactory and the bidders responsible and upon a successful bidder being able to take up the work immediately rests the question whether the new service can be instituted as early as Monday next. However, such a service will have been established within a few days, it seemed practically certain today.

The mail trains that are to be taken off, one a morning train the other due here at mid-afternoon, will make their last runs Saturday of this week.

The new overland mail trucks will collect and distribute mail at postoffices between New London and Worcester. It is understood that they are to be operated on a fast schedule and their arrival at the end of a run so timed as to allow of quick despatch of the mail they bring in to its various destinations. Postmaster J. T. Keach has known for some time that the government has had the overland truck service in mind, but the proposal had not been developed up to today in sufficient degree to warrant giving any publicity to the matter.

As to the problem of having an adequate express service with the trains referred to removed, the railroad company has in mind clearing all express matter accumulated here for forwarding on the morning and evening trains. If this does not prove satisfactory it was hinted today, the American Railway Express company may venture into the overland express business from Putnam to New London, but that possibility has not been gone into to any extent as yet.

George H. Kimball, owner of Wood's hill farm, a part of which is the Kimball aviation field, looked down upon his property from a height of 1,000 feet this afternoon during the course of his first flying trip and later allowed that he had enjoyed the experience. "I can see all my farm at once from up there," said Mr. Kimball, in a happy mood.

His trip through the air was with R. H. Ranney, a pilot now stationed at Brainerd field in Hartford, but who has been flying at Kelly field in Texas for the past year and a half. The plane used is the one owned by Alanson Colvin of Danielson.

The flights over Danielson this afternoon were in the Colvin plane and in one of the new machines from Hartford, this latter piloted by Henry Generous of that city.

Mr. Colvin said later that the flying circus interrupted a fortnight ago will be resumed Saturday and Sunday, when it is hoped to interest thousands in the development of an airport for Danielson. All will be welcomed to the Kimball farm which may be reached from Danielson via Day and Church streets, West Side or through Church street direct off the Brooklyn-Danielson state highway. There is room to park 1,000 cars in fields adjoining the one from which the planes land or takeoff, so probably all who care to go can be accommodated, and without charge. All Mr. Kimball asks that the narrow roadway leading to the farm be kept clear of machines, no parking to be allowed there because of the ample parking space in the fields near the Kimball home.

This morning Mrs. Ann Maria Clapp, widow of George Clapp, who died in March of last year, was found dead in bed at her home in Foster. The body was found by a neighbor, who came to do some errands for Mrs. Clapp, who was 80 years of age. Mrs. Clapp was a daughter of Epriham and Olive Phillips. She has lived in Foster about all of her life. She leaves no immediate relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lavigne of Grosvenordale visited with Miss Blanche Reeves recently.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kinder of Burlington, Vt., were guests this week of Mrs. Albert Reeves and family of Riverview.

There was a story about town this morning relative to a young man who will pay a bet he lost on Dempsey by wheeling a Tunney supporter through the business section in a wheelbarrow Saturday afternoon.

Electric energy will be turned off on Sunday, September 25, at 7 a. m., until 11 a. m.; current will be turned on from 11 a. m., to 12:30 p. m.; current again will be off from 12:30 p. m., to 4:30 p. m., standard time. This will affect Central Village, Moosup, Oneco and Plainfield. The Eastern Connecticut Power Co., Danielson Division.—Adv.

From Sunday to Wednesday next Rev. Leonard R. Richards, rector of St. Alban's church, will be at Choate school, Wallingford, attending a conference of clergy of the diocese.

In the parlor at the Westfield Congregational church next Tuesday a meeting of the auxiliary of the Woman's Board of Missions is to be held and the subject of World Friendship taken up. Suggestions and plans for the winter program will be considered.

This evening a meeting of the members of Colonel Edward Anderson camp, Sons of Veterans was held in G. A. R. hall.

Recently Dr. and Mrs. William Levin, newly married, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney H. Perry, Riverview, by the Flagg instrumental quartet, of which Dr. Levin is violinist, and presented with gifts.

Isadore C. Blanchette of New Bedford is spending the week end with friends in Danielson.

A stunting aeroplane, riding high over Danielson early this afternoon, gave hundreds who watched the flyer thrills aplenty, as loops, rolls and other tricks of the trade were artistically turned out. A pair of planes were at the Kimball flying field this afternoon.

Mrs. Sarah L. Darling of East Killingly has made plans to spend the winter at Deland, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Henri I. Baer of East Killingly have returned to their winter home at Del Ray, Fla., where Mr. Baer has a police dog kennel, such as he has maintained in this town for a long term of years.

Edward Hatch is concluding his connection with the Church company here on Saturday of this week and is to establish a business of his own in Danielson.

At St. James' church Sunday the masses will be on standard time instead of on the daylight schedule that has been in use for several months.

Mrs. Ruth Brown Watrous of Mystic, formerly a resident of Danielson, has been spending a few days with friends here.

Mrs. Annie Flagg is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Orray E. Potter.

PUTNAM

SUPT. R. C. JENKINS GIVES OUT HIS ANNUAL REPORT

(Special to The Bulletin)

Putnam, Sept. 23—Ralph C. Jenkins, superintendent of schools of the town of Putnam has made the following annual report which is of exceptional interest to every one in Putnam, parent, guardian or tax payer.

To the Putnam School Committee:

The National Educational association in a recent report presented eight outstanding characteristics of a good school system. They are. 1—Competant and conscientious teachers. 2—A trained and understanding administrative and supervisory staff. 3—A living and developing curriculum adapted to social and individual needs. 4—A school term of reasonable length with high regularity of attendance. 5—An adequate school plant. 6—A just and effective method of providing school support. 7—An effective form of organization. 8—An interested, intelligent and supporting public.

I wish to bring to your notice certain facts regarding the Putnam schools classified under the above headings.

I—Competent and Conscientious Teachers. 1—All teachers are college or normal school graduates or have had equivalent training. 2—The average experience of Putnam teachers is 15 years, only five have taught less than five years. 3—The teacher turnover each year is less than 10 per cent. 4—Over one-third of the teaching force have attended Summer School within two years. 5—With ten days absence with pay allowed each teacher for illness, the teachers have averaged to take less than three days off with pay each year.

II—A Trained and Understanding Administration and Supervisory staff. 1—The Superintendent of schools and High school principal both hold the M. A. degree. 2—The average teaching experience of principals is 21 years. No principal has taught less than 10 years. The minimum experience of special supervisors is five years. 3—Monthly supervisory meetings are held by the superintendent and the high school principal and special supervisors visit every room regularly.

III—A Living and Developing Curriculum. 1—The Connecticut Course of Study written in 1924 was adopted in all elementary schools in 1926. 2—New York State Regents Outlines are used in a number of high school classes. 3—All high school teachers, and all elementary teachers appointed after 1922, are required to keep regular lesson plans according to a prescribed form. 4—Standardized tests in the major school subjects have shown that the Putnam pupils rate well in comparison with other towns and cities.

IV—A School Term of Reasonable Length with High Regularity of Attendance. 1—A school year is 40 weeks. The average days is 40 weeks. This is several days more than the state average and 18 days more than the national average. 2—Average daily attendance based on average monthly membership is 95 per cent. 3—The number of children dropping out at 14 years of age to go to work is very low. 4—The percentage of children entering high schools from the grade is very high. 5—The percentage of children graduating from high school is higher than the average.

V—An Adequate School Plant. 1—The trade school building can be rated as excellent, grounds excellent. 2—The high school building with its auditorium, gymnasium, library, laboratories, cafeteria, can be rated superior, grounds excellent. 3—The Israel Putnam plant with auditorium, health room, cafeteria, kindergarten can be rated fair, grounds poor. 4—The other school buildings are in excellent repair.

VI—A Just and Effective Method of Providing School Support. 1—Putnam is financially able to support a school program costing much more than the present program. 2—The present method of State School Support and State Grants is neither just nor effective. The next session of the legislature, however, is to be asked to remedy this defect.

VII—An Effective Form of Organization. 1—The high school is well organized, general, commercial and cooperative courses. 2—The seventh and eighth grades are fairly well organized on a departmental basis. 3—The school board is well organized with three functioning committees, teachers, buildings and supplies. 4—Auxiliary activities as health, cafeterias, opportunity class, adult education are well organized. 5—We may look forward to the reorganization of the elementary and secondary schools on a six year elementary, three year junior high and three senior high school basis.

VIII—An Interested, Intelligent and Supporting Public. 1—The unanimous support given by the taxpayers to recent additions to the trade school and high school plants, indicates a high degree of faith on the part of the public in what the schools are accomplishing. 2—During the past year over 300 parents and friends visited the schools in regular sessions. The Parent-Teacher association is very active.

It is interesting to note how the cost of running the schools compares with costs in other towns of similar size.

Certain High Spots

1—Putnam High school continues its record of many years of sending pupils on certificates to colleges represented on the New England college Certificate board, to Worcester Institute of Technology and to many other colleges. 2—Last year's H. S. football team won six out of nine games, the baseball team won 10 out of 16 games, the basketball team entered the tournament, a track team was organized and this fall a tennis tournament is scheduled. 3—The school physician is available in every school in the city part of every school day. Four hundred children were inoculated against diphtheria last year. 4—The Israel Putnam School orchestra so successful last year will be continued. 5—Lunches were provided in the Israel Putnam school last year to an average of 35 pupils a day. This is to be continued and enlarged.

Respectfully submitted
RALPH C. ENKINS,
Supt. of Schools.

Word has been received in Putnam of the death of Frank V. Broadhurst of Bridgeport, who was killed in Bridgeport in an automobile accident. As he was returning to his home the car he was driving was struck by a truck and Mr. Broadhurst was instantly killed. He is a brother of Miss Alice Broadhurst of this city, and was well known here. His wife was the former Miss Ivagene Fuller, daughter of Mrs. Miriam of this city and who lived here for many years and was a graduate of the Putnam High school.

Herbert A. Johnson, Allie S. King and Lucius H. Fuller have been appointed a committee to attend the Secretary and Scribes's association meeting of the Odd Fellows which will be held in New Haven, Saturday, October 1.

This is the last week of Daylight Saving Time and all clocks should be put back one hour unless one wants to reach church one hour earlier than the minister. The clerks of the Putnam stores have one more Thursday half holiday as the first day of October does not come until after Thursday of next week.

Miss Myrtlee Kingsbury of Thompson has returned to Torrington where she has been teaching for several years.

Miss Muriel Mahoney, a registered nurse of Boston has been the guest of Miss Florence Donovan of Woodstock avenue. Miss Mahoney and Miss Donovan were classmates in the nurses training school of the Forest Hills hospital at Boston.

Mrs. Valerie Delage, Mrs. Cecelia Gilman and Mrs. Delisle are on a two weeks' motor trip through Canada and Quebec. They will travel through the mountains of Vermont and New Hampshire and will visit St. Anne de Beaupre, Montreal, Quebec and other places.

Mrs. W. P. Flanagan is the guest of relatives at West Newton and South Hamilton, Mass.

Miss Emma Chubbuck and her brother, Daniel R. Chubbuck, have entered the Connecticut State Agricultural college at Storrs.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. May are entertaining Mrs. Charles E. Bunce of South Manchester.

Emil Anderson of East Woodstock is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. He is making a good recovery.

Barton Jacobs of Milton, Mass., has been the guest of his grandfather, Barton Jacobs for the past week.

If you want to see a fast game of semi-pro baseball come to the Carpet grounds at Moosup Sunday and see Tom McDermott's Danielson team battle the Moosup Town Talks.—Adv.

SCENIC HIGHWAYS

Connecticut has been and is much interested in the betterment of its highways. It is building new and better roads and while it is building them it is also doing some landscaping and tree planting which promise most satisfactory results in the years to come. Recognition is given to the fact that the state which looks well to the attractiveness as well as the advantageousness of its highways will have nothing to regret but much to praise.

In the September issue of Civic Secretary Buttrick of the Connecticut Forestry association has pointed out the work that has been done in this state for the scenic improvement of highways and made reference to the fact that the last general assembly authorized the park and forest commission to study the scenic highway commission bill and report to the next legislature upon the possibility of locating a system of scenic highways to link up the various state parks and forests. Secretary Buttrick says "such scenic parkways, having a sufficiently wide right of way and avoiding centers of population, will not only automatically solve all questions of tree growth, billboards, hot dog stands and wire lines along their courses, but will greatly relieve traffic congestion upon the present state highways."

That such a system would be a nice thing and prove a fine advertisement for Connecticut cannot be questioned, but it would seem that there is much to be done in the way of highway improvement before the state is ready to launch out into elaborate expenditures for beautifications.

It must be realized that many of the state parks are in great need of highway improvement themselves. Till that work has been done it will hardly be advisable to devote funds to the establishment of parkways to them. The desirability of keeping the parks in their natural state cannot be lost sight of, but that does not prevent the building of roads that are adequate to accommodate the traffic that is attracted to them simply because they are state parks and considered worth preserving in their natural state. An excellent start might be made at the Devil's Hopyard.

THE HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

Once more Tunney has demonstrated his superior ability as a boxer. He hasn't knocked out Dempsey but he has outpointed him in two exhibitions. He did it a year ago when there was a feeling that Dempsey might not have been in the pink of condition, but he has also done it this week when there was no doubt expressed but what Dempsey was at his best.

The seventh was the one trying round for the champion, but he afterwards demonstrated that he was in full command of the situation and that even though he was knocked down he was far from out.

The talk of a protest over the fact that 14 seconds elapsed from the time Tunney was knocked down until he was up can amount to nothing. The fact that Tunney was ready to get up at the count of five showed that he knew what he was doing and if the count was delayed until Dempsey had gone to a neutral corner the fault lies entirely with Dempsey and was a gratuitous gift of time on his part according to the rules of the ring.

The exhibition has served to show that Tunney is the better man, that he has a clear claim to the title and that if there is a better man than the champion he hasn't made himself known. Whether Dempsey will again try to come back and regain the title is as yet uncertain. Tunney has carried conviction with each of his demonstrations but as might be expected he is ready and willing to repeat if it is necessary. There are no indications now that it will be Dempsey who will wrest the crown from the present champion.

THE YOUNG APPOINTMENT

In the filling of the vacancy on the federal reserve board, President Coolidge has added to that important board Roy A. Young, governor of the Minneapolis reserve bank, who has made conspicuous progress in banking circles for a man of his years and whose addition to the board cannot fail to be looked upon as an excellent one.

The change has come in for more attention than might otherwise have been the case because of the recent discussion raised by the action of the board in forcing the Chicago district to reduce its discount rate in conformity with the other districts, thus making it uniform throughout the country. This action was taken as the result of a 4 to 3 vote of the board with Governor Crissinger being numbered among the majority. The action raised a protest because it was regarded as unnecessary. It was a display of authority by the board which it is conceded it possesses in case of an emergency, but it has been insisted that no emergency such as the federal reserve act contempleted existed and therefore the Chicago district should have been allowed to fix its rate in keeping with what it believed conditions justified.

Quickly after the board acted and the protest was made Governor Crissinger resignation. In a brief time thereafter the vacancy is filled by the selection of a representative from the northwest and one who it is believed will take care to see that the board does not make the mistake that it recently did. The prompt action in dealing with this situation cannot fail to be regarded as significant. Whether it will result in calming the desire to remodel the federal reserve act is a question. The developments following the criticized action cannot fail to be regarded as indicating what the sentiment is regarding the act and therefore be a guide for the future. It is evident that the board should not be deprived of the authority to act when a real emergency exists and the change in the majority sentiment would seem to indicate that the right to act ought not be interpreted as meaning that it should not exercise an arbitrary power unless it was necessary to meet a serious situation.

IT WAS A GIRL

In various cities attention is being called to the care which is exercised in hospitals for the prevention of just such mixups as that which a couple thought happened in a Cleveland hospital. These hospitals are seeing that new born babies are finger or foot printed before the child is taken from the bedside of the mother and it is done for the very purpose of identifying the children, for in large institutions there are many babies and long before this there have been those instances where exchanges were suspected.

In the Cleveland case it has been determined by those who had the matter to decide that the child born to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith was a girl, that the nurse made a mistake is saying it was a boy, that the girl resembles the mother, that there has been no changing of babies and it was the testimony of the nurse who made the wrong statement to the mother in the first place that the child Mrs. Smith has is the one that was born to her whatever the sex.

Had Mrs. Smith been told in the beginning that her child was a daughter she would have had no doubt about it. Had the child been finger or foot printed immediately after birth, before being taken to the nursery, there would have been no question about whose child she was and even though there had been doubt it would have been possible to establish identity without any difficulty.

The mistake which occurred in Cleveland because a nurse gave wrong information and the following anguish can be anticipated and prevented by just such methods as many hospitals are today employing. There's no getting away from a foot print any more than there is a chance to claim a bankbook if the fingerprint doesn't correspond.

It has been shown how easily distressing mixups can occur and how important it is to have positive marks of identification in hospitals where babies are concerned and in Cleveland at least it can be expected that every precaution will be used in the future to prevent a repetition.

PROPERLY ABANDONED

What must be regarded as an excellent decision is that which has been reached by the sophomores and freshmen at Swathmore in abandoning a 50 year old custom of engaging in what has been known as the "poster" fight. This is in keeping with what other colleges have been doing in their willingness to get away from the senseless squabbles and the dangerous hazings.

This indicates a changing condition, but it is to be realized that hazing has been undergoing a change for the worse to such an extent that it was necessary to put an end to it. When it got so that students were crippled, injured for life of fatally injured, it was time to call a halt. It was carrying a wild practice altogether too far.

Probably there was no great harm in the mild hazing where injuries were not intended and did not result, but when it got to the point that recklessness in such treatment was as devoid of care and consideration as some of our highways it was time to put a stop to it. College authorities have been bringing a proper influence to bear upon the college fights and hazing in general and the result is that a different view is being taken of it, and particularly in those instances when studied efforts have been put forth in trying to outdo all tactics of the past.

Hazing has never served any good purpose. Undoubtedly it has provided a certain amount of fun of a peculiar type but it is a phase of college life which will detract none from a student's education through its abandonment.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

If anyone was inclined to write a book on The Penumbras of Life, he would surely have a fruitful subject, and one that could be abundantly illustrated by analogies taken from the natural world and from the experiences that most of us are called upon from time to time to pass through. Now a penumbra is not a shadow so opaque as not to let any light shine through. The soul of man is never in darkness so dense that it may be truly called absolute. There are times no doubt in our common human experience when the clouds are so thick as to seem impenetrable to our depressed faculties. Our old afflicted friend Job in early Bible times is a graphic picture of a life that seems to have reached the nth degree of affliction. As far as we can see it was the extreme limit of sorrow and suffering. And yet it was only a penumbra. Back of the shadow was the watchful eye of One "who doth neither slumber nor sleep". It was darkness in part.

Is it not true that the enjoyment of any quiet and beautiful natural scenery depends upon our mental and physical condition? A noted divine who was pastor of a large church in Hartford for nearly 50 years is credited with this remark: "If a man has a real tough sick headache he doesn't know whether he loves God or not!" For this bit of harmless heresy his ministerial brethren were not disposed to excommunicate him. In a certain institution for the insane there is a certain young lady who insists that a certain visiting clergyman is an old cow. Now if the poor deluded creature were in the full possession of her faculties she would probably regard him as a wonderful bit of naturally scenery. If anybody is afflicted with liver complaint he will not appreciate the Jungfrau. The eye of beauty lies in the depths of a healthy personality.

A little while ago, when this supremely beautiful series of days began, the writer sat down on the bank of a sheet of water too small to be called a lake and too picturesque to bear the name of a pond. Its smooth surface reflected perfectly the deep cerulean blue of the sky. But what a revelry of colors did it and its immediate surroundings present! There was an inside rim of lily pads, deep green in color, followed by a larger rim of meadow grass, of very fine texture and lighter green. From the shore there rose first of all dense underbrush which shaded off gradually into taller trees of varying heights. Through a small opening one could see a swamp maple whose lower fringe of leaves was a pale green, and these gradually changed into light yellow, and this in turn into a tinge of red and thus on until the crown was a flaming mass of magenta. For pure beauty could Lake Maggiore surpass this?

Prof. Rufus M. Jones the distinguished teacher of psychology of Haverford college greatly edified the large gathering of ministers who were the recent guests of the Hartford Theological seminary. The great scholar delivered eight lectures in all touching upon the deeper things that are related to the human personality. In one of his lectures he put much stress upon the value of "a radiant life." The speaker did not over-emphasize the importance of radiance in putting it ahead of spirituality and consecration but showed very clearly that we have very few attractions that influence other people or gives ourselves more happiness than radiance. I take it that radiance is that quality of the human soul that shines and has about the same effect on other people as sunshine has upon the field of nature. The natural world would be gloomy indeed without sunshine; so would the spiritual without radiance.

A great volume of complain comes this year from long-suffering housewives about insipid and watery fruit and vegetables. The explanation, of course, is not far to find, it is due to excess of moisure. Throughout New England and other eastern states during the growing period rains have been excessive and as a natural result all kinds of garden produce have been watery and tasteless. Too much water dilutes their rich flavors. But does it not occur to the thinking mind that fruits and vegetables are not the only things in the world that have too much water? How about some of those securities (?) in your strong box! If you should wring them hard something besides dividends would come out. How about that book you read last week—was it all real solid stuff? How about the last ten gallons of gas you bought a few days since! How about the sermon you heard last Sunday; apart from the gas was there not some water mixed with the rich gravy?

The writer of these paragraphs believes firmly in the strict administration of justice to all law-breakers, otherwise human society will stand in great danger. He also believes with equal earnestness that the social and financial status of the criminal ought not to modify in the least the adequacy of his punishment. And this I fear, is often done. If the criminal has a high degree of mentality he should receive no higher favors than would be given to an ignorant brute. Is it quite consistent with our boasted claims of democracy to make a convicted tramp do hard labor just for his keep and allow a man convicted of manslaughter, who is a person of literary ability, an opportunity to write a novel while behind the bars, with board and lodging free for six months? Does this give color to the cry of the mob about "the privileged classes?"

Elbert Hubbard in his suggestive essay on Galileo has this to say when Bruno had his great debate with the bishop of Paris: "When we cannot answer a man's reasons, all is not lost, for we can at least call him names, and this is often quite as effectual as logic." I have little to say in this item of Bruno and his clashes with the constituted ecclesiastical authority of his day, only to say that he was a powerful logician and there were very few who could stand up before his terrible logic. He did not win out because the Churchman whom he attacked was the master of sarcasm, and what chance has logic with sarcasm? When his unanswerable logic attracting the attention and approval of the learned men of Europe, sarcasm made another twist and tortured the logician to death. This reminds us of the man who said: "If you cannot answer a man you can knock him down."

It may be—and probably is—that belief in hell is old fashioned, but isn't there something even in this life that corresponds to this old fashioned belief? Take the man who—in his wreckage—comes to your back door and almost begs to beat carpets, wash windows, and do any old job for his dinner, and a pair of old cast off shoes. The man somehow impresses you that he has seen better days. There are some lingering traces of refinement about him. He certainly is a "has been" all right, but you cannot help thinking what he might have been if his early life had taken a different trend. I think it was Macaulay who said that, "The Escorial in ruins is more beautiful and worthy than a mud but in its glory." If our social workers can bring back to manhood these human Escorials it will justify all the help that they can get from the churches. The power that once made can remake, and in this work we can have a part.

THE NEW FURNITURE

The new parlor suite had arrived that afternoon. Tod Billings, who had been warned to look out for it, brought it from the station in his truck and Mrs. June with her own hands had unpacked it. It was laborious work and she hurt her fingers considerably, but she simply could not wait for Mr. June to come home.

"Well it has come!" was her greeting as he appeared. She led him to the parlor and pulled up the shades a little higher in order to let more daylight in on the new possession.

"Unpacked it yourself, eh? Couldn't wait for me?" Mr. June grinned. His wife pleased him very much no matter what she did. And, indeed, she was a dear little woman with her gentle, anxious face and graying hair. When you saw the graying hair you realized that Mrs. June had had to wait a long time for her parlor suite, and even now she had only achieved it at the cost of much planning and saving and doing without this or that. Even at the last she had taken a chance and sent for it rather than pay more and buy it off Mr. Snyder, who kept the only furniture store in town.

"What do you think of it, Henry?" she asked earnestly.

"Suits me," answered Mr. June. He passed a hand over a plump arm. "Looks like comfort. You're a great little homemaker, Floss."

Then they kissed and tried the davenport and each chair in turn, until the burning potatoes sent Mrs. June scurrying to the kitchen.

She was very happy, especially when Henry said, over the rhubarb pie:

"If you want some new curtains for that room, Floss, I guess I can steal out enough from my month's wages so that you can get them."

"Oh, Henry! You old darling!" She extended her hand to him and he went on eating pie with the other.

"I guess," Mrs. June said, "I will go to the telephone and ask Mrs. Crabbe in to see my new parlor suite."

"Why Mrs. Crabbe?" Henry inquired.

"Well! I will tell you. She has so much and she is always glorying over me so that I want to show her that for once I have got something as nice as she has. Henry, I just know she will envy me that parlor suite."

"And that will tickle you! Well, the parlor suite is all right, Floss. You made a good selection, I'll tell the world."

Mrs. June arose and went to the telephone.

"Can you come over a minute? I've got something to show you," she told Mrs. Crabbe.

"I will be right over in about half an hour," promised the neighbor.

"Floss, can't you forget that parlor suite long enough to come out and show me where you want your gladioli planted? I am going at the garden tonight," Mr. June said.

Mrs. June left dishes and went with him out of doors. And it only seem a minute until she saw Mrs. Crabbe coming toward her.

Mrs. Crabbe was a slim, light woman, with eyes like skim milk, a drooping tip to her nose and a slightly sneering expression. She wore a beautiful gown of heliotrope cotton, which she had put on obviously for the purpose of displaying it to Mrs. June.

"Now what have you to show me?" she inquired, smiling loftily. "Anything out here? Your flower beds look terribly skimpy, don't they?"

"Come into the house," Mrs. June led the way with a sense of anticipation. "I've got a new parlor suite," she explained as they approached the parlor. "Wait till I turn on the lights."

She snapped a switch and the three lights on the chandelier illuminated the twilight room.

At the instant she felt a clutching sense of defeat and chagrin. Mrs. Crabbe gave a little scornful laugh.

"Well, forever more!" she ejaculated. "If that isn't the most bizarre thing I ever saw. Why, the figures jump right at you!"

Mrs. June stood dumb, her small patient face frozen into an awful stare. The lights had done a horrible thing to her new parlor suite: the figures did jump at you, many of them, great bright spots of them, yet by daylight they had not been noticeable at all. She caught her breath wearily.

"Colors seen by candlelight," quoted Mrs. Crabbe lightly. "Well, maybe you will get used to it. I never should. Where did you get such odd-looking stuff?"

Mrs. June was in control again. "I sent for it," she acknowledged. "I selected my sample very carefully. And, of course, I—I like it or I shouldn't have got it."

Mrs. Crabbe shrugged her shoulders. "You won't like it so well after you have lived with it awhile," she said. "But I must go. I am invited over to Mrs. Peck's this evening."

She was gone. Mrs. June sat down on the new davenport and cried. Her long-desired, her hardly won parlor suite was a failure and she could never get rid of it, never. Those bright-popping figures! Why hadn't she been able to discover it before? Oh, well! She must make the best of it, but it was hard—hard!

"For pity sakes! Where did you get this?" She looked up. Emmy Travers stood in the doorway between the two rooms, gazing so eargerly at the new parlor suite that she did not notice poor, tear-sick Floss.

"Oh, Emmy!" Mrs. June quavered. "I know it is awful, but don't tell me so."

"Awful?" Emmy Travers entered and plumped down into one of the fat chairs! "It's the easiest thing," she said. "Awful? Why this is swell! I bet you paid a pretty penny for it. I saw some tapestry just like this over at Bingham the other day and I thought then it was the handsomest stuff I ever saw."

"It is by daylight, but the figures jump at you so now!"

"That is the fault of your lighting, Floss. Let me show you something." She switched off the lights, ran into the next room and brought back Mrs. June's table lamp. In a moment she had it connected up and turned on. "There, now!"

"It does make a difference," murmured Mrs. June.

"I should say so. See how that davenport shades off! Just enough of the bright stuff to make a fascinating contrast. Why, your parlor looks a different room. I bet Sarah Crabbe will turn green with envy when she sees this."

"She has seen it," confessed Mrs. June, "and she didn't like it."

"I bet she didn't like it," laughed Emmy.

"No, honestly, and she did not. And—and I thought I didn't myself. I was so sick when I turned on the lights and saw it look so different from what it did in daylight."

"Well, I call it handsome," said Emmy. "And if you could have some soft ecru curtains—"

"I'm going to have," Mrs. June said eagerly. "Oh, Emmy, you are such a joy. Do you know after I got through with Mrs. Crabbe I was ready to—to—"

Emmy laughed again.

"My dear! You must not be so impressionable," she said.

Just then Mr. June appeared.

"Hello!" he said. "Admiring Floss' new furniture, eh? Pretty nifty, eh, Emmy.

"It is beautiful," said Emmy enthusiastically.

And it was beautiful, for a little good nature and kindness and cleverness had made it so.—Detroit News.

Sunday Morning Talk

JESUS ONLY

And suddenly, when they had looked round about, they saw no man any more, save Jesus only with themselves. Mark 9:8.

Professor Christlieb said when dying, "I see no man save Jesus only." Happy is the preacher who can make his audience see Jesus supremely, while himself and all others shall fade away in this transfiguring light, when he shall unveil to a sinful and dying world the great love wherewith He has loved them and gave His life for them. In many parts of the earth men see only Buddha, Brahma, Confucius or Mohammed. Others see idols or images, but Jesus is the only one that can satisfy the soul thirst after God. We may see Him dimly in history, poetry, art, music and learning, but the Bible portrait is the best, and while looking to Him you are filled with a joy no other presence can give you.

Jesus must have understood the wonderful alchemy of personal contact. Being with Christ made the early disciples what they were. He formed them anew on the model of His transcendant ideals. When He left them the world must have seemed a blank, emptied of its inspiration, yet He told them in His last talk that He was going away that night, be nearer even in spiritual presence.

Bernard of Clairvaux said, "Jesus is honey in the mouth, melody in the ear, a song of praise in the heart, which leaps to the lips. At the illumination of His name, every cloud flees away, serenity returns."

Though we may be unable to give such beautiful expressions of the Christ, we can let Him fill our mission and thrill our hearts as we gaze with love and devotion upon "Jesus only."

Speak to Him, thou, for He hears,
And spirit with spirit shall meet,
Closer is He than breathing,
Nearer than hands or feet.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Joke Is on Farmer Brown's Boy

Blest and triple blest is he Who on himself a joke can see.
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

Farmer Brown's Boy had declared he was going to find out who was stealing such queer things as towels, doormats, aprons and pieces of carpet. His plan was very simple. He would leave some things of this kind around and keep watch. So he got another old piece of carpet from his mother, just a little strip, and this he hung on the clothes line. Then he went over to the barn to clean and dress a harness. This hung on pegs just inside the door, and by sitting on an upturned box and leaving the door open Farmer Brown's Boy could work and at the same time keep watch of that old piece of carpet. Now Farmer Brown's Boy had taken off a soiled pair of overalls and had put on a clean pair. The old overalls he had hung on a nail on a post in the dooryard. This post was where he couldn't see it from the place he was sitting. Farmer Brown's Boy is a great whistler. He likes to whistle when he's at work. He says it makes the work go easier. So as he cleaned and dressed the harness he whistled. Then it occurred to him that no one was likely to try to steal that piece of carpet while he was whistling. He stopped whistling. Every now and then he would glance out to the clothesline to see if that carpet was still there. Always it was.

Farmer Brown's Boy could work at the same time keep watch of that old piece of carpet

All morning long Farmer Brown's Boy worked and kept watch. When dinner time came the piece of carpet still hung on the clothesline. Mother Brown rang the dinner bell and Farmer Brown's Boy went in.

"Did you bring those dirty overalls in for me to wash?" Mother Brown asked.

"No, I forgot them," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "I'll run out and get them right away. I hung them on a post over near the barn."

Farmer Brown's Boy went out, and in a few minutes he returned without the overalls and with the queerest look on his face.

"Well," said Mother Brown, "where are those overalls?"

"I don't know," confessed Farmer Brown's Boy. "I hung them on that post over near the barn and now they are not there."

"Are you sure you hung them there?" asked Mother Brown.

"Absolutely sure," replied Farmer Brown's Boy. "I put on these clean ones just inside the barn door and then stepped out and hung the old ones on that post. I know I did."

"Sometimes we know things that are not so," said Mother Brown. "Supposing you go out to the barn and look around just inside. You may have intended to hang those overalls on that post, and thing you did, but perhaps after all you didn't do it."

So once more Farmer Brown's Boy went out. In a few minutes he was back. "Those overalls are not in the barn," said he. "I had no idea they would be. I absolutely know I hung them on that post."

"Then," said Mother Brown, "the thief you were going to catch by watching that piece of carpet has turned the joke on you and has stolen your overalls. You may just make up your mind that that is the answer to this puzzle. You'd better go look out the window and see if that carpet is there yet."

Farmer Brown's Boy looked out of the window. The piece of carpet still hung on the clothes line. Evidently the overalls were preferred to the piece of carpet, or else the thief was clever enough to know that the carpet was being watched.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Joseph T. Robinson, whom the democrats of Arkansas would like to see in the white house, is one of the two representatives of that state in the United States senate, where he holds a place of prominence and influence as the leader of the democratic minority. Senator Robinson has been in public service continuously for 25 years. In 1902 he was elected congressman from the Sixth Arkansas district. Ten years later, while still a member of the house he was elected governor of his state. About this time he made a speed record in American political history. He was a representative in congress, governor, and senator-elect within a period of two weeks. As a speaker Senator Robinson is picturesque and often impressive. He is known among his colleagues as a hard worker and without question he owes much of his success to his industry.

Stories That Recall Others

Nothing Open and Hungry

The family was seated at the breakfast table—five grownups and Virginia, age five. Before her was a glass of milk and an empty plate. She saw the butter being passed, the jelly being passed and watched her mother hand over toast to one of three who had to be at work at 8 a. m. At last with great impatience she said, "Daddy, is downtown open yet?"

"Why, no," said her father wonderingly. "Why do you ask?"

"Well," said Virginia, "I thought if it was open I'd go downtown and get me something to eat."

Cows Observe Parking Rules

Junior was visiting his grandparents at the farm and all activities of the dairy barn were interesting to him.

He was getting a supply of cookies from his grandmother at milking time, and she was not hurrying as much as Junior felt that she should.

"Please hurry, grandma," he begged. "I want to see them milk, and I must get back, they had the cows all parked when I left."

ROGERS-BROOKS WEDDING IN NEW YORK CHURCH

The marriage of Bruce Falconer Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Rogers of 747 Washington street, this city, and Miss Miriam Brooks, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Myre J. Brooks of New Canaan, this state, will take place this (Saturday) afternoon at 3.30 o'clock in All Souls Unitarian church, Fourth avenue and 20th street, New York city, before a large and fashionable gathering of relatives and friends of the bridal couple. The officiating clergyman will be Rev. Dr. Minot Simons, and the floral decorations of the church will be in palms and white chrysanthemums.

The bride will have for her attendants Miss Ruthlyn Smith, Springfield, Mass., as maid of honor, with Miss Helen Barnes, Saugus, Mass., Miss Sue Chase of New Canaan, Miss Alice Coulter, New York city, and Miss Margaret Neal, New York city, as bridesmaids. John B. Dick of this city is to be the best man and the ushers will be Norris G. Abbott, Jr., Providence, Frank S. Hunt, Swampscott, Mass., Alexander D. Harvey, Stamford, and Roger M. Wooley, New York city.

The bridal dress will be of white satin with veil of chiffon an dlace and the bridal bouquet will be of lily of the valley and gardenia. The maid of honor will wear a dress of hydrangea blue chiffon, dark blue velvet hat and dark blue kid shoes and will carry yellow roses with sprays of lily of the valley. The bridesmaids will wear beige chiffon dresses, dark brown velvet hats, and dark brown kid shoes and will carry Ophelia roses. The flower girl, carrying a basket of rose petals, will wear a dress of accordion pleated flesh chiffon with pale pink hairbow.

The ceremony at the church will be followed by a reception at the Fifth avenue hotel, after which the bridal couple will leave for their wedding trip of two weeks by motor. They are to reside at Yonkers, N. Y.

Mr. Rogers is a graduate of Norwich Free Academy, 1917, and of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1921. He is a 32nd degree Mason, a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and is with the New York office of the United States Finishing company. The bride is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority and was a member of the class of 1923 at Drexel institute, Philadelphia, and of the class of 1924 at Tufts college.

NOVENA TO ST. THERESE OPENS AT ST. PATRICK'S

The ushers at St. Patrick's church estimated the attendance fully 1,500, Thursday evening, when the opening service of a novena, or nine days' devotion in honor of St. Therese was held. The novena exercises will continue every evening till the 30th; also there are masses at 7 and 8 o'clock each morning.

The preacher during the novena is Rev. Father Fidelis Cummings, a native of Dunkirk, N. Y., who is a member of the missionary priests of the Order of Passionists, preaching the passion, or suffering of Christ through His love for men. The monastery of these missionary fathers is in Pittsburgh.

As the congregation assembled, Organist Henry J. LaFontaine played a number of hymns. At 7.30, the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, announced congregational singing of one stanza of the invocation to the Holy Ghost. Rev. John J. Reilly led in the recitation of the five glorious mysteries of the Rosary. Then Rev. Father Fidelis began his series of sermons, with an explanation of the hold which the comparatively new devotion to St. Therese has obtained upon Catholics, for the reason that she is the saint of little duties, performed through love of God, in the very best manner possible and designed to draw all to love God and to live closer to Him.

Reading of the saints of old, of the hermits, crusaders, martyrs, even well-intentioned Christians may grow discouraged, feeling it impossible to imitate them in their sanctity. With this simple little saint who lived in obscurity, whose life called for nothing startling or heroic, who merely did the small tasks and acts of each day with the one supreme purpose to perform them at the height of effort through love of God and charity toward men, it is different. Each person, no matter how humble or how obscure, beset with trials and temptations, can imitate her in her burning charity, her zeal for souls. Her vow was never to rest until she had peopled heaven with the souls she had brought to love God. Reference was made to her promise of sending "a shower of roses" on those seeking God, through the graces of blessings she would importune Christ to bestow upon them. As the missioner spoke, there was before the beautiful statue of St. Therese a vase of the roses associated with her name.

At the offertory the chorus choir sang the exquisite hymn to St. Therese. Rev. Father Reilly gave benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, during which the quartet sang O Salutaris and later Divine Praises. In the latter, Mr. LaFontaine had opportunity for a brief and beautiful solo. Congregational singing of "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name" brought the services to a close. Afterwards the missionary father applied the St. Therese relic to those going to the altar railing.

Pinochle Club At Cindrella Inn.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Samuel D. Bliven

The death of Mrs. Eliza Mowry Bliven, widow of Samuel D. Bliven, occurred about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at the home of her step-son, James W. Bliven, of 16 Lincoln avenue, New London. Mrs. Bliven has been in failing health for some time, but her death was hastened by the breaking of her hip about a week ago.

Mrs. Bliven was born in Oxford, Mass., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mowry, but spent the greater part of her life in Smithfield, R. I., and Brooklyn, Conn., living in the latter place for the past 30 years. She has been a resident of New London for the past two years, making her home with her step-son. She is the last of her immediate family, being survived only by a step-son, with whom she lived. Her husband died in New London about 10 years. Her marriage to Samuel D. Bliven took place about 32 years ago in North Stonington.

Mrs. Bliven was a charter member of the W. C. T. U. branch in North Scituate, and took considerable interest in reforming, her last crusade being against the use of cigarettes. News of her death will be received with profound sorrow by her many friends in New London, Brooklyn, Conn., and elsewhere.

WEDDINGS

Lewis-Phillips

Forest Tremble Lewis, son of Capt. and Mrs. Alvin D. Lewis of No. 94 Asylum street, and Miss Hazel Elizabeth Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips of Watrous avenue, were united in marriage Friday morning at the parsonage of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church by the pastor, Rev. J. Harlow Graham. Only relatives of the immediate families were present.

Later in the day the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to Long Island, Philadelphia and Washington. On their return they will reside at No. 15 Watrous street. The bride received numerous and useful wedding gifts. Mr. Lewis is a member of the Norwich fire department and is stationed at the Central fire station. Both bride and groom are well known and popular with their many friends who wish them success and prosperity in their married life.

FUNERAL

Stanislaw Marchelewski

The funeral of Stanislaw Marchelewski was held from his late home No. 5 White street at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning, followed by a requiem high mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock at which Rev. S. A. Icick was the celebrant. The musical program was in charge of J. Hanem. The waiting hymn was Pie Jesu and Lead Kindly Light. Chopin's funeral march was played at the Recessional. Burial took place in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery where Rev. Father Icick conducted the committal service. Mr. Marchelewski for many years was a member of St. John and St. George's society and these friends acted as bearers: Anthony Kozlowski, Franciszek Lewon, Anthony Kowalski, Justin Walko, Anthony Arzelomsky, Piotr Kozloski, Walenty Brokowski, Stanislaw Tomczyk.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends from Pennsylvania, Hartford, Rhode Island and Norwich. There were very many beautiful floral tributes.

Following his illness Stanislaw Marchelewski died at his home No. 5 White street, Tuesday night. He was born in Poland. Forty years ago he came to this city. He was a devout member of St. Joseph's church. Surviving him are his wife, two sons and two daughters, seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

SENATOR BINGHAM IS GUEST AND SPEAKER ON SECOND DAY OF FAIR

United States Senator Hiram Bingham was the guest of honor Friday at the New London county fair. Senator Bingham occupied a seat in Section K of the grandstand and during the course of the afternoon briefly addressed the large crowd. It was the second day of the fair and the attendance equalled and probably exceeded the attendance of the previous day. The afternoon attendance figure was announced as close to 3,000, and the evening attendance added some to this figure.

The afternoon feature included a New London County ensemble, this comprising a float parade with a pretty girl contest, a style show with artists' models in the new dance pavilion under the direction, and courtesy of the merchants of New London and Norwich, three spirited horse racing events and a vaudeville show in front of the grandstand.

In the inter-city contest between Norwich and New London, the first prize, a beautiful silver cup, suitably inscribed, for the most beautiful girl, was awarded Miss Helen B. Austin (Miss New London) of No. 159 State street, New London. Miss Austin is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Austin and is assistant city clerk in New London. Second prize, a similar cup, was awarded to Miss Evon M. Broadhurst (Miss Norwich) of No. 125 West Thames street. Miss Broadhurst is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Broadhurst and is cashier at the office of the Norwich gas and electric department. In announcing the cup winners, Announcer Edward T. Connelly stated that the fair association and the judges decided to give two prize cups instead of one as it was extremely difficult for the judges to reach a decision as to which of the contestants the cup should be presented.

U. S. SENATOR HIRAM BINGHAM

Norwich Float Wins.

The float contest between Norwich and New London resulted in the Norwich float being judged the most beautiful. The prize, a handsome mounted silver shield, suitably inscribed, was presented to the City of Norwich through Miss Broadhurst.

Niantic Girl Takes Prize.

The prize for the best looking girl riding on a float in the parade Friday afternoon was awarded Miss Lila Hoffman of Niantic. The prize, a beautiful cup, was in addition to the cups in the Norwich-New London beautiful girl contest and was not contested for by either of the latter. The second prize, $10 in gold, was divided between Misses Annette Herrman and Helen Thoma, both of Lisbon.

Prize For Montville Float.

The prize, a beautiful cup, for the best looking float in Friday's parade went to the Mohegan Indian float, of Montville, in which rode Chief Matahda and family, Red Bird, Firefly and Tantaquidgeon.

Shortly after the parade Announcer Edward T. Connelly presented Herbert R. Branche, president of the New London County Agricultural society, to the crowd. Mr. Branche stated that it was an honor, in behalf of the New London County Agricultural society, to introduce the society's guest of the afternoon, United States Senator Hiram Bingham. Senator Bingham, who occupied a seat in Section K of the grandstand, briefly addressed the large crowd, after which the two bands rendered the Star Spangled Banner. Announcer Connelly leading in the singing in which all joined.

Horses Furnish Good Racing.

The three events on the race card were run off smoothly and provided 12 heats as the 2.22 pace went five heats and the 2.12 trot went four heats. The Vaudeville Events

The entire vaudeville program was repeated during the afternoon and Swahn's Military band, John M. Swahn, leader, provided another of their excellent concert programmes. The band also accompanied the vaudeville artists.

The Australian Woodchoppers again provided one of the feature events of the vaudeville program. Theirs is one of the finest acts ever seen in Norwich. They are an international troupe, and have appeared in many of the leading theatres of this country and in Europe. They exhibit remarkable skill in axe throwing and swinging. The wood chopping contest was one of the most exciting events of the afternoon. Friday afternoon the contest resulted in a tie. The Flying Belchums also provided a thriller on the high flying trapeze. All of the vaudeville artists won well deserved applause.

Style Show

The style show in the evening was staged by the following New London stores: Style Shop, Luggage Shop, Agnes Rogers Hat Shop, Ryan's Shoe store. The models were the Misses Murphy, Schribner, Sylvia, Copeley and Peterson. The feature event of the show was Miss Marc Murphy in a "trip to Ireland." Miss Murphy, wearing the latest in skin attire was accompanied by a porter who carried her luggage.

Tableau With Floats

In the evening the floats that had appeared in the parade in the afternoon were grouped in front of the grandstand for a striking tableau effect with colored lights playing over them, the whole symbolizing "The Spirit of New London County."

Auto Parade Today

An added feature of the program for this (Saturday) afternoon will be an automobile parade around the track. This event is to be carried out under the direction of the officials of the au-

MISS EVON M. BROADHURST
Miss Norwich

tomobile show and about 30 of the latest models of machines of various makes will be seen in the parade.

Today's Race Events

This afternoon there will be three races on the program. Two of them will be for purses of $1,000 and the third will be for a purse of $500. The classes will be 2.20, 2.12 and 2.16. The entry list is large and the races promise to be the best of the week. In addition to the purses two large and beautiful cups are offered; the Ferguson cup for the winner of the 2.20 trot and the Cadillac-LaSalle cup (A. G. Swan Co.) for the winner of the 2.12 pace.

The judges this year are P. H. O'Brien, New London, Frank William and Henry T. Gorman.

ECHOS FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

The regular social meeting of Mercier assembly, No. 12, was held Tuesday evening in the rooms on Broadway. President Lucy Murphy presided. Plans for the annual convention to be held in New Haven, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 14 and 15 were discussed. Alternates were chosen to take the place of the officers unable to attend. This is the first time the convention will be in session more than one day. Miss Murphy impressed upon the members that the convention is open to each and every member. This fact is not generally known. Reservations and further information can be obtained by calling Miss Murphy, phone 1647-4. Members who are interested in the assembly pins, rings and pennants were again urged to hand in their orders at the earliest possible moment, not later than the next meeting.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, is to have Neighbors' night on its program for the lecturer's hour at its meeting next week on Wednesday evening, with Plainfield, Preston City, North Stonington, Mystic and Groton granges as guests. Each of the visiting granges is to furnish two numbers on the program.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Next Monday evening at the Buckingham council the state convention will begin which is held in Norwich this year.

Every member is expected to be present as a good program is planned. There will be plenty of fun for all. The regular weekly meeting was held Wednesday with a good sized attendance. Many things were discussed for the benefit of all members.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA

The quarterly state assembly of the Catholic Daughters of America will be held Sunday, September 25, in Stafford Springs, Conn. Mrs. John Lavey, Mrs Frank Brennan and Miss Lillian Glennon, as well as several other members of the Court Reina Christina, Bridgeport, are to attend.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA

At a recent meeting of the D. T. B. club held at Foresters club hall, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, Elroy J. Bolduc; vice president, John C. Atterbury; secretary and treasurer, Henry A. Congdon.

The motto selected for the slogan of activity for the year was, "Good Fellowship and Harmony." It was voted to start a series of whist and pinochle card parties, with each committee conducting two evenings of play. The first committee consists of Paul W. Bigney, John C. Atterbury and Henry A. Congdon and they have announced that the first entertainment will take place on Wednesday evening, Sept. 28th, and thereafter very two weeks. Besides the evening prizes, tournament prizes will be given when the season is half over as well as at the close of the tournament. The various committees expect to put on some added features to their evenings of play to make it a banner year of card playing.

EAGLES

A successful pinochle and whist was given at the Eagles hall Tuesday evening with twenty tables in play. Those taking prizes in pinochle were: Mrs. C. Prudell with a score of 7769, Mrs. H. Herring with 7510 and Mrs. Hoelck 7430, and A. Hafner 7430; at whist, Mrs. Hasting 41, Mrs. E. Mullins 39, Mrs. McKelvey 35, N. Conaty 51, H. Collins 41 and R. Beetham 35.

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Palmyra encampment, No. 3, was held in Odd Fellows hall Thursday evening, with Chief Patriarch S. Howard Bishop presiding. There was a good attendance of members and all indications pointed toward a very active season during the winter. Among other things, Patriarch Waters reported for the pinochle committee that a tournament is to be started Oct. 7 for six weeks, which all Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are eligible to play. All wishing to play are to report their names to the pinochle committee of their various lodges, or to Patriarch Waters not later than next Thursday. Many expressions of sympathy were noted for the Scribe of the encampment, John F. Amburn, who has been confined to Backus hospital from injuries received recently in being struck by a hit-and-run driver, and hopes were expressed for a quick recovery.

MOSEHEART LEGION

Women of Moosehearl legion held their regular meeting Thursday evening with Senior Regent Vera Sterry presiding. Two legionnaires were reported sick and one application for membership was read.

Past Regent Teresa Watters, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported a good sum realized on both whists held at the Moose home and also announced a whist and pinochle for next Thursday at Moose home.

The auditing committee of which Legionnaire Grace Walz is chairman will meet before the next meeting.

For the good of the order Past Regent Watters requested all legionnaires who wish to take part in the entertainment at New London for Moosehearl Day to communicate with her as soon as possible so as to be able to start rehearsals as the legion wants to make this something out of the ordinary.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

The Woman's Relief corps met at the Buckingham Memorial Friday afternoon with the president, Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, in charge. The chamber of commerce extended an invitation to all members to attend a women's mass meeting at the Wauregan hotel Monday at 4 o'clock. The object is to discuss the shopping question. After thanking Mrs. Jane Seed for acting as chairman of the last supper, the receipts were placed in the general fund. The Buckingham Memorial is sadly in need of some repairs and there was much discussion of ways and means for procuring money. If anyone is interested in the upkeep of the building a contribution will be gladly received. The inspection will be at the next meeting, Oct. 14th. The next sewing society meeting will be at the home of Mrs. David Dean, Wednesday, Oct. 12th, and the members are expected to leave the square at 10 o'clock and bring lunch. Gifts of cloths to be made up for the sale will be much appreciated. The corps closed with the salute to the flag.

REBEKAHS

Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, met Wednesday evening with Noble Grand Alice Brayman in the chair. It was voted to hold the annual fair and supper the last Saturday in October.

The following committees were appointed: General chairman, Mrs. John O. Peckham; apron table, Mrs. Eva Wilson, Mrs. Minnie Amburn; candy table, Mrs. Alice Metcalfe, Mrs. Anny Coles; handerkerchief table, Mrs. Arline Peckham, Mrs. Gladys Bowers; fancy work table, Mrs. Lilliam Tuttle, Mrs. Grace Willey, Mrs. Lena Christman; towel table, Mrs. Hattie Parsons, Mrs. Edna Browning; canned goods and jellies, Mrs. Ada Revell, Mrs. Eva Jahn; grab bag, Miss Charlotte Fowler, Mrs. Caroline Howard; food sale, Mrs. Mary Adams, Mrs. Lora Buddington, Mrs. Bertha Collins; fowl tickets, Mrs. Florence Maynard, Mrs. Ora Spencer; cake tickets, Mrs. Ella Stapleton; supper, Chairman Mrs. Mable Wheeler, Mrs. Mary Smith; supper committee, Mrs. Agnes Blackburn, Mrs. Mary Harris, Mrs. Eliza Walker, Mrs. Mable Amburn; charge of tickets, John O. Peckham.

A whist and pinochle will be held Friday evening preceding the sale, which will be in charge of Mrs. Eliza Walker, Mrs. Mable Amburn Mrs. John Parsons. Other announcements will be made later.

The 77th anniversary of the lodge was celebrated with a very pleasing program. Meeting closed in usual form with 75 members present.

EAGLES

William R. Hastedt was elected a trustee of Norwich aerie, No. 367, at its largely atterded meeting Monday evening at its home on Cliff street. A report from the auditing committee showed that the aerie had made fine progress during the previous quarter. The chairman of the class initiation committee reported that another class initiation is to be held on Saturday, Oct. 15. The building committee announced that everything was in readiness for the three day bazaar to be held in the latter part of the month.

NICHOLS TO OPPOSE BISHOP IN FIRST OF TAFTVILLE-RIVERVIEW SERIES TODAY

Probably what will prove to be the season's best baseball dish will be served up today and Sunday when Riverview, state champions, will play the first two games of the five game series with Jim Troland's Martafts of Taftville. The first game will be played today at the State Hospital diamond and the Sunday game is slated for the J. B. Martin park at Taftville.

Bitter rivalry exists between these clubs and it is evidenced in the fact that Manager Troland has gone out and hired several players from the Eastern league to perform with his club in today's and Sunday's games. Troland is bent on handing the Riverview a decisive defeat in the series and if he wins will lay claim to the state and New England semi-pro titles. Perhaps the best known player in his lineup will be his hurler, Chet Nichols. Nichols during the past few years has cut quite a figure on the diamond, in fact his Eastern league performance was so good that he was signed by the Pittsburgh Pirates and was with them until about mid-season. He was then sent to New Haven of the Eastern league. Only a week or so ago he was recalled by the Pirates only to be traded to Jersey City of the International league.

Another star that will perform in the series will be Harry Davis, an outfielder, who was close to the top in the Eastern league batting and who was chosen by the majority of sport writers as a member of the mythical All-Eastern league team. Davis is a terrific hitter and a menace to any pitcher.

At second base he will have Carl Schmel one of the leading second sackers of the Eastern loop while at third will be Comisky another hard hitter and smooth guardian of the hot corner. With the addition of these players who all come from the Hartford club with the exception of Nichols, Manager Troland feels that he has enough added strength to bring him through on the long end of the score.

Riverview on the other hand is using three players who have not been with the team all season. They are Tommy Sipples, Joe Faber and Jimmy Bishop. Faber is really a Riverview player as it was at the State Hospital that he got his real start in baseball. Faber has been with the York club where he batted for .321 for the season, a figure that has attracted favorable notice from the big league scouts. Bishop was one of the mainstays of the pitching staff of the Bridgeport club and also has had big league experience. Sipples is no stranger to Norwich fans as he has played with and against the local clubs for many seasons. Bishop will pitch today's game and will oppose Chet Nichols which means that the game will be more or less of a pitching battle.

The lineup for today's game:

Taftville—Nichols p; Eccleston c; Murphy 1b; Schmel 2b; Krauss ss; Comisky 3b; Davis lf; Jarvis cf; Gley rf.

Riverview—Bishop p; Belair c; Sipples or Hamel 1b; Liberty 2b; Normandin ss; Christy 3b; Sipples or Mills lf; Moore cf; Faber rf.

Sunday's Game

For the game Sunday Taftville has strengthened a trifle more with the acquisition of another first sacker to take the place of Eddie Murphy. Just who this player is was not divulged by Manager Troland on Friday night other than he would be billed as Red. This does not mean a whole lot but Troland insists that he is a well known player and can give a brilliant account of himself. Troland was very secretive about who was going to do the pitching for him and here again he slips in a name that is unknown. He says Black is to pitch for him and again insists that when the said Black steps into the box every baseball fan will know him. Just why all the secrecy on the part of Manager Troland is not known.

Riverview will probably send in the same lineup with the exception of the pitcher and no doubt it will be Tony West. West can pitch good ball and if he is right on Sunday he will give the Taftville club plenty of trouble. The two games that face Riverview are the hardest of any they will have to travel.

Sunday's game will start at 2:30 o'clock (standard time).

TICKET SALE FOR WORLD'S SERIES AUTHORIZED

CHICAGO, Sept. 23—(AP)—Ticket sales for seats to the world's series were authorized today by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, and the presidents of the clubs likely to participate in baseball's annual classic, which will open in the home park of the National league pennant winner on Oct. 5.

The Giants were not represented at the conference, and neither were the fourth place Cubs, although both had been invited.

Sam Dreyfuss, president of the Pirates, and Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, met with Col. Jacob Ruppert, president of the pennant winning Yankees of the American league and Commissioner Landis.

The first two games will be played in the National league park, it was decided, and the third, fourth and fifth in the Yankee stadium, with the sixth and seventh, if necessary returning to the National league city.

If the Pirates, now leading the pennant chase in the National league, should capture the flag, the games will be played on successive days, but if the Cardinals should win, one day will be left open for travelling between the two halves of the series.

The same ticket prices will prevail, $6.60, $5.50, $3.50, and $1.10. Umpires were not chosen, as the league presidents were not represented at the conference.

FORTUNE PITCHES PONIES TO WIN OVER ALBANY

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 23—(AP)—Airtight pitching by Gary Fortune and timely batting by his teammates enabled Springfield, runner-up in the Eastern league race, to defeat Albany, champion, here today, in the first of a five game post-season series. The score was 6 to 2.

Fortune allowed the Lawmakers but five hits. Albany bunching a hit with two errors and a wild pitch for its three runs. Kane of Springfield hit a home run over the fence in right center in the third with two mates on bases. The score:

Albany ..... 000 020 000—2 5 0
Springfield .. 002 201 00x—6 10 2

BRAVES GIVE CARDS ANOTHER BAD SET-BACK

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23—(AP)—The pennant hopes of the St. Louis Cardinals were given a set-back today when the Boston Braves won the second game of the series, 3 to 2, on Fournier's home run in the ninth.

The Cardinals thus dropped to third place, three games behind the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates while the New York Giants who defeated the Pirates today, went into second place, 2 1-2 games behind the leaders.

The game was a pitching duel between the veteran Grover Alexander, who had won twenty games this season and Joe Genewich. Each allowed seven hits.

The Braves bunched two doubles in the first inning for their first run. Hafey's homer with one on in the same frame put the Cardinals ahead. A double, a single and a sacrifice gave the Braves another run and tied the count in the fifth. Fournier put the game on ice in the ninth with his circuit clout. The score:

REDS DIVIDE HONORS WITH ROBINS IN DOUBLE

CINCINNATI, Sept. 23—(AP)—Cincinnati divided a doubleheader with Brooklyn today, triumphing by 6 to 3 in the first clash, and losing the other tilt by 4 to 3. The Reds landed on Elliott for four runs in the fifth inning of the opener to tuck the game away. Ray Moss, recently obtained by the Robins from the Memphis club of the Southern league, hurled the Brooklyn victory although Clark came to his rescue in the ninth when the Reds threatened. WHITE SOX BREAK LOSING STREAK BEATING RED SOX

BOSTON, Sept. 23—(AP)—After losing 12 straight, Chicago defeated Boston 2 to 1 in 11 innings today.

The winning run came on a pass to Kamm, Neis' bunt and a long single to right by Falk. Herbert Bradley, recently recalled from the Waterbury club in the Eastern league, drove in Boston's only run in the 5th with a single after Todt had tripled, and also held Chicago to five hits.

Umpire Owens was struck on the right knee by a foul tip in the tenth and had to leave the game. The score:

GIANTS GAIN FULL GAME BY NOSING OUT PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23—(AP)—The New York Giants jarred a full game out of Pittsburgh's lead on the pinnacle in the hard National grind today with an exciting 6 to 5 victory over the Pirates which rollicked the McGrawmen back in second place as the Cardinals went under to the Braves. The defeat reduced the Corsair advantage to two and one-half games. The attendance was 15,000.

The Pirates carried a five run lead into the seventh but Carmen Hill, who had defeated the Giants five times previously, weakened and four runs crossed the plate. With the bases loaded and two out, Lindstrom dropped a Texas leaguer single that brought in two runs and another one came over when Lloyd Waner made a bad peg to third.

Trailing by one run in the ninth with one out, Mueller walked and Lindstrom's hit to center took a high hop that turned it into a three bagger. Roush sent a short sacrifice fly to Lloyd Waner and scored Lindstrom from third on a very close play. The Giants seemed to get the best of the umpire's decision for it looked as if Smith in taking L. Waner's throw put the ball on Lindstrom a second before he reached the plate.

Norman Plitt, who did rescue work in the seventh and eighth, got credit for the victory.

Benton hurled the ninth. Barnhart, batting for Hill, walked, Lloyd Waner singled and Brickell, running for Barnhart, took second. Comorosky's bunt was grabbed by Benton to force Brickell. Paul Waner grounded out and with a man on third and second, Wright was called out on strikes.

Traynor's three bagger in the first inning came with three on and "Pie" followed the trio over the plate on Grantham's sacrifice. Traynor scored Comorosky with a single in the third. The score:

FOURTH OF REVIEWS OF DUSTY LEAGUE TEAMS

Thermos Bottlers

Presenting the champion "in and out" club of Norwich baseball, Manager Peckham's Thermos Bottle aggregation was just about the hardest to figure of any baseball nine that ever dug spikes into the turf around this section.

Their final standing of .500 with 7 won and 7 lost, fit this club to a "T". They tied for fourth with Wermans. They were either very good or very bad all the way. No "mediums" for them.

Starting off the season with what on paper looked like the pennant winner this club was bothered with its pitching staff most all the way and therein lies the reason for their not being able to displace some of those mentioned before. Dudek had a sore arm. Neil's control went back on him and although Dan Driscoll and Jim Mullins did well in relief roles they never seemed to be able to successfully negotiate the full distance although Mullins, it must be admitted did some fine work under the circumstances. Lemieux, third baseman, was finally called upon in desperation during the later weeks of the schedule and his work was a revelation. Had he been used sooner things might have been different.

Eddie Paul's catching with so many pitchers around was a shining light in the Thermos play. His timely work with the stick also helped a lot and his arm, as many who had run into it will testify, was one of the most deadly in the loop. Lemieux, Muggsy Ellsworth, Mullins, Petrone and Oney did about the best work.

Most valuable—Lemieux.
Best infielder—Lemieux.
Best outfielder—Mullins.
(Wermans, Monday)

GIANT ROOKIE CATCHER TO TAKE UP RING GAME

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 23—(AP)—Big Jack Smith, Giant rookie and second string catcher for the Albany club, of the Eastern league last season, will enter the ring this winter, according to an announcement here today by Lou Anger and Joe Smith, local boxing managers.

Smith weighs 240 pounds and is in perfect condition. He gained fame in the Giant camp last spring by driving six inch spikes through boards with his hands. He may appear on the next card in this city.

ILLINOIS COMMISSION REFUSES TO ALLOW PROTEST OF LEO. P. FLYNN

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The battle is over, the exodus of the most spectacular fight crowd is near complete but the debate is still on. It raged with increasing, rather than diminishing fury tonight about the now-famous seventh round and whether or not the "long" count of nine—actually occupying a space of 13 or 14 seconds—saved Gene Tunney from losing the heavyweight crown to Jack Dempsey.

The official decision in Tunney's favor, in the score of the delay in counting in the seventh round until Dempsey was waved to a corner as well as on the verdict at the close in the champion's favor, stands as it was rendered last night. The state athletic commission settled this at a session that heard and refused to allow a formal protest from Leo P. Flynn, Dempsey's manager, who claimed that Tunney was actually knocked out and that Dempsey was "robbed" of the championship. At the same time a loophole was left for further appeal by Flynn.

Dempsey himself refused to support Flynn's action, today at least, and through his agent, Arthur F. Driscoll of New York, made it known that he was considering no "squawk" or protest at present.

Is Dempsey through or will there be another and third chapter of his de luxe feud with Tunney? The former champion's friends believe he has fought his last fight. Jack himself isn't committing himself to the future yet. Tex Rickard, the man who pulls the strings, may have an idea of bringing another match or at least of promoting a 1928 variation of the "elimination tournament" to decide Tunney's next opponent. Both had agreed before the battle to fight for Rickard next year in defense of the title, whoever was the victor.

Rickard fell short of his goal of a battle of three millions but the actual receipts he announced today—$2,658,660—eclipsed by more than $750,000 the previous record spectacle of a year ago at Philadelphia.

Because it was less than a $3,000,000 "gate", Tunney also failed to collect the million he expected to get. It developed today that he was working on a graduating percentage scale, instead of a flat guarantee, but his approximate end of $900,000, is $150,000 more than any fighter ever collected for a night's engagement. Dempsey received $750,000 last year. This time he collected $450,000.

DANIELSON CLUB TO PLAY MOOSUP TEAM

Sunday at Moosup Tom McDermott's Danielson team is to play the Moosup Town Talks. Manager McDermott is an old timer at rounding up very fast teams for a late season baseball game and he said this afternoon that the lineup Danielson will present at Moosup will be made up exclusively of fast minor league players, making a combination probably faster than any team the Town Talks have faced this season.

Richards Wins In Pro Tennis

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—(AP)—Vincent Richards, former Davis cup player, won his first round match in the professional tournament opening here today. Richards eliminated Julius Boise of the Allegheny Country club, 6-0, 6-0.

Ouimet is Medalist

PINE VALLEY, N. J., Sept. 23—(AP)—Francis Ouimet, Boston, former national amateur and open champion today won the qualifying medal in the annual George Arthur Crump Memorial Golf tournament with a card of 74-79—153 for the 36 holes.

E. R. Driggs, Jr., Garden City, finished three strokes behind to take second place. W. H. Taft, Mont Clair, N. J., was third with 159 while Rolandi Mackenzie, Columbia, scored 160, for fourth.

CONNECTICUT AGGIES OPEN GRID SEASON AGAINST COAST GUARD TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., Sept. 23—Connecticut Aggies 1927 football machine will make its debut in a home game here tomorrow afternoon in a contest with the U. S. Coast Guard Cadets from New London. The kickoff is scheduled for three o'clock, daylight time.

Lacking any advance information on the strength and experience of the cadets, it is impossible to venture an opinion on the opposition to be expected tomorrow afternoon. It is felt by many locally that the Coast Guards will be a set-up for Connecticut, but this feeling is not shared by either the coaches or team. They recall how a supposedly weak Coast Guard basketball five extended the Aggies' quintet to the limit to win last spring, and are guarding against a similar happening in football tomorrow.

"We expect a real test in our opening game of the season tomorrow", said Coach Louis Alexander, "and all our efforts since practice got under way Sept. 8th have been directed towards having the squad prepared and ready to begin the 1927 season with a victory. We know absolutely nothing about the strength of the cadets, but we recall that only a year ago their eleven soundly licked our second team in a practice game at New London. Personally, I think we will have a stiff tussle in the first game of the season.

"And if it's a hard game, we will be ready for it," continued Alexander. "Every man on the squad, with one exception, is in the best of condition and ready to go. Schildrgen, sub end, is the only man who is bothered by injury. The team we put on the field will be largely a veteran combination, and one that in preliminary drill has shown both speed and power.

A one hour session of signal drill was all that Alexander attempted in practice today. The first team lineup, the one that will start against the cadets, saw John Callahan '29 and Howard Keenedy '28 on the ends; Andy Sayers '29, Ken Wilson '29 and Coe Hawkins '30, alternating at the tackles; Dick Ruffkess '30 and Ed Colacurcio in the guard positions; and Carl Geissler '28 at center.

A couple of last minute shifts have been made in the backfield. Bill Knaut '29, because of his greater experience in the position, will be played at quarter rather than fullback. Captain Eddy '28 and "Pop" Williams '28 will play the halves, as previously announced. And Rhoar Flyday '30, is slated to start at fullback. This is the lineup Alexander announced after practice tonight, though of course there is always the possibility of further changes.

Other backfield men who will be given a chance to show what they can do tomorrow include Ray Ryan '30, at either half or quarter; Gene Lamoreaux '30 at quarter; Cappy Krayeskie '28 at half; Bob Groot '30 at half; and John Powers '28 at half.

In the line, substitutions will probably include John Goebel '30 and Seraphino Tombari '30 on the ends; Claude Gillette '28 at one of the tackles; Marty Gilman '29 and Sam Silleffer '30 at the guards; and John Stangle '30 at center. It is expected that Alexander will follow Dole's policy of last year, which called for a liberal use of substitutes and second string men when ever possible.

As already mentioned, the game tomorrow starts at three o'clock daylight time. Because Gardner Dow field is being rebuilt, the new field constructed by student and faculty labor during the last two and a half years will be used for the Coast Guard game and all other home contests this season. The new field lies just south west of the old gridiron, and visitors to Storrs will have no difficulty in locating it. Cars may be parked north of Hawley armory as in past seasons.

Prof. Allan W. Manchester, chairman of the college athletic council has announced that tickets purchased last spring when the state college students were conducting their statewide drive for funds with which to erect new playing fields will be good for admission tomorrow and at other home games.

The Coast Guard-Aggie game will not be broadcasted through WCAC, as the station is being rebuilt. Present plans call for the broadcasting of the Maine and Lowell Textile games later in the season, however.

Lacoste Wins Exhibition

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 23—(AP)—Rene Lacoste, the king pin of the tennis world, added further victories to his string in his Canadian exhibition tour when he defeated Jack Wright, dominion titleholder, today. Scores were: 6-3, 6-2.

Coupled with Herbert L. Bowman of New York, Lacoste defeated Wright and Gilbert Nunns in the doubles 6-3, 6-3.

In another singles match Bowman defeated Nunns 6-1, 6-4.

Armour Lowers Course Record

DANBURY, Sept. 23—(AP)—Tommy Armour, while teamed with Johnny Farrell in an 18-hole match game today with George Ferrier, Ridgewood Country club pro and George McLachlan, club champion, lowered the course record previously held by Walter Hagen with 66 to 65. Par for the course is 72.

CANDIDATES COMING HARD FOR WESTERLY REPUBLICANS

(Special to The Bulletin).

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 23—New candidates for Westerly town offices for which an election will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 8th next continue to be heard from and more are yet undecided as yet to declare their intentions of having their names presented to the coming republican caucus, nomination by which in Westerly has been as good in times past as the actual election.

Following the republican town committee session last Thursday evening behind closed doors, where Chairman Everett A. Kingsley acted as clerk as well as presiding officer, Mr. Kingsley stated that the town committee had decided that inasmuch as replies had not been received from all present office holders and names and nature of the replies received was to be held up until all had been heard from. In spite of this stand, announcement has been made that the committee is particularly interested in hearing from present town councilmen, John D. Nichols, Rogers E. Trainer and Isaac G. Smith, as none of these three have expressed their desires. It is understood that present Council President Nichols, who was successful in securing the nomination for representative to the last general assembly, without the active support of the present town committee, and who was elected by a large majority, does not feel especially obligated to the town committee and may not reply to them. Councilman Rogers E. Trainer, when asked as to his attitude, replied that he had not as yet fully made up his mind and his reply would be based on the result of several things in which he was interested at the present time. The stand of Councilman Isaac G. Smith is best learned from the fact that his name headed a slate which has the backing of several active business men.

It would seem that the town committee felt that their task of making up a slate was not the easiest one imaginable for representatives of the fair play committee were invited to meet with the committee at their last Thursday night's session when Attorney M. Walter Flynn, Jr., spoke at length in the interests of the committee. It was also announced that names of possible candidates as presented by this group was also to be withheld as the naming of them might subject them to cross-fire, and the further information has been gleaned that if a majority of the candidates named by this group were not indorsed by the republican town committee, it might expect a fight from this quarter.

The following list is reported as among prospective candidates of the fair play committee for town offices:

For councilmen—James O. Lynch, Howard W. Swan, Edward L. Sawyer, Horace E. Burdick, Joseph T. Grills, James V. Nacarrato, Elmer L. Macomber, Frank H. Crandall.

For tax assessor for 6 years—George A. Dolan.

Walter C. Hiscox, the present assessor, whose term expires, has declared that due to demands of building business in which he is engaged, he is not a candidate for re-election.

Mrs. Helen Segar Price, filling a vacancy on the Westerly school committee, is understood as not opposed, and can be renominated and elected.

Other town officers without formidable opposition are said to be Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple and Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton.

The Westerly republican town committee has announced that it plans to hold an open meeting next Thursday evening in the town hall when it will be ready to receive names of additional prospective candidates.

Lasting well into this afternoon trial of George C. McKinley of New York and Pawcatuck, charged with reckless driving, required the greater part of the court session before Judge Oliver H. Williams. At the conclusion he was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs. Request was made for a jury trial, and the case continued to the November term of the superior court. Silvester Murano became surety in the sum of $500.

The case of the state vs. certain liquors and vessels seized in a raid of the Rhode Island State Police on James Nicosia of Carolina, R. I., was continued one week.

John Marshall of Richmond, charged with operating an automobile on the Richmond-Carolina road on Sept. 2, last, pleaded not guilty and the case was continued to Sept. 30 for hearing. He furnished bail in the sum of $200 with Frank E. Sweet of Charlestown as surety.

Funeral services for George Robbins Coy, 77, were held Thursday afternoon from 46 Granite street, Rev. Lewis A. Walker, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, officiated.

The bearers were Charles B. Segar, Henry R. Segar, Dr. A. V. Segar and Ernest G. Segar, all brothers of Mrs. Coy. Interment was in River Bend cemetery.

Besides his wife, Elizabeth D. Segar Coy, the deceased leaves a son, William S. Coy of Stoneham, Mass.; a brother, John S. Coy, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Coy Chapman and Miss Susan P. Coy, all three of Westerly.

Work on the restoration of the Westerly town clock on the tower of the old Westerly Town hall, now used as a manual training school, was continued today with the reboarding of the clock dials and the placing of Roman hour numerals about the dial, in readiness for painting.

Henry K. Gostchius, having occupied the Watch Hill cottage, The Dormers, on Everett avenue, left this afternoon for his home in New York city.

Mrs. Anna I. Robinson was a Block Island visitor the past week end with local relatives and friends.

Probation Officer Mrs. Bertha Van-Bushkirk of Providence was a Westerly business visitor today.

Miss Lucinda Barber is enjoying a week's vacation from her duties in the office of the C. B. Cottrell and Sons Co.

William F. Gavitt and Arthur Leonard have returned to their Pawcatuck homes after an extended vacation with relatives and friends in Newport, R. I.

William Mitchell returned to his duties in Providence this morning from a short visit in Westerly.

Mrs. Mary E. Russell of New London visited the past week with Mrs. Charles H. Richmond in Pawcatuck.

THE SOCIAL CORNER

TO THE BRAVE, TRIALS ARE BUT STEPPING STONES TO TRIUMPHS.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY SEPTEMBER.

September means the bloom on purple grapes
Whose ripeness fills with spice the hazy air;
It means full fields—the tiny seeds of spring
Developed in rich fruitage everywhere.
The birds make music soft o'er growing bread,
Which waits impatient to be harvested.

September means much more than fruitful fields,
Than purple grapes, or birds of thankful song;
It means a healthful bloom on rounded cheeks,
Brought back to cities by the sick, now strong;
The springing step and sparkling eye all show
A harvest that mere fields can scarcely grow.

September means a lesson to the wise,
A lesson we would all do well to heed;
The fruit, however pleasant of past days,
Cannot the present satisfy or feed;
So let September mean beginnings new
In work which waits for faithful hands to do.

Your Morning Face

How do you look in the morning,
When you first get out of bed?
When deep is the blue about you,
And only your nose is red,
With eyelids puffy and baggy
And your stomach all caved in,
And your hair in a knot,
From the aches you have got,
Say, how are you looking just then?

How do you look in the morning
When you ring the breakfast bell?
The morning face that hubby sees,
His thoughts he would dare not tell.
With hair all tangled and frowsy,
And smile that would stop a clock,
Would he take it with grace
That each morning this face
Would greet him? He'd die from the shock!

Then live as you know you ought to,
And rise in the morning fine,
And brush your hair, and dress with care,
Get a Morning Face that shines.
And then at your breakfast table,
You'll be saved from such ill
As divorce courts and bills,
By neatness and sweetness each morn.

THE CARE OF THE CHILD

Dear Social Corner Friends: Many thanks to the Editor for the prize check for letter on Our Line of Work.

The plans for instruction for the physical care of young children have been so systemized and organized and established that any mother now can easily know all the latest and best ideas for the physical care of her children.

But the mental care must begin at birth too and in the right way if we would have good results.

Very little has yet been done toward a general knowledge of the mental development of young children from birth to school age.

The mental and physical instructions should never have been separated. And the great need now is to give the latest and best ideas for mental care always in connection with the physical instructions.

It is important to know and realize that the infant's mind is very active at birth and that in the first few days he learns everything about the way he is handled and objects to any changes from that first way of doing for him.

An infant easily forms the habit of screaming with rage at some delay at feeding time and this may be the beginning of a very bad disposition if allowed to continue.

It is necessary to remember that habit is as strong an instinct in the infant as in the adult.

Habit is a valuable instinct in helping us to do quickly and without much thought the accustomed duties but is a very harmful instinct when it prevents our being willing to understand and do a new and better way.

So the infant in the first month of his life may be trained into bad "behavior patterns" that he may use all his life.

If you ever see a selfish ugly, tyrannical adult, you will be safe in saying he is that way because he was allowed to be that kind of a child. A fractious unselfgoverned child will make a fractious ungoverned adult that no one can get along with.

It was never meant for us to develop that kind of persons and they do not compare well with our present condition of civilization in all other ways and we should not continue to raise that kind.

Don't let the infant be frightened, little things are very big to him.

If a strong healthy child or one who is not digesting his food he may be very hungry before eating time and easily form the habit of crying each time while impatiently waiting.

The thing to do is the same as for an adult, something interesting to take his attention until meal time.

For the infant of a few days, pat his face very gently, cuddle him a little, hold him in a different position any little change in position rests and interests him and he forgets his trouble.

When older begin talking to him in a low, sweet, smiling way, your talk to him, may be only common conversation to others in the room but seeming to be addressed to him.

Soon begin telling Mother Goose and other rhymes to him, of course he cannot understand them yet, but he is interested and amused and does form the habit of attention to what is said, and you have a most valuable way of interesting him when sick or when well.

Most children like the bath, but if not give it in the some way he does like it. If he doesn't like it, it may be because he was frightened at first or the temperature may not be right or he may feel cold after the bath.

Find out what he objects to and why and make some happy change.

As soon as possible give him some plaything, his playthings are work to him and he should have a new and more difficult kind as he gets older and more capable.

Don't start objectionable habits thinking it will make no difference while he is so young.

Make changes in his habits when he is old enough to undersand reasons and is proud to do an older and better way.

Every child should be trained to be a capable self-governed child prepared to take his place in the world perfect physically, mentally, morally and socially.

It is in the little everyday occurrences of life that the child learns self-respect and to respect the rights of others, and to be a good citizen, a real person and one who will add to the happiness of everyone he knows.

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

Sept. 28—Picnic at home of Aunty No. 1.

BY AUTO TO NORTHERN NEW ENGLAND

Dear Social Corner Friends: It has been so long since I last wrote to the Social Corner I feel terribly like a slacker, but now I will try to make up by telling you about a very beautiful ride I had last week end. We left home last Friday at 5 o'clock and went directly to Worcester. There we followed the Mohawk trail to Athol where the minute tapioca is made, also the poets seat tower, where we had a wonderful view of Miller's Falls and where there is a large tool factory. Then on to Greenfield, Mass. We left the trail there and rode on to Brattleboro, Vt., where we visited one of the most beautiful depots around. In a cemetery in Brattleboro is a large monument in the center, which is dedicated to a scorning man. On it are four large figures of women, and it reminded me of the saying, "A sailor has a sweetheart in every port," for his history is on the stone. We then came to a nine mile detour through a narrow back road on the Putney where we stayed for the night. Left there at 5:30, went through Westminster to Bellows Falls on to Charleston where the home of Admiral Clark is. We followed the river right along to White River Junction. While parked for a few minutes near the Coolidge hotel, on one side of the building on two floors I counted 70 windows with 14 baths. Then we went through Hartford and Norwich but it is not like Norwich, Conn., because I missed the roses. We went to Wells River up to St. Johnsbury and arrived there about 12:30 Saturday. The farm where we stayed is high enough up so we got a wonderful view of the Green Mountains. The farm is one of the largest in Vermont and has the largest round barn in Vermont. They have 50 cows and quite a few other animals. In the barn they have several hundred tons of hay. I wish some of the sisters could have seen me sliding down the hay, especially Rosy Posy. We visited the sugaring house and saw how maple sugar and syrup were made. In the evening we visited the museum but were not able to see many things as we didn't have much time. We went to the Palace theater which is a good deal like the one in Norwich even to the organ. One thing I found strange was the gun they always keep handy, as they say the bears come around at night. I was glad I slept on the second floor for that reason. I noticed many beautiful cemeteries and they were all well taken care of. The village schools have swings and seesaws and on each school is inscribed "Superior Schools".

We passed a house in Charleston dating back to 1775. We went over all kinds of bridges, open and covered. We even went over a toll bridge where we had to pay 25 cents before we could cross. It is wonderful to ride along some mountains and look down at the rivers below. One thing I didn't see was an accident in Vermont. We saw one this side of Worcester but I think everyone drives carefully up that way. There was no garbage along the roads and I thought if only people around here were more careful about the disposal of garbage it would make our towns much more beautiful. We saw the Old Man of the Mountain in New Hampshire also the elephant's head on another mountain. We passed but two Connecticut cars on our trip. I wonder if the Social Corner sisters know that St. Johnsbury has one of the largest maple sugar factories in Vermont also the Turner Center creamery. Vermont is a great place for antiques as all along the road are antique shops. I am looking forward to another trip like this before the cold weather sets in and I wish the Social Corner sisters could all go on a trip like this as it sure is wonderful.

Rosy Posy: Did you receive my card? Will be up to see you before long.

Kentucky Wonder: Hope you are all well. Did I enjoy the trip?

Daisy Dean: Where are you? I haven't seen anything from your pen lately.

Lilac Lady: Was up your way Labor day. Did not see you. Did you know one of your friends is in the hospital?

Social Corner Sister: One of our sisters is in the Backus hospital where she underwent an operation Saturday. She is resting comfortably at this writing and would like to receive cards or have any of the sisters visit her. Her pen name is Aurelia and her address is Mrs. Minnie Hill, Backus Hospital, Ward C, Norwich, Conn.

I will close now, with sympathy to all the sick and shut ins.

LONESOME.

WEAR A SMILE

Dear Social Corner Members: The Social Corner editor says: "Happiness like a garden must be cultivated. The above lines embodies the very best advice which every one of us should take right home to ourselves and put into diligent practice. A smile, as pleasant look represents the language universally understood and responded to in kind by people of every race and station. The proverbial slogan of the photographer you know is, "Look pleasant, please" and I think a wise one. He knows from long experience that an unpleasant or troubled countenance is bound to make the pictured self extremely unsatisfactory and render his work "labor lost." I think we are coming in greater or less degree to realize that the habitual pleasant look is an asset to business as well as to society to say nothing of its wonderful success as an eradicator of friction in a family circle.

An editor wrote: "You can't slam a man who looks as if he had something pleasant to say, and who always comes up smiling," and this is very true. If we look about us, taking stock of the people we run across—whether they are happy or not—we can easily prove the statement for ourselves. As a stirling example which occurs to me, there is an Italian truck driver. He hauls loads of sand and gravel from the pit where the sand is excavated to the construction job where it is to be used. Everybody waits him a blessing because of a ready smile. His fellow workmen hail him with hearty good nature, and if there is work his truck gets it. There is another man in the same employ, but that is another story, he has not yet learned that it pays, even from the standpoint of self-interest, to be happy and pleasant. He will, however, give him time.

We have written several times about the value of a smile. You know, of how much better it is for ourselves and the world in general that there be cheerful countenances which doeth good like a medicine rather than the gloom that wraps every one in a pall. Probably not one who reads this letter will dissent from this, we all know it to be true, even though we have not arrived at the point where we can practice this very excellent preaching.

Did you ever think or did it ever occur to you that your success is going to be dependent on the number of people whom you can make like you? Did you ever stop to think that qualities in you would make people like you? You, yourself don't like a mean miserable faced whining personality; you are repelled by it. But you are attracted by a smiling countenance eager to please, interested in your personality.

GOING TO THE FAIR

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends:

"Backward, turn backward, O Time, in thy flight,
Make me a child again, just for to-night!"

Or rather for today while I attend the county fair. Then I might get the same thrill from it that I got in years past. In my youth the fair was something to look forward to for months. No radios, no trolleys, no airplanes or autos as now and life on the farm was a bit monotonous especially during the winter when we were sometimes "shut in from all the world without," as Whittier put it. So we talked about the fair weeks before and each year and it never disappointed us. There father and mother met old friends and talked over old times, one saw acquaintances there one had not seen since the year before. There was in evidence the man who was "just going to swallow a live alligator." Mother kept one eye on him all day to please my small brother and when the time to go home arrived the alligator hadn't been swallowed after all but was still just about to be.

"Step right this way, ladies and gentlemen, here's where you get your double jointed California, Jumbo peanuts, only five a bag," and we eagerly pushed into the waiting line for our turn. I enjoyed peanuts then but not now. It was a great event to us when one of the judges tied a blue ribbon on our handsome black and white mooly's horn, and when I received a gratuity of 65 cents on a braided rug I walked on air. The grandstand was free to all then and how we did go up and down again and again with no shortness of breath resulting. What a time for the lads and ladies to pair off, top for trips on the merry-go-round or for watching the races in the afternoon and in the poultry building how the ducks quacked and how the turkeys gobbled. Sometimes even in that remote age there would be a balloon ascension. How packed with people the buildings would be the middle day and how we young folks would squeeze through the crowd. Then on Governor's day there would be speech making and sometimes a really good elocutionist would entertain. I still remember how one year I drank in every word of The Chariot Race from Ben Hur. I thought of it years later when I sat entranced in a big theater in Boston witnessing the play. After nearly 30 years absence from the old home town I visited the fair there once more, thinking what a wonderful time I should have renewing old friendships. I came home sadly disappointed for among the thousands present there was scarcely a person I had seen before. The exhibits were fine, entertainment excellent, but the personal touch, the real thrill was absent.

Well, such is life! We cannot eat our cake and have it too. Twenty-five or 30 years must bring many changes. People we have known pass on and others take their places, but September is still the month when all roads lead to the fair. I trust many of you have already been this year and reached home at night tired but happy.

Have any of you used any of the carton pails with cover and wire bail? Candy came in the one I have. They are very useful for soiled laundry, patchwork pieces, clothes to be mended, children's playthings and the like. My candy man has promised me two more later on.

Friendly Voice: How did your garden turn out?

Ethelyn: Your letter made me long for an attic more than ever.

With best wishes and the hope that our page may be kept filled.

SAVING CAN RUBBERS

Dear Corner Sisters: A good rule for life is, if you feel as though you ought to do a thing, do it. I personally have not followed this rule and have sometimes felt a little selfish for others to accomplish what I can do but not do. It was a great event to us when I was a young girl to receive a box of candy from a friend who was in the city. Now I can buy candy and have it any time I want it. Nearly every paper you picked up last year contained in its columns of helps the instructions, "Don't use your can rubbers the second time." I have found this to be poor advice as are can rubbers if whole will keep fruit as well as a new one. A few years ago I put up nearly 500 jars of vegetables, meat, tomatoes, fruit, green beans and beef. Have some of them yet. I used all old rubbers. This is worth while in these days of high prices, when we need to practice economy. Four dollars a year saved on can rubbers by every household and turned into some good cause, would swell the fund and make some body healthier, wiser or happier, which I deem is a woman's real mission in life.

I am sending in a few recipes.

Blackberry Preserves: Fill jars with large firm berries. Make a syrup and pour over the berries, fill jar to the brim. I make my syrup equal parts of sugar and water. Boil about ten minutes and add a little orange flavring.

Blackberry Conserve: Crush equal quantities of blackberries and cherries or currants stemmed, measure the pulp and add the same amount of sugar. Boil slowly until tender and thick and just before removing from fire add to each 3 cups of pulp and 3-4 cup chopped nuts.

Raspberry Granite: 1 quart of red raspberries, 1 quart of water, juice of 2 lemons, 1 pound of sugar.

Make the raspberry water ice, and when frozen, stir in one quart of berries. Serve in glasses.

A substitute for citron is crystallized watermelon rind. Peel the green portion from the watermelon, place in a vessel and cover with sugar. Let it stand over night or for several hours until the juice has formed. Then place over a slow fire and simmer until nearly dry. Place on platters and allow to stand in hot sun for several hours.

Prize Cherry Pie (delicious): 2 cups cranberries, 2 cups maple syrup. Put between two crusts and bake until brown.

Prize Nut Bread: 4 cups flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar.

Mix together the flour, baking powder, salt, nuts, and sugar, add milk, beaten eggs. Put in buttered pans, let stand 20 minutes. This recipe makes 2 small or one loaf and 9 muffins.

ETHELIN.

THOROUGH STERILIZATION NECESSARY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: First I wish to thank the editor for awarding me a prize. It came as a great surprise.

A sister says someone she knows canned chicken and it spoiled. She asks, "Why?"

There is only one reason for preserves of any sort spoiling. That is, "imperfect sterilization." Either the food was not cooked long enough to kill all bacteria, or to destroy the spores of a substance that is present in foods as meat, fruit, vegetables and eggs—the substance that causes fruit to ripen, seeds to grow, meat to soften and finally decay. Or the utensils used weren't perfectly sterile. Or the jar wasn't sealed properly to keep out all further destroying micro-organism.

Bacteria, yeasts, and moulds are everywhere. They grow on the ground in the water, and the air is full of them. These are the creatures that spoil food. They are one-celled, and so tiny that they can only be seen with a microscope. The reproduction is astonishing. A bacterium becomes pinched in the middle until it completely divides. There are now two instead of one. In no time millions of these creatures have come into being. One bacterium, within 24 hours, can give rise to 17,000,000 others. Moisture, warmth and proper food constitute favorable conditions for them.

Bacteria thrive particularly in foods containing a large percentage of nitrogenous matter. Meats, fish, eggs, peas, beans, lentils, and milk have a large percentage of this. Notice how quickly these things spoil in warm, muggy weather. Hence, they are more difficult to preserve than foods containing sugar and acids. Bacteria do not develope in substances containing large amounts of sugar. Jelly with its cup of sugar to cup of juice well illustrates this. But they will thrive in suitable wet substances containing a small percentage of sugar. Yeasts grow rapidly in diluted solutions containing sugars in addition to nitrogenous and mineral matter. Fruits in general contain a slight acid. They are, therefore, not as highly favorable for bacterial growth as meats and vegetables. Canned fruits are more often spoiled by yeasts than by bacteria. Some vegetables have much acid and little nitrogenous matter. Rhubarb for instance. That is the reason it can be canned in cold water.

Mocro-organism that spoil fruit can be killed by boiling for 10 to 20 minutes. But it takes one, two, three or four hours to kill the kind that spoil corn, peas, beans, fish, chicken and beef. This latter kind have a curious way of assuming two forms, spore or vegetative. When conditions are unfavorable to their growth, they go into spore form. In this form they cease growing and reproducing, and become very resistant to heat. But once warmth, moisture, and food are supplied, they begin changing over to the vegetative growing form. This is why sometimes canned foods spoil even after long boiling and careful sealing. The boiling temperature was not sufficient to completely destroy all the spores. They simply changed over to the vegetative form and in this form lived to work the havoc.

Commercial canneries use steam pressure which gives a higher temperature than that of boiling water and of course is more destructive to the spore. The home-cook, however, can overcome the difficulty by intermittent sterilization.

After the food is canned, boiled and sealed it is set aside for 24 hours. This gives time for the spores to change to the vegetative form. The canned food is then cooked a second time in order to destroy the vegetative form.

You will notice recipes given in letter "Canning a Complete Meal," that meats were cooked, then put in jars are cooked again. A sort of intermittent sterilization, as it were. The thing is to destroy all spores.

Corn, peas, chicken, and beef require about four hours of boiling for perfect sterilization. Fish, and pork about three and a half hours. Beans, beets, spinach and other greens about two hours.

During a dry season spores are more plentiful than usual. Then it would be advisable to use the intermittent process of cooking. But otherwise I have always found the one cooking for the time given above very successful. However, meats I have always given the two cookings.

So you see successful preserving depends entirely on complete destruction by heat of all life in or on the food, and all parts of the can, spoons, ladles, forks, etc. That are to come in contact with the food, and the care to hermetically seal to make entrance of any micro-organism impossible.

The presence of air in a can will not cause food to spoil, providing the air is sterile. The precaution sometimes used to liberate air bubbles, by running a knife or spoon handle down the side of the jar, is not only unnecessary but likely to prove detrimental. Unless the knife or spoon used has been boiled, it is apt to introduce mischief making bacteria.

A SUGGESTION BL RURAL DELIVERY

Dear Social Corner Friends: Vacations are over, schools have begun, the summer is fast fading away and the fall crickets are sounding notes of the coming winter which no doubt will be here on time. The Social Corner page has no vacation, for 52 weeks the great family is sending in their letters on subjects of interest and profit to readers, and as the long winter months are coming there will be more time for many to send in their good letters for the Corner page let me refer you to Nonesopretty who sends in her interesting letters often and after she has written them she can hardly read them again as she is nearly totally blind. It is a trial for her to write letters as she has to hold the paper very close to her eyes to see the words she has written. If Nonesopretty is willing to send in her letters what have other writers to say who have good eyesight and enjoy reading the Corner page. Nonesopretty is entitled to a shower of cards of sympathy from the Corner members to show her that the letters she has written for the Corner page are highly appreciated by the readers of the Bulletin.

Hoping this will find the Corner family all well and that none of them will try crossing the ocean by airplane until the traveling is safer, I remain the same

RURAL DELIVERY.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I have been trying for some time to send in a few words. How are you all? Hope every one is happy and having a good time going to picnics and fairs. I have met quite a few Social Corner sisters as we have a Corner club in our town and there are about seven members of the Social Corner that belong to it so we have a chance to talk over Social Corner letters and we enjoy it very much.

I want to say a few words about another dear Social Corner sister. We were all away Labor day and my mother fell down stairs and broke her knee cap and no one was at home but her. So she gave a call for help and who should come to her aid but Rosy Posy of our Social Corner. They say a friend in need is a friend indeed, and believe me Rosy Posy was some friend. She stayed with my mother until we got home and we are all very grateful to her and thank her for her kindness and hope to be able to return her goodness sometime. Shall look for the Social Corner letters every Saturday as I love to read and hear from all the sisters.

STARBRIGHT.

GREETINGS FROM CHERRY BLOSSOM

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Perhaps you all think I have gone to some place where they don't write. It's not so. I think Sister Barbara must be in the same boat with me, however, as I haven't heard from her in a long time.

Votemi: I see you have taken the floor so I will surrender for now.

Peggy Alder: I thank you for the lovely bunch of roses you sent me in July.

Bittersweet's recipe for Chili sauce is very nice, I can tell you all, for I tried it.

What has become of Harrie E. and Nelly Gray? Let us hear from you all.

CHERRY BLOSSOM.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: It seems hardly an appropriate subject, but I am going to talk about Christmas. It's really not so very far off.

To those of us who cannot spare very much in actual cash, to spend for Christmas, it is quite a problem to have gifts that "fit in." It means we must give to each one far more of thought and labor.

As I plan each gift I try to bear in mind the personal characteristics of the person for whom it is intended.

I like to enclose in every package a little rhyme, which fits both the person and the gift. It seems, to my mind, to give a more intimate and personal touch. It is not always possible to find something appropriate so do as I do, sisters, just make them up yourself.

May I give just a few of the gifts and the rhymes I made for them?

For the person who sews. A little sunbonnet, the old fashioned kind, which has the hood stiffened with cardboard. It can be made of silk, ribbon, or cretonne. It should measure about six inches in length when finished. Inside are two "leaves" of flannel, which hold needles. With it goes this rhyme.

"Things are not always what they seem
So runs the saying old.
A sunbonnet this would appear to be,
Just open it and a needle case you behold."

For the busy housewife. A clothespin bag, made of a square of heavy cretonne or fancy ticking. Hem the two ends, leaving the selvage to finish sides. From the ten cent store get a hammock hook. Thread the four corners into the bottom of the hook and sew firmly. If the book has a square plate on the bottom, as some have, sew one corner into each of four screw holes in the plate. Tied to the handle is the following:

"When on Monday your washing you do,
Fill me with clothespins and carry me out with you
Hook me on the line, as your clothes you hand side by side,
Give me a push and down the line I'll glide."

To the friend who keeps her wardrobe sweet and dainty. Pink and blue hangers, to which are fastened tiny bags of pink and blue wash silk, filled with cotton, holding sachet powder, make gifts which are both practical and dainty. Their message is:

"Place within your garments these hangers gay,
And then you'll smell as sweet as this sachet."

To the hostess who enjoys entertaining. A pretty embroidered luncheon set, bearing with it the wish.

"When friends you entertain at teas,
Please decorate your table with these."

To the woman with no time to do embroidery for herself. A dainty collar and cuff set, with a crocheted or tatted edge, informs the receiver that.

"These collar and cuffs to you I send,
I trust you'll wear them if the day out you spend."

To the friend who takes pride in the "little things" which make each room attractive. Crocheted curtain pulls make very pleasing gifts, whose rhyme explains their use.

"I trust the contents of this box,
Will save your window shades from finger marks."

I think I've used my share of the Social Corner page, so will close, hoping others may find some help in these few suggestions.

BALSAM'S FIR'S BUSY SUMMER

Dear Social Corner: I'm here sure as you live and been busy like everybody else. The Corner page is looking rather slim I'll say.

Well, I see ever so many sisters have been taking their vacations like myself. What an attraction the White Mountains have for vacationists? I have been to Mt. Washington many times by steam cars, also auto riding. At Jackson, New Hampshire, are the Spruce Mountain camps. I was there last year. A wonderful place on the side of a mountain. Was at Mount Kearsarge last year, motored up a winding road and had our pictures taken while looking the country over. Intervale lies at the base of the mountain and the buildings looked very small.

Well this year I have entertained relatives and friends from Youngstown, Ohio, also Eustic, Wis., Southhampton, N. Y., Conn., New Hampshire, R. I., Massachusetts and in Maine from Marsardis, Presque Isle, Freeport, Sanford, Paris, New Gloucester, South Portland, Deering, Cumberland Mills, South Windham, White Rock, Yarmouth, Raymond, Baldwin—isn't that enough and yet itis nowhere near all.

And I have been on the go somewhere all summer. I was greatly disappointed two weeks ago. I was invited to South Portland for the day. The day was a rainy one but I went just the same as a friend was to take me in her car so I hustled around and started from town little dreaming there was some one planning on calling on me. When I arrived at my friend's home I found her quite ill so I did not stop any longer than to hear about it. Was home at noon and imagine my disappointment when upon my arrival home I was informed that I had lost a treat. To be sure I stood in open mouthed wonder, anxious to learn about it and came to with a snap when I learned that my Social Corner friends were disappointed yes sadly disappointed. So was I. Idalene, Lady Lou, Ruthina, Reba, and Roma and their gentlemen. Did I feel bad! Well now I can say I did and in good earnest. If I had stayed at home I should have had a chance to see their sweet faces again and I trust they will let me know next time they come this way. I enjoyed your letter Idalene for I have seen all those beautiful views. Be sure and do come again.

CLUB NO. 2 CHANGES MEETING DAY

Dear Sisters: At our first of the indoor gatherings, Scottie asked the members of Club No. 2 if they would like to change our meeting day to the third Wednesday, beginning with Oct. 19, 1927. As the greater number favored that day both among those present and those who had spoken about it last season it was decided to begin on Oct. 19 and hold them every third Wednesday in Buckingham Memorial, Norwich, Conn.

Silent Partner or any other writer who has a letter or gift for Club 2, can send it to Calla Lily of Club No. 2, care of Janitor Harry Laturner, Buckingham Memorial and he will give it to me.

Please keep this change of date in mind and I trust it is settled satisfactory to all.

CALLA LILY, (Club No. 2).

TRIED AND TESTED

Dear Editor and Corner Folks: I am sending a few choice, tried and tested recipes which I hope all the members will try.

Baked Salt Mackerel: Wash the fish thoroughly, and soak over night in three quarts of cold water. In the morning lay it on its back in a shallow baking pan and pour a pint of milk over it with a level teaspoon of flour, one eighth teaspoon of pepper, one large tablespoon of butter, rubbing together until a smooth paste is formed. At serving time pour cream sauce over it. Bake in a moderate oven until done.

Quahaug Chowder: One quarter pound of salt pork, six medium sized onions, one quart diced potatoes, and one can tomato soup, season to taste. First fry work with the onions, then add the potatoes and the chopped quahaugs and lastly the tomato soup. Season to taste. Cook until done.

Fried Oysters: Choose large oysters for frying, drain them on a cloth. First roll them in cracker crumbs and let them lie 15 minutes, then dip them in egg batter, roll again in the crumbs and fry in hot butter or pork fat.

Oyster Pie: Make the same as scalloped oysters only break the crackers instead of rolling them. It is liked by many much better.

Steamed Oysters: Place the oysters on a plate; put in a steamer over a kettle of hot water, cook about 20 minutes, season with salt and pepper. Serve hot on buttered toast.

"The way to a man's soul, is through his stomach,
When he is well fed, he is half saved."
"We may live without poetry, music and art;
We may live without friends, we may live without books,
But civilized man cannot live without cooks.
He may live without books, what is knowledge but grieving?
He may live without hope, what is hope but deceiving?
He may live without love, what is passion but pining?
But where is the man that can live without dining?"

SOON GOLDEN OCTOBER

Dear Social Corner Members:
In the garden of tomorrow,
Will the roses be more fair?
Will we find relief from sorrow?
Will there be more sunshine there?
For each love flower that will blossom,
Some will die and fade away,
Oh, I'd so much rather
All my love flowers gather,
From the garden of today.

Yes, our lovely gardens are passing away, till another year, when we will plan to have them better, every day, in every way.

And now we soon will have golden October. We can enjoy long trips, gather wild grapes, crab apples, put by a store of goodies for the winter, using up all the empty glasses which have accumulated during the summer. Making jelly is just washing the fruit, boiling to a pulp, making a loose meshed cloth bag, pouring in the fruit, tying up with a stout string and hanging the bag suspended from a stout hook, allowing it to drip slowly. But if it is disturbed much the jelly will be cloudy. Then granulated sugar of just equal measure—a cup of sugar, a cup of the juice and place all in a large kettle. Let simmer till it thickens. Then I pour the mass into glasses which have been sterilized by placing in cold water in a kettle and gradually heated to boiling point. Pour melted paraffin over the jelly, then adjust cover, or place stout paper over the glasses and tie down securely with a string.

Then we have tempting rows of jelly on our pantry shelves to greet all comers.

A VISIT TO KENT DAM

Dear Social Corner Friends and Editor: Will try and write a few lines this warm morning.

Phil-a-Need: I am glad you have joined the Corner. The name is just what we need. Yes, we did have a good time at Moses' Wife's home even if it was rainy outside. A new kind of corn salad by Hollyhock was good and tasty.

My brother and family invited Mr. R. and myself for a ride and so we decided to go to Kent dam near Schtate. Now, this dam holds the water that supplies Providence, and they tell us a whole village had to be taken away for this big body of water and it is certainly a wonderful dam with a nice road and you can go around and see the filtering plant, which is still more wonderful, with water spouts spraying up over 50 high and one in the center still higher than the others. It was a beautiful sight to look at and to look through the building and to see the work there is in it and ability it took to make it so wonderful. We didn't go up in the tower for it wasn't a very clear day, but from the cars that were parked you would have said they were waiting to see a circus come in, lined up on all drives.

Happy Go Lucky: I haven't seen your name in the Corner page for some time until this last week. You are getting a little nearer so you and Primrose can walk down some nice day. Perhaps you and Primrose will decide to build down this way, there are so many new houses going up.

Buffalo: I have thought of those nice baked beans we had at the picnic. I liked what the speaker said, only she should have spoken a little louder, for those that are a little hard of hearing. We had a very nice afternoon and dinner too.

RURAL AUNTY'S APPLE JELLY

Dear Social Corner Friends: I will try and write a few lines as I noticed the page wasn't very full last week. I do like to see it running over but have been very busy of late canning and making jelly. I will tell how I make apple jelly which is always good.

Apple Jelly: Wash and cut out bad places in the apples and then put them in a granite kettle with water enough to cook them not too much and when they are nearly done I put them in a cheese cloth and let them drip squeezing them a little but not enough to get any of the pulp through. Then I put all the juice on the stove and let it come to a boil for 15 or 20 minutes so as to get as much of the water out as possible. Then I take as much sugar as I think will sweeten it, as it takes more with some apples than it does with others, heat the sugar and then put with the juice and boil for 15 or 20 minutes or until it becomes thick. I then put it into glasses and our folks are very fond of it. This is a good way to save apples when they begin to rot. Hope all the sisters are enjoying these wonderful days we have been having lately. Hardly anything is worse for health than fussing about it. Stewing and boiling over makes as much trouble in the world as anything else, such as fretting because other persons will not do what you believe they ought to do or think or vote as you would have them. It is worth while to grow old if only to learn the peace that passes all understanding which comes merely from a willingness to let other persons alone. Having achieved that state of mind one is in a condition to enjoy life. Let us all try to help one another at all times. Then it won't seem as though we have lived in vain. The one way to obtain joy and smiles is to start giving joy and smiles. My sympathy for all that are sick. With long life to the Corner, I will ring off with best wishes to all.

MEAT FOR MINCE PIES

Dear Social Corner Friends: I don't write very often but know what's going on by the letters. Can't attend the picnic as I wish I could. It was at Versailles, I Marigold's and Alfara's. While at Alfara's I was telling how I got my meat for mince meat. Practical Polly said put it in the paper.

Meat for Mince Meat: So here it is. I got a five pound shank of beef, put it on in cold water, boil it until it begins to peel away from the bone. Save the meat to grind for mince meat. Then put the bone back and cook it until all remaining meat comes off. Before putting in vegetables take out about a pint of the stock to add to the mince meat. Out of a five pound shank you can make a soup large enough for 7 people and get six quarts of mince meat that will make 15 pies when opened. You can get a shank of beef at less than 20 cents a pound. I have bought two lately, the first cost 66 cents and the last one 90 cents. Can you beat it sisters? Soup for seven people and 15 pies out of a shank of beef that cost less than a dollar. If you care, write and tell us. I get two quarts of meat when ground. I have enjoyed all picnics but I draw the line now.

THE END OF A FINE VACATION

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: My visit in Akron, Ind., was limited to ten days as I had other plans to follow and I must be home again at a certain time. The weather was fine; it only rained twice and then during the night. We had auto trips to nearby cities and towns, and in that way I saw a good deal of the surrounding country which is all generally level. Rochester is a very pretty city and the seat of Fulton county. They have just opened a fine new post office building, which is built of fancy brown brick. The large court house, which is surrounded by a beautiful lawn on all four sides, occupies a prominent space in the city.

The day came when I had to consider my trip eastward. Friends brought me to the station at Akron

POETRY

The Pleasure of a Tree

Wouldst thou upbuild a home where sweet wild birds are nested,
Glad with the sound of song, quick with the flash of wings,—
Where the soft broods may rock, warm housed and unmolested,
Deep in the leafy nooks, through all the changeful springs?

Or wouldst thou rear an arch of noblest grace and grandeur,
Lifted in air as light, shaped by the sun and storm,
Moved by the wandering wind, swayed by each influence tender,
Yet by the hand of life molded to steadfast form?

Wouldst thou make day more fair, and night more rich and holy,
Winter more keenly bright, and summer's self more dear,—
Grant the sweet earth a gift, deep rooted, ripening slowly,
Add to the sum of joys that bless the rounded year?

Go, then, and plant a tree, lovely in sun and shadow,
Gracious in every kind—maple and oak and pine,
Piece of the forest glade, wealth of the fruitful meadow,
Blessings of dew and shade, hereafter shall be thine!
For though thou never see the joy thy hand hath granted,
Those who shall follow thee thy generous boon may share.
Thou shalt be Nature's child, who her best fruit hath planted,
And each of many a spring shall find thy gift more fair.

By Marion Cronhom Smith.

To a Maimed Butterfly

Poor butterfly with broken wing,
Alas, your futile fluttering
Speaks all too plain of your sad plight!
No more shall you, in happy flight
From flower to flower, go your way
Through all the long midsummer day,
Wandering free the meadows wide—
Beauty and joy personified!
Alas, your sore distress
Is pitiful indeed to see!
How happed it thus? Ah, can it be
Your beauty did too tempting prove
To one whom pity did not move—
That you escaped some captor's snare,
Bruised, maimed, to perish otherwhere?
O was it lack of heart, sweet sprite,
That brought you to this sorry plight,
Or merely thoughtlessness?

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Would-Be Humorist—What would you give me for those jokes?

Editor—Ten yards start.—Washington Star.

Blake—What makes that policeman so fat?

Drake—Too much traffic jam.—The Progressive Grocer.

Husband—You know, dear, I'm not perfect.

Wifey—Oh, yes, I know it, but I didn't think you did.—Boston Transcript.

Waitress (to customer troubled about his salad)—Is the salad gritty, sir?

Customer—Gritty? It's a gravel path with a few weeds in it.—Tit-Bits.

Billie—Of course, I love you. Haven't I danced four dances with you?

Jack—What proof is that?

Billie—You would know it you could see yourself dance.—Detroit News.

"Are you going to make any charitable bequests?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes," answered Dustin Stax. "I am going to leave incomes to my titled son-in-law, who could not possibly get along without them."—Washington Star.

A motorist touring in Ireland one day met a native who was driving a donkey. Thinking he would have a little fun at the man's expense, he said: "My friend, what is the difference between your turnout and mine?"

"Oh, not a great dale," promptly replied the Irishman. "Shure the dooky's in the shafts in wan and on the sate in the other."—Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The corporators of the Free Academy, at a meeting fifty years ago, elected H. B. Norton president and E. Learned, secretary and treasurer. The annual county fair was held at the local fairgrounds a half century ago this week. The same week Lorenzo Blackstone was elected president of the Chelsea Savings bank. Interesting extracts taken from The Norwich Bulletin of September, 1877, follow:

Monday, Sept. 17, 1877—The agricultural county fair opens tomorrow and there is every prospect of a success. The entries closed Saturday night. The list of stock and fast horses was never so large before, but swine and poultry fall off a little from last year. The grounds will be connected with the rest of the world by telegraph.

The Ella had a large company on her last visit to Fisher's Island Saturday. The passengers had a splendid time but were somewhat disappointed at not finding any clams, as the fog hindered the arrival of a boat that had been sent for them. Everything possible was done for the hungry excursionists, however.

Poor peaches were sold on the streets Saturday evening at the rate of four quarts for a quarter of a dollar.

The ball game on Williams park, Saturday between the Yantics and Uncas, was won by the former by a score of 16 to 10.

Tuesday, Sept. 18, 1877—Meeting of the Corporators of the Free Academy At the corporators' meeting Saturday, Messrs. H. B. Norton, E. Learned and A. W. Prentice were re-elected trustees for three years. The report of the treasurer showed that including the real estate and furniture, the invested funds of the institution now amounted to $152,700; funds of Park library, $5,450; Perkins Medal fund, $1,000; making a total of $160,150.

At the quarterly meeting held subsequently, H. B. Norton was re-elected president and E. Learned, secretary and treasurer. The principal reported that the number of pupils was 150, being a large number than had usually been in the academy.

Arrangements have been made to run five large omnibuses in connection with the horse railroad direct to the fairgrounds and they will be found very advantageous to those desirous of visiting the exhibition.

It has been decided not to cut a single one of the East Main street elms for the present.

Wednesday, Sept. 19, 1877— The bright sunshine was a harbinger of peace yesterday, to the members of the Third Regiment, as well as to the fair people and the regimental field day was a beautiful one.

At a meeting of the Town street school district, held in the Central school house, Monday evening, J. S. Lathrop was chosen chairman. The reports of the board of education, of the treasurer and of the special committee of the district were presented and accepted. It was voted that a tax of 1 1-2 mills on the dollar be laid, payable on the first day of November, 1877.

The Norwich Rifle club held their shoot at the rifle range yesterday. Six members only were present.

Thursday, Sept. 20, 1877—At the annual meeting of the corporation of the Chelsea Savings bank, the following named were elected for the year ensuing: President, Lorenzo Blackstone; vice presidents, Henry Bill, Learned Hebard, John T. Walt; directors, James A. Hovey, S. T. Holbrook, John P. Barstow, Oliver P. Avery, John F. Slater, O. J. Lamb, John W. Stedman, Edward Harland, Charles M. Coit; counsel, Jeremiah Halsey; attorney, John M. Thayer; secretary and treasurer, Charles M. Coit.

The meeting at Breed Hall last evening was under the auspices of the Good Templars and the members of the lodge in this city were out in regalia. The audience was very large. Dr. Jewett presided and Rev. Mr. Morse assisted in the opening exercises. The Rev. Mr. Kellogg was the leading speaker.

Friday, Sept. 21, 1877—The National Brass band concert in Greeneville Grove Tuesday evening was a complete success. The concert was finely rendered and the string music by Prof. Miller was excellent.

Mr. George B. Parker purchaser of the steamer Albemarle, Old Dominion line, has been promited and transferred to the Isaac Belle.

Saturday, Sept. 22, 1877—The Otis library was yesterday presented by Mrs. Edward B. Huntington with a complete set of Harper's Magazine, bound in 50 volumes from the establishment of magazine in 1850 to 1873.

Mrs. Souter of Greeneville arrived home yesterday morning greatly improved in health, after a four months sojourn at the principle places of historic interest and romantic beauty in Scotland.

Dr. S. L. Geer's cranberry bog of three and one-half acres at Norwich Town, yielded this year 720 bushels of cranberries. One piece of 33 square rods produced 110 bushels. Who can beat that?

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

Special mention should be made of the fact that today will be your last opportunity of seeing one of the show hits of the season. Five real big acts of vaudeville are shown, each act a proven success where ever played, in connection with the stage attractions a picture such as you all like to see is featured. W. C. Fields in Running Wild is without a doubt the best he has made in many a day. The situations are tense and yet plenty of laughter. The main theme is the fact that he was changed from an easy going father, the head of a family, who considered him, just the head, to a roaring boss, all because a stage hypnotist told him he was a roaring lion. The situations are very amusing and you will be immensly entertained.

The management announces two feature pictures for Sunday night only Laura La Plante in Beware of Widows and Sandow, the wonder dog in Call of the Wilderness. Two very good pictures of entertainment value.

Commencing Monday for three days a new vaudeville show of five acts will again take the stage honors. The headline act will be Revue of 1927, a classy, jazzy offering of new songs and dances with a cast of 6 people. Four other acts of equal importance will also be featured. And now the hit of the show Douglas MacLean in Soft Cushions.

Douglas MacLean has a harem!

For the first time in his screen career, the comedian has an opportunity in Soft Cushions his latest Paramount comedy, to surround himself with a bevy of feminine beauties and he takes full advantage of this chance in the unique picture which will be the feature at the Palace theater Monday.

Soft Cushions is a rollicking story of Arabian Nights love and intrigue through which MacLean swaggers his way in a series of funny episodes. As a daring young thief, he invades the sacred harems, woos the most beautiful slave girl, is arrested, imprisoned and sentenced to death, escaping each time by his nimble wits to win fortune and the girl.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Richard Barthelmess must be partial to military roles for he dons his seventh uniform in recent years in "The White Black Sheep," coming to the Breed theatre, Sunday for three days.

Dick wore the uniform of the American Navy in "Shore Leave;" the striking uniform of the West Point cadet in "Classmates;" the doughboy drab in "Sonny"; the robes of royalty in "Just Suppose"; a colorful costume as soldier of fortune under Oliver Cromwell in "The Fighting Blade"; and the blue of the American soldier of the Mauve decade in "Ranson's Folly".

Although Dick appears in the fade-out of "The White Black Sheep" as a British soldier, he is first seen as a gentleman of London and later as a mute beggar of Palestine, the locale of the unusual story.

Sidney Olcott directed the production with a remarkable all-star cast including Patsy Ruth Miller, who plays the colorful role of Zelle, the Greek dancing girl.

Next Week at Central Baptist Church

Monday, 7:45 p. m.—Council of Girls' Workers meeting with Mrs. J. Harlow Graham, 86 Williams street.

This is the covenant meeting and the topic will be "My Church and I." Those who have suggestions regarding the work of the year are urged to be present and present them.

Christ Episcopal Church

On Sunday the attendance contest of the church school of Christ Episcopal church will continue at 9:15 a. m. Last Sunday the boys were in the lead, almost two boys to every girl. Rally Sunday comes soon. The 8 a. m. service will be for extra intercessions for needs for the parish and the national church. At 10:30 the choral eucharist will have special music by the two choirs. The sermon subject will be "Seeking Righteousness." Notices will be given out of the Girls' Friendly meeting on Monday night at the rectory and of the service on Thursday, Sept. 29th, St. Michael and All Angels' day. Sunday will be especially remembered as it is the Sunday nearest to the 10th anniversary of the rector, Rev. C. M. Budlong's ordination to the priesthood.

At Christian Science Chapel

At Christian Science chapel, 215 Thayer building, Wednesday evening meeting, 7:45. The reading room, 216 Thayer building, is open every day except Sundays and legal holidays from 3 to 4:30 p. m.

SOCIAL CORNER

and with farewells and good wishes for a safe and pleasant journey, I stepped onto the long train, due from Chicago and bound for New York and soon I was swiftly leaving those familiar scenes and faces, but not to be erased from memory. It was about 2 p. m. that I left Akron, and all the rest of the afternoon and until evening I enjoyed over again the same wide stretches of fields, many villages, towns and cities, which I had passed through on my westward trip. When we arrived at Akron, Ohio, about 10 p. m. it was a fine sight to see the lights all over that large city, and so level in every direction. I was tired enough to retire to my berth in the sleeper and soon I fell asleep. Occasionally as I awoke, I lifted the shade to my window, the full moon was shining bright and clear, but I had lost track of where we were. Very early in the morning and before sunrise the train had come to a stand still, and as I had just awoke from another nap, I looked out and found we were at a station, on which was painted, Olean, N. Y. and immediately back of it was a high mountain range. It appealed to me, how a few hours of travel can effect such changes on the earth's surface. For many miles, the road bed over which our train passed was very irregular, which tends to make the scenery so interesting, sometimes close beside the Delawaare river and at one place we crossed over it on a high bridge, the view up the long valley, mountains on both sides was wonderful. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, we reached Middleton, N. Y., and there I stepped from the train. A young lady friend was there to meet me and I went with her, nine miles by auto to her home in the country where I had planned for the remainder of my vacation trip. This family were long time friends and my former neighbors, but I had not seen them for seven years. We renewed old times, and heartily enjoyed visiting together. I spent three days at this farm homestead, which is located on high land, with fine views in every direction. I took a different route for my last part of my way home. I left Bullville, N. Y., about 7 a. m. went by auto 11 miles to Montgomery, then took a bus for Newburgh, 14 miles, crossed the Hudson river by ferry to Beacon, and took the N. Y. Central train for N. Y. city. It is about a two hours ride and although I have been on the boats on the Hudson, also by train before close to the shore of the river, yet it is always a delightful trip. When I reached New York city, I only had to wait about a half hour when I took a train that soon brought me back to my own native state of Connecticut. I was pleased when I arrived home and was fortunate that I had success in every way, no accidents, no losses and only one slight disappointments.

Best wishes to all.

JENNIE.

SOME EVERY DAY HELPS.

Dear Social Corner Members: The summer season has but a few more days' existence, giving way to autumn on Friday. Its last few days are shortening gradually with the result that today (Wednesday) we have three hours less daylight than was enjoyed on the opening day of the summer season.

Summer is gone, but beauty still remains,
The beauty of calm nights and restful days.
Soft shines the sun, half veiled in misty haze,
Upon the leafless woods and frosted plains.

We miss the songs of the summer birds,
The beauty of the summer flowers is o'er;
But autumn has rarer gifts, I ween,
And richer tints than summer wore.

With gold and crimson fruit the trees bend low;
The stately corn lifts high its ripened ears;
In field nad garden waiting riches grow,
And laughing earth bids man forget his fears.

The nights, a mystery of lights and shadows,
Of beauty, that, alas! must fade too soon;
A world filled with joy and God's own blessing,
Sleep peaceful 'neath a silver harvest moon.

Photographer: Many thanks for your friendly letter. Send film. Will see what can be done. If printed right can tint O. K. Will admit you had me guessing. Glad to know you are a sister.

Ruthina: Tested sponge cake and liked it very much.

Here are some everyday helps:

To keep fish from adhering to the baking pan, grease brown paper, fit it to the baking pan, place fish and dressing on the greased paper and bake fish. Result will be fish will not stick to the paper or pan and baking pan can be easily cleaned. A few drops of ammonia and soapy water will rid the baking pan of the odor of the fish.

To kep food hot for late comers. Cover food closely with a tin, setting it over a basin of hot water. This plan will keep the food hot and at the same time prevent it from drying.

After buttering the tins for layer cake give them a good sprinkling of flour. This will prevent the cake from sticking to the tins.

In making custards and custard pie heat the milk to the scalding point, before adding it to the beaten eggs and sugar; bake at once in a slow oven. The time required for baking them will be reduced one-half.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

You will have your last opportunity of seeing Jean Hersholt in Alias the Deacon today. Don't miss this big heart throb picture, the picturization of a stage drama that played to full houses in New York for over a year. It's got a story packed to the brim with love, adventure and human philosophy that'll find its way down to your heart and move your emotion as few photodramas have it in them to do.

As an added attraction worthy of special mention is the screen version, in technicolor, of the birth of the American Flag, showing George Washington assigning the sacred order for the flag to Betsy Ross. The most gorgeous presentation ever seen.

"They tried to catch us with their bare hands," said one of the amazed enemy of the Rough Riders after the battle of Las Guasimas.

And truly, the events before, during and after the first baptism of the famous regiment, as depicted faithfully in The Rough Riders coming to the Broadway theater Sunday for four days, have never been duplicated in any war.

Picture the shouting troops landing at Daiquiri in an enemy's country like a crowd of schoolboys on a picnic, whooping and singing around camp fires, paying as scant attention to the danger of the Spanish forces nearby as though the latter were not there, laughing and dancing and howling with triumph and glee.

Roosevelt rides along remarking, "This looks like good deer country." Colonel Wood, at the head of his column, has sent out an advance guard. In the advance are Captain Capron and Sergeant Hamilton Fish, those two gallant men who gave their lives in Cuba.

"Pass the word back to keep silence in the ranks," orders Col. Wood, portrayed by Col. Fred Lindsay. Roosevelt, impersonated by Frank Hopper, can barely conceal his anxiety to get into the thick of this expected encounter. Only when a sudden fire is drawn from the enemy and a bullet splinters the bole of a tree three inches from his nose does he settle down to a joyous calm.

At Y. M. C. A. Sunday

At 4 o'clock standard time on the coming Sunday, there will be shown at the Norwich Y. M. C. A. the first part of the thrilling and deeply impressive moving picture feature The Stream of Life, and the public (both sexes) 14 years and older are cordially invited.

This is one of the best productions of James K. Shields, and is a life drama of faith reclaimed. It is the story of what very often happens in a home, especially in the smaller communities where when the boy reaches the age of 18 or more, he tires of life so limited and he desires and determines to leave the old home and go to the big city to make his fortune. It is literally the breaking of the home ties, and his leaving home, as in many such a case, causes much sorrow on the part of the other members of the family, especially so with the loving mother, who knows as only a mother can, the strong tendency of city life to lead her boy away from the path of virtue and from mothers God. The scene of the parting is most touching and tender, and inasmuch as it is all too common an experience of the home life, it certainly grips the heart strings of those who see the picture. This feature will be shown in two parts; the first part on September 25th and the last part on the following Sunday.

In addition to the picture appropriate music will be furnished, and a brief talk will be given.

NEW LONDON U. S. C. G. CONFERENCES MAY MEAN END OF RUM-RUNNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LNDON, Sept. 23—Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commander of the United States Coast Guard, who came to New London Tuesday night, has been in conference daily since his arrival with New York and Boston senior officers of the coast guard forces, but what was discussed at the series of conferences has been kept a secret. The conferences were held at the coast guard academy, two of the attaking place today. In coast guard circles it is believed that the conferences are being held to formulate tentative plans to prevent rum-running on the New England coast; for it is known that drastic measures have already been taken to break up the running of liquor into southern ports, particularly Florida. For a long time there was a fleet of schooners and steamers off Montauk Point and Block Island where the crews of the boats distributed the liquor to the rum-runners. These boats have all disappeared from Rum Row, which was the name given to the location occupied by the boats, and they have been absent a long time. It is known that Coast Guard officials do not want a repetition of this occurrence. It is also possible that the conferences are being held for the purpose of outlining a program for the Coast Guard for the ensuing year.

HENRY V. MONO BLAMELESS IN COLCHESTER BOY'S DEATH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 23—Henry V. Mono, 28 Orchard street, was exonerated today of any act constituting criminal negligence in connection with the death of Maynard Golinsky, 9, of Colchester. The finding was made public today by Coroner Jeremiah J. Desmond, of Norwich. Mono was driving a truck on the Hartford turnpike Sunday, Aug. 7. The Golinsky boy was seated on a rock beside the road as the machine, which was en route from Hartford to this city, approached. Just as the truck was about to pass the boy, the latter arose and stepped directly in front of the truck. Mono did not have an opportunity to more than apply the brakes when the child was struck and hurled to the concrete paving. He sustained a fractured skull and expired a short time after he had been taken to his home.

Dr. Daniel Sullivan, Dr. Charles B. Graves, Dr. George P. Cheney, Dr. Thomas Soltz, of this city; Dr. Charles G. Barnum, and Dr. E. L. Douglass, Groton and Dr. A. M. Meyers, Mystic, were among the physicians and surgeons who attended the Connecticut clinic at New Haven yesterday held by the State Medical society.

The continued case of Ernest J. Robinson, 17, of Waterford, charged with reckless driving, was ended in the police court today. It was nolled after Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky had recommended that action to the court, for there was no evidence that the young man was guilty as charged. Robinson was arrested the 16th inst., when the motorcycle he was driving struck Mrs. W. Bertis Hart, 85 Riverview avenue, on Main street, Mrs. Hart sustaining a laceration of the leg, for which injury she was a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital a day. It was shown by investigation that Mrs. Hart stepped from between two parked automobiles for the purpose of crossing the street and as she emerged from between the cars she walked in front of the motorcycle and before Robinson had an opportunity to apply his brake the woman was struck and knocked down.

George H. Miller has sold a house and lot, corner of Cutler street and Town Hill court, to Alfred J. Phillips.

Laura H. Golding has sold to Agnes C. Golding two building lots on Montauk avenue.

E. Oliver Winship has sold a house and lot on Lower Boulevard to John A. Whiteside. The property was formerly owned by the Riggs estate.

H. Ernest Harris has transferred his interest in a house and lot on Mountain avenue to his wife, Edna C. Harris.

City Manager William A. Holt, Building Inspector William Gunn and Councillors John F. Murray and James A. May went to Harris court this afternoon and inspected a building owned by Chelsea Lyon, which structure was recently condemned as being a fire hazard. The action of the city officials today was in compliance with a vote to that effect passed by the city council recently. It is not known what report the officials will make at the next meeting of the council, but it is believed that they will pass a vote approving the act of the building inspector. The building is an old one and is in an advanced stage of decay.

The hearing of Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky charged with conduct unbecoming an officer and on four counts, by Jack Whiteside, proprietor of a concession at Ocean Beach, will not take place next Tuesday, as planned, but will be held two days later, City Manager William A. Holt announced today. The postponement was made because of Attorney Morris Lubchansky, counsel for Selesnitsky, requesting a later day for the hearing. Selesnitsky is accused of using abusive and offensive language to Whiteside while the former was performing patrol duty at Ocean Beach last month. Whiteside was arrested by Selesnitsky on a charge of breach of the peace, but he was found not guilty in the police court.

Louis H. Allschuler, 69 Congress avenue, New Haven, was arrested yesterday charged with violation of the city's traffic ordinances in parking overtime on State street. He failed to present himself in the police court today and his bond was declared forfeited.

Walter Higner, submarine base; Ray Lee, Pacific street; Mrs. Arthur Bartolucci, Cutler street and Mrs. Charles Itscowitz ad infant son, Squire street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The Merritt-Chapman-Scott company of this city, has been awarded the contract by the state highway department for fender work on the Thames river highway bridge. The work will cost $23,934.

Miss Mary L. Curley, daughter of the late Michael and Bridget Curley, died last night at her residence on Ledyard street. She is survived by two sisters, Miss Abbie Curley, of this city, and Mrs. Edward Potter, Pasadena, Cal. Miss Curley was born in New London and had always resided here. She was a member of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. She had been ill a long time.

Francesca LaFemina, 44 Smith street, arrested yesterday charged with violation of the liquor law, was presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran this afternoon. The case was continued to tomorrow and LaFemina furnished a surety on his bond of $1500. LaFemina was arrested last evening by prohibition and New London officers and a quantity of liquor of the home-made variety, including wine, gin and beer was seized. A small quantity of alcohol was also seized.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today denied the right to drive of four drivers; John Flaherty, letter carrier; Gus Kellas, State street; William J. Pearce, submarine base and John A. Farrell, United States Coast Guard destroyer Henley, state pier. Flaherty's denial to the right to drive is the result of his having driven an auto in Norwich several weeks ago while intoxicated. The auto collided wit hanother car and Flaherty was prosecuted and fined in the Norwich city court. Kellas was a State street merchant, but he has been missing from New London several weeks. The automobile he was driving was one that he borrowed and near Saybrook it crashed through a fence. Kellas' whereabouts has remained unknown to his wife since the date of his mysterious disappearance. Commissioner Stoeckel also ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Raymond O'Donnell, 392 Williams street and ordered the return of the license of Louis Senacal, submarine base.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Trading fell off sharply in today's stock market, but major price movements were on the up-side. Covering operations, following a week of declining prices, together with the activity of pools in a number of specialties, provided most of the buying power. Outside the market, chief interest centered in the early rise of $5 a bale in cotton prices, nearly all of which was lost later in the day, and the crossing of parity by Sterling Exchange for the first time since the summer of 1926.

There was little in the day's business and financial news to influence the price movement. The increase of nearly $24,500,000 in brokers' loans last week was smaller than expected, due to the heavy conversion of General Motor stocks, and failed to have any effect on the money market, the 4 per cent renewal rate for call funds being continued over the week-end.

The weekly mercantile reviews emphasize the stimulus to retail trade given by the cooler weather and the opening of schools, but otherwise report little change in the general business situation. Directors of the Nash Motors company made public an excellent earnings statement and declared an extra dividend of 50 cents, which was reflected in an advance of more than 3 points in the stock to a new high record at 93 7-8. General Motors issues were active at slightly higher prices, the new stock being traded in on a regular basis for the first time. Pierce Arrow preferred sank 3 points to a new low record for the year at 40 1-8.

Chase National Bank stock, which usually changes hands in 10 share lots, soared 22 points to 605 on reports of an early increase in capital and further consolidations. National City Bank jumped 15 points, but lost half its gain and Continental Can preferred, Dupont, Green Cananea Copper, Houston Oil, and Warren Bros. All closed 4 to 8 1-2 points higher.

New peak prices for a year, or longer, were attained by about a score issues including Goodrich, Goodyear and Lee Rubbers, American Water Works, Abitibi Power, American & Foreign Power, Commonwealth Power, Peoples Gas, Southern California Edison, Dome Mines, Cudahy Packing, Davison Chemical and Wrigley.

On the other hand, Pathe, Willys Overland common and Murray Body sold at their lowest prices of the year.

The rise in cotton was based on publication of the census bureau's ginning report, but when the first rush of covering had been completed, prices sold down, closing only 16 to 20 points net higher. Wheat advanced a cent or more a bushel on buying influenced by unfavorable reports from foreign crop centers, and a better undertone at the Liverpool market. Coffee advanced 32 to 15 points, but sugar prices were practically unchanged.

Outside of the establishment of parity by sterling, the principal developments in the foreign exchange market were the touching of new 1927 highs by Dutch guilders and German marks, and a further break of more than 30 points in Japanese yen to around 46.31 cents. Sterling Cables were quoted at $4.86 21-32 or 1-32 of a cent above parity.

GREENEVILLE

Miss Exilia Marcoux was pleasantly surprised on Thursday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. Silver Plante of Central avenue, in honor of her 22nd birthday. About 50 guests were present including friends and relatives from Taftville, Jewett City, Willimantic and Hartford. Most of the evening was devoted to dancing. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. The party lasted until a late hour, every one wishing Miss Marcoux much happiness for the future.

A Greeneville young man going home on a trolley car Thursday afternoon got so interested in discussing the Tunney-Dempsey fight that he was carried nearly to Taftville before realizing where he was. His discomfiture, when he discovered his mistake, caused considerable amusement among the other passengers.

Some of the local people who attended the New London County fair claim that it is the best fair they have seen for the last six years.

Pastime A. C. fighters are training hard every other night in their clubroom, for ther battles which will take place in Union hall next Friday evening.

Howard Ring is spending a few days visiting relatives in Springfield. While there he will attend the Springfield fair.

Miss Ida Marshall of Prospect street has returned after spending a few days with relatives at Springfield. While there she attended the Springfield fair.

Many of the local dancers attended the dance at Plainfield Community house.

Fred Ellis of Preston City was a business caller in the village Friday.

The Community Workers of the Greeneville Congregational church met at the home of Mrs. Frederick Sears of 129 Prospect street Friday afternoon with all members present for the purpose of tieing two quilts.

Edward Sullivan of Central avenue has resumed his studies at Tufts college, entering on his sophomore year. Mr. Sullivan acted as a playground instructor during the summer.

Vincent Brophy, son of Dr. E. J. Brophy of Central avenue, has resumed his studies at Holy Cross college.

Mr. and Mrs. William O'Brien of Central avenue left Friday morning for a week's vacation in Canada.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Atkins of South Second avenue have received from friends in Fort Worth, Texas, a watermelon weighing 90 pounds and measuring 49 inches in circumference. The huge melon was shipped in a washtub, carefully packed with excelsior, and the entire top of the melon in view, the rind in one place being cut to allow the address of Mr. and Mrs. Atkins to be written on the melon itself.

At the Congregational church Sunday the 25th all the services will be on standard time.

PIMPLES OVER FACE AND NECK

Festered and Scaled Over. Cuticura Healed.

"I had trouble with pimples all over my face and neck. The pimples were hard upon breaking out, but later festered and scaled over. I spent many restless nights on account of the continual itching and burning. The eruptions bled almost incessantly while shaving.

"I tried different remedies without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and, in about a month I was completely healed, after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and about half a box of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) R. H. Drew, R. F. D. 2, Plymouth, N. H., March 18, 1927.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for daily toilet purposes.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 2, Malden, Mass." Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

NOTABLE SPEAKERS COMING HERE FOR NORWICH ONE DAY CONGRESS

The one day congress under the auspices of the chamber of commerce will open Monday morning with a breakfast for salespeople at the Wauregan hotel. President James L. Case of the chamber of commerce will open the congress with a few remarks, after which he will introduce the chairman of the sales breakfast, J. B. Caron. Meetings will continue throughout the day, concluding with a dinner at the hotel in the evening at which all citizens are invited.

Several men of note are to be present as the guests of the chamber of commerce on this occasion. In a letter received at the chamber office last week, Gov. Trumbull designated States Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers to represent him at the closing dinner in the evening. President Earle Stamm and Secretary George Garipley of the New London chamber of commerce will also be present at the dinner. Frank Stockdale, founder of the Retail Merchants Institute of Chicago and for many years considered one of the out-standing retail merchants experts in the country, will address the salespeople on the subject "How to Increase Your Sales and Grow With Your Store." The breakfast is open to any one interested in the subject of salesmanship, regardless of whether or not he is employed in a store.

At the luncheon at noon Mr. Stockdale will speak on "Today's Competition and How to Meet It." As this subject is one which strikes at the pulse of every business, it has been rightly termed "The Brass Tacks of Merchandizing." It is expected that every merchant who is interested in increasing his sales and who is anxious to learn more of the things which successful merchants are doing in building their sales program—in knowing the right mark-up—in working out sales quotas—in fixing stock limits—in making out an expense budget—in organizing and training sales persons—in planning advertising and in displaying goods in stores and windows attractively, will attend this important meeting.

Edwin S. Niles, formerly secretary of the retail merchants bureau of the Springfield chamber of commerce and now general manager of the Springfield Shopping News, a man who is also somewhat of a retail expert, having developed a very active program of retail shopping improvements in Springfield, will speak at the "round table conference" of merchants at 11 a. m. on "Activities of a Credit Bureau" and at 4 in the afternoon, he will lead a discussion at the women's mass meeting in the Wauregan hotel on "Retail Shopping." Indications at present point to a large attendance at this meeting.

Mr. Robert E. Condon, president of the New York junior board of trade will represent the United States junior chamber of commerce at the conference of young men at four in the afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. and will discuss with them what the advantages and purposes of the junior chamber of commerce are, and also a few projects which the young man of the community can promote, with reference to Air Landing fields.

Mr. Condon will also explain some of the other advantages of junior chambers which include political education programs, educational entertainment courses, establishing of emergency relief units, more parking facilities, building swimming pools and tourists camps, promotion of tournaments, athletic events, etc., and courses in salesmanship.

Campbell Scott, president of the Technical Advisory corporation of New York and industrial engineer of national reputation, will speak at the chamber dinner in the evening, taking for his subject "The Development of Trade and Industry." Mr. Scott is particularly qualified to speak on this subject, as that is his business, helping communities to grow. Every citizen in Norwich who has at any time felt the urge or ambition to see his community expand and maintain the position it rightfully deserves among progressive American cities, should make a special effort to hear Mr. Scott. Ladies are especially welcome.

For the purpose of developing a community program of work based upon the suggestions of the members of the organization and the citizens of Norwich, an open forum is scheduled for three in the afternoon. President James L. Case will preside. At this meeting it is hoped that hundreds of suggestions will be received. This offers an opportunity for those interested in better sidewalks, improved streets, better parking facilities, a community chest, an airport or equitable taxation, or opposed to the elimination of trains No. 705 and 708, now running between New London and Worcester, or opposed to any of the projects previously mentioned, or having any suggestion of any character, which they believe should have the serious consideration of the chamber of commerce, to bring it to this meeting. The chamber gives assurance that every suggestion so received will be acted upon by the chamber body through a referandum now being prepared for the next issue of "Norwich Progress," the chamber of commerce magazine.

The committee having charge of the one day congress includes the following, headed by Abner Schwartz, chairman, C. E. Carpenter, J. B. Caron, H. B. Cary, L. M. Crandall, Emery H. Davis, J. F. Fleming, Max Hanover, E. L. Latimer, John M. Lee, H. S. Lyon, J. P. Lyston, Arthur L. Peale N. Eugene Smith and Earl Taggart.

The program is given to the citizens of Norwich without cost to them, except for the price of the meals, which are as follows: Breakfast 50c, noon luncheon 85c, evening dinner 85c. Reservations for the breakfast are to be made through J. B. Caron, for the luncheon through Abner Schwartz and for the chamber dinner through the chamber of commerce office.

SPECIAL PLANS FOR JEWISH HIGH HOLIDAYS

A progressive step is being inaugurated in connection with the high holiday services at the United Brothers synagogue, High street, in order to bring the younger generation more closely within the fold of the religion of their elders. Rabbi Max Stamm will deliver an address at 10 a. m. on Tuesday, September 27th; at 4:30 p. m., and a young rabbi, a graduate of Rabbi Isaac Alchonen Rabbinical institute of New York, will deliver an address in English.

Abner Schwartz, president of the congregation is extending a cordial invitation to both young and old people to attend these addresses which will stress the need and the value of religious influence in the life of the people.

The Jewish high holidays begin at sundown on Monday, September 26 and continue on Tuesday and Wednesdays, September 27 and 28. They are two days given to prayer and atonment and all Jewish business houses observe the holidays by closing their stores.

WE MODERNS CONTINUE AFTERNOONS OF PINOCHLE

The second afternoon's play of the We Moderns Pinochle club was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Louise Manchester of Laurel Hill avenue. Scores for the afternoon were Mrs. L. Manchester 7520, Mrs. Jensen 7,110, Mrs. Hallisay 6820, Mrs. Busch 6805, Mrs. Hastedt 6420, Mrs. Prodell 6370, Mrs. Retkovske 5775, and Mrs. Moran 4900.

The scores for the two weeks play of the series: Mrs. Manchester 14,080; Mrs. Jensen 14,065; Mrs. Busch 13,520; Mrs. Prodell 13,315; Mrs. Hallisay 13,-260; Mrs. Retkovske 11,870; Mrs. Moran 11,505 and Mrs. Hastedt 10,445. After the play refreshments were served by the hostess. The club will meet with Mrs. Hallisay of Hill street next week.

NORWICH TOWN

The morning worship at the First Congregational church Sunday is to be held at 10:30 standard time. This change likewise will prevail at the First Methodist Episcopal church.

The funeral of John Banning was held from his home on Wightman avenue, Friday morning at 8:20. In the Sacred Heart church at nine o'clock, requiem high mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, and was attended by many relatives and friends. At the offertory De Profundis was sung by Miss Mary Buckley, who for the waiting hymn sang Jesus, Lover Of My Soul. As the body was borne from the church, the choir sang Lead Kindly Light. Mrs. William A. Murphy, organist, was in charge of the music. The bearers were Henry Kilroy, Bernard Meehan, James Filburn, John White, Dennis Houlihan and Jeremiah Murphy. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Father Quinn read the committal prayers. Hourigan Brothers were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

TOWNS CONTRIBUTE FLOATS FOR COUNTY PARADE

eant which was presented in a parade around the track about 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Frank T. Maples was marshal of the parade, with William B. and Lawrence Lathrop as his aides, all mounted, and Mr. Maples riding a magnificent thoroughbred white Arabian horse which was loaned by Miss Christine Smith of Bradford, N. H.

Two bands provided music for the parade, Swahn's military band leading the way and the Columbus Italian band having a position in the line. President H. R. Branche and officials of the fair association and of the different towns marched behind the marshal. The floats, in the order of their appearance in the parade were the following:

Bozrah

The Bozrah float, which was decorated in the national colors, carried an immense liberty bell, with Miss Independence and girls representing the 13 original states grouped around. The girls were in white, each with a red shoulder band for the state she represented. Miss Anna Kosopod was Miss Independence and the states were represented by the Misses Helen Main, Martha Main, Mary Sweeney, Gladys Maplesden, Anna Karan, Emily Karan, Mary Baran, Margaret Dixon, Dorothea Perkins, Rose Fishbone, Alexandria Laputz, Edith Hill and Clara Korenkiewicz.

Colchester

Colchester gave a reproduction of the Foote house, the first house built in the town by its founder, Nathaniel Foote, in 1702. Riding on the float was Mrs. Robert Brown of North Westchester, a descendant of the founder, with C. A. Kramer and little Catherine Surrell. A garden scene was arranged in front of the house and part of the furniture used on the float were relics from the old house.

East Lyme

Niantic Chamber of Commerce sent a float to represent East Lyme, which portrayed the famous Bride Brook wedding, 1646-47, by Governor Winthrop, on the snow-covered banks of the brook in the middle of winter.

Standing on either side of a brook were the bride and groom, and the governor and his aides. Miss Lila Hoffman as bride, Arthur Winslow, groom, Rev. Edgar Darby, as governor, and Clifford Clark and Charles D. Wicks as the groom's aides. They wore the long black Pilgrim cloaks and tall hats. The wigs and makeups were furnished by Mrs. W. C. Morris of Niantic.

Franklin

The Franklin float was done in green to represent a field in which were Bo-Peep and her flock of sheep. Miss Frances McIntosh, with her crook, represented the guardian of the sheep.

Groton

Groton was represented by a replica of the Groton monument, commemorating the battle of Groton Heights, Sept. 6, 1871. Grouped around the monument were four soldiers armed with flintlocks and 12 Boy Scouts. The float was entered by the Groton Chamber of Commerce.

Old Lyme

The float from Old Lyme, which was decorated in blue, green and yellow, carried two paintings, The Home of the Artists and Long Island Sound. Seated on the float were the artist representatives, Miss Louise Terry and Mrs. Myra Morgan, at work with palettes and brushes.

Lisbon

The Lisbon float typified the agricultural side of the town, an immense white and gold "Horn of Plenty" pouring out a rich profusion of products of the garden and farm, the gifts of the townspeople toward the float. Tastefully trimmed with hydrangeas and dahlias, and bearing on both sides a white shield with the word "Lisbon" in blue letters, the float was made complete by Miss Annetta Herrmann representing the goddess of the grain, and Miss Helen Thoma as goddess of fruit. They wore attractive costumes furnished by Mrs. George W. Weller, Jr., and Mrs. Adam Leupold. The designer and builder of the float was Richard Kraus.

Montville

Montville's float was called the "Spirit of Montville" and represented an Indian village with wigwam and the Mohegan Indian family seated amidst bear and buffalo skins. The Mohegan family members were Chief Matahga (Burill Fielding); Indian brave, Tantaquidgeon; squaw, Red Bird (Mrs. Loretta Schulz); Fire Fly, Harriet Quidgeon; and papoose.

Salem

Salem had a float made in the form of a beautiful white swan driven by Miss Alice Rix who held the blue lines that led to the swan's beak.

Waterford

"Quarrying, Waterford's Oldest Industry and Still Going Strong", was the title of the float from that town, having a stone working scene arranged upon it with a block of granite, anvil, forge and derrick, with men at work. Those on the float were A. J. Perkins, Fred Myers, F. W. Jacques and William Cruickshank.

Preston

On a float decorated with red, white and blue bunting the town of Preston presented the scene of the making of the first flag. Those representing the historical characters were in colonial costume and were the following: Committee, George Washington, Merrill Woodmansee; Col. Wm. Ross, Kenneth Zabriskie; Robert Morris, Donald Barnes; Betsy Ross, Miss Cynthia Crary; assistants, Miss Marguerite Miller, Miss Dorothy Fuller, Miss Alice Abrahamson. The float was designed and built under the direction of Rev. John Smith, the Preston City pastor.

The Norwich float, The Rose of New England, and the New London float, Ye Olde Towne Mill, as well as the decorated automobile of the New London County Medical association, all of which appeared in the parade on the first day of the fair, also had place in the line in the town parade Friday.

FAIR NOTES

By early in the afternoon the number of automobiles on the grounds was so great that parking space inside the track had to be used.

Norwich police officers on duty on the grounds were Sergt. Matthew Delaney, and supernumeraries Luppert, Gendron, Kimball, Simpson, Patterson and Ryan.

Mack trucks shown in the automobile section by Peter Flynn were a constant source of interest to visitors. Mr. Flynn had three heavy duty trucks that demonstrated the high quality of the service they give.

Mary Louise Hull showed 90 varieties in the exhibit of the 4H canning club.

Garden and clothing exhibits by the 4 H club attracted much attention in the annex to exhibition hall.

The Henschel Tire & Rubber company have a very interesting educational tire exhibit in the main hall displaying solid and pneumatic tires and all raw materials from which tires are made, also, cut sections of the manufactured product, giving a splendid idea how a tire looks from the inside. Lectures are given intermittenly on this subject.

Patients of the Norwich state hospital to the number of 260 were among the many spectators at the fair Friday afternoon. The patients and attendants made the trip to and from the fairgrounds in special buses chartered for the occasion. They occupied seats in a section of the old grandstand, reserved for their use and were provided ice cream cones, peanuts, candy and soda water. Superintendent Franklin S. Wilcox of the institution arranged the afternoon's pleasure for the patients.

The beautifully decorated automobile which was entered by the New London county medical association with white asters and red chrysanthemums on a background of laurel and oak leaves was decorated by Otto F. Ernst of Geduldig greenhouses.

AFFLICTED WITH CONSTIPATION 30 YEARS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought relief in two weeks!

Read Mr. Weller's sincere tribute to the power of ALL-BRAN in relieving this dread disease:

"I have been constipated for the last 30 years. Have taken stuff from all over the world without any result. A couple of weeks ago I got a package of your ALL-BRAN. Have taken two spoonfuls with sugar and milk at every meal and ever since I am not constipated any more." G. WELLER, South San Francisco, Cal.

Constipation leads to more than forty serious diseases. Don't let it begin its deadly work on you. Headaches, pimples, spots before the eyes, dizziness—all are tell-tale symptoms.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Kellogg's is 100% bran—100% effective. Delicious with cream or milk—and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Served and sold everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Recipes on package.

DIPLOMATS ARE WATCHING TARIFF TREATY PARLEYS

Controversy Between France and the United States is Regarded as Virtually a Test Case of Europe's Complaints Against American High Tariffs—Negotiations With a Dozen or More Countries Probably Will Be Delayed Until the French-American Controversy Has Been Settled.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—(AP)—European diplomats in Washington, including those of France, appear to view the tariff and commercial treaty conversations between France and the United States as virtually a test case of Europe's complaints against American high tariffs, agricultural quarantines and similar restrictions on commerce.

One French diplomat who did not wish to be quoted, even went so far as to say that France for centuries had been fighting Europe's test cases in international relationships and that the tariff discussion with the United States was only the most recent instance of that historic fact.

A canvass of the privately expressed opinions of diplomats and commercial attaches from several European countries shows them to be in substantial agreement that American commercial treaty negotiations pending or in prospect with a dozen or more countries are most unlikely to proceed with any rapidity until the French-American controversy is settled.

The one other aspect of the French-American situation upon which they also agreed was that even the thought of a tariff war was intolerable to the governments of all nations and that the French-American discussions, however prolonged would succeed in averting any open battle of counter-tariff duties and a resultant world disturbance of commerce and economic recovery from the World war.

The state department was still without any information today as to when a reply from France as to the renewed American proposal for negotiation of a most favored nation commercial treaty was to be expected. Some officials professed to read hopeful signs of French acceptance into the delay in formulation of the French answer.

Experienced European diplomats, however, did not hesitate to predict that France would yield to American desires, if she yielded at all, only after extended exchanges between the two governments.

One commercial diplomat said today that while the principle laid down by the American tariff act of equal treatment for all nations sounded well, translated into actual American tariff schedules it could only be viewed by other countries as meaning "equally bad treatment for all."

The effect of that tariff, as European business and diplomacy see, it was explained, is that the United States stands ready to concede nothing further than equality for all comers in her markets, while she demands in return, under the most favored nation clause, full participation in every lower duty or special concession granted by any of her European neighbors to each other in a long process of give and take reciprocal interchanges between them.

FAIL TO FIND PLANE "SPIRIT OF HOLLYWOOD"

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Search by army planes and one privately owned airplane today failed to bring any clues as to the whereabouts of the monoplane "Spirit of Hollywood," missing since Wednesday, when, piloted by Frank Tomick, of Venice, it hopped off from Santa Monica for Salt Lake City en route to Chicago, with Marion Mack, film actress as a passenger.

Two army planes, which hopped off yesterday from March field, Riverside, Calif., for Las Vegas, Nevada, today started back to the army field. They covered the district about Las Vargas for a radius of 100 miles, this morning without success.

The army fliers, Lieuts. John R. Glasscock, and William G. Pulmmer said they probably would return to Las Vegas to continue the search tomorrow.

Ro[illegible]son, owner of the "Spirit of Holl[illegible]," who yesterday flew over the [illegible] seeking the long lost plane and its passengers, hopped off on a new search this morning. He expected to establish a base at Barstow, Cal., or some other desert town and continue the hunt indefinitely.

From the national guard air field here Lieut. George Sherwood hopped off shortly after noon today with seven hours of gasoline to aid in the search.

The plane carried four homing pigeons, none of which had returned tonight.

PREPARING FOR FLIGHT FROM U. S. TO AUSTRALIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Chronicle says today that four Australian aviators, with official and financial backing of New South Wales, are rusing preparations for a flight from the United States to Australia the middle of October.

The projected route, the article says will be from Oakland, Calif., to Hawaii, 2,439 miles; thence to Rabaul, New Britain, 3,800 miles; to Law, New Guinea, 350 miles; 950 miles to northern Australia, and the remaining 2,000 miles to Melbourn overland, a total of nearly 9,600 miles.

The flight will be made in a trimotored Fokker monoplane, now in Seattle, similar to that used by Lieuts. Albert Hegenberger and Lester J. Maitland in their air voyage to Hawaii.

Three of the Australian aviators named are Kingsford Smith, Charles T. P. Ulm, and Kieth V. Anderson.

BRITAIN DOUBTS RUSSO-FRANCO-DEBT AGREEFENT

LONDON, Sept. 25—(AP)—English governmental and banking circles are not taking very seriously the reports of the Russo-Franco debt agreement because of the complications of Russia's demands for loans or credits with her offer to agree to pay French holders of Russian bonds. This proposal recalls the offer of a similar nature made by George Tchitcherin, the soviet foreign minister, at the Genoa conference, which was wrecked by the Rapallo treaty, unexpectedly signed by the Russians and Germans, while the allied powers under the leadership of former premier Lloyd George were endeavoring to reach some agreement with the soviet representative.

The fact that Russia insists upon credits aggregating $120,000,000 during the first six years while her payments to French bondholders for the same period would be only $72,000,000, impresses British financial writers as "tragic—comic."

KILLED WHILE ATTEMPTING A PARACHUTE JUMP

PADERBORN, Germany, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Aviation Pilot Kleinberger was killed today while attempting a parachute leap from a height of 2,000 feet. The parachute failed to open. Kleinberger held a record of 110 successful parachute descents.

KILLED WHEN AUTO CRASHED INTO A TREE

SYRACUE, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Francis P. Carrington, a sergeant of Headquarters comanp, 159th Infantry, National Guard, was killed instntly ear here early today, when his automobile crashed into a tree after failing to make a sharp curve in the highway.

INVESTIGATING CONDITIONS OF SOME TRAMP STEAMERS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A general investigation of conditions aboard certain tramp steamers in the coastal trade of North and South America was under way today as a result of charges made by sailors to United States Commissioner David B. Head and other officials that food and working conditions approximated the "hell ship" of sailing days of old.

The investigation grew out of a hearing before the commissioner which followed complaints made by 12 members of the crew of the H. J. Lawrence, at San Pedro recently after a voyage from a South American port.

The sailors, clad in ragged garments and some of them showing the effects of scurvy, testified they had been forced to eat spoiled meat and that many of them had not been paid since the ship left New York four months before. Claims against the ship owners of approximately $5,000 were allowed.

Commissioner Head said he was cooperating with other federal agencies in obtaining evidence of alleged brutality and "starvation" practices aboard ships.

FREIGHT TRAIN DERAILED ON CENTRAL VERMONT ROAD

MERROW, Conn., Sept. 25—(AP)—A broken wheel on a south-bound freight train today, caused a six car derailment which tied up the single track of the Central Vermont railway between New London and Stafford. Wrecking crews from Brattleboro, Vt., and the East Hartford repair yards of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, spent the greater part of the day and night attempting to get the engine, tender, three loaded box cars and two empties, back on the tracks. There were 27 cars in the train.

The accident occurred near Tilden's crossing and the road bed was torn up for more than 700 feet.

The engineer, a man named Gormeley and John Byers, the fireman although thrown from the cab when the engine left the trucks, were uninjured.

GERMAN AVIATRIX TO MAKE STUNT FLIGHTS

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Thea Rasche, German aviatrix, hopped off in her new Flamingo biplane today for Boston, the first scheduled stop of a series of stunt flying exhibitions in New England.

Miss Rasche expected to remain in Boston for a week and then planned to go to Portland, Mane, the first of next week to attend the opening of a new air field and remain two or three days. Her itinlary also called for a flight to Worcester, Mass., October 5. She was accompanied by Hans Kruedener, a mechanic.

AUTO FELL 40 FEET FROM A BRIDGE AT OLEAN, N. Y.

OLEAN, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(AP)—One man was killed, two injured, one probably fatally, when a touring car from Shinglehouse, Pa., fell between the traffic and street car bridges in East State street to the railroad tracks 40 feet below early today.

Garfield Stafenhagen, 46, of Machias, was killed instantly.

J. C. Clayton, 25, and B. C. Haynes, 26, uncle and nephew, are in the Olean hospital.

LEVINE HAS MADE FLIGHT TO VENICE

VENICE, Italy, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Charles A. Levine's airplane Columbia, with its owner aboard, arrived here at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Levine, with Captain Walter Hinchcliffe as pilot, took off at Vienna at 3.30 in the morning.

The two aviators came here to witness the Schneider cup contest, after having abandoned their proposed flight to India on account of rough weather.

DEPUTY SHERIFF KILLED DURING LIQUOR RAID

ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 25—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Clifford Johnson was shot to death late today in a liquor raid a few miles from this city. His alleged slayer, a Negro woman, was wounded.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

WINCHELSEA, Sussex, England, Sept. 25—(AP)—The famous oak tree under which John Wesley, English divine, preached during the early days of his crusade out of which Methodism grew has been blown down.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 25—(AP)—General Chiang Kai-Shek, former nationalist commander, arrived from Fenghwa where he has been in seclusion since his retirement August 14. He confirmed reports that he intends to marry Miss Meiling Soong, Wellesley college graduate, and sister of T. V. Soong who was finance minister in the original nationalist government.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 25—(AP)—So much speculation has been caused by the renewed report that the French plane "White Bird," piloted by Nungesser and Coli, had been seen to plunge into the sea off the west coast of Ireland, that the French consulate general, A.M. Blanche, has asked the Irish authorities to make an investigation.

PIGEONS ARE SERVING THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—(AP)—A Canadian government request for information concerning war department pigeon lofts has revealed that a group of veteran birds who carried messages during the war still are serving the country.

With several among them bearing wounds received in action, they are included in the 465 pigeons in the army breeding loft at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey. There are also at the lofts a number of pigeons captured from the German army in the war.

Among the pigeon heroes is "President," the bird that lost a leg from a wound received while returning with a message from tanks in the St. Mihiel offensive. "Spike" is another St. Mihiel veteran, being credited with having carried 53 messages back from front line units in that operation. "Mocker" is another of the war wounded, having had one eye shot out at St. Mihiel.

FOUND HUGE ICE FIELDS 50 MILES FROM EQUATOR

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—Huge ice fields, only fifty miles from the equator but at an altitude of 15,400 feet above sea level, were found by Dr. James P. Chapin and B. L. Sage, two curators of the American Museum of Natural History, they reported today upon their returned from an exploration tour in Africa and the East Congo.

Chapin and Sage, who spent eighteen months in Africa, said they scaled the lofty Ruwenzori range and explored the Kavi volcanoes. It was at this elevation that the ice fields were found. The native guides were afraid to approach the ice and turned back, leaving the two Americans to go on alone.

The explorers brought back a collection of 2,500 stuffed birds and many stuffed small mammals for the museum.

LARGER SALARIES FOR GERMAN CIVIL SERVANTS

BERLIN, Sept. 25—(AP)—The long-promised rise in salaries for the great armyof German civil servants is expected to become operative October 1, which is being looked forward to as a redletter day by the beneficiaries. Dr. Heinrich Koehler, the federal finance minister, has drawn up a plan for granting increases ranging from eighteen to thirty-three per cent and involving an expenditure of 1,500,000,000 marks. Of this total 330,000,000 will go to the civil servants of the reich; 350,000,000 to those of the different states; 350,000,000 to those of rural communes; 300,000,000 to railways and 160,000,000 to postal officials.

JEALOUS YOUTH SHOT AND KILLED YOUNG GIRL

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Frank Schlieben, 19, shot and killed Steffie Cielec, 16, because she accepted 15 cents for car fare from another youth as they stood on a corner while returning from a dance today.

The girl asked Schlieben for the money to visit friends. He told her that she had better go home, warning her not to accept the money from Frank Rysner, another youth who was with them. She disobeyed and he shot her.

Arrested at the home of his sister, Schlieben admitted his guilt.

TO INVESTIGATE PERSONNEL OF CUSTOMS ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—(AP)—The sub-committee of the house ways and means committee, appointe dto investigate customs administration and personnel will resume its public hearings Oct. 24 it was announced today by Chairman Bacharach, republican, New Jersey.

Owing to the failure of the senate to pass the deficiency bill which provided funds for the subcommittee, no hearings will be held outside of Washington at this time but customs ports ma ybe visited after congress convenes.

FREEZING TEMPERATURE AND SNOW IN DENVER

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 25—(AP)—The first snow of the season fell in Denver today. It was reported by the weather bureau as a "trace," accompanied by an almost freezing temperature.

OBITUARY

William C. Bomburgh

BOSTON, Sept. 25—(AP)—William C. Bomburgh, of Brookyn, N. Y., former advertising manager for the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, died today at a hospital in Newton after an illness of more than a year. He was a prominent Rotarian and was governor of the New England district of Rotary in 1918 and 1919.

Herbert I. Wallace

FITCHBURG, Mass., Sept. 25—(AP)—Herbert I. Wallace, 71, nationally known as a patron of music and for many years a leader in the industrial activities of this city died suddenly today at his home from a heart attack.

Mr. Wallace was for years head of the Fitchburg Paper company, retiring about five years ago.

He was one of the founders of the Fitchburg Choral society and through his interest which found expression in liberal financial help made the annual festivals one of the big musical events in the east. His acquaintance with singers and musicians was most extensive.

John Hamilton Fult:n

ESSEX, N. Y., Sept. 25—(AP)—John Hamilton Fulton, president of the National Park bank of New York city, died suddenly at his summer home here today

American Currency Is Plentiful in Paris

Never Before Have the French Banks Had So Much American Money.

PARIS, Sept. 25—(AP)—American banknotes are filling up the vaults of all the exchange houses of Paris in amazing quantities sufficient to affect the international money market since the dollar h[illegible] on the bourse three or f[illegible]mes during the convention [illegible] the American Legion. Th[illegible]h attributed by financial [illegible] to the influx of American [illegible] and the consequent unusual buy[illegible] of francs. The French banks never have had so much United States currency, not excepting the period of the World war, during which the American soldiers were paid in francs.

The legionnaires brought over their spending money largely in rolls of bills without taking the trouble to purchase letters of credit. One bank alone has accumulated $35,000 of American money in one and two-dollar bills. It is impossible to estimate even in round figures just what the legionnaires spent during the week. The temporary branch office of the Equitable Trust company at Legion headquarters in Convention hall alone has cashed half a million dollars.

SLASHED BY NEGRO ASSAILANT IN BRISTOL

BRISTOL, Sept. 25—(AP)—Slashed by a negro as they were walked down Lake avenue tonight, John Spellacy, of Meriden and Fred Alder, of Southington are confined to the Bristol hospital where they are being treated for severe wounds.

Spellacy suffered a bad gash over the right eye, one on the neck and one near his heart while Alder was slashed on the left arm and over the right eye.

Both told police that they were approached by the negro with a request for the direction to Southington. As they were telling him, he suddenly pulled a razor from his pocket, slashed them both before they could recover from their first astonishment and then ran off.

PLANE FAILED TO BEAT WORLD'S SPEED RECORD

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 25—(AP)—Lieutenant H. A. Johnson, of Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, piloting a 700 horsepower Curtiss biplane, today failed in an attempt to break the world's speed record for 500 kilometers, when his plane developed motor trouble.

Lieutenant Johnson, carrying a prescribed load of 500 kilograms, (1,102.31 pounds) had flown 250 kilometers when he was forced to withdraw. His average speed was 152.177 miles an hour.

The world's record was established by Fern and Lasne of France, who flew 174.622 miles an hour for the 100 kilometers course and 155.105 for the 500 kilometers course.

CATHOLIC CATHEDRAL IN MEXICO CITY MAY REOPEN

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Mexico City's Catholic cathedral, which was closed more than a year ago, when the new religious laws became effective, may be re-opened soon. Government authorities have completed an inventory of the contents of the cathedral, which it is announced, are valued at more than 8,000,000 pesos (about $4,000,000).

The reason heretofore given for keeping the cathedral closed was to permit completion of the inventory. Now that that work is done, catholic residents hope that its doors will be thrown pen again.

PROMINENT FINANCIER FOUND DEAD IN BATHTUB

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 25.—(AP)—W. V. M. Robertson, Sr., 65, prominent financier and president of the Alabama Home Building and Loan association of this city was found dead in his bath, here early tonight with an ice pick through his heart. A deputy coroner expressed the opinion that Mr. Robertson's death was suicide but no official verdict was returned pending further investigation.

POSSE TRYING TO PREVENT ESCAPE OF ASSAILANT

BAR MILLS, Me., Sept. 25—(AP)—A posse of 200, including the fire department, tonight was guarding the woods here to prevent the escape of a man who early in the evening attacked Mrs. Clifford Wallace. Persons who saw the man previously declare he looked and acted like a wild man.

Mrs. Wallace was on the way to the home of her father and was passing a clump of bushes when the man grabbed her. She slipped from the coat she was wearing and ran screaming to her father's home. The latter saw the man head for the woods.

INCREASE IN EARNINGS OF NEW HAVEN RAILROAD

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company reports for August gross of $3,092,201 and net of $1,328,006, the former being an increase of $499,159 and the latter an increase of $476,789 over figures for the same month of 1926. Gross income for the eight-month period ended with Sept. 1 was $18,987,531, a decrease of $28,290 from gross for the comparative period of last year, while net was $4,901,527, or a decrease of $40,270 from figures for the first eight months of 1926.

COLD WEATHER COMING TO THE MIDDLE WEST

CHICAGO, Sept. 25—(AP)—Winter is scheduled to make a new sweep across the middle west tomorrow, with a line of freezing temperature passing from upper Michigan to the southwest through the central portions of Wisconsin, Nebraska, Iowa, and Colorado, the weather bureau forecast tonight.

The region west of Illinois would get a touch of rain mixed with snow and the temperatures would be colder, the report predicted.

WOONSOCKET MAN KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Euclide Lussier, 56, of Woonsocket, was instantly killed today when the automobile in which he was a passenger crashed into a tree on the Diamond Hill state highway at Cumberland, near here. Four others in the car escaped injury.

Four Burglars Shot to Death in Detroit

Two Policemen Were Wounded in Week-End Drive Against Criminals.

DETROIT, Sept. 25—(AP)—Four burglar suspects were shot to death and two policemen wounded in pistol battles here over the week end incident to the drive against criminals ordered following the kidnaping for ransom of a child last week by members of an alleged extortion ring.

Joe Sobko, of Akron, wanted here for the murder of Edmund Weiner in a holdup, was killed by detectives after he had shot and wounded Patrolman Percy Van Connant.

David Huskill, 48, was shot to death by a patrolman who sought to question him regarding a warehouse robbery. The patrolman was wounded by the suspect's return fire.

John Malone, Negro, was shot and killed by a patrolman, as the Negro attempted to drive away in a stolen automobile.

Another Negro, Fontaine Sneed, was shot to death by a citizen when he attempted to burglarize the latter's home.

HAIRDRESSERS ARE IN SESSION AT VIENNA

VIENNA, Australia, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Master hairdressers and bobbed hair specialists from 54 countries, including 300 from the United States, assembled today in Emperor Francis Joseph's palace to protest against the present sterotyped style of bobbed hair as worn by American and European women and to discuss means of restoring distinctive individuality to each woman preferring this mode of hairdress.

This, Rudolf Schiff, the chairman, asserted could only be accomplished by resorting to artificial methods, such as curinig, waving, undulating, dyeing, and adding artificial locks and tresses harmonizing with the particular style of features, contour of face and mode of dress.

Nearly half the delegates are women, and the convention has attracted thousands of visitors from all over Europe. A feature today was an elaborate procession of 300 women of all nationalities, illustrating the styles of hairdress, clothing and jewelry of all ages from earliest Babylonian and Egyptian times to the present day.

Chairman Schiff declared that bobbed hair did not originate in the United States, as popularly supposed, but was the prouct of Russian women nihilists, who in carrying out their hazardous work in Russia a half century ago contrived to make themselves look like men, so as to divert suspicion of the secret police. Bobbed hair was the main feature of their disguise.

BEACH QUESTIONED ABOUT THE LILLIENDAHL MURDER

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Willis Beach, who with Mrs. Lilliendahl, is under bail as a material witness in connection with the slaying of the woman's husband, Dr. A. William Lilliendahl, was questioned again today by detectives working on the case.

Whether anything was learned in addition to what Beach was said to have told the authorities yesterday was not revealed. Mrs. Lilliendahl granted another interview to newspaper reporters today, but was not questioned by the police.

Beach, a 50-year-old poultry farmer, was alleged by the investigators to have confessed after he was taken into custody yesterday, to friendly relations with Mrs. Lilliendahl after she was said to have revealed their trysting place in a secluded glen. Under questioning by Frank J. Harrold, chief of Atlantic county detectives, and William Hudson, chief of police of Vineland, Beach was quoted as having said he frequently had met Mrs. Lilliendahl at the Trysting place and that they had used a hollow oak tree as a place to conceal their correspondence.

Mrs. Lilliendahl was said to have admitted having received letters from Beach addressed to "Peggy Anderson." She asserted, however, that their friendship was of the "purest" character and that Beach was a closer friend of her husband than he was of her.

SCHNIEDER CUP RACE POSTPONED UNTIL TODAY

VENICE, Sept. 25.—(AP)—High winds, accompanied by heavy seas, this afternoon force a postponement of the Schnieder cup race until tomorrow.

While it is hoped the contest may be staged tomorrow, there is no great degree of confidence that conditions will be sufficiently improper to permit the Anglo-Italian speed test of the air.

Continued storms which have been sweeping the region of Padua and Venice may cause the race to be put off for several days.

During last night and this forenoon thousands of visitors, a large proportion of whom were foreigners, continued to pour into the city by special train. Huge throngs immediately rushed to Lido Beach, which by noon was literally black with spectators.

Excitement, which was running high, was rudely dampened when the loud speakers installed on the beach announced from the office of the sporting committee that the agitated condition of the sea made it impossible to start the race because of the danger under such conditions to taking off and landing. The racing pilots were vastly more disappointed than the spectators, because they were on edge and prepared for the test.

INJURED WHILE PLAYING AROUND A MOTORCYCLE

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 25.—(AP)—While playing around a motorcycle parked in the yard of his home this afternoon, the heavy machine fell on Peter Kaspicak, 3, crushing his chest and inflicting a possible fracture of the skull. The child was taken to a hospital where little hope is held for his recovery.

WON RACE FOR OUT-BOARD MOTOR BOATS SUNDAY

FAILED IN ATTEMPTS TO WRECK TWO LEGION TRAINS

Dynamiters Tried to Keep Two Special Trains From Reaching Nice—Several Thousand French Military Police and Detectives Were Called Out to Protect the Legionnaires—A Bomb Was Exploded, Tearing Up Rails—Three Rocks Were Piled on the Rails—Wild Scenes of Enthusiasm Attended the Arrival of the Legionnaires.

NICE, France, Sept. 25—(AP)—Dynamiters and trainwreckers apparently tried to hinder the progress of the American legion's two goodwill trains, but they reached here safely and the legionnaires ran into another Paris welcome. All Riviera was out to greet them and cheer, and several thousand military police and detectives were called out to protect the legionnaires when the train wrecking attempts became known.

Two possible disasters of other trains were averted overnight and the authorities believe that the intended attempts included the cutting of the rails to keep the legion members out of Nice.

A bomb was exploded on the track a few miles this side of Cannes at midnight, five minutes after an express had passed, but eleven hours before the legion train was due. The rails were torn up, a deep hole made in the roadbed and fifty-seven telegraph and telephone wires cut. The noise was heard at Golfe-Juan station by railroad employes who stopped approaching trains. The road was quickly repaired and in a few hours another attempt was discovered east of here on the line near Monte Carlo. There rocks were piled on the rails, but these were removed by a track crew and the legionnaires knew nothing of it. The authorities, however, decided to bring in all possible forces to guard and protect the American guest.

Flower girls and dignitaries met Commander Savage and his goodwill party, and headed by a military band and marines from American destroyers, escorted the legion visitors under the arch of triumph and down Avenue Dela Victorie, which was decked in flags and lined with a crowd that made a solid mass on the sidewalks. There was a continuous cheer that drowned the loudest blare of the army band. Flags, hats and handkerchiefs flew and all day long there were scenes of wild enthusiasm, with crowds dancing and singing in the streets. They almost overwhelmed the strong lines of police and soldiers that guarded every ceremony.

The visitors went to the monument of the war dead, were formally received at the city hall, were entertained at a beach fete, and then left in cars for a look at Monte Carlo. Tonight they leave for Genoa.

ITALY PREPARING RECEPTION FOR AMERICAN LEGION

ROME, Sept. 25—(AP)—Elaborate preparations are being made at Genoa, Pisa and Rome for the reception of the American Legionnaires, who are due to arrive under the leadership of Commander Savage at Genoa at nine o'clock tomorrow morning. They will spend the day in the famous port, and the most interesting event will be a trip to the home of Columbus. On Tuesday they will go to Pisa, and will make a trip to the royal summer home at San Rossore, where they will be received by King Victor Emmanuel.

The legionnaires will reach Rome at 10 o'clock the same night and will be greeted officially by the authorities and excombatants, Wednesday in Rome will be a big day, for visits to the pope, Premier Mussolini and the tomb of the unknown soldier are on the program.

ONLY STRAGGLERS OF LEGION REMAIN IN PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 25—(AP)—The big parade is over and only stragglers remain in Paris after the convention of the American legion. Several thousand already have started back to home and work and other thousands will head for the ports next week. The good will train is on its way with General Pershing and battlefields and billeting areas are full of men, many with their families, who have gone to see the spots where once they fought, the men pointing out the locations of their favorite trenches and shellholes and hunting up the French families that were good to them.

All the convention quarters are closed and the other legion offices have almost cleaned up their affairs. Nearly all the decorations have been taken down and the legionnaires now are tourists. The last official group is a score of Polish veterans who left tonight for Warsaw to place a convention wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier there.

DENIAL MADE BY CONN. CHIROPRACTORS ASSOCIATION

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25—(AP)—The Connecticut Chiropractors association meeting today in this city adopted resolutions denying "certain statements" Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the journal of the American Medical association, said at the Connecticut State Medical Society congress held here last week.

The resolutions passed were as follows:

Whereas: One Dr. Morris Fishbein of the American Medical association made certain statements at the recent medical congress that were derogatory to the practice of drugless therapy and,

Whereas, certain of these statements might be construed by the public to reflect against the ability of chiropractic physicians and

Whereas the chiropractors of Connecticut are fully as well educated and qualified to practice their profession as are the medical men to practice theirs.

Therefore, be it resolved that the Connecticut Chiropractors association go on record as emphatically denying the veracity of the assertions made by Dr. Fishbein insofar as they were directed at the chiropractic profession in this state and

Be it further resolved that this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this meeting and copies be furnished the press for publicity similar to that given Dr. Fishbein's address.

DROWNED WHILE AIDING IN RESCUE OF HIS SON

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Edward A. Chatos, of 1127 Broad street, Stratford, was drowned near Sperry light here today while aiding in the rescue of his six year old son, Raymond, who had fallen out of a power-boat.

The drowned man, his brother William and son Raymond, were cruising near the breakwater in a power boat when in some unaccountable manner, Raymond fell overboard. His father and uncle, immediately dove in after him and when he came to the surface, both swam in his direction.

William reached the boy and succeeded in grabbing him by the clothing and swimming for the boat with him and while so engaged, the lad's father sank out of sight.

A fishing party within sight of the tragedy came to the rescue and brought Raymond and his uncle to the nearest dock where they were placed in a power boat and rushed to Belle dock and from there to Grace hospital by automobile.

29 FIRE ALARMS IN 48 HOURS IN ROCHESTER

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(AP)—One man was killed, several were injured, 15 horses were burned to death, and property valued at $150,000 was destroyed in fires here during the past forty-eight hours. Twenty nine alarms in that time set a record for the year and kept firemen on the jump.

While firemen were rushing to his rescue with a ladder, Charles T. Cordon, 61, a musician, plunged thirty feet to his death today from a burning house before a crowd of several hundred persons. Gordon had sought safety on the ledge of an attic window. Flames licking at his fingers forced him to let go and he fell to the street a few seconds after fire companies arrived. He landed on his head and was killed instantly. Two firemen were injured fighting the flames.

Another fire today destroyed a large warehouse and the New York Central depot at Elm Grove near here with a loss of $20,000. Fifteen horses were burned to death and entire southwest section of the city was threatened by a fire which destroyed a large barn here late Saturday night with a loss of $20,000. Scores of persons fled from their homes when sparks from the burning barn set fire to a dozen houses nearby. Prompt action of firemen prevented these roof fires from becoming serious.

Early Saturday morning the former clubhouse of the Oak Hill Country club was destroyed with a loss of $100,000.

TWO ACCIDENTS IN THE BROADWAY SUBWAY, N. Y.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—One man was killed and another critically injured today in two accidents in the Broadway subway of the Interborough Rapid Transit company.

The dead man was believed to be J. J. Miller, address unknown. He was dragged about 160 feet and decapitated by a northbound train at the 50th street station. Passengers on the train said the man made an attempt to grab the hat of another passenger through a window of a car, his coat sleeve caught in the window frame, and he was dragged beneath the wheels.

Among papers found in his pocket was a receipt made to "J. J. Miller" for a box of candy sent to Miss Harriet Michalak of Dunkirk, N. Y.

The second accident occurred at the 110th street station where John Murphy, 22, of Manhattan, was crushed against the platform edge by a train. He was not expected to live Murphy recently came from St. Johns N. F.

CONVICTED MURDERESRS STAGING HUNGER STRIKE

PORTLAND, Maine, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Benjamin H. Turner, 36 year old convicted murderer of James D. Hallea, entered his 41st hour of fasting at midnight.

Two or three drinks of water have been taken by him since Saturday morning when he learned that the Maine law court had dismissed his final plea for a new trial.

Turner is in good physical condition and is able to far surpass his so-called hunger strike of 124 hours, which started with his conviction by a superior court jury last January, physicians believe. No forcible feeding will be attempted, according to officials.

Tuner is scheduled to leave the county jail tomorrow for Thomaston to start his life sentence.

Meanwhile jail officials are taking no chances on suicide. Two trusted prisoners stay with him in his cell night and day.

BURGLARS GET AWAY WITH $400 FROM LIGHTING CO.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 25—Chiselling their way through the door of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company safe early Saturday morning, robbers escaped with about $400 in cash after forcing open a series of doors in the Kimball block, 850-854 Main street. Entrance to the block, which is owned by A. L. Gelinas, was made through a basement door at the rear of the building which adjoins the railroad tracks.

The break is believed to have been made by one man and police claim that it has the earmarks of being the work of Alexander Kaminski of Mansfield, for whom an intensive night and day search has been made in connection with previous breaks. Kaminski was associated with his brother, William Kaminski and Stanley Budnick, who are now serving time for a series of robberies here and elsewhere. The thief, having forced open the basement door must have considered himself fortunate in finding a tool box. He broke the lock on this and appropriated heavy wrenches, hammers, a steel bar and a chisel which he used in cracking the safe open. Two storage compartments in the basement were broken open but there was nothing there of value for the crook. The prowler then came up the stairs to the main floor and show room of the lighting company. He walked about the display room and the office of sales manager George L. Black. A visit was paid the cashier's cage. The cash drawers were pulled open but not enough to reveal a few dollars in change left in them.

Access to the second floor of the block and into the offices of the billing department of the company, was made by a stairway in the interior of the building. The safe is located in a small interior room and closeting himself in this the crook set to work chiselling. That the crook walked into the office of Assistant Manager Ralph M. Gibson to look out onto the street several times was evidenced by the prints made when his shoes tracked some of the clay composition which came out of the safe door. Safe experts who were here late in the afternoon said that the thief must have worked for about two hours and a half. The combination dial was removed in a fashion similar to the safe robberies at the Jordan Auto company and the Texas company plant, recently. The tumblers of the lock apparatus could not be manipulated by the removal of the dial, however, and the crook had to chisel through quarter inch steel, making an opening about five inches in length. The steel bar was then brought into use to push in the lock arrangement. From a portable strongbox, which was pried open, the cash was taken. Small change, such as nickels and dimes had been dropped on the floor and allowed to remain there.

The crook then made his way into the corridor of the second floor and showing utter disregard for both law prosecution and publicity he started to pry open the lock of the door of the Norwich Bulletin branch office which adjoins the office of Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher. He apparently gave up this job in haste as a screw driver, which the thief was using as a jimmy was left wedged between the door and sash. Although mutilated, the lock was not opened.

The break was discovered at 6:30 o'clock in the morning by Arthur Fontaine, the janitor. Assistant Manager Paul C. Moran was notified and he in turn called in the police. Police Chief Thomas F. Grady and Officer Grant Bombria came to the scene. Several checks were found on the floor adjacent to the safe. Mrs. Cora Melvin, a resident of the next block, told the police that about 2:30 o'clock she had been awakened by a series of terrific noises. She believed that the pounding were the result of work going on in the railroad yard. She noticed that the noises were loudest when freights were passing in the yard.

John F. Ahern, manager of the local office and assistant treasurer of the lighting company, stated that the loss probably would not exceed $500. It was found that the office of John F. Doonan, civil engineer for the concern, had been visited but nothing taken. Mr. Doonan is in France attending the American Legion convention.

The state and local police are relentless in their investigation to put an end to the wave of robberies in this section.

A wedding of much local interest took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Winfield Noyes of 278 Prospect street at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, when their daughter, Doris Elizabeth Noyes, became the bride of Edward C. Williams, Jr., of Andover, Mass. Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the First Congregational church officiated. The bride was given into marriage by her father. Miss Josephine Coulter was maid of honor and Miss Hazel Jones of this city, bridesmaid. Ray C. Williams, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were C. Russell Noyes and Russell M. Williams.

The bride was charmingly attired in white satin with veil of tulle caught with pearls. Her shower bouquet was of bite chrysanthemums. Her maid of honor wore orchid georgette crepe and the bridesmaid was attired in yellow georgette crepe, both carrying bouquets of corresponding colors.

The reception was held at the Nathan Hale hotel with a dinner and was attended by guests from Boston, New York, Torrington, South Manchester, Andover, Mass., and this city. Upon returning from their wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Williams will make their home on Argyle street, Shawsheen Village, Andover, Mass.

The bride is a graduate of Windham High school, also of the school of Domestic Science and Art, Boston, Mass., and the Hartford hospital where she took a post-graduate course in dietetics. The groom is a graduate of the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs and is associated in business with his father at Shawsheen Village.

MISSING YOUNG MAN RETURNS TO HIS HOME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 25—Weary from miles of wandering and weakened by a meagre subsistance on wild grapes and apples, Harvey Bengie, 24, for whom a search has been underway since Thursday night, returned to his home near the Horseshoe bridge about 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning. While his father, Louis Bengie, had feared that the young man had suffered from a weak spell and probably expired in a remote section while on one of his frequent health walks, Harvey said that he had become lost in the woods. He entered the woods from the rear of the St. Joseph's cemetery. Early Thursday evening he became tired and he slept beneath a tree. When he awoke it was dark and he had lost his bearings. He walked for a time and rested again until next morning. He tried in vain all day Friday to find his way out and had to spend another night in the woods. Saturday morning he came out onto the highway at Clark's Corner where he was seen. The police were notified and Chief of Police Grady and Officer Pierre Marrotte went to get the man. Boy Scouts from the Congregational and St. Joseph's troops and several students of Windham High school had assisted in the search.

The contract for Willimantic's newest business block, to be erected on the site of the Card building adjoining the Loomer Opera House block on Main street, has been let to a local contractor by Attorney Hall of Boston. The new building, which will be known as the Hall block, will be a one-story brick structure with ornamental lime stone front and parapet several feet higher than the roof. It will have a frontage of 60 feet and be 110 feet deep. There will be two stores, one to be occupied by the W. T. Grant company department store and the other by Frank P. Lombardo, fruit dealer. This week the occupants of the old Card block will vacate and the work of razing the two and one-half story building will start Monday, October 3. This will be followed by excavations for a spacious basement to be built under the quarters of the Grant store and cellar for Mr. Lombardo's store.

Three passenger trains are removed from local service in the arrangement of the new time table of the New Haven railroad which went into effect this morning. The trains are No. 168, eastbound to Boston at 4:45 a. m.; No. 109, west-bound to Hartford and points beyond at 1.15 a. m. and No. 4306 on the Providence division to Providence at 4:40 a. m.

Only 12 trains will leave here on week days over the four divisions of the New Haven system. Five leave on the Midland division to Boston, five to Hartford, two on the Air line, one being a mixed train to New Haven and the other run to Middletown. No passenger train will arrive or leave Willimantic on the Providence division for the first time in the history of that division.

There are no changes on the Central Vermont railway. Two trains run in both directions, south-bound to New London at 10:58 a. m. and 5:35 p. m.; and north-bound, 7 a. m. and 3:15 p. m.

The funeral services for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Carey McDermott were held at the late home, 242 Windham road, Saturday morning with a high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Paul J. Bartlewski was celebrant. Mrs. E. R. Portelance presided at the organ and Mrs. Henry Mathieu was soloist. The bearers were, James Casey, George L. Shepaum, Edward and Michael Eagan, Fred King and John M. Sullivan. Burial was in the family plot at St. Bernard's cemetery, Rockville. Rev. George Sinnott, pastor of St. Bernard's church, Rockville, conducted the committal service. There was a generous display of floral tributes. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Harry C. Youknot of 64 Seymour street, New Britain, who displayed dexterity in handling his automobile by driving it swiftly backwards a distance of about 75 feet on Main street, but failed to meet the legal requirement of giving a signal of his reversal, was arraigned in police court on a charge of violating a city ordinance, Saturday morning. He pleaded not guilty, stating that he had seen to it that no cars were approaching him at the time. Officer Roderick Lariviere testified that the accused was backing his car while two other machines and a New England Transportation company bus were passing. Youknot was fined five dollars and costs, amounting to $10.15.

Over 50 "to be made" voters who appeared on the list of 173 as submitted by the registrars, failed to appear before the selectmen and Town Clerk Fenton to take the elector's oath. The second and final session for making voters was held Saturday. There were 101 men and 72 women on the registrars' list.

Mrs. Frak M. Smith entertained 15 members of the Trusting circle of the King's Daughters at her home in the afternoon, with Miss Jennie Flaherty as guest.

The Nathan Hale hotel entered upon its second year Saturday with a large patronage. Manager Daniel F.

SHE WENT FROM BAD TO WORSE

Down to 98 Pounds—Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. Riessinger, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Wealth? Happiness?

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy, and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

WESTERLY

REPUBLICAN TOWN COMMITTEE WANTS MORE CANDIDATES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 25—In the desire of Westerly republican town committee, Everett A. Kingsley chairman, to hold an open meeting Thursday evening in Westerly town hall to receive additional names of candidates for town officers it is expected that many more citizens of the town will be heard from. In addition to those already named for nomination as town councilmen have been heard the names of Shelby C. Nicholas, captain of Westerly fire police and agent for the Westerly branch of a refining company, also that of Arthur Fraquelli, a present member of the town committee, a granite dealer.

For nomination as tax assessor for a term of six years, to succeed present assessor, Walter C. Hiscox, who declines renomination, the candidacy of George W. Woodward, at present making up assessors' maps for Westerly tax assessors and acting as clerk for them, is furthered by many. His work for the board has been highly satisfactory It has been the policy of the assessors for many year aback, to keep this office out of politics.

PUMPER TRY-OUT SUNDAY IS VERY SATISFACTORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Sept. 25—A thorough try-out was given the thousand-gallon Seagraves Pumper of the Westerly fire department Sunday morning from the Sherman upper dock on the Pawcatuck river. The trial was held under the supervision of Second Assistant Engineer George A. McKenzie and Third Assistant Engineer Columbus J. Pasetti. With a six-inch hard suction drop from the rear end of the pumper into the Pawcatuck river, a new two-way nozzle was first tried out and next a three-way nozzle and holder, while two single streams were operated at the same time. The test was a most successful one. At one time a single stream shot across the Pawcatuck river and well up the river bank on the Connecticut side, much to the discomfiture of sundry urchins who had dared to view the stream at close range. The truck drivers Nelson G. Himes, Stanley Senior and Charles A. Button were present beside many other firemen and interested spectators.

Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple and Deputy Town Clerk Miss Mabel A. Saunders were present at the Wanumetonomy Golf and Country club Saturday night at the outing of the Rhode Island Town and City Clerks Association of Rhode Island. The annual meeting of the association was held in the new city hall recently reconstructed which was inspected by the association members.

Judge Charles Walsh, Friday, the fifth day of the September term of superior court for Washington county at the Kingston court house had one criminal case disposed of and a jury impanelled, to try a second. In the first, Robert A. Kamm of Charlestown, following a two-day trial on a charge of breaking and entering and the larceny of twelve cases of dynamite from a shed of J. Phelps Stokes, Charlestown, April 4th last was equitted by a jury of which Herbert G. Dyer of Exter was the foreman. On this same complaint Arthur R. Day had pleaded nolo and his case had been continued for sentence.

The second case begun was the action of trespass, $5,000 damages being claimed and brought from the town of Richmond. It was Henry Piowarski vs. Carrol Johnson.

Tall cedars both along the approach and within the state armory on Dixon street, indicate the place of holding the district convention of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon this (Monday) afternoon and evening. Over the outside main entrance is a large reproduction of the Tall Cedar pin. An elaborate raised platform, electrically lighted and equipped with a tall cedar stump awaits the fall of the presiding officer's gavel, to convene the forests of the district. More than 100 Tall Cedars from Westerly, New London, Providence and surrounding forests will move upon the town. In the street parade, the Tall Cedar band of Westerly will make its first appearance, with 27 members, Charles O Gavitt, director.

Quick action on the part of motion picture projectionist Elwot T. Avery, 28, of Hope Valley, operator in the motion picture booth of the Lyric theatre, Pawcatuck Saturday afternoon prevented the spread of flames and saved property from destruction. In the absence of Operator Donald Fancher, Avery was running the film Priscilla Dean in "Birds of Prey," when the audience realized that there was a fire in the booth. A hasty rush was made for the two exits leading to Broad street at the Pawcatuck river bridge. Some 150 patrons, many being children, descended by two flights of stairs to the street without mishap, when a number of youngsters raised the cry "Fire!" Irving Silverstein, high school student of 3 Crescent street, who was in the audience rushed to Box No. 64, West Broad street at Pawcatuck bridge and turned in an alarm, but when the truck and members of the P. S. Barber Hose company arrived they found the flames extinguished. In the steel and asbestos projection booth a breaking film on the machine nearest the exit became ignited and two picture reels blazed. Quickly closing the booth openings Avery with the use of pails of sand had the flames smothered and left the booth uninjured. John Getchell, pianist, continued to play as the audience made its way to the street. Proprietor John Finlay, of Stonington, called from the United theatre, stated that the fire damage would amount to less than $200.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON IS BECOMING INTERESTED IN AVIATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 25—Aviation was given a real boost over the week end. All day Saturday and today, the hum of the motor of a plane overhead had thousands of persons considering taking a ride in the air. Many people satisfied that whim, and this morning are not one-tenth as jumpy about going up as they were before they tried ying.

Listening to what may be called the younger generation, one would be almost convinced today that planes hereabouts will be thicker than flees on a homeless dog within the next five years. And the older generations were not so backward about proclaiming, more or less generally, "I'm going to have a ride in one of those things before long."

This public attitude toward flying has been largely produced by the perfect manner in which the plane in use functioned and the enthusiastic boosting aeronautics have received from those who ventured out on their first ride either today or yesterday. It bes s to look as though the first few peop who buy planes hereabouts and do a passenger carrying business are going to make a trunk full of money. There are undoubtedly thousands of candidates for a first ride, and almost as many certain to be repeaters.

Incidentally—and this is the main idea—the week end flights hereabouts have undoubtedly done much toward advancing public interest in the project of developing a fine airport for Danielson.

A quiet, but attractive, wedding took place Saturday at 2 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Anderson of Maple street, when their daughter, Miss Arline Sylvia, was united in marriage to Justin Meredith Andrews of Rockville, this state. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong, pastor of the Danielson Baptist church.

The bridesmaid was Miss Cora A. Lavallee of Danielson. Edward F. Barrows of Brattleboro, Vt., a classmate of the groom, was best man.

The bride is a graduate of Killingly high school in the class of 1921, and for the past three years has taught in Rockville and Plymouth, Mass. The groom is a graduate of Brown university, class of 1922, and of Johns Hopkins university, where he received his doctorate of science at the School of Hygiene, in 1926, and where he is now associate in Protozoology. He is a member of the following societies: Sigma Xi, Gamma Alpha and Delta Omega. His publications relative to intestinal parasitic diseases in man and lower animals.

Mr. and Mrs Andrews will be at home after November 1, at 2639 Guilford avenue, Baltimore, Md.

Up where the snow begin Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., until about a year ago an assistant at St. James' church is carrying on with marked success his missionary work, with his headquarters at Estevan, Sask., in the Canadian northwest. All who knew him here and who enjoyed the marvelous early fall weather that was the lot of eastern Connecticut people today, will be interested to know that a letter that reached here from him this morning relates that a heavy snowstorm came to Estevan last Monday morning and that the period of sharp frosts and freezing weather has set in up there.

Father Richards is pastor of the church of St. John the Baptist, and his parish about the size of half the state of Connecticut. His headquarters are a few miles over the United States border from Crosby, N. D.

The zeal that marked Fr. Richards' activities here are being newly demonstrated up in the far north. Notwithstanding his multitudinous duties, he has found time the past summer, to act, for the business men of Estevan, as manager of the Junior team of the community, and he did about as well with the boys up there as he did here a year ago the past summer when his St. James' school team were champions in their class in this part of the state. His Estevan Juniors of this year won 10 out of 14 games, frequently playing teams of older players.

Fr. Richards has plans for establishing a parochial school next year. In the spring this school, taught by Sisters, is to be built and will open in September, 1928. The drive for funds is now on and meeting with marked success. Fr. Richards, who is in excellent health, has organized several church societies since he went to Estevan about 10 months ago, and has greatly advanced the spiritual wealth of all the territory within his vast parish.

On North Main street Saturday night motorists traveling that trunk line highway were subjected to a checkup as to the headlights of their machines by officers from the Danielson state barracks. As cars were being halted and lined up in a long row a minor accident occurred, one car running into the rear of another machine, while still another car, coming down the line got caught in the jam. No one was injured in the accident. Definite rules and regulations are contained in the motor vehicle laws relative toheadlights on machines. Poor lights are regarded as constituting a menace to all who travel the highways, including the occupants of the cars that have such lights. The state officers check-up was in the interest of the safety of the traveling public.

After an illness of several years, Severien Chartier, 27, died Saturday morning at the home of his mother, on the West Side. Mr. Chartier was born in Wauregan, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Moise Chartier, and had lived all of his life in this vicinity. He leaves his mother, three sisters and eight brothers, one of whom is Rev. Alpherie Chartier, M. S. Mr. Chartier's father died a number of years ago.

Representatives of that class of boys who revel in destruction are again in the limelight. They have been amusing themselves by hurling stones through the windows of the plant of the Westfield Textile company, near the state armory and the matter is now the subject of an investigation by Chief John McFarland of the borough police.

Hygeia reservoir, near East Killingly, is to be cleared of the fish that are a temptation to many fishermen who are forbidden to angle in its waters and that are of no special benefit to the Crystal Water company, supplying the borough of Danielson.

Operatives of the state fish and game commission, with permission from the water company, are to trap out the fish, which are to be distributed in the waters of Old Killingly pond, Alexander's lake and trout streams in the vicinity. The trapping operation will be undertaken in the very near future.

Many are the tales one has heard and continues to hear about the mighty fish that inhabit the Hygeia, and in these tales is contained the germ that has tempted numbers to fish the prohibited body of water in the hope of landing a big one. There are bass and pickerel in the reservoir, many of them of super-size, and also perch and trout.

It is believed that practically all of them can be taken out and transferred safely to other bodies of water within the town. The operation is of particular interest to fishermen and more or less so to the average person with no special interest in fishing.

As to the fish in this reservoir and the probable size of them it was recalled today that a considerable number of years ago a hydrant at the Danielson Trust company building did not deliver water as it should and the flow from the main into buildings in that vicinity was poor. Upon digging down and inspecting the line for the source of the trouble a monster trout was found jammed near the hydrant inlet, the fish weighing close to four pounds. The curiosity of fishermen hereabouts is now keen to see how large a trout, what size of bass and the length of the big pickerel that the state's traps will produce when the fish are taken out.

Members of the vocational and agricultural courses at Killingly high school have plans to hold a fair here late in October, at the high school building. Walter G. Bruce of the high school faculty, and a specialist in agriculture, is particularly anxious to have as many farmers as may find it possible to attend this school fair, as well as the public in general. Poultry, vegetable and fruit displays will be made, and citizens of the town will, in inspecting them, have an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the practical things that are being done at the school in the courses mentioned to produce workers who will be interested in farms and the things pertaining to them.

McGregor, W. R. C., will be visited by state officers, coming for the annual inspection, on November 2. The corps is making plans to entertain the visitors.

Home Coming week is being observed this week at the Baptist church. Rev. Chester H. Howe of New London is to be the speaker at the Home Coming banquet Thursday evening.

This morning and yesterday morning killing frosts, the first wide-spread ones of the season in this area, came to nip flowers and other tender growing things.

Tuesday afternoon the Ladies' Prayer league is to meet with Mrs. Vernon H. Wetherell of North Main street.

Wilfred Halle, who has been located at Racine, Wis., for a number of years, has taken a position in Providence. His home is here.

Alcid Beliefonte of Pawtucket spent the week end visiting with friends in Danielson and vicinity.

Monday morning Miss Hanora Killiun of Elmville and Everett Cobb of Pawtucket are to be married at St. James' church.

These are days when hunters who have not already attended to the matter are thinking of taking out hunting licenses for the open season beginning next month.

This happens to be the last week for paying borough taxes unless one cares to also pay the interest penalty necessarily imposed in such cases.

There is the possibility, it was pointed out today, that Danielson may get a brand new highway route as an option to cutting down trees, tearing up sidewalks and cutting away lawns that Reynolds street may be made an adequate thoroughfare for such a heavily traveled trunk line highway as the Hartford-Providence route, of which it is a part, happens to be.

In any event the proposal for such a new route will be placed before the highway commissioner if the annual town meeting acts favorably on a clause in the warning that provides for the appointment of a committee for that purpose. It is admitted practically unanimously that Reynolds street as it is for safe trunk line highway traffic and it is also a fact that widening it to 30 feet, as has been considered by the highway department, would means the culination of much of its sarboreal beauty. Likewise some lawns would be cut down to about skimpy sidewalk width and homes brought too close to the street.

Sponsors of the new route plan believe that Highway Commissioner MacDonald likely would listen with sympathetic ears to the adequate plea that can be made to leave Reynolds street as it is and divert the bulk of the traffic now moving over on a new route. This proposed route could leave the present Providence-Hartford highway at the top of Stearns hill near the Gallup farm and come down through what remans undeveloped land to some point in Main street between Stearns and Winter streets. Not only would this plan protect Reynolds street from all it stands to go through if it is widened, but it would open up a new section for the building of homes and give Danielson one more fine residential section within a few years. All of this in addition to correcting a traffic problem of importance.

The cost of the proposed development, which be borne exclusively by the state, would, it is claimed, be no greater than the cost of widening Reynolds street and paying property damage claims.

REFLECTORS FOR SAFETY

Accidents of a serious nature are liable to happen and have happened where trucks have stopped on a curve or been pulled only partly to the side of the road after dark and other cars have had no warning because the tail lights were out or so badly obscured that they failed to serve their purpose. It is a situation that is extremely dangerous, especially when traffic on the highways is very much given to speed.

For the purpose of creating greater safety under such circumstances the suggestion has been made by Motor Vehicle Commissioner Speckel that such big vehicles as trucks be equipped at the rear with reflectors, not in place of but in addition to the tail lights which are required by law. This doesn't mean that no attention would need to be given to making the tail lights operate but it would serve as an auxiliary warning which would automatically operate when the light of the following machine struck it, quite the same as such reflectors do which are placed at bad turns in the road.

It has been the experience of truck drivers that their vehicles stood unlighted in the highway because they had suddenly stopped and there was no means of lighting the machines except when the engine was running. Lanterns might easily be carried for such an emergency, especially if the truck was subject to such balking, but the idea of a reflector must be regarded as meritorious. It would work promptly for the benefit of every car that has a headlight, and inasmuch as they would be apt to be red they would convey to the observant driver the fact that there was danger ahead and impose upon him the responsibility of driving cautiously. It would be a cheap, easy and effective auxiliary.

FRANCE AND RUSSIA

Time will tell, of course, what the situation is between France and Russia, but from the official French statements it would appear that Litvinoff had been making premature claims, or giving the world to infer that greater progress had been made than is actually the case.

When Litvinoff says that France and soviet Russia have come to an agreement about the payment of Russia's debt to France, he has even repeated the claim that a full accord had been reached and that Russia was to pay France at the rate of $12,000,000 for a period of 62 years. But he did temper his claim with the statement that the agreement had not been signed for the reason that Russia had sought credits and upon that phase of the matter it had not been possible to come to an understanding.

If nothing further is done there is certainly no agreement that amounts to anything. The claim of France would thus be supported. France has declared that it is not going to pour new money into Russia in order to collect money previously loaned, although it might be willing to accept through an agreement a settlement at a certain amount on the dollar. Certainly $12,000,000 a year for 62 years would not mean a large return to France.

What is bound to attract particular attention in connection with such discussion, whether there is an understanding or an unsigned agreement, is that Russia is willing to negotiate the payment of those old debts, in which France is not the only country that is interested. This would indicate that Russia is realizing that so long as it continues to repudiate those debts it can expect to remain outside that relationship of nations which is so much desired. From time to time it has been indicated that Russia was taking a different view of international relationships. Nevertheless Great Britain has had its experience and from that other nations will profit extensively in new negotiations.

NIGHT SCHOOLS

We haven't reached the season of the year for night schools, but it is not far ahead. Very soon there will be an opportunity for those who desire to make the most of their evenings for the purpose of bettering their education to get instructions that will be particularly valuable to them, but there's a question whether there is as great an appreciation placed upon such advantages as ought to be.

When it is stated by a specialist of the United States bureau of education that there are 25,000,000 persons in this country who could profit by evening school attendance he does not refer entirely to those who cannot read or write. Rather is he endeavoring to point out the opportunities that night schools afford for those who are desirous of getting further instructions.

Without question there are many who ignore their chances. Some may not be informed in regard to such schools, but there are communities where they are attended by large numbers and if that attendance prevailed throughout the country there would be 10,000,000 in attendance instead of the 1,000,000 annually registered. The failure to attend is largely due to the individual. There's nothing compulsory about it but it is unfortunate that those who need such help are not encouraged to get the benefit of what is provided for them. In the interest of better citizenship and less illiteracy the evening schools are in a position to render a wonderful service.

Much responsibility in this respect rests upon those who are in touch with the individuals, who cannot talk English and who need to know more about the country in which they live, to impress upon them the advantages which have been provided for their benefit and urge them to make the effort to obtain an education.

CLIMBING THE LADDER

Many there are who are always longing for the opportunities other men had, and they point to those who have gone to the top of the ladder and some who have gotten pretty near to the top. They seem to think that they were carried along by an irresistible tide and seem to carry the impression that the opportunities which they encountered are no longer to be found.

Nevertheless the news of the day is filled with those instances where others are continuing to do the same thing just because they have done well what they were given to do and made themselves invaluable to the business.

Only recently C. G. Black was made president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. That very fact means that he is a big man in business life and yet he is but 45. When he was 14 he started to work and his first job was with the Standard Oil company. He was put to work bending wire handles for oil cans. It was not a job that required a mechanical engineer's education or one that was highly remunerative but he did it so successfully and made himself so necessary to the business that when the time came for filling vacancies he was called upon and in unusually short time he had gone from the bottom to the top.

Had he taken a different attitude he might have been bending handles, or been at work on some similar job, today. Had he been satisfied to sit quietly by and wait for opportunity to come along and offer him a ride, he would probably be numbered among those large army today and expressing surprise at the other fellow's success. On the contrary, he took the attitude that opportunity must be sought, that it is there if there is a will to go after it and that what has been done can be repeated.

EDITORIAL NOTES

How many recall those days when they paid their admission and saw a fight to the finish?

With canning and pickling commanding attention the busy housewife is busier than ever.

The man on the corner says: Now that we are back on standard time the long evenings and winter are just ahead.

Preparations in Sprague for fire apparatus mean a provision for fighting fire that every small community can and should have.

The suggestion is made that a battleship be sent to bring Mr. Levine home. One wouldn't be sufficient; better send a fleet.

Mr. Morrow will have a puzzle to solve when he goes to Mexico City, but he has a liking for puzzles and the skill for solving them.

Since there's no need for a special session of congress there'll be none. That will be learned with regret only by the trouble makers.

Jack Frost is seldom welcome, except to the hay fever sufferers, but he's one of those follows who seldom stands on ceremony or waits for an invitation.

It is rather tough on a reckless auto driver to make a pedestrian of him but there are many of them who are constantly insisting that it be done by having them licenses taken away.

It will be noticed that the democratic possibilities never say anything about being too old to run for the presidency, apparently feeling that so long as it is only a matter of running it makes no difference.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A basket or tray to carry glasses for cold drinks is handy in warm weather.

Cooking too long makes corn on the cog tough and tasteless.

Bread should be at least 24 hours old for use as sandwiches.

Hooded types of awnings are best for bedrooms, as they allow more air to circulate.

Children's play frocks of crinkly crepe do not require ironing.

Brown bread sandwiches filled with thin sliced cucumbers in mayonnaise are tasty.

Crisp bacon not only garnishes, but adds flavor to many cooked vegetables and greens.

Jellied vegetables served on crisp lettuce are refreshing for the summer meal.

Omelets are improved by the addition of baking powder.

To remove soot, cover the soiled spot thickly with salt and brush up at once.

Coarse salt will drive flies away.

A dainty sandwich is made of brown bread, cream cheese and nut meats.

Buy a shoe stretcher for the use of the whole family.

Salty water will remove blood stains from marble or any kind of cloth.

Ham, served with mushrooms fried in fat, is delicious.

The bride's cake should contain a silver dime, a button, a thimble and a ring.

Glass baking dishes are attractive as well as useful.

Bread puddings should be baked slowly so that the eggs and milk will not curdle.

Use two large spoons to turn a roast. A fork pierces the skin and allows juices to escape.

If a piece of stick cinnamon is broken into the milk used in making custards while you are beating custard, it will give it a faint brown color without darkening it.

RUBBER GLOVES

Many housewives wear rubber gloves for most of their housework. They will wear so much longer if after they have been washed, rinsed and dried they are sprinkled with dry cornstarch both inside and out. The gloves can be slipped on readily, too if this is done.

PREVENTS MILDEW

When removed from the can pimentoes soon mildew. You can keep them indefinitely if on removing from the sealed tin, they are drained and put in a glass tumbler and covered with salad oil.

A STICKY JOB

When cutting marshmallows, have a bowl of boiling water by your side and continually dip your scissors or knife into it. Then the marshmallows will not stick to either the blade or your fingers.

COOKING AIDS

Dice raw carrots and serve with tiny balls of cottage cheese, on lettuce or romaine. Add a taste of chives to the French dressing.

Cooking food in deep fat is merely boiling it in fat instead of water. Fat must entirely cover food and really be kept at boiling point.

To prepare horseradish, grate up good sound roots and pack at once into bottles. Cover with a small quantity of spirit or distilled vinegar and seal tightly. Make in small quantities, only enough to use up promptly.

In making quick breads and cake, allow in general 1 to 1 1-2 teaspoons of baking powder for each cup of flour. Butter cakes that have a great deal of egg white, however, may need less. Pop-overs and sponge cakes are the exception, and need no baking powder at all.

Serve all lamb dishes hot, on hot plates, because many persons object to the texture of the fat which hardens as it cools. Tart jellies and tasty sauces also "cut" the fat and tone down the pronounced flavor of the meat.

WASHING THE SPINACH

A housewife gives her method of washing spinach. She says: "I think people would have spinach more often if it wasn't for the job of washing it. I think my method is somewhat easier than that of most cooks.

When I bring home my spinach, I tear open the bag, and taking each stalk, I shake off the dirt, cut off the roots and spoiled leaves, then put in my largest pan, cover with cold water and sprinkle some salt on it. Let it stand until time to cook it, when I add a quart of warm water and after soaking it up and down in the water find that very little is necessary to remove the dirt as it has mostly settled to the bottom of the pan."

MAKES HANDLE

Lay a piece of clean, strong string about six inches long over the top of each jar of jelly before pouring in the paraffin. Then pour in the paraffin and let it harden over the cord. When you use the jelly, just by taking hold of each end of the string and pulling, the paraffin will slip out easily.

CLEAN WALLS

A bag of cotton flannel large enough to fit over the broom is the best article in the world to clean ceilings and high walls. As soon as it is the least bit soiled it can be removed, washed, and put back again.

SPOTS ON BLUE SERGE

In these days of uncertain colors one is almost afraid to clean blue serge articles with cleansers. Try rubbing the spots on the blue serge with a cloth wrung out of coffee. It is very effective and will not spot.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Brand new sachet cases are of silk in pastel colors with the tops delicately quilted in silk of the same color.

For dining or dancing, the bright colored chiffon frock, untrimmed, holds its own in popularity, as does likewise the all-black frock.

A filmy chiffon nightie has a yoke of real lace from which the chiffon flares, in Empire fashion.

Autumn lingeries accentuates the new moulded silhouette by having tight hip-yokes with circular inserts flaring below.

The newest felt hats for autumn wear have long white hairs through the felt, which gives a soft and blurred look to the felt.

Snakeskin has graduated into the realm of parasols. Colored silk ones take bandings of the skin and handle straps, to match purses.

Smartly feminine is a black satin and lace pajama suit that has a long lace train falling from its threequarters lace jacket.

Premet uses a new kind of tuck, tiny pin tucks in a fish-bone design, to give novelty to the jumper of a faint rose-red kasha frock.

Pigskin belt, gloves and hat band form one of the new accessory ensembles for fall chic. All have square gold buckles for ornament.

The newest thing in autumn blouses is the angora jersey blouse topping a printed velvet, tweed, crepella or even broadcloth skirt.

Nothing is newer than a black broadcloth redingote dress which Lelong makes distinctive by an intricately tucked design for trimming.

Fashion battles will be fought out over the new hoplines, it would seem. Everything is swathed but whether it be a drape or a yoke is the question.

Two chiffon scarves, in different shades of tawny brown, loop through each other in front and meet again in the back of a little Paris hat of beige felt.

Evening gowns for fall choose white for the most popular color. Next comes yellow, green, new blues and intense lavender-purple hues.

The shoulder flower vogue has survived the autumn. But no ordinary flowers are these that bloom from fur, leather, snakeskin and jewels.

VELVET APPLIQUES

The modern mode now is stressing the fashion of embellishing the lighter chiffon frocks with appliques of black velvet. Sometimes these appliques take the form of flowers but occasionally a triangular piece of the dark softpiled fabric is posed from the side front to the middle of the back of a light frock.

BLACK NOT WORN WITHOUT COLOR

Black is seldom seen alone nowadays. It is combined with two or more other colors. For instance, one evening dress is composed of black, two shades of pink, one very mauvy and the other slightly deeper in tone, and a turquoise blue. A special belt is an innovation.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Do not wring your wool blanket if you want to keep it in shape. Hang it on a line wet and when nearly dry whip it with a wire beater.

A cheap whisk broom should be kept for sprinkling clothes. It saves time, effort and does a much more even job than hand sprinkling.

To remove scorched spots from clothing, dampen and rub with cornstarch. When dry remove the cornstarch.

Fresh fruit stains usually may be removed from silk or wool by sponging with warm water and then applying hydrogen peroxide, to which a little ammonia has been added.

After taking curtains from the stretchers always go over the edges with a hot iron. They will be much more even and show the pull of the pins less, if the curtains are removed and pressed when the edges are still a little damp.

TO CLEAN WHITE FURS

To clean white furs, heat some ordinary white flour as hot as possible without letting it change color. Rub it in lightly, but thoroughly, with the hand all over the fur, and leave it for a couple of hours. Then shake it out in the open air, and brush with a clean soft brush. For other light-colored furs proceed in a similar way, but use bran instead of flour.

When the cleaning process is completed, furs should be allowed to hang out in the sun for a few hours. Store in an unbleached calico or linen bag containing naptha balls. Dark furs may be wrapped in clean newspaper.

VARIOUS TYPES OF STAINS

Paint—Use turpentine and then cleanse with soap and water.

Coffee and tea—Cover the spots with borax, then pour boiling water on from a height.

Fruit—Use the same process as for coffee—borax and alcohol in the case of peach stains.

Tar—Cover the stain with lard, and then use soap and water.

Meat juice—Soak the stained part in tepid water, and then wash in soap and warm water or ammonia.

Grease or oil—Apply turpentine, then soap and warm water.

Ink—Put salt and lemon juice on the stained parts and lay in the sun, then a few drops of oxalic acid and rinse quickly with boiling water.

Vaseline—When the stain is fresh, wash with turpentine, but never boil.

EGGS IN A NEST

When the children rebel at eating spinach or other green vegetables try "eggs in a nest." Make a dainty bird's nest of well-cooked spinach and arrange tiny "eggs" made from cottage cream cheese in the nest. Sprinkle each "egg" with pulverized yolk of hard-boiled egg.

INDELIBLE INK MARKS

Most indelible ink contains nitrate of silver, the stain of which may be removed by just soaking in a solution of common salt and water and afterward washing with ammonia.

BLACKENING STOVE

Before polishing your stove, go over it all with vinegar. It will remove all grease and makes excellent base for polish.

Mint Flavoring

A spring of mint cooked with green peas or string beans gives a delightfully different flavor to them.

RECIPES

Honey Chocolate Ice Cream: 3 cups milk, 3 eggs, 1 quart cream, 2 squares chocolate, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups honey.

Make a boiled custard of the milk, melted chocolate, honey, eggs, salt and vanila. When cool add the cream and freeze.

Sea Foam Candy: People are more likely to fail with this candy than with fudge largely because they do not cook it quite enough, and perhaps because they use too small a pan—the most frequent cause of failure—or proceed by guess. But carelessness at the start, by which some of the sugar crystals are not dissolved, may be the reason for its sugaring, while the failure from too small pan is the getting of something that will not set. One of the various formulas is: Two cups sugar, one-half cup boiling water, one-half cup maple sirup, one teaspoon vanila, two egg whites, one cup of walnuts cut fine.

Pour the boiling water over the sugar and stir until the sugar is completely liquefied. Then stir gently, if necessary, while it is gently cooking to boiling point, but never once after it boils, and let the boiling be continuous at the same temperature—there is but a degree sometimes between real cooking and no cooking at all. Cook to 240, which is approaching a hard boil; pour and beat slowly into stiffly beaten egg whites, finally adding vanilla and nuts, and continuing the beating until it will hold a shape.

Today's Anniversaries

—Farmer Brown's Boy.

Farmer Brown's boy had little to say during dinner. Mother Brown and Farmer Brown teased him a little over the disappearance of his overalls, but they themselves were so puzzled that they couldn't say very much. The piece of carpet which had been hung on the clothesline was brought into the house while they ate dinner. After dinner it was once more hung on the line and Farmer Brown's Boy went back to his work in the barn. With him he took an old coat and a ball of twine. The old coat he hung on the post where he had hung his overalls that morning. One end of the piece of twine was tied fast to a sleeve of the old coat. The ball of twine lay at his feet.

"Now," said Farmer Brown's Boy, "if that thief takes that coat I'll see that ball of twine unroll. Anyway, the twine will lead me to where the coat is hidden."

So he once more resumed his work on the harness and kept an eye on the piece of carpet hanging on the line. It was warm. Farmer Brown's Boy had eaten heartily. Rubbing that harness was monotonous work. He began to get sleepy. In spite of all he could do, his eyes would close heavily now and again and his head would nod. By and by he dozed off. Yes, sir, Farmer Brown's Boy actually dozed off as he sat there on that box in front of the harness. You see, it was very warm and very still.

It was only for a few moments that he dozed. Then a horse stamped in a stall and Farmer Brown's Boy awoke with a start. His first thought was of the piece of carpet he was supposed to be watching. He looked out of the barn door. The carpet was gone. Yes, sir, the carpet was gone. Farmer Brown's Boy jumped to his feet and ran outside. He looked this way and he looked that way. No one was in sight. Neither was that carpet in sight. He ran to the house to ask Mother Brown if she had taken that carpet in. She said she hadn't.

Such a chagrined look as there was on the face of Farmer Brown's Boy when his mother asked him what he had been doing when he hadn't seen that carpet taken. Of course, he had to confess that he had been asleep. Then he remembered the coat that he had hung on a post to look for that. It, too had disappeared. Whoever had taken the carpet had taken the coat.

Farmer Brown's Boy wondered if they had cut that string he had tied to the sleeve of that coat. Perhaps you can guess how eagerly he ran to see. No, the string hadn't been cut. It lay along the ground and it was twitching as if it were being pulled from one end. All Farmer Brown's Boy had to do was to follow that string.

He did follow it. He followed it on the run. Of course, you know where it led to. It led to the little opening under the back porch—the little opening that Black Pussy had used first and then Little Miss Curiosity, the tame chuck, had made use of. The opening was a little bigger now. Farmer Brown's Boy took hold of the string and pulled. Something was holding it at the other end. He pulled harder. He heard a snuffling and growling underneath the porch. It was an unmistakable sound. Nobody but a Bear, a little Bear, could make that noise.

Farmer Brown's Boy took hold of the string and pulled

Farmer Brown's Boy [illegible] shouted. "So, you're the thief!" he cried. "I wonder we didn't suspect you before. You've been making a bed in there out of all those things that have disappeared. Well, I want that coat."

With this, Farmer Brown's Boy pulled harder than ever. Evidently, Cubby had no intention of losing that coat. Snap! went the string. Cubby still had the coat.

Little Talks on Thrift

THRIFT MEANS TO MAKE PROGRESS

It is an encouraging sign of the times that people more and more are learning that true thrift means to make progress—that to be thrifty one must do a great deal more than just save money.

When the work of spreading the teachings of thrift was first taken up by the American Society for Thrift years ago, the idea generally encountered was that thrift meant simply to put money in a savings bank, and that after a man had begun to do that, he need think no more about matters of personal economics.

But other and better lessons have been learned through the years, and today we find people eager to learn not only how to save money but what to do with it after they have saved it and how to improve their condition in life generally.

From the great Ruskin has come the lesson that "Economy no more means saving money than it means spending money; it means administration of a house; its stewardship; spending or saving, whether money or time, or anything else, to the best possible advantage."

It is deplorable that false and harmful conceptions of thrift ever were given encouragement by those who meant well but who were unaware of the ill effects of such teachings. Happily, however, the public viewpoint is changing.

The question of correct spending as well as correct saving is one of far-reaching importance to the business world because, while the elimination of waste and extravagance are always desirable, the general cutting down of legitimate expenditures to the point where the general business of the country would be adversely affected would most assured be a false example of thrift.

Ruskin's analysis correctly places as much importance on correct spending as on correct saving. Success and progress are never the result of penurious practices. Those who are truly thrifty keep business on the go because they spend wisely as well as save carefully. The money which comes into their hands does not lie dormant; neither does it go for purposes that are not useful.

Through the careful habits of thousands of thrifty people money is kept flowing through channels that mean national progress and development.—American Society for Thrift.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Rodman Wanamaker, who with $7,500,000 in policies is the highest insured man in America, is a son of the late John Wanamaker, well-known Philadelphia and New York merchant. He was born in Philadelphia and has spent much of his life in Europe. Of late years he has returned to the United States and devoted himself and his fortune to two special hobbies, aviation and recognition of the claims of the red Indian inhabitants of the country to more deserving treatment by the race that elected them. In carrying out the second of these projects Mr. Wanamaker has done considerable to preserve both the literature and the art of the aborigines, and to encourage artists to depict the Indian race in its best surviving forms. As an aviator, Mr. Wannamaker has spent money freely to further experimentation in building a plane that will navigate safely between America and Europe.

WEDDINGS

Bourne-Lamb

Raymond Charles Bourne of 15 Ripley place and Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Lamb of No. 175 Palmer street, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon by Rev. Herman A. Hunzinger, pastor of the First Evangelical Lutheran church, in the presence of a number of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed at No. 175 Palmer street, and the house was prettily decorated with cut flowers and ferns. The best man was Albert Bourne, a brother of the groom, and the maid of honor was Miss Edna Zelz, a niece of the bride.

The bride was charmingly gowned in tan georgette and wore a picture hat. She carried pale pink asters. The maid of honor wore tan georgette trimmed in black and a black picture hat. Her bouquet was of mixed asters. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served and was followed by a reception. Music was furnished by the Ideal Radio orchestra of which the groom is a member. The musical programme during the ceremony was carried out by Edward Brennan and John Brennan, both members of the orchestra.

The groom's gift to the bride was a string of Delish pearls and the bride's gift to the groom was a wrist watch. The attendants received gold pieces. The bride received many beautiful gifts, including linen, cut glass, silver, and furniture.

Mr. Bourne is employed by the International Silver Co. Both bride and groom have many friends who wish them success and happiness in their future life. Mr. and Mrs. Bourne will reside at No. 175 Palmer street.

Wakely-Fidrych

William J. Wakely of Danielson, known in boxing circles as "Jimmie O'Dowd" and Miss Harriet T. Fidrych of No. 59 Thirteenth street, were united in marriage in this city Saturday afternoon. The couple were attended by Charles McGrath and Miss Justine McGrath of this city. Following the wedding ceremony the bride and groom left for a wedding tour and on their return will reside at No. 88 Routh street.

Mr. Wakely is employed as a lineman by the Eastern Connecticut Power company and his bride has been employed as a telephone operator at the local exchange.

Stewart—Keough

Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Versailles Congregational church Miss Lucy Keough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Keough of Depot Hill, Baltic and Arnold Sewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sewart of Main street, Baltic, were united in marriage by Rev. Harvey Conklin of the Baltic Methodist church.

Miss Jane Keough, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Phyllis Keough and Miss Martha Gaunt of Baltic. The best man was John Andrew, Jr., and the attendants were Edward Ashworth and Earl Phillips. The bride wore a gown of white satin and Spanish lace, with a lovers knot of pearls. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of roses. Her maid of honor wore a salmon colored georgette dress and trimmed with rhinestones and wore an orchid hat. She carried a bouquet of mixed sweet peas. Miss Phyllis Keough wore a yellow and white georgette dress with hand painted flowers, trimmed with pearls and sequins. She wore a pale green hat and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Miss Martha Gaunt wore a gown of pink georgette trimmed with sequins, with white hat and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. As the bridal party entered the church Mrs. Gustave Swanson, the organist, played Mendelssohn's wedding march. At the conclusion of the ceremony Mrs. Carl Johnson rendered Oh Promise Me. The ushers were Wilfred Houghton, Harold Andrew and George Bell, Jr.

Following the marriage ceremony the guests went to the reception room of the church where an English supper was served to 150 friends and relatives. The supper consisted of cold meats, salads, cake, English tea, coffee, fruit, ice cream, punch and soft drinks. A large wedding cake made by Wilfred Houghton was artistically decorated with lilies of the valley and silver leaves and bore the inscription, "September 24, 1927." Mrs. John Andrew, Mrs. Edward Robinson of Baltic and Mrs. Minnie McGrego of Carteret, N. J., acted as waitresses. The interior of the reception room was decorated with vari-colored silk streamers from the ceiling and were draped above the five banquet tables. An arch of flowers was erected in the center of the stage in the center of which was a floral bell, made of white and purple asters. The decorations were in charge of the members of the Lotes' Aid society of Versailles. The tables were decorated with dahlias and asters. During the evening the guests assembled in club hall to attend a reception. Sandwiches, cake, coffee, fancy cookies, ice cream, fruit and punch were served. Leith's orchestra of Baltic furnished music for the dancing, which lasted until 11.45. Recitations, vocal and instrumental solos were rendered, toasts were proposed and responded to. The numerous handsome wedding gifts of china, silverware, household furnishings, silver, glassware, crockery, electric appliances, pyrex sets and linen on display at the Keough home testified to the popularity of the bride.

The groom's gift to his best man and attendants were sets of gold initialed cuff links and the bride gave to her maid of honor and bridesmaid silver initialed toilet sets. The groom was born in Baltic and is employed as a mulespinner in the Baltic Cotton mill. Mrs. Sewart was born in Ashton-U-Lyne, Lancashire, England, and has resided in Baltic for the past four years.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Sewart left by automobile for a two weeks' honeymoon trip to include New York city and Niagara Falls. Upon their return they will reside in a newly furnished home at 209 High street, Baltic. The bride travelled in black velvet sports dress and a beige coat and brown felt hat. Guests were present from Baltic, Taftville, East Hampton, Mass., Pawtucket and Westerly, R. I.

CLOSING DAY OF COUNTY FAIR HERE HAS 10,000 ATTENDANCE REPORTED

Nearly 10,000 people crowded the fairgrounds Saturday, the closing day of the New London County Agricultural society's 73rd annual fair. Throughout the day large crowds milled back and forth on the grounds and the numerous concession stands did a thriving business. This year's fair was a decided success and the officials of the society are to be congratulated on the splendid results of their labors. Clear sunny skies favored the fair all three days. The fair came to a close Saturday night at the conclusion of the amateur boxing events staged by the Duwell Athletic association.

The special events of the day included a parade of floats from industrial plants in the county, a style show afternoon and evening, dancing in the new pavilion, both afternoon and evening, an automobile parade around the track, three horse races, vaudeville in front of the grand stand and another splendid concert program by Swahn's military band.

Industrial Floats Parade

Only two of the industrial plants of the county cooperated with the fair management by entering floats for the parade Saturday afternoon. There were the Ashland Cotton Co., of Jewett City and the Hygienic Fibre Co. of Versailles, but each presented a float of much beauty and interest.

The Ashland Cotton Co. float showed "Miss Rayon," a mermaid with long floating hair reclining upon a rock in front of a waterfall. The float was done completely in rayon, a fabric made in Jewett City, using white for the waterfall, gray for the rock formation and a salmon shade garbed the mermaid who was Miss Agnes Corby.

On the Hygienic Fibre Co. float rode three girls in nurses' costumes, with two other characters representing a doctor and a patient. The nurses were the Misses Anita Dugas, Rosalie Mulholland and Emma Paquette. William Kelly represented the doctor and Albert Pasmore the patient. The float was done completely in white. On the side were the words: Health Demands Scientifically Prepared Surgical Dressings.

These two floats, with the Norwich Rose of New England, the New London Old Towne Mill and the Thames Valley council, U. C. T., float, made up the parade, which was headed by Marshal Frank T. Maples, officials of the fair association, Swahn's military band and the Columbus Italian band.

Shortly after the float parade Announcer Edward T. Connelly announced the prize winners, and the prizes were presented by Herbert R. Branche, president of the New London Agricultural society. The prize winners for Saturday's parade follow:

Best looking girl, Miss Emma Paquette, Versailles, (riding on the Hygienic Fibre Co. float), silver loving cup; best looking float, the Thames Valley council float U. C. T., prize presented to Philip Sheridan, representing the U. C. T.; second prize, a camping outfit, to the Ashland Cotton Co., Jewett City, prize presented to Prentice W. Chase, representative of the Ashland Cotton Co.

The judges were Mrs. A. W. Avery, Montville, Mrs. L. B. Smith, Preston and Charles A. Dowsett, Norwich.

Automobile Parade

Later in the afternoon there was an automobile parade around the track, this being given under the auspices of the officials of the automobile show. About 30 makes and models in the latest passenger cars and trucks were seen in the parade. As the parade passed the grandstand, Announcer Connelly announced the dealers and makes of machines as follows:

Boxing Bouts at Night

Five bouts of amateur boxing under the supervision of the Duwell A. C. closed the entertainment end of the fair Saturday night. About 2,500 shivered and waited for the bouts held on a ring constructed on the platform opposite the grandstand.

Big Boy Burlap of Westerly continued his unbroken victory string in what proved the feature of the evening by gaining the decision overwhelmingly over Slim Lewis, long, lean and lanky Coast Guardsman who gave his place of abode as Atlanta, Ga. This was the final bout and took on much of a comic nature.

The Rhode Island heavyweight of the Salmeno stable, outweighing his opponent by about 25 pounds went right after him from the start and rushed and punched him all over the place. Slim went down four times in the first four counts of 8, 4, and 3 and a couple more times in the second giving Burlap these rounds by big margins. Lewis rallied a bit in the last round but nowhere near enough to change the verdict.

The other star affray of the evening found Freddy Besade of this city getting an unearned decision over Young Chappe, slashing Westerly welter. Chappe seemed to have the better of this fierce slugging contest but the local boy's hand was raised at the final gong. Both went right at it in the first round and it was not long before the crowd was in an uproar. Honors seemed to be pretty even in this stanza with plain slugging holding the spotlight. The second was just a repetition of this fierce popping but toward the end Chappe seemed to get in a few more than his rival. For about a half minute in the third things were even again but Chappe's stamina seemed to tell and during the final two minutes and a half he had much the better of the punching. Besade being very tired at the bell. The crowd did not like the decision.

Young Lawrence of Westerly, 110, took the decision over Young Comfort of Colchester, 108, in the first bout of the evening. These two little fellows took time to warm up and towards the latter part produced some lively action.

Young Kofoe of Westerly won the decision over Jackie Williams of Colchester in the second bout, having the better of the second round and the other two were even.

The only knockout of the evening came in the third bout when Young Fairbanks of Westerly applied the finishing touches to an inexperienced 125-pounder, Young Okosky of Jewett City in one minute of the first round. They started to mix freely right off and for about 30 seconds it was fairly even but the Westerly lad got over a couple of lefts and rights and down went Okosky to come up groggy at three. Fairbanks hit him a couple more times and knocked him out of the ring. At this junction the towel came floating in.

Frankie Busch refereed the bouts in his capable manner while Barney Keenan and Mr. Tuttle were judges, Walter Carrigan timer and Edward Connelly announcer.

Guests at Fair

Guests of the fair society Saturday included Henry Trumbull, brother of Governor John H. Trumbull, Secretary Garatty, H. C. Knight, Elisha Rogers, W. A. Lee, State Treasurer Ernest E. Rogers and other members of the Connecticut council which is affiliated with the New England forward movement and of which Mr. Trumbull is president.

Information on Connecticut

Governor Trumbull has expressed his commendation of a new folder entitled "Do You Know Connecticut?" which has just been issued by the Connecticut chamber of commerce and which contains 199 separate items of information listed under 18 classified headings. The material in the new folder was prepared through research by the state chamber in co-operation with various state departments and other agencies. A number of the items have never before been presented to the public.

MANY RESERVATIONS FOR THE ONE DAY CONGRESS

Many reservations have been made for the various meetings of the One Day Congres of the chamber of commerce, which opens in the Wauregan hotel this (Monday) morning.

Frank Stockdale, who addresses the breakfast and luncheon meetings, arrived in Norwich Sunday evening. Campbell Scott is expected this (Monday) morning. Both Mr. Stockdale and Mr. Scott will make their headquarters in the Wauregan during their stay in Norwich. All meetings of the One Day Congress will take place in this hotel except that the junior chamber of commerce conference to be held in the Y. M. C. A. at four o'clock.

Announcement is also made that this junior chamber of commerce is open to all young men between the ages of 17 and 35, and not merely 17 to 21 as previously published.

President Case said Saturday: "In presenting the One Day Congress programme, the chamber of commerce directors believe that every Norwich citizen who has the forward-looking interests of the community at heart, will take advantage of hearing at least one of the speakers, if not all of the unusual talent presented on this occasion."

YANTIC SMALL BOYS INJUDED BY EXPLOSION

Two small sons of Mrs. Andrew Swiacki, who lives near the Flashbone store on the Fitchville road in Yantic, were badly injured Sunday afternoon by the explosion of what is believed to have been a cartridge which they got hold of in some way. Anthony, 9, may lose his right eye, and Henry, 12, had the thumb on his left hand nearly blown off, the index finger badly lacerated and powder burns in his right hand. Henry said that he threw the "piece of brass" into the river.

Neighbors who heard an explosion at the Swiacki home about 3.30 Sunday afternoon found the injured boys and sent for Dr. J. W. Callahan, who had them taken to Backus hospital in the ambulance.

Mrs. Swiacki, who is a widow, had gone to Southbridge for the day with her son-in-law and daughter, taking two of her five children with her and leaving three of them home.

FEATURE PICTURE FOR OPENING Y. M. C. A. SERVICE

The opening Sunday service of the season at the local Young Men's Christian association was held in the afternoon at 4 o'clock standard time. The opening exercises consisted of the singing of hymns, scripture reading and prayer; also a vocal solo by Hugh Kinder, who also furnished the music for the pictures.

The great part of the feature moving picture, "The Stream of Life," was shown, and its impressiveness gripped the audience, as the story portrayed the leaving home by the loved son who tired of home life on the farm, and somewhat against the wish of his parents left for the big city. The home scenes showing the love and affection that is always manifested in a Christian home, were very touching, especially as the son left for the city life. The last half of the picture will be shown next Sunday. Between the reels, Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk from the scripture passages "Train up a child in the way he should go" and "Honor thy father and thy mother."

OVERLAND MAIL FOR NORWICH-WORCESTER LINE

The post office has been advised by the post office department that it is proposed to inaugurate star route service between New London and Worcester points, the service to be maintained by bus or truck and with one round trip daily. The first mail will leave Worcester at 7.30 o'clock in the morning and will arrive in New London at 12.30 p. m. Leaving New London at 1 p. m., the mail truck will arrive back in Worcester at 4.30 p. m. The route between New London and Norwich will be along the state highway on the easterly side of the river, to permit mail delivery at Gales Ferry and other towns now served by the trains.

OBITUARY

Latham E. Smith

Latham E. Smith, 65, well known resident of Gales Ferry, died suddenly Sunday morning about 5 o'clock, at his home, death resulting from a shock. Mr. Smith was the son of the late James S. and Rozanna Joslin Smith and was born in Kingsley, Penn., November 6, 1861. At Gales Ferry February 8, 1883, he was united in marriage with Fannie Newbery of that place.

Mr. Smith was for the greater part of his life engaged in farming. Fraternally he was a member of Fairview lodge, I. O. O. F. He attended the Methodist church. Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Miss Mabel Smith, and two sons, Tracy Smith of Gales Ferry and Norris Smith, of New London. There are seven grandchildren.

The Smith home, Rose Lawn farm, Gales Ferry has long been known for its hospitality and Mr. Smith was always happiest when he had his friends about him. He was liberal and kind-hearted, a good neighbor, and a most industrious and worthy citizen. The news of his unexpected death brought forth many expressions of regret and sorrow during Sunday.

Among Salvation Army Helpers

In a double page spread of pictures in the War Cry, the photograph of Louis M. Crandall is included with the photos of many of America's leading men such as Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, Gov. Pinchot, Haly Fiske, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., George F. Baker, Jessie Lasky and others. A full page group of pictures appeared in the "War Cry" the national magazine of the Salvation Army, with brief comment concerning the men in eastern states who have been most active in assisting the army in its work. For nearly twenty years Mr. Crandall has been active in the support of this organization, helping with Norwich citizens to raise funds to assist their work, and in helping furnish the cash to purchase their home in Norwich. In addition he has been chairman of their annual campaign on two occasions. Each time that Mr. Crandall has served as chairman the citizens of Norwich have over-subscribed their quota.

The photos are attracting attention in Fagan's Smoke Shop window where they are on display and once again the name of Norwich is being broadcast to millions of people in the United States who are readers of the War Cry.

General Supt. at West Warwick

William T. Wilkinson, who for 16 years up to last January had been assistant superintendent at the Aldrich Bros. plant, Mosup, became general superintendent of Warwick mills, West Warwick, R. I., last week. He is director and secretary of the corporation of Central Worsted company, at Central Village.

Will Entertain Grange Auxiliary

The home of Mrs. Charles Browning at East Great Plain is to be the place for an all day meeting of the Grange auxiliary on Tuesday. The members are to carry sandwiches.

FORECLOSURE FOR $16,148 GRANTED IN TWO JUDGMENTS

Judgment of foreclosure was granted in two motions, in the amount of $3,829.32 on one and in the sum of $12,318.90 on the other, and entered by Judge Allyn L. Brown at Friday's short calendar session of the superior court in New London in favor of the Savings bank of New London against Edward M. Sweeney, administrator of the estate of the late James Sweeney.

There were four notes secured by land at Harrison's Landing—two tracts with three buildings, valued by Thomas C. Dillon at about $22,000.

By order of the court, the case of Ines M. Robinson against Percy W. Robinson is placed on the uncontested list for failure to comply with the court order.

A motion for leave to amend complaint in the divorce action of Isabel Yeomans Brown against Arthur Chester Brown, Salem solon, was withdrawn by plaintiff counsel, Thomas M. Shields, at the suggestion of the court. The motion was one which dealt with an alleged conveyance of property by Brown to his mother. Next Friday, a motion to make his mother a party to the suit will be presented.

Judge Brown took the papers and reserved decision on a motion to strike the marriage annulment case of Jennie Kane Chapman of Norwich vs. Leonard Chapman, from the jury docket.

An order for allowance to the receiver, Atty. Henry Harris, in the case of Ross and others against the Third Baptist society of Stonington was approved.

Judge Brown allowed James R. Bemars, of Pawcatuck, to change his name to James R. Lee.

Judgment of foreclosure in the amount of $3,700 was entered in favor of Thorvald Brunn of Buffalo, against Grace M. Johnson of Groton. The limitation of time was set as the first Monday in November. The property which secure dthe mortgage is located in Mitchell street, Groton, and consisted of a house and land, which Clark B. Whaley valued at $5,000.

Judge Brown extended the time for the sale of the P. Schwartz Co. property until Oct. 24, following a plea by Attorney Morris Lubchansky, representing the received, P. LeRoy Harwood, who said that they would like to realize $126,000 on the sale. Judge Newell Jennings first ordered the sale for Aug. 15 but on that day Judge Christopher L. Avery extended the time to Sept. 22.

The report of the committee was accepted and supplemental judgment entered in the case of Louis Elfenbein, against Kittle Penhallow. Michael L. O'Connell purchased the Penhallow land at Eastern Point for $2,500 at a recent public sale.

Statutory continuance of three months was granted in the case of the Intertype Corp. against Sarcelaracos.

SECURES DIVORCE FROM FORMER N. L. POLICEMAN

Three uncontested divorces were granted, one marriage annulled, while in another, Judge Allyn L. Brown reserved decision at the short calendar session of the superior court Friday afternoon in New London.

Jennie MacLachlan James was given a divorce on the grounds of desertion from Leroy A. James, formerly a member of the New London police force and now a member of the New York police force. They were married March 25, 1922, and desertion was alleged since January 1923. She was given the custody of two children.

Benjamin F. Skinner of this city was given a divorce on the grounds of desertion alleged since Jan. 25, 1924 from Lottie B. Skinner. They were married Feb. 25, 1914.

Joseph Beetham, of this city, who was married in South Africa in 1889, was given a divorce from Lyia Beethemthem on the grounds of desertion alleged since Feb. 4, 1919.

John F. Walsh had his marriage to Florence Halliday alias Florence Morle, annulled on the grounds that his wife was married twice when she married him on March 6, 1926. She pleaded guilty to having been married when she wed Walsh in the criminal superior court in September, 1926, and was given one year in jail.

Judge Brown took the papers in the case of Norma Samburn of New London, who sought a divorce and custody of a minor child from Foster Samburn on the grounds of intolerable cruelty. They were married Sept. 15, 1926.

TROLLEY PASSENGER SUES STANDARD OIL FOR $10,000

As the result of a collision between a trolley car of the Connecticut Co. and a truck operated by the Standard Oil Co., Eva Rosun of New London, a passenger on the trolley car, brings suit for $10,000 against the Standard Oil Co. The papers were served by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs and are returnable in November to the superior court.

The compliant alleges that on Dec. 29, 1926, the plaintiff was a passenger on a trolley car, bound for Norwich and that she had paid for such transportation. It is further alleged that on taht day a truck "of very large dimensions, of great capacity," which weighed several tons, being negligently operated, collided with trolley car, causing the plaintiff to be hurled from her seat to the floor, "severely bruising and maiming her right wrist, right side, righ knee contused and bruised, her back sprained and lamed, and causing her permanent injuries."

It is further alleged that plaintiff, a mill worker, earned about $21 a week, and by reason of the accident, she lost about 10 months' work, to her loss of $200. The plaintiff also claims to have expended considerable sums of money for medical care and attention.

GIRLS' WORKERS COUNCIL PREPARING FOR SEASON

The council of Girls' Workers will hold its first meeting of the fall with Mrs. J. Hartley Graham, 36 Williams street, on Monday evening, at 7.45. Plans for the girls' rally to be held in the Methodist church on Sunday evening, October 16, will be completed; and the matter of stunt night in mid-winter and the Mother-and-daughter banquet in the spring will also be under consideration. It is expected that at least the following churches will be represented at the meeting: United Congregational, Taftville Congregational, Park Congregational, Norwich Town Congregational, Greeneville Congregational, Universalist, Lutheran, Trinity Episcopal, Trinity Methodist, Norwich Town Methodist, Third Baptist, Mt. Calvary Baptist, Central Baptist, First Baptist. Any other Protestant churches interested may communicate with the vice president, Miss Edith Ell

RIVERVIEW FALLS TWICE BEFORE THE ATTACK OF TROLAND'S MARTAFTS

All Taftville and Jim Troland are sitting on top of the world today and don't care who knows it, because of their double victory over Riverview in the first two games of the series, played over the week end. The Martafts downed the Riverview club in the opener on Saturday 6 to 5 with an eighth and ninth inning rally and then on Sunday stepped out to win handily 5 to 3.

Saturday's victory was one that might be called unexpected as Troland because of unforseen circumstances was forced to put a sort of a makeshift team on the field but everything worked out in his favor. There was little question as to the outcome of Sunday's game after the third inning when Riverview had its best chance to even up the series. It was in the third inning of the Sunday game that things looked darkest for Taftville but an attempted squeeze play, with a man on third and first, went wrong and a double play resulted nipping in the bud what looked like a big rally.

The game Saturday saw the Martafts grasp victory from what was conceded to be almost certain defeat. Trailing the Riverview club all the way to the eighth inning Taftville bunched hits in the eighth for three runs and then two down in the ninth pushed three runs across with the aid of two hits and an error by Faber for the victory.

Sunday's Game

With close to 2,000 fans looking on Taftville pounded Tony West hard and with the aid of several errors at critical times won without trouble. West has never been a puzzle to the Taftville club and they seem to hit him at opportune times. Pat Loftus of the Springfield Eastern league team had blinding speed that had Riverview stopped in all innings except the third and seventh when they made their strongest threats.

Riverview went out in order in the opening inning while Taftville broke the ice by scoring a lone run. Carlie Krauss, whose fielding and hitting was a feature of both games, opened Taftville's attack with a crashing double into the left field crowd. Krauss remained at the halfway post while Jarvis and Comiskey flied out. Normandin mussed up one from the bat of Davis and Krauss took third, scoring a minute later when Bill Gley, whose hit sent the winning run across in Saturday's game, singled over second. Davis stole third but died there when Eccleston grounded out.

Loftus fanned two and threw out one in the second inning and Taftville was out in order in their half. Riverview's big threat of the game came in the first of the third when Bob Christy led off with a double into left field going to third on the next pitch which got away from Eccleston. With Belair at the bat a squeeze play was successfully worked, Belair dropping the ball just out of reach over Comiskey's head, Comiskey recovering in time to get Belair at the bag. West followed with a single and Faber shot one through third sending West to second. Mills followed suit and West came home with the second run. Faber halted at third. Then came the disasterous break of the game. Hamel signaled for a squeeze and Moore who was batting bunted directly into Loftus' glove and Faber was double off third without a chance to get back. This ended what looked like the downfall of Taftville.

Taking a lease of life after the narrow shave in the first half of the inning Taftville proceeded to step out in front again. Krauss in his second time at bat duplicated his double of the first inning. Lloyd Jarvis shot a sharp single over the second cushion and Krauss beat the throw to the plate tying the score. Comiskey singled and Jarvis was held at second but not for long as Davis cocked one into the right field crowd for two bases Jarvis scoring and Comiskey going to third. Gley flied out to Faber and Eccleston drove out a fly to Lefty Dugas in left field and Comiskey tried to score but a perfect throw to the plate caught him.

In the fourth inning Riverview had Liberty on base through a hit and he went to second on a steal. When Normandin flied out to Jarvis Liberty attempted to beat the throw but Jarvis' perfect peg to Comiskey caught him by a good six feet. In this inning Taftville threatened but a double play, West to Normandin to Faber cut down the chance.

Riverview went out in order again in the fifth and Taftville boosted their total to five by scoring two counters. Comiskey singled and was followed by Davis who slashed viciously to right field where Mills let the ball go through his legs into the crowd. Comiskey went all the way around but was sent back to third because of ground rules. Gley fouled out. Eccleston hit a high one out to Lefty Dugas who misjudged the ball and then recovering let it slip through his hands, while Comiskey and Davis trotted across the plate. Kendricks and Murphy wereeasy outs.

Riverview made a final bid for the game in the seventh inning and scored a single run. Liberty singled but was forced by Normandin. Normandin went to third on Christy's hit to right-field. Christy went to second on the first ball pitched. Murphy made a brilliant catch of Belair's liner and held the runners on the bag. West hit an easy roller to Krauss who came in too fast to field it and Normandin scored. Faber flied out ending the inning and also the scoring.

Carlie Krauss, Eddie Murphy and Comiskey featured in the infield for Taftville while Jarvis and Gley starred in the outfield. Faber was the shining light of the Riverview club.

Saturday's Game

This game was a heartbreaker for the Riverview club to lose when it seemed almost impossible for Taftville to win, but that's baseball. After being held helpless by Jimmy Bishop, Bridgeport hurler for seven innings, only one man reaching second during the period, Taftville fell on Bishop with a vengeance in the eighth inning. With Comiskey leading off with a single to right center Davis followed with another single. Kendricks came through with a hit that scored Comiskey with Taftville's first run. Nichols and Gley fanned but Eccleston smashed a low liner to center field that scored Davis and when Faber let the ball get away from him Kendricks rushed across the plate with the third run.

Then came the ninth inning. With the first two Taftville men easy outs Comiskey was given a base on balls, Davis came along with a double that sent Comiskey to third. Then came the most fatal blow of the game. Joey Kendrick's hit, a high looping fly into center and Faber came tearing in but ran under the ball and backed up only to let it slip through his hands while Comiskey scored and Davis patered across with the tying run. Bishop here resorted to strategy and deliberately passed Nichols who had hit twice before to take a chance on Gley who had failed to hit. Gley however hit the first ball pitched to short left field and Kendricks raced from second to home with the winning run.

Riverview having scored in the second, third and sixth innings needed another run in the ninth to tie. Belair and Bishop were victims of Nichols' fast ball but Faber the third hitter poled out a triple to right field. Then came Mills. Harry picked out a good one and smashed it back at Nichols who was only able to knock it down. Mills and the ball arrived at first base about the same time but Umpire Hart ruled in favor of the ball and the game was over. The scores:

PIRATES INCREASE LEAD BY TAKING TWO GAMES

CHICAGO, Sept. 25—(AP)—The pace making Pirates increased their lead in the National league pennant race over the Giants by two and one-half games and held a two game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals by taking both games of a double header today from the Chicago Cubs by scores of 2 to 1 and 6 to 1.

Stellar pitching by the league leaders, coupled with opportune hitting and fast fielding was responsible for both victories.

The first game was a pitching duel between Guy Bush and Vic Aldridge, the latter allowing the Cubs only four scattered hits, one of which was a homer by Heathcote saving Chicago from a shutout. Singles by the Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, Wright's sacrifice and a double by Traynor gave the Pirates their first run in the fourth inning. Harris' double and Aldridge's single put across the winning marker in the seventh.

The Cubs were unable to solve Kremer's delivery in the second game. Beck's double, a sacrifice and Adam's single gave the Cubs their only run of the game. On the other hand, Charley Root, out after his 27th victory of the season, was unable to stop the slugging Pirates and he retired after the fifth inning for a pinch hitter. Before his departure, the visitors had taken a commanding lead, L. Waner's single and Barnhart's double putting across one run in the third, while Grantham's fluke homer, the ball bounding into the bleachers netted another run in the fourth. Root was freely batted in the next inning, the Pirates scoring three more runs by bunching three singles with a base on balls, a hit by pitched ball and an error by Hartnett. Singles by Barnhardt, P. Waner and Wright gave Pittsburgh its final run in the sixth with Jones on the hill. The score:

GIANTS AND ROBINS BATTLE TO SCORELESS TIE IN 7 INNINGS

BROOKLYN, Sept. 25—(AP)—A crowd of 32,000 saw the Giants and Brooklyn battle to a scoreless tie in seven innings today at Ebbets field, Brooklyn. The game was called because of darkness.

It was a tight pitchers' battle, Jess Petty holding the Giants to three hits, while "Dutch" Henry held the Robins to two. The only clean hit of the game was Mann's single to center in the sixth. New York could not get the ball out of the infield through the first five innings, and during that time Petty registerd all his seven strikeouts.

The Giants' best chance to score came in the seventh when Hornsby started the inning with a walk. He was sacrificed to second. Jackson flied out and Harper walked, but Reese, batting for Taylor, flied to Statz. The score:

DETROIT WINS LAST GAME IN THE EAST

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—Detroit closed the season in New York today with a 6-1 victory over the Yankees, Earl Whitehill being master of the American league champions in the pinches.

The Tigers pounded Hoyt and Shocker hard, Blue and Tavener getting home runs, each with a runner on base.

Whitehill let the Yanks down with six hits. Lou Gehrig fanned twice with men on bases. Combs was the only New York player who gave the big southpaw trouble. Combs got three singles, his last sending in the New York run in the eighth.

New York won the season's series from Detroit, 14 games to eight. The score:

CARDS GO INTO SECOND PLACE IN NAT. RACE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25—(AP)—The world's champion Cardinals wrung out a double victory over Boston here today 4 to 1 and 6 to 5, going into second place two games behind Pittsburgh, the league leaders.

Winning both games enabled the Cardinals to gain a full game on the Giants, who played a tie game, and kept the St. Louis team two games behind the Pirates as before.

"Old Pete" Alexander, relieving Reinhart in the seventh saved the second game for the Cardinals by holding the Braves scoreless after they had crept up to one point of St. Louis.

In the first game Bill Sherdel pitched the Cardinals to victory. The champions pounded Charley Robertson from the hill and hit Herts hard in the one inning he toiled. In the sixth the Cards hopped on Robertson with two out and scored three hits. The core:

FOOTBALL GAMES SATURDAY SHOW NO EFFECT OF THE NEW GRIDIRON RULES

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(AP)—Any speculation as to the effect of new rules governing collegiate football will have to be deferred, at least for another week or two. The more than 200 college teams that took the field for last Saturday's opening encounters did not, in the main, afford any basis for analysis of the part the lateral pass, the shift and the huddle may play in the current gridiron drama.

Opening games were almost devoid of lateral passes. In general, penalties for failure to observe the new rules governing the timing of shifts and the huddle were at or near the minimum. There appeared to be no noticeable effect on the goal after touchdown, although the goal posts have been moved back 10 yards beyond the goal line. Goals from the field were few, but this might have been expected on the opening day with the coaches having had insufficient time to devote to such a specialty.

No upsets marked the getaway of the east's major teams. Gilmour Dobie's Cornell eleven did not employ frills or furbelows to overcome Clarkson, 41-0. Dartmouth had a walkaway with Norwich, scoring a 47-0 victory as compared to a 59-0 score against the same team in 1926. Pittsburgh crushed Thiel under a 48-0 avalanche.

Army started fast and downed Boston university, 13-0. This score was not comparable to that registered over Boston U. last year, 41-0. Seven of Brown's "iron men" of 1926 figured in the Providence team's 27-0 win over Rhode Island State. Brown won 14-0 in their meeting last season. Georgetown smothered Lenoir-Rhyne, 80-0. Lafayette whipped Schuylkill, 39-13, whereas the 1926 score between these teams was 47-0 in Lafayette's favor.

Syracuse trimmed Hobart, 13-0, but fell six points short of the Orange victory of last season. Colgate played eight-minute periods and bettered its 1926 score by two points in defeating Hamilton, 21-0.

New York's teams won handily, Columbia smothering Vermont, 32-0; New York university beating Niagara, 27-0, and Fordham whipping Bethany, 34-0.

Pennsylvania showed the way to all the eastern institutions in point of attendance for the opening game. A throng of 40,000 watched the Quakers nose out Franklin and Marshall, 8-0. Penn beat the same team last year, 41-0.

AGGIES WIN EASILY FROM COAST GUARD

Storrs, Conn., Sept. 25—The Connecticut Aggies defeated the Coast Guard team here in football Saturday by a score of 38 to 0, in a game where Eddy and Williams at left and right halfback, respectively, featured. The Aggies were the third highest scorers of the eastern teams in football last year and the high score of Saturday gets it off to a good start. The lineup:

STAMFORD POLICE WANT BIGAMIST WHO IS LOCATED IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25—Xavier J. Torres, United States Coast Guard, local station base, state pier, was arrested here Saturday, charged by the Stamford police with bigamy. An officer of the Stamford police department came here Saturday night and took Torres back to Stamford for trial. The Stamford police forwarded a warrant to the New London police and requested that Torres be arrested without delay. Torres was in the coast guard service and Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray was sent to the state pier where Torres was delivered into his custody. It is claimed that Torres married Marie Pagliarulo, in Baltimore several years ago and afterward married Margaret E. Skinner at Stamford and where the second Mrs. Torres resides and has one child of which, she says, Torres is the father.

LAPEMINA UNDER BONDS—VIOLATED LIQUOR LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25—Francesca LaFemina, 44 Smith street, was presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran Saturday afternoon charged with violation of the liquor law. Probable cause was found and LaFemina was held for trial in the United States district court at New Haven. He furnished a surety on his bond of $1,500 in Antonio Menghie. LaFemina was arrested by Prohibition Officer Joseph Fitzpatrick and New London officers last Friday night when his home was raided and a quantity of liquor of the home-made variety, including wine, gin and beer was seized, together with a small amount of alcohol. LaFemina and his wife have before been convicted of violation of the liquor law.

BLACK AND WHITE NEST YIELDS GANG FOR THE CITY COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25—The police Saturday night raided another resort of the black and tan type, Thomas and Mary Mahoney, proprietor and proprietress, respectively, of the house at 125 Main street, were arrested charged with conducting a disorderly house. Six men, John O'Brien, Boston, white, laborer; Clarence Green, Chesterfield, saw-mill worker; Harold Carpenter, Chesterfield, white, saw-mill worker; David Green, no address, negro, cook; Walter Dangerfield, Chesterfield, negro, saw-mill worker and Barney Brewer, 25 Douglass street, negro, freight handler, were arrested charged with frequenting. Mahoney, who is 28, a soldier and his wife, who is 28, were held in bail of $300 each. As they could not furnish sureties on their respective bonds, they were locked up. The frequenters were held in bail of $50 and some of the accused obtained sureties, while others were unsuccessful in obtaining their liberty. Monday they will be presented in court. Mahoney, who is also known as Lester Frank, and his wife were arrested June 28 and the next day were fined $50 and costs each in the police court on a charge of conducting a disorderly house. Saturday night the police observed the men enter the house and when they did not emerge it was decided to raid the place. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen William Riordan and Edward Riordan comprised the raiding squad. The officers did not encounter difficulty in gaining admission and the entire gang was arrested.

William Bennett was committed to Norwich State hospital, Saturday and was taken there by Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Station House Keeper Cavanaugh and Station House Keeper charge at Hillside home and recently his mental condition became such that City Physician George P. Cheney ordered Bennett's commitment.

David Nickerson, of Garfield avenue; Mrs. Rudolph Hoehn, Waterford; Mrs. Gerbille Hedge, 85 Huntington street; Miss Patricia Barbes, 11 Belden street; Mrs. John Yost and infant son, 121 Hempstead street and William Booth Jr., patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

The continued case of Marty and Anna Russell, husband and wife, the former charged with conducting a disorderly house and the latter charged with frequenting, was presented in the police court Saturday, but because of the absence of the state's two witnesses against Russell and his wife, two sailors, the case was again continued, this time to Monday. Then it is believed, the sailors will be on hand to testify as to what they claimed occurred at the Russell residence, 8 Cross street ten days ago and which brought about the arrest of the man and woman. The sailors were at sea Saturday, but the submarine on which they are members of the crew returned to port Saturday afternoon.

Frank Davingitis, a stranger, was charged with trespassing upon railroad property and judgment was suspended. He was arrested by Special Agents McGrath and Perreault of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad Friday night at the Union station. A. M. Weens, United States Coast Guard, was charged with violation of the city's parking laws Friday. He failed to present himself in court and his bond was declared forfeited.

SUSPECTS THAT BUDDY STOLE LOCKER CONTENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25—D. N. Roberts, a member of the crew of the United States Coast Guard destroyer Trippe, state pier, made complaint to the police Friday night that he had been robbed of personal effects of the approximate value of $140and that he suspected his "buddy," Wylie Howard, of being the thief. Roberts and Howard, the latter also a coast guarder and a member of the crew of the destroyer Wilkes and a fireman, rented jointly a locker at the locker establishment of Nicholas Haddard, 127 Main street, corner of Douglass street. Yesterday afternoon Roberts sent a friend to the locker room with a parcel to place in the locker. When the messenger returned he informed Roberts that there was no clothing of any description there. Roberts went to the locker room this afternoon and found that all his apparel as well as that of Howard was missing. He inquired of Haddad if Howard had been there within a day or two and was informed that Howard visited the locker room Thursday. Howard is also absent from his boat without leave and it is believed that he has left the city. The clothing Howard is supposed to have stolen consisted of a blue serge suit, blue suit with pencil stripe, shirts, pair of shoes, underwear and felt hat. Roberts said that Howard is about the same build as the former and could easily wear the stolen clothing. Howard whose home is in Atlanta, Ga., is described as being about 22, five feet 11 inches in height and weighs about 140 pounds. He has light hair, blue eyes, ruddy complexion and round face.

Herbert S. Swan, of New York, city planning and zoning expert, conferred with the city's zoning and planning commission, in the municipal building during the week. They discussed the zoning ordinance which he has been preparing for several months, anticipating that it will be just what the city needs and that the city officials will follow his ideas and thereby cause many improvements in the layout of streets to result. Additional meetings will be held, and the next such meeting will be next Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Swan was engaged to perform this work at a salary of $12,000 and the time that he will be employed will be one year. He was engaged last February and yesterday's conference was the first that has been held with members of the city council and planning board in attendance.

Rev. and Mrs. Arthur F. Wagner were tendered a welcome in the vestry of the First Baptist church the other night, the attendants including members of the church as well as other clergymen throughout the city, their wives and others interested in church work. Rev. Mr. Wagner is the new pastor of the church and was but recently married. He was born in Baltimore 26 years ago. His college career includes studying at Cazenovia seminary, Colgate university and Yale. While at college he was student pastor of the First Baptist church, Waterville, N. Y., and while at Yale he was student pastor of the Third Baptist church, Norwich, from September 1926 until June, 1927.

Miss Gertrude Lester, 31 Truman street, has returned home, having visited for three months in California.

With the temperature dropping nightly to a point near frost, the tramp room at police headquarters is becoming patronized more than it has for six months. Where the room has been unoccupied for a long time there are now anywhere from three to a half dozen unfortunate men who apply for lodgings nightly and the weather becoming colder, it will not be long before the stragglers will be so many that some of them will be compelled to sleep on the concrete floor instead of the iron beds.

MOTORCYCLE AND FORD CAR COLLIDE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25—A motorcycle, driven by John Turner, station 6, Waterford and on which was his wife, and a Ford automobile, owned by Fred Mendell, 46 Meridian street and driven by Mrs. L. P. Davis, Station 19, Waterford, collided this afternoon on Bank street, corner of Lee avenue. Turner was the most seriously injured and he may have sustained concussion of the brain. He is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Mrs. Turner has a slight cut on the head and an injury to her ankle. She also is a patient at the hospital. Mandell and Mrs. Davis escaped injury. The motorcycle was being driven in a northerly direction, Mr. and Mrs. Turner being enroute from their home to New London. Just as the cycle was about to pass Lee avenue, the automobile, with Mrs. Davis at the wheel and receiving instructions from Mandell in driving, entered Bank street, from Lee avenue. Mrs. Davis guided the car so as to take a southerly course, but before the auto had completed to continue through Bank street, the motorcycle struck the rear left fender of the Ford. The crash was terrific and such as to hurl both Turner and his wife from the motorcycle. Turner landed upon his head and was rendered unconscious, while Mrs. Turner's head struck the concrete paving, but not with force. A telephone message was sent to police headquarters and Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh responded. Turner and his wife were rushed to the hospital where an hour later the former displayed symptoms of regaining consciousness. He will be interrogated tomorrow, provided his condition is such as to permit, so that he can relate his version of the accident. Mrs. Davis said that she endeavored to secure the names of the witnesses, but was not successful. From the position of the motorcycle and the automobile when the police arrived, it was evident that the motorcycle was being driven in the middle of the highway and not on the right hand side of the road. Mrs. Turner said that she did not see the auto as it emerged from Lee avenue.

An automobile, driven by M. M. Dana, submarine base and an auto driven by Herbert D. Prentice, Mohegan avenue, collided Sunday morning on Ocean avenue and both autos were damaged, but none of the occupants sustained injury. Dana was driving from the property at 715 at 3:30 o'clock and as the car entered the highway Prentice's machine came along and crashed against Dana's auto. The latter auto was towed to a garage.

R. T. Sheflott, 17 Cliff street, went to the Lawrence bowling alleys, Bank street, Friday night and while there his blue serge coat was stolen from a hanger. Sheflott reported the theft to the police. Saturday afternoon Raymond Curran, 16 Jay street, notified the police that his friend, Edward Sport, 25 Jay street, had taken Sheflott's coat by mistake and that Curran had the garment at his home. Curran said that he would return the coat to Sheflott either today or Monday.

Guido Biagi, of George street, Groton, was arrested Saturday by Patrolman Riordan charged with parking in restricted area on Main street. He was ordered to present himself in the police court Monday.

Philip Sidney Hall, 160 Broadway, Norwich, was arrested Saturday by Patrolman Dennis Murphy charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in passing an intersecting street without reducing speed or sounding a signal. He will be in the police court Monday.

WM. J. CULLEN FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED SUNDAY MORNING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 25—William J. Cullen, about 60, well known carpenter, died suddenly during the early morning of today. His lifeless body was found in bed by his wife when she awoke about 7 o'clock. Death was caused by chronic angina pectoris. Mr. Cullen had been a sufferer from the disease of the heart for a long time. Saturday night Mr. Cullen retired as usual and in apparently as good condition as had been the case since he was last given medical treatment. During the night night Mr. Cullen suffered another attack and expired without being able to summon aid.

Anthony J. Menghi, of this city, and Miss Mabel I. Anderson, of Worcester, Mass., were married at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ yesterday afternoon, by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth.

Former Patrolman Michael Corcoran, of Faire Harbour place, returned to his home today after spending several weeks in Ireland. Mr. Corcoran sailed for New York a week ago and arrived in that port today at 11 o'clock, returning to New London this afternoon.

Monday, election day, New London will vote on four candidates, two of whom will be elected members of the city council, the election being the second and final city election this month. Three members of the board of school visitors will be elected and as there are but three candidates for the office, Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson, Philip Z. Hankey and Mrs. Ellen C. Kelley, all the nominees are sure to be elected. For member of council there are four nominations, Cornelius D. Twomey, William C. Fox, Lucius E. Whiton and Mrs. Grace P. Bitgood. Messrs Fox and Whiton fell behind two weeks ago, something they never did in previous elections, for each candidate always polled a big vote. Mr. Twomey and Mrs. Bitgood polled large votes and believe that they can do so again and obtain a seat in the council.

Hebrew citizens will begin the two days celebration Monday night, for the Jewish New Year. Business will be generally suspended at sundown tomorrow and will continue until sundown Wednesday.

An automobile driven by Vernon Fadden, 35 Summer street and one driven by Thomas Giardina, 35 Shaw street, collided this afternoon on Bank street, near Pearl street. Both autos were damaged, Fadden's more than Giardina's. None of the occupants of the autos were injured.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lyceum Theater

Henry Herbert who is now directing the rehearsals of the Shakespeare association of America, is esteemed the best Shakespearean director in the country having for a number of years directed the companies of Benson in England, where Shakespeare is played much more frequently than in this country. The cast supporting Fritz Leiber during the present tour will include Irby Marshal, Ethel Taylor, Virginia Bronson, Louis Leon Hall, Leonard Willey, John Burke, Edmund Forde, Alan Willey, John Osgood, Joseph Singer, Robert Strauss, Philip Quin, Claude Mintz, Ethel Francis Roberts, Olga Seers, Isabel Stuart, Elmer Hall and others.

New Book by Local Author

Hot Suns and the Great Whiteness, the story of the finer customs and ceremonials of primitive Indian life is typical of New England tribes. It has been endorsed by Dr. A. B. Meredith, commissioner of education and Hon. Ernest E. Rogers, president New London Historical society.

Dr. Frank G. Speck, professor anthropology, University of Penn., writes commending the vision of the minute happenings ofthe Indian camps in a series of pictures. "I am impressed by its fairness of attitude in contrast with the stock treatment of their life."

Breed Theater

Not since Tol'able David, has Richard Barthelmess given such a supreme performance on the screen as was offered to an enthusiastic first night audience at the Breed opening of White Black Sheep, last night.

The likable young star has our vote for the screen's most finished actor, best looking and best everything else, and his newest picture should be one of the cinema successes of the year.

The White Black Sheep submits a different Barthelmess, unquestionably a surprising one, supported by a lavish production, Sidney Olcott's usual excellent direction, and a cast of rare perfection.

It tells the story of Robert Kincairn, who shoulders the blame for a theft by his fiancee, and is ordered from his ancestral home by his military father.

He goes into northern Palestine, under the British protectorate, and joins the British service.

There he falls in love with Zelte, a fascinating Greek dancing girl, who rescues him from an Arab mob and nurses him back to health on the edge of the desert.

His adventures in this colorful land, the intrigues of the Arab chieftains, and thrilling escapades give the story an absorbing interest. Patsy Ruth Miller is splendid as the desert dancer.

Ameen Zaytoun, a native of Beirut, Syria, and a friend of long standing of Sidney Olcott, the director, used his vast knowledge of the Near East to help make Asia Minor live on the screen.

Zaytoun served in the American consulate at Beirut for over 10 years and accompanied Homer Davenport on a trip to the desert purchasing Arabian horses.

Broadway Theater

Great pictures have that intangible something called spirit. Sometimes the quality that lifts a production from mediocrity into fame is love. Sometimes it's war. Often it is both, combined with the elements of humor and drama lifted to a zenith of popularity by the sterling performances of the players.

Taken all together, this is a meager description of The Rough Riders which opened last night at the Broadway theater for a run of four days.

Picture if you can a nation thrown into a fever of patriotism by the sinking of the Maine—many remember it—visualize a man of dynamic instincts, picturesque leadership, and profound intelligence,—things that appeal to men of all races and all classes,—springing to the forefront of an epic campaign in behalf of human liberty. Such a man was Roosevelt. And thus he is portrayed in Paramount's splendid production.

Consider in this maelstrom of war and sacrifice and deeds of daring a love theme centralized in two brave boys and a girl of rare sweetness and loveliness. Until you have seen Charles Farrell, Charles Emmett Mack and Mary Astor in this usual triumvirate of screen sentiment you will not appreciate how marvelously the drama of the human heart can be portrayed under circumstances that wrench and tear one's soul. It would be despoiling romance itself to divulge which one wins the girl.

The charge of the uniformed individualists, rangers and pampered society dandies, up San Juan Hill, is something never to be forgotten. It is breathless. It is the epitome of valor and adventure. It is an inspiring lesson in patriotism and manhood.

There is humor bound up bodily with this magnificent story, and to Noah Beery and George Bancroft goes much of the credit for characterizations of strength and fun that are finely native and genuine. Fred Kohler, the hard-boiled top-sergeant, gives an able performance. Frank Hopper as Roosevelt is a revelation. Col. Fred Lindsay as Leonard Wood is every inch the soldier and a gentleman.

The picture is truly a new page in motion picture achievement.

Judging from the crowd at the Broadway we know Norwich will love the picture.

Real Estate Sold

Norwich Land Title and Ins. Co. sold house at 119 Lafayette street. A modern house with all the latest improvements with a large lot and one car garage to Mrs. Ruth M. Wolfe of New London. She is moving to Norwich and going to make her permanent home here.

Also through the same office Mrs. Eva Teft sold her handsome building lot to Henry G. Montie who is going to build a new house with all improvements.

Air-line passengers between Berlin and Moscow can now make the journey in approximately 15 hours including the time required for landing at intermediary stations.

POETRY

Gifts

They came as guests to His banquet-hall,
Glad pilgrims from everywhere,
And they cast at His feet from their laden arms
Gifts precious and costly and rare.

And one gave jewels, and one gave gold
And many an intricate weave
Of silken threads or gossamer stuff
They vied with each to leave.

One said, "A tenth of my wealth I give!"
And one, "I have brought my ring!"
And another, "I gave much precious time
That was more to me than things."

But one stood by from the rest apart,
And her hands were empty hands,
And the King said, "Why have you come with these
Who gave at their Lord's commands?"

"Alas, I have neither of silver nor gold
And my time is not my own;
My hands are empty, but all I ask
Is to see my King on His throne."

And the King looked out at the eager throng
And He called, "Oh, come and see!
Has anyone aught to say for her
Who brought no gift to Me?"

And all that throng spoke up with joy,
"Oh King, she has helped us all!
She gave of her love and her thoughts of cheer,
She has never denied our call.

Her quiet words have smoothed the way
And given us back our best;
We have striven ahead for the things she said
And have gone on our star-high quest."

And the King took her hands in His wonderful hands,
And He said, "I know, my dear,
You have given to Me far more, you see,
Than the wealth that the world lay here."

Beautiful Dreamer

"Beautiful dreamer, awake unto me,
Starlight and dewdrops are waiting for thee;
Sounds of the rude world heard in the day,
Lull'd by the moonlight, have all pass'd away.
Beautiful dreamer, queen of my song,
List while I woo thee with soft melody;
Gone are the cares of life's busy throng,
Beautiful dreamer, awake unto me.

"Beautiful dreamer, out of the sea,
Mermaids are chanting the wild lorlie;
Over the streamlet vapors are born,
Waiting to fade at the bright coming morn.
Beautiful dreamer, beam on my heart,
E'en as the morn on the streamlet and sea;
Then will all clouds of sorrow depart,
Beautiful dreamer, awake unto me."

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Father—The man who marries my daughter will get a prize.
Ardent Suitor—May I see it, please?—Washington Star.

Gladys—May's fiance is supposed to be a dreadfully bad egg.
Gertrude—I wondered why she didn't like to drop him. — The Progressive Grocer.

Edna—My husband just ran off with another woman. Oh, I just c-c-can't control myself!
Madge—You mustn't tre dearie. You'll feel better after a good laugh.—Life.

Lady—Aren't you the same man I gave a piece of cake to last week?
Tramp (sadly)—No ma'am, I'm not. And what's more, the doctor says I never will be.—Ideas.

Mrs. Rich (to new chauffeur)—Do you know how to run a lawn-mower?
Chauffeur—No, ma'am, I don't. My experience has been limited to motor cars, airplanes and submarines.—Boston Transcript.

She—Why don't you propose to Miss Bullion?
He—I haven't the face to ask her.
She—True! I never thought of that.—Exchange.

Guide—This, sir, is the Leaning Tower of Pisa.
American tourist—Pisa? Let me think. No, that doesn't sound like the name of the contractor who built my garage but it looks like his work!—Detroit News.

Jackson and Johnson are not now on speaking terms. It arose as the result of an argument which required some mental calculation.

"I tell you," said Jackson, "that you are altogether wrong in your conclusions."

"Pardon me, but I am not," replied Johnson.

"Didn't I go to school, stupid?" almost roared his opponent.

"Yes," was the calm reply, "and you came back stupid."—Weekly Scotsman.

STOP
You May Be This Man
The man we want would like an opportunity to express himself in a greater way in salesmanship. He has responsibilities and may need at the start some financial backing, together with careful and sympathetic training. He wants a connection with an old, established, nationally advertised company where he can cash in on good, well long established. Above all he wants to connect with a growing business where the service he renders will always benefit his clientele. The business is life insurance plus. The Company is one of the few in America insisting upon full-time representation. Our process of selection is of such a nature that the man finally chosen is one out of every twenty originally considered. Ever modern progressive method of help is provided including an advanced lead system. If your letter leads us to believe that a personal conference will be mutually beneficial, an appointment will be arranged. Address: Clayton W. Welles, 49 Pearl Street, Hartford, Conn. Sep26

NOANK

Boy Scouts troop No. 13 are having a membership drive through the village. Every day the scouts' band plays in front of their rooms on Main street; then speeches are made to tell what good the scouts are doing and what scouting means to the young boys. A prize is given the team that gets the most members. Team 1 is in the lead over Team 2 by getting five members to their four. An open meeting will be held next week and the scouts will show how to build a fire without matches, tying knots, etc. The scouts' motto is Join the Boy Scouts and watch the roll membership go up. It is the first year for the troop in the village. Scoutmaster Clifford Phelps has built up a fine troop and gives them regular army training, such as he got in the National Guard.

Boat Alice N., with Capt. William at the wheel came from the fishing ground around Block Island and tied up at Olson's dock with 17 barrels of bull-eye mackerel, which are bringing a good price in New York. They were taken by truck to the big city. Mate Clayton Chappell said when the cool weather starts that the striped mackeral will be around the shores of Block Island that is, if the blue fish don't drive them back to the south, for they like to chase them.

William Crowell attended the fair in Springfield Friday.

E. Shaw has returned from a visit in East Springfield, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Monore of Providence were visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Fitch over the week end.

Hunt Russell has closed his cottage at Camp Columbia in the village and returned to his home in Alexandria, Va.

George Devoe was working at Bracci boat shop Friday afternoon and ran across a hornets nest, loaded with 500 yellow jackets. He started to burn them out but in some way they put chase after him and made Young Deveau run for a place to hide. One of the hornets got him on the right eye and turned it blue and it is swollen. He could not see out of it. He will be laid up for a few days.

It was reported in the village Friday that an airplane flying from Boston to New York was passing over Collinswood and had to land in an open lot running out of gas. It made a goo dlanding. Two men were in the plane. The man at the wheel had to walk a mile and a half to a gas station and told his story. He thought he had enough gas to make New York but found out his mistake and never will let it happen again. His name was William Morse. His mate was Earl Sanders. In all his years of flying this is the first time he was forced down. Only a few people saw the plane for the houses are half a mile apart around there. Jerry Wall who lives near, was the first to arrive to see if everything was O. K. and no one hurt. He told the story to a group of men at the corner store and the reporter was there while he told it. No name was on the plane, only a white cross with letters B. M. in the middle of the cross. The pilot thanked the people for helping him and soon was in the air again, waving good bye, bound for New York.

Miss Madeline Spink is spending a week's vacation at her home in the village from a savings bank in New York.

E. Sherman spent a day last week at Spring Hill.

A. C. Fitch was opening a box of paint at Rogers' hardware store recently. His left hand slipped and he ran a nail into the palm. Raymond Coon gave him first aid so no poison could get into the cut.

Mrs. Martha Tryon is visiting relatives in Burlington, Penn., for a few days.

Mrs. Howard Bentley after spending a month at Groton Long Point, has returned to Boston.

Harold Fox, a local truckman is a surgical patient in the Lawrence hospital, New London, for an operation for acute appendicitis. His place is taken by Edgar Kiersted of New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cole of Millis, Mass., spent the week end in the village.

George White was in Deep River recently.

Mrs. Clifford Phelps recently spent the day in Hartford.

The new windows for the store on East Main street for Abate Bros., are being put in. It makes the street show up good and looks like Fifth avenue.

Charles Olson has returned from a short visit at Montauk, L. I., with friends.

Jack Smith left Friday for Cambridge, Mass., to enter Harvard university.

from two to three years.

Included in the retinue that accompanied King Fuad of Egypt on his recent tour of Europe were a food taster, and a chemist to analyze all food served at his table.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY BUSINESS REVIEW

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—(F)—Although a picking up was recorded by some lines of trade, the marked expansion of general business widely predicted for September again failed to materialize last week. Nevertheless, disappointing surveys of the commercial situation created no widespread pessimism, most commentators preferring to believe that the acceleration of autumn business had only been delayed.

Such a view was taken by the steel industry, which went through a week of lessening activity instead of the expected forging ahead. It was believed in the trade, however, that growing demand for steel products was just around the corner. The automotive industry was watched hopefully in the belief that settlement of the uncertainty created by the prospect of new models would result in a rush of buying, and imminent orders for railroad steel were cited as pointing to an increase in operations in the near future. Steel prices were little above the year's low level.

Loadings of revenue freight in the first week of the month were reported well below last year's figures, and below the million car mark for the first time in a month or more. Disappointment over this relatively poor showing was somewhat relieved, however, by consideration of the fact that observance of Labor Day cut short the activity of that week.

Motor car production and sales continued to sag. The output of automobiles in August, while gaining a little over the previous month, was well below last year's figures, and the failure of a leading maker to bring his new model into the market continued to create some disappointment. The rubber industry showed some improvement.

Retail trade, after having been retarded by unseasonable weather, again fell into its early autumn stride, and predictions were general that a good season was ahead. The seasonal movement of coal began during the week, but prices showed little improvement.

Credit conditions remained virtually unchanged. Some cautionary expressions were made here and there, particularly by John J. Mitchell, Chicago banker, who warned that a stiffening of rates was not impossible, but the consensus appeared to be that there were few signs to indicate any hastening of the end of the easy money period.

Bank clearings in the leading financial centers were well above those of the week before, and about 20 per cent ahead of the figures in the corresponding period of 1926. The petroleum trade again looked with satisfaction on declining crude oil production, although there were few expressions of misgiving lest trouble arise in some of the new fields in the Texas area. Crude oil and gasoline prices remained relatively unchanged.

The lumber industry presented a healthy aspect, with production, particularly in the soft-wood division, comparing well with last year. Furniture manufacturers were active in the lumber market, although the furniture trade was reported as somewhat irregular.

Cotton picking and ginning was in progress throughout the belt, and the census report of ginnings to September 16 showed tonnage considerably greater than had been expected. This resulted in stiffening of cotton prices around the middle of the week, but the trend on the whole was decidedly irregular. Other crops were being marketed rapidly. Wheat prices weakened because of reports of heavy yields. A setback in the corn crop due to excessively hot weather in the prairie states caused a stiffening in the quotations for that grain.

TWO-THIRDS OF PEOPLE ON LIST FAIL TO BE MADE NEW VOTERS HERE

Only 264, about one-third of the 784 who had their names on the to-be-made list for the town of Norwich, completed the necessary requirement to become voters qualified to cast ballots in the town election in October. Two days, of which the final day was Saturday, were given over to the work of making new voters and when the work had been completed Saturday it was found that there were 156 men and 108 women who had been made voters. These will be added to the last perfected list made up by the registrars of voters in the fall of 1926. There were 401 men and 383 women on the list of to-be-mades.

For the benefit of the new voters and all others the voting machines will be demonstrated in the town hall Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week from 1 to 9 p. m.

The board of selectmen, William S. Murray, Charles P. Bushnell, and Patrick T. Connell, Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook and Registrars of Voters Tyler D. Guy and Cornelius J. Downes comprised the body that was passed on the qualifications of the names of the to-be-mades.

The following table shows the number made in the different voting districts of the town this year and in 1925, a similar year:

	1925		1927

STOECKEL ADVISES REAR REFLECTORS FOR TRUCKS

The suggestion that devices be attached to the rear of large commercial motor vehicles to reflect the headlights of other cars, and thus aid in reducing the number of rear-end collisions, is made in a statement by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel which proposes cooperation of owners.

An increasing number of accidents because of poor or obscured tail-lights has focused attention on the inadequacy of rear lighting signals on some types of large trucks and the reflector is pointed out for considering as an added safety factor. Recent improvement in reflector signals, the frequency with which tail-lights go out and the need for better protection against rear-end collisions at night are stressed by the commissioner.

"Reflectors now marketed, or which will be", says Mr. Stoeckel are apparently being made in various colors of glass. Neither yellow or red would under existing practice provide a sufficient warning for everyone. A law compelling the use of reflectors would if adopted almost certainly, provide for a standard size.

"Under the present law the reflector can not be used as a substitute for the tail-light. The tail-light is required by law, and can not be abolished if a reflector is put on, but the reflector would be an added safety factor which seems to be called for by the conditions, and which at the present can not be required by law.

STERLING METHODIST CHURCH ENJOYED GOODWILL SUPPER

The Methodist church at Sterling was the scene of a large, happy and enthusiastic gathering on last Friday evening. The spacious rooms of the parsonage were partially cleared and tables were set up for a goodwill supper at which many scores of people partook of a hearty banquet served by the ladies of the church and community.

Later the crowd adjourned to the church where a packed house listened to a fine entertainment. The headliners in this evening of pleasure were Chief Occum (Lemuel Fielding) and Princess Tocawomis (Mrs. Reed). They gave musical and dramatic selections and the chief told Indian legends and stories. They appeared in their gorgeous Indian costumes.

Rev. Frank B. Adams, the veteran minister, who is pastor at Sterling, moved among his old friends and neighbors dispensing cheer and exchanging friendly greetings. A carload of men from Everyman's Bible class of Trinity Methodist church of Norwich assisted by musical contributions to the evening's entertainment.

WIDER AGE LIMIT FOR JUNIOR COMMERCE CHAMBER

With regard to the one day congress to be held today by the Norwich chamber of commerce the statement is made that an error in a previous announcement has been made with respect to the mass meeting for the Junior chamber of commerce consideration at the Y. M. C. A. at four o'clock.

The age limit has been stated as including young men between the ages of 17 and 21. According to advice received from the United States Junior chamber of commerce, this should read 17 to 35 years.

GIFT OF 4,000 HYMN CARDS FOR ST. PATRICK'S PEOPLE

St. Patrick's church plant—church, school, convent and rectory—valued at over half a million dollars, was consecrated on the 24th of September, in 1911, being solemnly devoted to the service of God entirely freed from debt. Noting the sixteenth anniversary of this formal consecration Sunday, there were distributed to the large congregations at the four masses 4,000 cards containing the hymn, "St Patrick, for You and for God", recently adopted as the parish hymn by the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr Michael Henry May. The words of this hymn were written in honor of Monsignor May by Rev. Francis P. Donnelly, S. J. and are set to a beautiful Irish melody, "Silavnamon." The cards were given with the compliments of The Norwich Morning Bulletin. They were distributed by the ushers durnig the offertory at the four masses.

The setting is melodious and dignified, has the appeal and sweetness which characterize all Irish ecclesiastical music, making a profound impression upon a congregation. To familiarize the people with the words, which are in keeping with the dignified yet easily flowing ecclesiastical melody, the management of The Bulletin made the generous gift as a surprise to and in compliment to Monsignor May and his assistant pastors, also to its great number of Catholic readers and advertisers.

At the masses at 9 and 10:30, Organist Henry J. LaFontaine had the hymn sung by the choirs.

The novena, or nine days' devotion in honor of St. Therese, "The Little Flower of Jesus" continues to attract large congregations to St. Patrick's for the morning masses at 7 and 8 o'clock, also for the evening devotions. Saturday evening Rev. John J. Reilly led in the recitation of the Rosary, also gave benediction. The missionary preacher, Rev. Father Fidelis Cummings, from Pittsburgh, continued his sermon on those qualities which within two years have made the name of Saint Therese known around the world, although her choice was a life of obscurity, poverty, devotion. The little French Sister, one of a family of nine children, had none of the faults of pride, or self-sufficiency, trusting not in herself, but putting her trust in the love of God for men. "Her little way" of laboring to win souls for God, so that even Heaven could not satisfy her heart while there were sinners and those in sorrow upon earth, was cited as the outstanding secret of her appeal to the erring and the discouraged.

The first fruits of the missionary Father's labors were apparent Sunday, when at the early mass at 7:30 the great number at communion was headed by the members of the Holy Name society, Patrick M. Coleman president. Rev. Father Reilly assisted the mission Father in giving communion. At the mass for the Italian Catholics at 8:15, also at the children's mass at 9, the number receiving the Eucharist was very great.

The organist and volunteer choir generously give their services for the extra hours of the novena, a fact appreciated by the rector and the congregation.

ARRESTED AFTER COLLISION WITH TWO OTHER CARS

After the Star car he was driving collided with two machines near Taft's station early Saturday evening, Ralph Nelson, 32, of Norwich Town, was arrested at Franklin square by Officer Hugh McAvoy and booked at police headquarters, on three charges, driving while under the influence of liquor, operating without a license and evading responsibility. Nelson's machine hit a Ford coupe and driven by Edward Trevena of No. 344 South Main street, Putnam and then hit a Nash touring car owned and driven by Thomas Bruno of No. 67 Occum street. Nelson did not stop. Mr. Trevena notified police headquarters and Nelson was stopped at Franklin square. He will be presented in the city court this (Monday) morning.

The damage to the Ford amounted to about $20 and left side of the Nash was badly damaged.

RETURNING TO ENGLAND AFTER PLAINFIELD VISIT

Mrs. Alf. Bradshaw of Stafford, England, bade farewell to Plainfield on Friday night, after a six months' visit with her mother, Mrs. L. B. Rhodes. Mrs. Bradshaw has spent several weeks in New York, visiting all the places of interest and principal beaches. A farewell party was given by Mrs. Harry Oates, her sister. Mrs. Bradshaw sailed for England Saturday morning on the S. S. Cedric.

Woman's Shoulder Injured

Early Saturday evening a Chevrolet coach driven by Everett N. Brown of this city hit Mrs. George Taylor near the city line in Thamesville. Mrs Taylor's right shoulder was injured.

COMPLAINTS OVER TAKING TRAINS FROM SCHEDULE

Complaints are being received hourly from concerns and communities between Norwich and Worcester regarding the proposal of the New Haven railroad company to eliminate trains No. 705 and 708 from the schedule. As this action materially affects both the transportation and postal facilities of this city and many other communities along the line between Norwich and Worcester, the chamber of commerce believes that united action should be taken in protesting the whole situation before the officials of the railroad company.

Accordingly, an invitation has been extended to representatives of several communities along this line and to local concerns who are interested, to attend a conference in the Norwich chamber of commrece rooms on Friday, Sept. 30, at 10 a. m. The chamber wants citizens of Norwich who are opposed to the action of the New Haven railroad in eliminating these trains to call the chamber office and register their protests.

COMPLETING ORGANIZATION FOR EXPANSION CAMPAIGN

The Norwich chamber of commerce expansion campaign organization is 87 1-2 per cent completed, according to an announcement made from campaign headquarters. Out of a total of 45 men needed to complete the enlistments, 39 have been secured. Col. Ernest O. Rodier's diivsion known as the Air Squadron was the frist to go over the top with a 100 per cent unit, all teams being cmopleted.

Admiral Herbert B. Cary of the Sea Fleet nees only one man to complete his unit. The master list of members and prospects is completed and the campaign officials are urging all the workers to call at headquarters as soon as possible and make out their requisitions for names to work on. Out of 45 requisitions 23 are now in and have been filed in the order of their receipt.

New London Girl Wins

Miss Alice Moran of New London is the winner of the state scholarship contest for the National Catholic School of Social Service, it was announced at the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, Hartford. The course is two years and Miss Moran, who held the scholarship last year, will complete the course this year.

Miss Mayo Recovering

Miss Celina Mayo, daughter of Mrs. Katherine C. Mayo, of The Huntington, Broadway, was able to return home Saturay from Backus hospital. Miss Mayo had been a patient at the hospital for two weeks, following an operation for appenicitis.

Sang at Fairgrounds Pavilion

Betty Selwyn, a popular little radio singer in New York city, is at her former home in this city for the Jewish holidays. Saturday night she made a hit by singing with D'Atri's Wauregan hotel orchestra in the dancing pavilion at the fairgrounds. During the past week she attended the radio convention in New York, meeting some of the most notable people of the radio world.

On Bestiality Charge

William Rogers of Medford, Mass., a farmhand, was arrested in Preston Sunday morning by Constable Hill and was brought to Norwich poice headquarters to be locked up. He is charged with bestiality with a horse and is to be tried before a justice of the peace in Preston.

Automobile Stolen

The Norwich police were notified on Sunday night that an Overland roadster, 1922 model, registration N-1320, had been stolen in New London.

THREW HIMSELF IN FRONT OF AUTOMOBILES

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Arrested as a suspect early this morning at Union station an released on his promise to leave the city, a man describing himself as Charles McDonald, 30, an actor, of Lawrence, was arrested this noon after he had thrown himself in the path of a number of automobiles, the drivers of whom had avoided hitting him by swerving their cars. The man said he had decided to end his life because every one was pointing fingers at him as the man who had spent the night in jail. He is being held for examination.

FIVE MEN ESCAPED FROM BURNING BOAT

WILDWOOD, N. J., Sept. 26—(AP)—J. W. Valiant, of Baltimore, and five other men escaped in a small boat today when Valiant's cabin cruiser "Dodjewel" burned in the great channel of Grassy Sound.

A negro steward discovered the flames in the engine room. Passengers and crew took to a life boat and the Dodjewel was soon burned to the water's edge and sank.

Valiant estimated his loss at $50,000. Others in his party were Charles Carnin and George Turner, both of Baltimore, and William J. MacNullin, Philadelphia.

The craft was bound from Sea Isle City, N. J., for Annapolis.

FALL FROM COUCH FATAL TO EAST HAMPTON MAN

MIDDLETOWN Sept. 25.—(AP)—Charles Fuller, 62, of East Hampton, died at the Middlesex hospital today, from a fractured skull which he suffered last Monday when he fell off a couch at his home.

A brother who lived with him, found the man's prostrate form on the floor beside the couch when he returned home after being out for the greater part of the day. Fuller was rushed to the Middlesex hospital but failed to rally to treatment.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. Albert E. Whitten, pastor of the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church is in receipt of the following letter from S. Parks Cadman, president of the Church and Drama association, 105 East 22nd street, New York:

My dear Mr. Whitten:

Every thoughtful religious reader is aware of the great influence the drama is exerting on the attitude and ideals of his people, especially the youth of his congregational. The theatre has a rightful and necessary place in our civilization; but it must be guided and controlled, if it is not to undermine the foundation of society.

The Church and Drama association has been organized to secure concerted effort in the interest of wholesome drama on the stage and screen.

The "King of Kings" is an outstanding example of what may be accomplished when the churches are prepared to deal directly and concertedly with the motion picture industry. We want more such plays and pictures that inspire and instruct while they entertain. We can get them if we all work together.

It gives me great pleasure to invite you to join with us in this important work.

We shall undertake to send you a weekly bulletin giving information about plays and pictures worth seeing and recommending to your congregation; to supply you with information relative to religious plays and pageants suitable for use in your church, and to place the facilities of the association at your service; to make your interest and effort in the cause of wholesome drama count in association with others As the work expands, there will be added membership privileges.

The invitation is to everyone, irrespective of creed or communion. Let us work together. Help us by suggesting persons for membership.

Rev. George Reid Andrews is executive director of the association. Hon. John W. Davis, honorary president, and Alvin Krech, treasurer. The above letter was used in conjunction with the Christian Endeavor topic being discussed in the local churches this month, "What's wrong and what's right with the movies?"

All masses etc., at Norwich Town Sacred Heart church are to be on standard time, beginning Sunday morning, September 25th. The announcement was made by the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, on a recent date.

Having passed six weeks in the west, combining business with pleasure, and visiting among relatives and friends, Thomas H. Bacheler, returned Thursday morning to his home on East Town street. During his absence, Mr. Bacheler passed the time in Michigan where he formerly resided, Indiana, Illinois, much of the time at Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert E. Geer and family were callers Sundsy at the home of Mrs. Geer's mother, Mrs. L. H. Tucker of Scotland, also on Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, of Hampton.

Miss M. Bellefleur of Norwich was a caller Wednesday afternoon at the Geer home, on Scotland road.

Christian Hansen of Plain Hill road and Albert W. Lillibridge, Edelbert E. Geer and son Raymond, of Scotland road, motored Wednesday to Springfield to attend the Eastern States exposition.

Protect Your Strength

Father John's Medicine Builds HEALTH ENERGY ENDURANCE—FIGHTING FORCE.

DO not wait until you are run down before you take a body-builder. You protect your valuables against thieves; why be less careful of your health?

The Sister in charge of the Children's home in Newburyport writes: "We cheerfully endorse Father John's Medicine because in our home it has become indispensable. We use it not only for coughs and colds but also as a builder. We tell our friends that we would not be without it. We have used it with great success and find it has no equal."

Father John's Medicine has been a successful body builder for seventy years. No alcohol or harmful drugs.

EVASION OF IMMIGRATION LAWS IS MENACING NATION

Harry E. Hull, Commissioner of Immigration, Urges Congressional Action to Handle the Problem—Quotes Estimates Giving as Many as 3,000,000 Aliens Who Have Evaded the Law—Regards the Immigration Laws as a Protective Tariff on Incoming Citizens.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—Congressional action to handle the problem of thousands of aliens illegally in this country was urged tonight by Harry E. Hull, commissioner of immigration, in an address before the United German societies.

Estimated by some persons at as many as 3,000,000, aliens who have evaded the immigration laws, he said, form a constant menace to the nation. Many have been here long enough so that cannot be deported under existing laws, he said, but are without legal status as residents and ineligible for naturalization because of non-compliance with the immigration laws.

For that group the commission recommended a law legalizing as of 1924 the entry of such aliens as may register voluntarily and may be deemed desirable citizens.

Any changes in the existing immigration laws, Mr. Hull asserted, would be fatal to the economic organization of the country, which is founded upon the payment of good wages to skilled labor. Admission of cheap foreign labor, he said, would bring about demoralization of native labor. The immigration laws, he declared, are in effect a protective tariff on incoming citizens.

ASHES OF W. C. WHIFFEN SCATTERED IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, Sept. 26—(AP)—Over the highways and byways of this city where he served his last assignment have been scattered the ashes of the late Walter C. Whiffen, late Moscow correspondent of the Associated Press and for many years its representative in various world capitals.

The ceremony took place after a religious and civil service attended by the entire American colony here as well as by representatives of the Soviet foreign office, the Soviet News Agency Tass, the Soviet Press and an attache of the Japanese embassy. Mr. Whiffen once served in Tokyo.

Charles H. Smith, secretary of the Russo-American chamber of commerce and William Reswick, representing the Associated Press spoke briefly.

Then in conformance with one of the correspondent's last wishes, the ashes in a flower covered urn were taken up in an airplane by N. Kotoff, a Russian newspaper comrade and assistant. When the plane had reached a height of about 500 feet it circled the city as the ashes were strewn from it.

Many spectators saw the funeral which was the first of its kind in Moscow.

AMERICAN LEGION MEMBERS IN LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 26—(AP)—The American Legion's invasion of London began this afternoon when Thomas E. Wanamaker post of New York, descended at Victoria station.

The delegation marched past Buckingham palace and Wellington barracks with its band playing and its color bearers carrying the Stars and Stripes, Union Jack and the flag of the legion.

Twelve girl standard bearers in blue uniforms with dainty white trimmings, captured the fancy of the English crowds and won repeated salutes from the king's guard which turned out of the barracks to greet this unusual delegation of visitors from over the sea.

The band played "Annie Laurie" as the post swung under the admiralty arch in Trafalgar square. Mounted police met the post at the station and escorted it to its hotel adjoining the square.

Tomorrow, the Americans will place a wreath on the Cenotaph and on the tomb of the Unkown British Soldier in Westminster Abbey.

HAVE ABANDONED FLIGHT ATTEMPTS WITH FONCK

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 26—(AP)—Lieut. Lawrence W. Curtis, U. S. N. and Ensign Stephen Edwards, who have been associated with Capt. Rene Fonck, French war ace, in projected trans-Atlantic and other aviation ventures, announced tonight that they would return tomorrow to Washington, abandoning further flight atempts with Fonck.

Curtis and Edwards waited at the field all day for Fonck who failed to appear. They expected to attempt either a distance or altitude record flight today.

Curtis assembled his equipment in readiness to proceed to Washington and Edwards said that he would remove radio equipment belonging to the navy department from Fonck's plane, the Ville de Paris.

Both officers said that they had obtained at Fonck's insistence six-day extensions of their leaves of absence. The leaves had previously been renewed by the navy department when a trans-Atlantic flight was apparent near its beginning.

WORD FROM GERMAN AVIATOR KOENNECKE

LONDON, Sept. 26—(AP)—The absence of news here and in Berlin of the progress of Lieut. Otto Koneencke, German flier, who left Angora, Turkey, Saturday morning for Basra, has raised the fear here that the world has to face another air tragedy.

There are so many possibilities, however, in this overland journey of the plane Germania, especially over a region which is largely desert, and largely deserted or thinly populated and unprovided with the best means of communication, that the dwindling hope has not given away to despair. An ominous aspect of the complete silence is the fact that the plane was provided with a wireless outfit able to communicate on a six hundred meter wave length with ships and 900 for land stations. And yet there has been no word from the fliers since their departure.

They should have reached Basra the same evening, but inquiry at Constantinople, Basra and Bagdad showed that nothing has been heard there.

WOULD ANNUL CHARTER OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, democrat, of New York, announced tonight his determination to take his fight to secure annulment of the charter of the Anti-Saloon league of New York to the next legislature if Attorney General Ottinger fails to act on the assemblyman's request today to begin court action to this end.

COLORADO BLANKETED BY AN INCH OF SNOW

DENVER, Sept. 26—(AP)—Colorado's first snow storm of the season tonight appeared to have spent its force as the blanket of more than an inch, dropped last night and this morning, melted and the weather bureau predicted higher temperatures and clearer skies in the next 24 hours.

This state and Wyoming, however, looked for freezing temperatures during the night, with the mercury late in the day hovering close to the 32-degree mark.

While the blizzard in Colorado was not of long duration, it transformed the September picture. Parked automobiles in Denver were trimmed with white, overcoats became necessary articles of apparel and coal concerns were besieged with orders for fuel. In the mountains, where last week the changing foliage presented autumnal scenes such as delight the artist, only the coniferous trees seemed in harmony with the white surroundings.

The contrast was perhaps even greater in northeastern Wyoming. In the Newcastle region, which only Saturday had experienced one of the hottest September days on record. Four inches of snow covered the ground near Lusk, in eastern Wyoming today. No crop or stock losses were anticipated however, much of the wheat near Newcastle having been threshed and sacked. Snow also fell in Wyoming at Casper, Cheyenne, Laramie and on the Big Horn Mountains near Sheridan.

The snow area extended about fifty miles south of Denver, according to available records this city has had earlier snows only four times since 1885.

COLD WAVE MOVING TOWARD MIDDLE WEST

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 26—(AP)—A cold wave bringing snow flurries at some places and rain and frost at others moved rapidly eastward tonight from the Rocky Mountain region where winter spread a white mantle in Colorado and Wyoming last night and today.

Light snow was reported in Western Kansas and colder weather was forecast for most of the area northward and eastward to the Mississippi river.

There was a possibility of rain turning to snow in southern Kansas, the southern portions of Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota and Iowa, with near freezing temperatures in parts of Nebraska and aKnsas.

Snow fell today in the Black Hills of South Dakota, adding to the four inches deposited there over the weekend. The mercury was down to 11 degrees above zero in northwest North Dakota.

SWEDISH BOAT CAPTURED SCANDINAVIAN GOLD CUP

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 26—(AP)—May Be, Swedish boat sailed by Sven Salen, captured today's race of the series for the Scandinavian gold cup, speeding over the finish line one minute, 12 seconds ahead of the Lea, the American entry.

May Be's victory has been protested by the United States, Holland, Finland, Norway and Denmark, however, it being claimed that course, marks were set when the second stake boat was almost a mile off its course, and short of the regulation two miles.

The committee in charge of the international races had not reached a decision tonight on the protest, but unless it is sustained the May Be will become a finalist for the trophy against the Merenneito, an entry from Finland.

ADMITTED ROBBERY OF BOOTLEGGER'S CACHE

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 26—(AP)—Admission that he, with two others, broke into a garage at night and robbed a bootlegger's cache of 113 quarts of whiskey and 17 gallons of alcohol, was the novel defense which won an acquittal in superior court today for Henry J. Lynch, charged with unlawful possession of liquor.

Lynch, who is 31 and the father of five children, freely admitted possession of the liquor, but denied the truth of the state's claim that he had intended to sell it, which is an essential element of a prosecution charge. The liquor, he said, was split three ways.

ARREST OF PROMINENT SANFORD, ME., OFFICIAL

SANFORD, Maine, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Charles C. Chadbourne, street commissioner for several years until last April and since then chief of the fire department, was arrested on two capiases issued by the York county supreme court, as the result of three indictments found by he grand jury Friday, but not made public.

Two of the indictments charged forgery in five counts, while the third contained two counts charging Chadbourne with obtaining money under false pretenses by means of what purported to be orders on the Sanford town treasurer for small amounts. He was held under $4,000 bail for appearance at the present term of court.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

PARIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—The "sixth sense' and the psychic doings of "the world beyond" are to be taken under close scrutiny at the Sorbonne, France's most serious scientific seat of learning, where 45 scientists gathered today for the opening of the international congress for psychic research.

BOMBAY, India, Sept. 26—(AP)—A great "pearl rush" similar to the gold rushes of California, the Klondyke and the Gold Coast, has just taken place in Secunderabad and Hyderabad. And all for nothing. The pearls turned out to be the eggs of either an insect or reptile, very similar in appearance to pearls, but bursting on the slightest pressure.

MIGHT FORCIBLY FEED A CONVICTED MURDERER

THOMASTON, Me., Sept. 26—(AP)—Intimation that forcible feeding might become necessary should the hunger-strike of Benjamin H. Turner, convicted murder, be continued at the Maine state prison was given tonight by Warden C. A. Buker. Turner, who was brought here today to begin a life sentence for the slaying of James Hallen, refused supper tonight. He has eaten nothing since Saturday morning when he was informed that the Maine law court had rejected his appeal.

After a regular cell at the state prison had been assigned to Turner a special supper was offered him by the guards, but the prisoner would not even look at the food.

"Take it away. I don't want it," he said.

Turner appeared weak and somewhat despondent when he arrived at the prison. It was announced that a guard would be placed at his cell night and day to prevent any possible attempt at suicide. Turner will be confined to his cell for several weeks before entering upon the ordinary prison routine. During the afternoon and evening he sat on his cot holding his head in his hands, refusing to speak to his guards.

No effort was made tonight to compel him to break his hunger strike, but the warden said that forcible feeding probably would become necessary in a few days unless the prisoner consented to take food.

GREAT BRITAIN WINNER OF THE SCHNEIDER CUP

VENICE, Sept. 26. — (AP) — Great Britain administered a crushing defeat to Italy in a dual battle here this afternoon for possession of the Schneider cup, in which all existing seaplane speed records were shattered.

Flight Lieutenant S. N. Webster, piloting a super-marine Napier- S-5 machine, won the race with his teammate, Flight Lieutenant O. E. Worsley in another super-marine machine, second. The third English entry and all three Italian entires were unable to cross the finish line of the 250 kilometer (217.403 miles) course

Lieutenant Webster covered the distance in the official time of 46 minutes, 20.2 seconds. He averaged 453.-282 kilometers or 281.488 miles an hour compared with the record of 246.496 miles an hour established by Major Mario De Bernardi, of the Italian royal air force, who won the race last year.

Lieutenant Worsley also broke the previous record covering the course in 47 minutes, 46.75 seconds for an average of 439.472 kilometers or 273.-912 miles an hour. Lieutenant Webster's fastest lap was clocked at 289.-76 miles an hour.

Another speed performance was by the other British entry, Lieutenant S. N. Kinkead in a Gloster speedster who covered one of the laps on the triangular course at a speed of 465.-402 kilometers an hour, or 289.014 miles an hour.

MAYOR DUVALL NAMES WIFE CITY CONTROLLER

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 26.—(AP)—Without explanation Mayor John L. Duvall of Indianapolis, today named his wife City Controller, thus paving the way for keeping the mayoralty toga in the family should he resign or be removed from office following his conviction last week of violating the corrupt practices act.

The mayor, however, insisted that he was not going to resign. The office of city controller is the second highest position in the municipal government and Mrs. Duvall is the first woman ever to be given it in the history of Indianapolis. She automatically would become mayor in the event that office was vacated.

The city controllership was vacated earlier in the day by Claude F. Johnson, who asked that he be returned to the police department where he had served for many years, to retain his rating for pension purposes.

Mrs. Duvall, who for years was a stenographer and bookkeeper in the bank of which her husband formerly was president, said she would give her salary of $4,000 to charity.

The Duvalls have two children, Margaret Roberta, ten, and John Leslie, four, and Mrs. Duvall has taken no active interest in politics.

SHOT TO DEATH BY HIS 13 YEAR OLD STEPSON

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 26—(AP)—Charles Van Alderwelt, 39, department manager in the San Francisco office of the American Railway Express company, was shot to death by his 13-year-old stepson, Jerome Cornell, during a quarrel between Van Alderwelt and his wife at their home here today.

The boy readily admitted shooting his stepfather. His mother tried to shield him, insisting she did the shooting, but after Jerome's story was checked and corroborated by his 13-year-old stepbrother, Charles Van Alderwelt, Jr., the mother admitted her son fired the shot.

Both youths told police that Van Alderwelt was choking his wife when the stepson warned him to stop and then sent a .22 calibre bullet through the man's body. Mrs. Van Alderwelt told police her husband had atatcked her on previous occasions.

The Cornell boy was being held by the police.

OBITUARY

John P. Perkins

GREENWICH, Sept. 26—(AP)—John P. Perkins, for 46 years a resident of this place and for many years vice president of the Corn Exchange bank, of New York city, died at his home today at the age of 73. Mr. Perkins was connected with New York banks for over 35 years, retiring in 1916.

He served Christ Episcopal church as senior warden and vestryman all the years that he maintained a residence here. Mr. Perkins was born in Gilroy, Cal.

Three sons, Rev. Wooster Perkins, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Jersey City, N. J., David and George, of Greenwich and three sisters and one brother survive him.

Slayer of Two N. Y. Troopers Arrested

Wilmot Leroy Wagner Captured on a Farm Near Gaines, Pa.

EIMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 26—(AP)—Wilmot Leroy Wagner, alleged slayer of two state troopers was arrested tonight on a farm near Gaines, Pa., according to Sergeant Charles Roche, of the New York State constabulary.

Wagner was being taken to Batavia, N. Y., by two troopers in an automobile it was stated.

Wagner was working for a farmer when approached by the New York state police they said. He denied that he was Wagner, according to the sergeant, but when taken before a sister, a Mrs. Hughes, of Tioga, Pa., admitted his identity.

The capture of Wagner was made by Corporal George Southworth and Trooper Plaski of Troop A.

The troopers, who had been watching the farm, saw a man answering the description of Wagner. According to Sergeant Roche, who received a report from the troopers who made the capture, Wagner did not draw a revolver nor attempt to escape, but simply denied that he was Wilmot Leroy Wagner.

Although questioned repeatedly he declined to admit or deny the slaying of two state troopers at Caneadea, Sept. 8. He went to work at the farm Sept. 15. Wagner was taken to Belmont, county seat of Allegheny county, in which Caneadea is located. From there the party started for Batavia.

On Sept. 8 State Troopers Roy, of Dobbs Ferry, and Arnold T. Rasmussen, of Jamestown, called Wagner to the door of his home at Caneadea and served a warrant charging him with passing a worthless check.

Wagner asked permission to change his clothing before being taken to jail and his request was granted. When Wagner reached the second floor it is alleged he procured a gun and shot Trooper Rasmussen and as Roy ran into the house, intending to subdue Wagner, the latter fired a shot from the top of a stairway, killing the second officer. Wagner dashed from the house and into a clump of woods. A search was started which spread throughout this state and into pennsylvania. Several rewards had been offered for his arrest.

SEVERE ARRAIGNMENT OF THE HOUSE OF DAVID

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Sept. 26—(AP)—The entire scene underlying the motive for founding of the House of David colony by Benjamin Purnell, was based on a desire for mercenary aggrandisement and to the practice of immoral acts, Assistant Attorney General Wilbur Bruckner, charged in opening the final argument of the state's suit to dissolve the colony, here today. The state argued before Circuit Judge Louis H. Fead, who has heard the extended testimony of state and colony witnesses in the case.

The state asks complete dissolution of the colony through receivership proceedings.

"Benjamin Purnell built up a kingdom here in which he defied both the laws of God and man,' Brucker declared. He recalled testimony produced at the trial charging Purnell as a bigamist who deserted his first wife and child.

County Prosecutor George H. Bookwalter accused Benjamin of "perverting the scriptures to justify perjury." He accused defense attorneys of including in their brief alleged statements not included in the testimony of the three month trial.

TO END RECRIMINATION OVER STARTING OF WAR

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 26—(AP)—Recrimination between Germany and allies over responsibility for starting the Great war will cease immediately if M. Briand and Dr. Gustav Stresemann have their way. The two foreign ministers, meeting informally in the lobbies of the League of Nations assembly, have lengthily discussed the controversies carried on the by the German and French press over President Von Hindenburg's recent Tannenberg war guilt speech, in which he denied Germany's responsibility and declared that Germany stood ready to prove her innocence.

"Let us glorify our war heroes all we like,"—this is said to epitomize the talks between M. Briand and Dr. Stresemann. "Magnify their exploits, but do not reopen the question of who started the war in which they fell."

MAY TAX NECESSITIES TO ENFORCE PROHIBITION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. —(AP)—Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, one of the leaders of the senate "wets," said today he was considering a proposal recently made to him that the funds for a "real enforcement" of the Volstead act be raised by a special tax on all necessities to which all citizens would have to contribute.

"In order to give the law a real test a cool billion dollars could easily be used to employ the army of sleuths necessary to really police the nation," Senator Edge said. "The income, it was suggested, should be raised by a popular tax entirely apart from the ordinary revenue of government.

"If, as it is claimed by the drys, a large majority approve and indorse the law, then we must either admit enforcement is impossible or go to the furtherest extremes to bring it about. I am inclined to believe if the public paid the country would then show more real interest.

PRICE CUTTING HURT INGERSOLL WATCH CO.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Price cutting on the "Ingersoll" watch by jobbers and retailers has resulted in money losses for the Ingersoll Watch Co., of this city, it was testified today in a hearing of a complaint against the company by the federal trade commission.

The government charges illegal price maintenance by the New York company, the Ingersoll Watch Co., of Chicago, the Waterbury Clock Co., of Waterbury, Conn., and the George H. H. Ebergard Co., of San Francisco. The hearing here ended today and probably will be resumed in San Francisco in two weeks, it was announced.

Osmond M. Goge, assistant to the secretary of the New York company, said his company has lost big contracts because of price cutting here but he declared that the company never "blacklisted" price-cutting retailers and never coerced jobbers into boycotting the price cutters.

Missing Plane Was Found in Death Valley

Pilot Frank Tomick and Actress Marion Mack Safe, But in Weak Condition.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26—(AP)—Lewis Lewyn announced shortly after noon today that his wife, Marion Mack, picture actress, who left here last Wednesday in the monoplane Spirit of Hollywood, which has been missing since, had been found in Death Valley. A telephone message said she and the pilot, Frank Tomick, were safe, but in a badly weakened condition.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 26—(AP)—Frank Tomick, pilot of the airplane Spirit of Hollywoon, flew into Yermo, Cal., near the Nevada state line today, the radio station of the Western Air express was advised by its Las Vegas, Nev., station this afternoon.

ANOTHER MURDER THEORY BY MRS. LILLIENDAHL

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 26—(AP)—Atlantic county authorities said tonight that Willis Beach, Vineland poultry raiser, would be brought to the state police barracks here tomorrow to face three persons who reported that they had seen a blue sedan pull out of the underbrush near where Dr. A. Willis Lillendahl was slain on September 15.

Frank Harrold, chief of the county detectives, said the witnesses were a "reputable" merchant of Morrisville, Pa., and two other men. They had informed Chief of Police William Hudson, of Vineland, Harold stated, that about noon on the day Dr. Lillendahl was killed they had seen the sedan dash from the underbrush a short distance from where the physician's body was found and speed away in the direction of Vineland.

The driver of the car, Harrold reported the three persons as having said, appeared in great haste and had nearly collided with their automobile in passing them on the narrow road. The description of the car and its driver given by the Morrisville witnesses, the detectives asserted, corresponded "in a general way" with Beach and his new automobile.

Beach and Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, 41-year-old widow of the slain man, are under bail as material witnesses in connection with the killing. In admitting his friendship with the Lillendahls, the poultry raiser made it plain today, police said, that he did not mean there was any improper friendliness with Mrs. Lillendahl.

Mrs. Lillendahl today advanced a new theory as the slayers of her husband, who was shot to death on a lonely road four miles north of here. She told interviewers that she believed drug addicts, who had been treated by the elderly physician, might have killed him.

Previously she had told authorities that two negroes robbed her and killed Dr. Lillendahl when he came to her rescue.

A gang of laborers continued to clear the dense underbrush for several hundred yards about the scene of the crime and across the road in search of the gun with which Dr. Lillendahl was killed, while R. D. Rightmyer, an engineer of Atlantic City, began a survey of the scene.

GIRL TELLS INFATUATION IN MURDER TESTIMONY

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 26—(AP)—Mary Cwickla of Suffield, Conn., this afternoon testified that her love for Leo Nolin of South Groveland was such that she would go anywhere with him. Nolin and Herman A. Reed of Waterbury, Conn., are on trial for the murder of William H. Griffin in his Haverhill store last March, while the 18 year old girl is charged as an accessory.

Taking up her story from the point where she had declared that Nolin had run from the store with the statement he had shot Griffin because he had been refused money, Miss Cwickla testified that the three started for Canada but were blocked by a heavy snowstorm encountered at Lewiston, Maine. They stayed in that city for several days before returning to Hartford.

Under cross-examination she said that she had seven brothers and two sisters and that her parents live in Suffield. She will be further cross-examined tomorrow.

The trial was delayed this morning when the girl broke down as she recounted how Nolin had told her before entering the Griffin store, "Just one more stick-up and we're all set."

ARMED MEN GOT $85,000 PAYROLL IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Two armed men today seized the city water bureau's payroll of $85,000 in cash, kidnapped its one-armed guard and escaped.

The robbers were disguised only with eye-shades and carried rubber balls and school book straps to gag and bind their victims. The holdup occurred a short distance inside a 75-foot stretch of plate glass windows in front of which hundreds of people were passing. The water bureau is located in the downtown district.

SEPT. INCOME TAX PAYMENTS WILL AGGREGATE $445,000,000

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Income tax payments during September will aggregate $445,000,000, it was predicted today at the treasury, sending total receipts for the quarter ending September 30 to approximately $517,-000,000.

That total is $18,000,000 less than collections during the first three months of the preceding fiscal year.

Collections to date for the three months are slightly under those for July, August and September, 1926.

TWO DEATHS IN DUEL OVER THE RIGHT OF WAY

ELLENTOWN, S. C., Sept. 26—(AP)—An argument over whose automobile had the right of way on a byroad led to the death of both participants in a duel near here yesterday.

Ray Ford Andrews, 23, farmer, and Levy Hiers, 29, lumberman, almost came to blows during a dispute over the roadway but were said to have been reconciled and to have shaken hands. The shooting occurred as each man climbed into his car and started to leave

BRIEF TELEGRAMS

The body of Edward W. Phelps, 71, of Athol, Mass., a patient at Worcester state hospital, was found hanging in a toilet room at the institution.

More than 60 persons were arrested during the week end in Windsor, Ont., by city and provincial police in raids of alleged blind-pigs and gambling dens.

Bernhard Oesterman, painter of the Swedish court, arrived in New York on a quest of Nordic types of American female beauty to be recorded on canvas.

At the annual meeting of the Windsor Historical society held in Windsor the application of Vice President Charles G. Dawes for membership was accepted.

MAGRUDER CALLED UPON TO SUBMIT HIS PLAN FOR NAVY

Secretary Wilbur Has Directed the Rear Admiral to Forward His Plan For Reorganization at the Navy as Outlined in His Recent Magazine Articles—Admiral Magruder Asserts That He Has No Such Plan.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—Secretary Wilbur announced today that he had directed Rear Admiral Magruder to submit to him his plan for reorganization of the navy as outlined in his recent magazine article which has resulted in threatened disciplinary action.

Mr. Wilbur said he hoped the admiral had some information that would be of benefit to the navy department. He declined to say whether submission of the admiral's reorganization plan would mark the end of the stir created by publication of the articles, which charged that the navy was poorly organized and extravagant.

The threat of disciplinary action developed when it was found the admiral had not submitted his manuscript to the navy department. The regulations do not stipulate that an article must be submitted before publication, and Admiral Magruder recently complied with the rule by forwarding a copy to the bureau of navigation.

Secretary Wilbur said he regretted that the article had not been submitted before publication, but added that he would overlook the fact.

ADMIRAL MAGRUDER HAS NO SUCH PLAN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26—(AP)—Rear Admiral Magruder at the Philadelphia navy yard tonight said that he had received from Washington instructions to submit immediately full details of any plan the reorganization of the navy and navy department he may have "now."

"Of course, I have no such plan," said the admiral, "and I have so informed the department."

"To make such a plan would require the expert assistance of a number of officers and the necessary clerical help over a long period."

The admiral did not desire to discuss the matter any further at this time he said.

GOVERNORS INVITED TO SESQUI-CENTENNIAL

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 26—(AP)—Governor Fisher today sent letters to the governors of Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Maryland, Massachusetts New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Caroline, Rhode Island, South Carolina, and Virginia asking their attendance at the Sesqui-Centennial celebration of the meeting of the Continental Congress in York. These states, together with Pensylvania, formed the thirteen original states.

The governors are asked to be present on October 15, which has been designated as Civic day and is the second of the three day celebration. The letter, which follows was sent with the formal invitation forwarded by the York committee:

"The citizens of York, Pennsylvania, have arranged to celebrate the meeting of the Continental Congress in that city for the nine months from September 30, 1777 to June 28, 1778, during which time General Howe's army occupied Philadelphia. The legislature of Pennsylvania has set its approval on this event by making an appropriation and providing for representation and participation by our state.

"The committees in charge have requested me to invite the governors of the other twelve of the original thirteen states for October 14th, on which day there will be a splendid pageant representative of the life and historic occurrences of one hundred and fifty years ago. Those far off days recall the most critical period of the struggle for independence. This celebration, therefore, is of national interest.

"To the formal invitation from the committee which I have the honor to enclose, may I add my own personal urgency. The glorious contribution of your state to the success of the revolutionary struggle will make your presenceas the chief executive of your commonwealth, especially significant."

$1,775,000 DAMAGE SUITS FROM SINKING OF S-51

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—Damage suits totalling $1,775,000 were filed against the government in United States district court in Brooklyn today by widows and dependents of the 28 of the officers and crew of the submarine S-51, which was rammed and sunk by the steamer City of Rome, off Block Island, on Sept. 25, 1925.

Both the S-51 and the City of Rome were found at fault for the collision by the Boston board of inspectors of the United States steamship inspection service, at a hearing concluded on Sept. 4, 1926.

The crash, which cost the lives of 33 men of the submarine crew, resulted in the indictment on July 14 last of Captain John H. Diehl, who was in command of the City of Rome when it rammed the submarine. The federal grand jury in Boston charged Diehl with misconduct, negligence, and inattention to his duties on the vessel.

Action brought against the government today charges that naval officials were aware that the S-51 was not seaworthy when it started its ill-fated cruise.

MANY LIVES LOST IN FLOOD IN AUSTRIA

BREGENZ, Austria, Sept. 26—(AP)—A pitious cry for help has gone forth from Lichtenstein, a little principality brodering on Switzerland,to the Swiss government, for the river Rhine has burst the great common dam, 300 yards wide, and flodos are sweeping over the entire country. Many lives have been lost and the entire populace is threatened.

In the afternoon they visited the Stagileno cemetery, where they placed wreaths on the graves of Italians killed in the war. A particular attraction to the Americans was the Lido D'Albaro, a noted pleasure resort.

At the gathering at the municipal palace, representatives of various patriotic associations and the Italian Legion greeted the visitors. Italian dignitaries offered salutions in words of welcome, and National Commander Savage, in reply, expressed the thanks of the Legionnaires and exalted the bravery of the Italian soldier swho had attained victoryand glory in the great war.

KLAN TO CONTEST A AN OUSTER ORDER

TOPEKA, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Ku Klux Klan filed application in federal district court here today for an injunction restraining Governor Paulen and William A. Smith, attorney general, from enforcing the ouster order which the state obtained against the klan several years ago. This order was affirmed by the United States supreme court.

"While there was no pressing necessity for the filing of this suit at this time," said a statement issued by John S. Dean, attorney for the klan, "as no effort is now being made by the state to enforce the judgment of ouster, nevertheless the head officers of the klan organization, desiring to be relieved from any criticism upon the ground that they were not respecting the judgment of our supreme court, insisted that the question of the validity of the former judgment be formally and finally determined.

PROTEST ENROLLMENT OF NEGRO STUDENTS

GARY, Ind., Sept. 26—(AP)—The entire football squad and 600 other students of Emerson high school, one of the largest in the state, declared a walkout today in protest to the enrollment of 24 negro students in their classes. The students formed a protest parade and marched upon the downtown business section and police efforts to break up the demonstration failed until late afternoon.

Miss Helen Stupardson of Hartford spent the week end with Mrs. W. A. Macdonald.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Griswold and son Arthur and Mrs. Adelaide Griswold motored to Plymouth, Mass., Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Wheeler, Winifred, Jack and Doris Wheeler motored to Deep River Sunday.

Mrs. May Judd is visiting Boston relatives.

Mrs. Elliott Peabody has returned to Mrs. Seth Williams' after spending a week with Mrs. Addison Schofields.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cady of Hartford spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy Old Mystic.

the nominal fine of $25 and costs. Settlement with the railroad company will be satisfactory.

Frederick H. Warren of Norwich, paid a fine of $10 and costs for failure to grant the right of way in a recent accident in Voluntown, when Miss Lucy Culver was injured.

Further town court records of an earlier date tell of Rudolph Carlson being sent to jail because of his inability to raise $125 fine and costs of $27.94. Carlson's automobile, Sunday, Sept. 18th, struck Benjamin M. Burdick in the state road near the residence of F. S. Gilbert. Carlson didn't hold up to see how badly the man was injured. He was later overhauled near Beach pond by Officer Henry Viegarde.

The existence of an antarctic continent is still based on circumstantial evidence.

JEWETT CITY

OVERLAND MAIL INAUGURATED WITH SERVICE MONDAY NOON

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 26—At noon today the natives congregated at the post office to witness the arrival of the first overland mail. The drastic curtailment of the train schedule, was likely to seriously affect the local mail service. Foreseeing the condition of the towns in the Quinebaug valleye, where the big mills, banks and business interests, would be handicapped by the taking away of the mid-day receipts and dispatches, R. E. Bridgett, chief clerk of the railway mail service in Boston, provided for overland automobiles, which will give the service, without the postal cars which have been operated over the steam iron.

Two armed clerks were on duty, also a driver. Postmaster W. T. Crumb turned over to them all south, west and east-bound mail, while their pouches were being opened and everything left for this office from origination points up the line south of Worcester. In mid-afternoon, the northbound run, took all mail heretofore included in the regular railway dispatch.

A check up of mail possibilities as affecting Jewett City, leaves nothing to be desired in the way of incoming and outgoing service.

ANNUAL TOWN MEETING HELD AT PACHAUG

The annual town meeting was held in Pachaug Town hall Monday afternoon. The chairman was Dr. G. H. Jennings and the clerk John Welsh. It was voted to accept the report of the selectmen and other town officers. Arba Browning was appointed a member of the committee who has charge of the Daniel S. Anthony trust fund. It was voted to authorize the selectmen to borrow money for temporary use, and to pay any part of the town debt that can be paid. It was voted to grant the pay or salaries of the town officers, to be the same as last year. Also to leave the matter of repairs to the highways in the hands of the selectmen, and that the price to be paid for laborers and teams be four dollars per man and eight dollars per man that team. The meeting voted to appropriate $700 for the district nurse; and to increase the Memorial day appropriation to $150. The selectmen were authorized to purchase a truck for the town, also to accept state aid for the construction or improvement of a section or sections of roads in the town.

Mrs. Mary LaMotte, wife of John LaMotte, died in Norwich Monday. She is survived by her husband, a daughter Mrs. Joseph St. John, of Taylor Hill, and two sons John and Medos, all living in Jewett City.

HEARING IN GAREAUX CASE GOES OVER TO THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 26—Griswold town court, John T. Barry, judge, was crowded this morning when it was expected that Jerome Gareaux of Providence, would have a hearing. On the night of September 4th he was operating an automobile in North Main street, which struck Fred S. Campbell and his brother Emory Campbell, the former of Bayonne, N. J. Fred Campbell died at Backus hospital in Norwich three hours later. Emory is still a patient there. Gareaux and his wife were in town, and when the case was called by Prosecuting Attorney R. J. Dudkowski, Attorney Thomas M. Shields, representing Gareaux asked for a continuance until Thursday. This was granted by the judge, with the understanding that this was the final delay, and that on that date the case would be disposed of without fail.

Coroner J. J. Desmond meantime has found Gareaux to be criminally responsible, the latter claiming that he thought his machine had struck a depression in the state road, giving this as his reason for beating it up the line. It is generally believed that Judge Barry intends to bind the accused over to the next Jan. term of the superior court. Foreseeing such action, Attorney Shields desires to have three days for the completion of negotiations for the new bond that will then be necessary for his client. The present bond of $2,000 insures the appearance of Gareaux for the police court hearing. In event of his being held for the superior court session, automatically the first bond becomes inoperative, and the state will require a new provision.

Clarence chase was next presented as having run through and demolished the drop gates at the Main street railroad crosing Wednesday last. The prosecuting attorney in addressing the court said there was not the slightest evidence that Young Chase intended to evade the law, as he could have kept still and no one ever would have known who was guilty. Mr. Chase never touches intoxicants, and after the accident, losing his head for a few minutes he kept going, and later told the whole matter to the local police. After pleading guilty the accused was given

COLUMBIA

Venberg-Lyman Wedding

Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lyman of Columbia, their daughter Evelyn was united in marriage with Conrad Fritz Venberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm H. Venberg of Abbe St., New Britain. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Duane Wain, pastor of Columbia church, and took place under an arch of dahlias, gladioli and autumn leaves on the lawn of the Lyman residence.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Mary Lyman Smith, sister of the bride, and bridesmaid was Miss Agnes Lyman, also a sister of the bride. The best man was Albert Venberg, brother of the groom. Clayton Lyman, brother of the bride was usher.

The bride wore white georgette crepe and carried a bouquet of flesh roses. The bridesmaid wore green crepe de chine and carried yellow roses.

The gift of the bride to her attendant was a leather bag, and the gift of the groom to the best man was a sterling belt buckle.

There were 72 guests present, coming from Hartford, East Hartford, Wethersfield, Meriden, Plainville, New York, New Britain and Columbia.

Following the ceremony the bridal couple left for an automobile trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. On their return they will make their home at 184 Ashley street, Hartford. Mr. Venberg is employed by Finlays Bros. Inc., and Mrs. Venberg is an employe of the Pratt Savings bank. The bride received many handsome gifts from friends and relatives.

The night school which was started last year by Mrs. Cummings to teach reading and English to adults of foreign birth, has started again this year. Last year the school was held in the Pine street school house, this year it is to meet at the home of Mrs. Meyer Bitten, Monday and Thursday evenings. There is an enrollment of 6 for this year. Mrs. Sindar, who was one of those responsible for starting the night school, is at present in the hospital with a broken leg. Last year she was one of the most faithful in attendance, walking 3 1-4 miles each way to attend the sessions.

Friday afternoon the girls of the 8th grade in Pine street school gave a demonstration lesson in serving afternoon tea to the mothers. Mrs. Cummings, their teacher, reports that they gave a very credible performance.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Porter attended the wedding of their nephew, Herbert Porter, which took place in Hebron Saturday afternoon.

H. W. Porter, Erwin Collins and William Wolff attended the Eastern States exposition in Springfield.

Luckies First for Flavor and Goodness

Then note the verdict of 11,105* doctors

WHAT is the quality that Mario Chamlee, Florence Easton, Marie Rappold, Reinald Werrenrath, Giuseppe DeLuca, Fritzi Scheff, William Hodge, and other famous singers, actors, broadcasters and public speakers have found that makes LUCKY STRIKES delightful and of no possible injury to their voices?

For the answer we turned to medical men and asked them this question:

Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105 doctors answered this question "YES."

Consider what these figures mean; consider that they represent the opinion and experience of doctors, those whose business it is to know.

Reinald Werrenrath, Famous Baritone,
writes:

In my concert work, I must, of course, give first consideration to my voice. Naturally, I am very careful about my choice of cigarettes as I must have the blend which is kindly to my throat. I smoke Lucky Strikes, finding that they meet my most critical requirements.

DANIELSON

OVERLAND MAIL TRUCK MAKES ITS FIRST TRIP

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 26—Close to its approximate daily schedule, a southbound mail truck out of Worcester arrived here on its first trip at 10:40 this morning, establishing the new overland service, or as the postoffice officially terms it, the star route service. The truck brought a considerable number of sacks of mail and parcel post matter this morning, delivering it at the post office a bit earlier than would have been the case had it come through the railway postal service on the the train that has been taken off.

Three men were riding the truck this morning, and though new to their work had made good time all the way south, delivering and collecting mail at various offices north of here. A shipment of motion picture films was included in the first consignment of mail by this service to the Danielson office.

It was explained at the post office this morning that this truck service will give Danielson approximately as good mail deliveries as did the trains that have been taken off. The department has perfected what is known as a pouching arrangement for mail destined for redistribution at New London and at Putnam.

The truck being used is a new machine capable of high speed and can get over the highways as fast as the average accommodation train running on the local line if necessity requires so should have no great difficulty in keeping to its schedule.

Aside from The Norwich Bulletin, and New York papers, numerous daily publications have a problem now in handling their circulation in this territory. This morning a Providence paper put a truck on a run to carry papers from that city to Putnam, Danielson and Plainfield, this effort representing a plan to win circulation away from Boston papers, none of which were available here. With the exception of one Boston publication, not a copy of the daily papers of that city were available here up to early afternoon.

DRIVER OF WRECKED COACH HELD AT DANIELSON BARRACKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 26—A big motor coach of the New England Transportation company that came to grief late last night at the foot of Hampton hill, ten miles east of here, was hauled through Danielson en route to Providence for repairs this morning.

Charles L. Kettlety, Jr., operator of the big vehicle, and a resident of Providence, was being held at the state police barracks on North Main street today, and Angelo Machado of Dartmouth, Mass., near New Bedford, is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam for treatment for injuries he received in the accident. The coach went off the highway on the curve at the foot of dangerous Hampton hill and plowed into an embankment, piling about a dozen passengers up, but Machado was the only one of them to receive more than superficial injuries. Machado was brought here and then hurried to the hospital.

The coach left Willimantic about 10 p. m., on the last easterly run of the night. The front end of the machine was considerably battered, but there was practically no breakage of glass. State Officer James Carmody of the Danielson barracks checked up the accident.

The sacred observances incident to the Jewish New Year, Rosh Hashanah, began today at sundown by Hebrews of Danielson and vicinity at the Majestic theater, where services are being conducted by Rev. A. Globis of Providence, who has come to Danielson for a number of years for these annual services. In the Jewish calendar tonight is the eve of the year 5688. The services starting today at sundown will close with the observance of Yom Kippur, on October 6.

At various cemeteries throughout the town of Killingly 96 headstones have been delivered for erection at soldiers' graves that have been unmarked or where the old stones have crumbled or become so dilapidated as to require the placing of new ones. The new markers are of marble and bear inscriptions giving the name of the deceased, date of death and some of the military record of each of the honored dead. The stones are supplied by the state. The checkup of the cemeteries to locate all the graves that needed marking has been underway for months and has been largely accomplished by Sidney R. Bard of Brooklyn and Danielson. Nearly 30 of the new markers are to go into Westfield cemetery, while others will be placed here, in Danielson, at the Hutchins street cemetery and the Franklin street cemetery. Various other cemeteries in town also will receive some of the markers, which are to b placed by John Boiselle of the West Side.

If there be interest among those who would benefit by attending an evening school here, the fact is not being made known at the office of School Supt. W. E. Parker at the high school. A few days since announcement was made that registrations would be received from those who wished to attend an evening school. The response has not been encouraging. Registrations for the evening school must be made this week, as the intent is to begin sessions during the coming week. As was previously pointed out, the school will not be held unless the registrants are of sufficient number to warrant doing so.

This morning at St. James' church at 6 o'clock Miss Hanora Killian of Elmville became the bride of Everett Cobb of Pawtucket. Rev. James McCarthy performed the marriage ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial mass, attended by numbers of relatives and friends of the contracting couple. The bride's gown was of blue flat crepe, her hat a picture model of black satin and her bouquet of bride's roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Elizabeth McGorty, wore a gown of tan flat crepe and a brown velvet hat. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Francis McGorty of New London was best man. Following the marriage there was a reception for the members of the immediate families of the bride and groom, who left during the day for their wedding trip.

This afternoon at the church at Foster Center funeral services for Mrs. Anna M. Clapp, who was found dead at her home one day last week, were conducted by Rev. Donald B. Strout of the Rice City Baptist church. The bearers were George Nichols, Ralph Nichols, Elmer Hopkins and Walter Clough. Burial was in the Spears cemetery at Foster Center. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Dancing and an enjoyable time every Tuesday evening at Kum-Along-Inn, West Side.—Adv.

Postmaster W. Franklin Sheldon of Moosup was here today to confer with a postal official relative to star routing certain mail originating at his office via the new mail truck service now running through this territory.

A revolver that barked twice between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning in the central section of the borough was a matter of police inquiry today. No untoward happenings were reported, however.

Assistant Postmaster Earle Winslow was a visitor in Providence on Sunday.

Miss Thelma Bruce, who has been teaching at the Killingly Center school, has resigned to take a position teaching in East Providence, and was succeeded in this town this morning by a Miss Walsh of Fall River.

The injured leg of Harold Blumenthal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Blumenthal, must remain in a cast for several additional weeks. The child is at his parents' home here.

It was indicated today that Danielson will be represented, late this week, at the conference to be held in Norwich by interests of various towns and cities in regard to seeking the restoration of passenger-mail trains recently removed from the loca lline.

Nice 7-room cottage, splendid condition, all modern improvements, for sale, on Broad St. Joseph LaBelle, Tel. 78-2.—Adv.

Masons will start the foundations for the new Dowe block this week. Excavators were at work today on the cellar, which is being made larger than it was for the building recently torn down.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Westfield Congregational church is to meet in the church parlor Wednesday afternoon.

The wedding of Miss Anna Nicholson and Norman Brearley of Dayville is set for Tuesday of next week.

At Brooklyn the new concrete bridge over Blackwell's brook at Bassett's sawmill has been completed and opened for use.

By defeating the Kilowatts in Sunday's game, the Buddies won the championship of the Danielson Twilight league for the 1927 season, which finished with the Buddies, P. and A. team and Kilowatts in a triple tie. Previously the Buddies had eliminated the P. and A. team in a post-season game.

A schedule for Killingly high school's football team is being worked out while the team is being drilled by Coach William Schofield. While there are few experienced players on the squad it is a larger one than usual this year.

GURLEYVILLE

Samuel Morse has returned to his work at Storrs after recovering from severe burns.

Mr. Holman is leaving his summer home here and will live in Hartford for the winter, returning here next spring.

PUTNAM

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED AT SHORT CALENDAR SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 26—At a short calendar of the Windham county superior court here today at which Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin presided, three uncontested divorce cases were tried, two of them granted and the third one continued. Blanche D. Labonte was granted a divorce from Henry Lahonte of this city on the ground of desertion and her maiden name, Blanche D. Bernier restored to the plaintiff. They were married July 24, 1922 and he deserted on March 5, 1924. Cyra Thomas March was granted a divorce from Joseph Moncure March of Scotland, Conn. March is now in New York city where he is well known in literary circles. They were married in August 1921 and he deserted her in August 1924. She was given the right to resume her maiden name of Cyra Thomas.

Among the physicians in this vicinity who attended the clinical congress at New Haven are Dr. Marguerite J. Bullard of Putnam, Dr. R. C. Paine of Thompson, Dr. E. R. Pike of Woodstock.

On Sunday night a closed car bearing a Rhode Island license plate in making the sharp curve near the Children's home on the Providence road, the driver lost control of the car in some way and it went off the road, overturned and hit the lunch room at that point. The car was pretty badly damaged and the lunch room somewhat. The occupants of the car were not seriously hurt and returned to Providence.

John Clemens of Erie, Pa., a new student at the Pomfret school is reported as receiving the first football casualty of the season in this vicinity. He is now a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, suffering from a fracture of the left leg.

One of Putnam's well known musicians, Armand Gagne, will leave this week to take charge of the orchestra at the United Theatre at Westerly. Mr. Gagne, who played the piano and led the orchestra for several years at the Bradley theatre, went out on a strike several months ago when the management of the theatre refused to recognize the newly formed musicians' union.

The opening of the Pomfret school and the Rectory school at Pomfret brought a number of visitors to Pomfret. Among theme were Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Wing, Mrs. Marshall Geer, Mr. and Mrs. William Howard, Mrs. Grace Bowden, Mrs. George Switzer, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wood, Mrs. George Wagstaff, Mrs. H. Duval, Dr. and Mrs. S. Pool and Countess Montgelas, all of New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Campbell of Pomfret are spending this week motoring through the White Mountains.

Miss Helen Lyman of Hartford, who recently returned from a summer abroad has been the guest of Miss Stevens and Miss Boult at Brisk-to-High. Miss Lyman sails this week for India.

A. S. Brigham of the state forestry department was followed to a clearing at Union while he was returning from some of the duties connected with his duties, by two large bob cats. Mr. Brigham and a posse went back to hunt the animals but were unable to see them.

The motor driven fire truck at engine house No. 1 of the Putnam fire department has just received a thorough overhauling by a mechanic from the company from whom it was purchased and is now in better condition than for a number of years. This is the first motor driven fire apparatus purchased by the city and has been in continuous use ever since its purchase.

Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Second Congregational church was in New York city last week where he performed the wedding ceremony of Mrs. Marion Cheney Rhodebeck and Mr. Rodney G. Dennis. Mrs. Dennis is a daughter of Charles Cheney of South Manchester, Conn., and the Cheney family are long time friends of Mr. English.

The First Baptist church is preparing for over four hundred guests to attend the 102nd annual meeting of the Ashford Baptist association to be at that church today (Tuesday.) There will be sessions in the morning beginning at 10 o'clock at which time Clarence E. Pierce of Putnam will make the address of welcome to the delegates and others attending and Rev. Henry E. Hodge pastor of the church will preach the annual sermon. The ladies of the church will serve a dinner at noon in the vestry of the church.

At the afternoon session, there will be a memorial service for Mrs. Helen Manning Kent with an address by Miss Edith Mollis of India. The devotional service in the evening will be led by Rev. H. A. Calhoun of Woodstock.

The Ladies' Social circle of the Second Congregational church will meet at the church parlorson Tuesday afternoon. It is to be both a sewing and business meeting. The hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. J. J. Letters and Mrs. Genevieve Letters.

Mrs. Kendall Davis of Walnut street is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Cokell at New London.

NOANK

CARL ASHCRAFT HOLDS VILLAGE SLEEPING RECORD

Arthur DeBlaisl held the sleeping record in the village for the last two years, by sleeping 22 hours. Friday, Carl Ashcraft, a fisherman, went to bed at 9 p. m. and set the Big Ben for five o'clock the next morning, to go out fishing. He did not hear the alarm go off and slept 24 straight hours before getting up. His brother Lawrence, lost a day's fishing. Rubbing his eyes he asked his mother what time it was, and she said "It is Saturday night and you have put in 24 hours of beauty sleep!" Now he is the champion sleeper of the village. Ashcraft was mad to put in so much sleep for he was on the list of the Fire Fighters' dance for Saturday night at Unity hall, for 8:30 o'clock to do the Lindbergh Hop, which he learned in Boston, and a good crowd was on hand to see him and went home disappointed. But the next time he promises to give them their money's worth with his latest dance.

Miss Charlotte Smith, who has been a patient in Hartford hospital for several weeks, has returned to her home for a week.

Sheriff Nelson Brown was in Norwich Saturday.

The yacht Spark Plug and Yacht De. De., Capt. Walter Buddington master of Spark Plug with Capt. Elihu Rathbun in charge of the De De., made arrangements for the last race of the season from north dock to Fishers Island. Each had won a race Sunday afternoon, at the north dock a crowd of 100 gathered to cheer them on to victory, as they started. Mr. Frankie fired the revolver and the race began. The Noank Yacht club members were on both sides of the the harbor with all their boats dressed up with flags, picking the De. De. to win. Capt. Buddington was keeping his boat in the wind, while Capt. Liton was trying his luck by going on the outside with the black boat De De., and letting the wind blow into the sails. It was a pretty race to watch and at the finish line were three judges, Harold C. Brown, Raymond Rathbun, Elliott Bennett. With the goal in sight and the yacht De. De., in the rear and the Spark Plug going strong. Capt. Walter Buddington with a smile said "come on Capt Rathbun! Step on the gas!" The good ship Spark Plug won by three boat lengths, and the skipper received a silver cup inscribed "To the best yacht of 1927, given by Noank Yacht club." Capt. Rathbun said he had no excuses for the best boat had won. When Spark Plug, with Capt. Buddington tied up at the north dock, the whistles blew and the crowd gave him a great greeting.

and save work next washday

Neighbors will envy your whiter wash~

no scrubbing ~ no boiling ~ so clothes last longer

YES, just that—soaked clean! Soaked whiter and brighter than you could get them the old scrub-and-rub way!

Forget about the washboard — you don't need it. Never mind boiling, either. Rinso whitens without boiling —sterilizes, too!

Watch dirt float off

This amazing granulated soap is all you need on washday. It makes even the hardest water soft and soapy all through. The creamy suds loosen dirt and stains so they float off by themselves. The wash is left spotless and sparkling—whitest you ever saw!

No other laundry soap rinses out so quickly, so completely as Rinso. Best of all, it takes the dirt with it as it rinses. That's why it's called Rinso!

Saves hands—clothes, too

Washday hands—red and coarsened—are the result of endless washboard rubbing. But this soak-and-rinse way saves your hands.

Saves the clothes, too! No need to rub things thin against a board. The most soiled parts come clean with a gentle rub or two between the fingers.

And Rinso is so safe. Contains no acids or bleaches of any description. Economical, too—it's not fluffy chips but closely packed granulated soap.

Try soaking clothes clean this very week. Follow easy directions on package for economy and best results.

Guaranteed by the makers of Lux—Lever Bros. Co.

Ideal in washers
The makers of 30 leading machines recommend Rinso because it's so wonderful in washers. Try it just once and see!

CUTTING FEDERAL TAXES

According to Washington reports preparations are being made for a reduction in federal taxation and from all indications the administration will urge such action to the extent of about $300,000,000. That doesn't mean that there will not be efforts put forth for a much larger slice on the ground that the surplus for the last fiscal year was much greater.

Such efforts for excessive cuts will entirely ignore the fact that during the present year there will be certain sources which will not yield the revenue they did last year. That is simply because they were extras, and there is no reason to expect anything of the kind again. It is therefore only proper that such features of the surplus should be ignored and efforts for tax reduction be based upon such returns as can be anticipated this year.

Where the reduction will be made will rest with congress. There are nevertheless certain taxes which should be reduced or eliminated. One of these is the estate or inheritance tax. Senator Borah has been quoted to the effect that this is a tax which is needed because there are going to be big demands made upon the next congress and that revenue will be required to help meet the outlay. He thinks that the total outlay by the government will not be greatly changed and in addition he sees the sum of $500,000,000 needed for farm relief about $500,000,000 for Good relief and the sum of $125,000,000 for the Colorado river development at Boulder dam.

Concerning the inheritance tax the senator from Idaho admits that it is an emergency measure but he undertakes to justify its continuance on the ground that the financial outlay as pictured by him should be rated as an emergency requirement.

Opposition to the elimination of the inheritance tax developed before but if the senator's reasoning, that the money is going to be needed for congressional appropriations, is sufficient to retain an emergency tax it is difficult to see when the time will ever come for the ending of such an emergency and the elimination of the tax. It is a tax which was never intended for any such purpose.

FIGHTING OPIUM

From past experience it is no secret that progress in the fight against the drug evil must necessarily be slow. There are the best of reasons why restrictions should be placed upon narcotic drugs, why the sales should be carefully supervised and why the manufacture should be reduced. Getting compliance with such recognized benefits is not easy just because a great benefit would result to humanity. Even though such drugs freely sold mean the demoralization of humanity, there are those who are perfectly willing to aid in bringing about such a state of affairs provided their pockets are stuffed with the profits from such sales.

Efforts to bring about an international agreement for the placing of restrictions on the production of narcotics so that there will only be enough for medical and scientific purposes have received some encouragement, but because the production of such drugs is extensively done by certain countries there has been an unwillingness to force curtailment. Even the idea of having the production reduced gradually over a period of 15 years was not satisfactory. This would have permitted of the change to other production a little at a time, but the financial rather than the humanitarian appeal got first consideration.

Significance attaches, however, to the statement which was recently made at Geneva by Colonel D. S. McCormack, delegate from Persia, to the effect that Persia is now willing to accept the league plan of substituting other plants in place of the poppy in Persia. This indicates that Persia has at last come to realize the responsibility which rests upon it to fight the drug evil. This may not eliminate all the opposition that has arisen to the curtailment of habit forming drugs as urged at the last league conference on narcotics but it indicates that progress is being gradually made, and gives ground for believing that through the persistent struggle to reduce production there will eventually come an international agreement that will make possible the desired result.

THE B. & O. CENTENNIAL

It is getting so that we think nothing of referring to centennials or sesquicentennials in this country, for there are towns and churches which are celebrating their 250th and 300th anniversaries. Alongside of them a century seems a short period of time, and yet there cannot fail to be much interest in the manner in which the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is observing its centennial.

A century in the transportation business is no slight accomplishment and when the B. & O. arranges a fair which deals by way of exhibits with all forms of transportation it cannot fail to interest. The whole scheme is presented from the days of the Indians to the present time and the various vehicles are shown in the various stages of progress. This of course includes a thorough presentation of the many types of locomotives from the days of the first engine to the present day monsters.

Such an exhibition concentrates attention upon the great debt which this country owes to the railroads. Through them great development has been made possible. Civilization, it has been well said, follows the railroads and it has been carried far and wide. The railroads have followed the pioneers and they have covered the country like a network during that century which the B. & O. is now celebrating.

But as that development has been taking place other transportation methods have been coming to the front. The motor vehicle has increased by leaps and bounds and it has had its influence upon the transportation to a marked extent and just at the present time more and more attention is being given to the commercial possibilities of the flying machine.

There is much that the railroads can point to with pride during the past 100 years. There will continue to be an increasing service which they will render in the transportation activities of this country, but who will dare to predict what the situation will be at the end of another century, or by the time the century of automobile or aiplane transportation is reached?

POLITICAL CORRUPTION

There are times when political conditions get to such a stage that it becomes necessary to handle them without gloves. Combinations get control in such a way that they consider themselves all powerful and unreachable. Thus often it is the case that the condition is the result of public indifference, but that does not make it any better or justify it in the light of decency.

Such a situation has prevailed in Indiana politics for too long a period if we can judge by the successful attacks which have been made upon it and the prosecutions which have followed. It is hard to understand why there should have been such a delay in tackling the job of housecleaning which must have been crying out for attention for a long time.

Now that they are at it and now that certain convictions have been obtained it is to be expected that it will be carried through to the end for the good effect it will have upon any others who may be thinking of following in the footsteps of those who have so glaringly ignored laws and public interests.

It makes no difference what political party is in control, or to what party the officials who are engaged in political corruption belong, such a situation calls for the throwing of such light on the case as will reveal the wrong doing of the individuals and bring about the imposition of the proper penalty.

With a former governor of Indiana and the mayor of Indianapolis convicted, and another governor under indictment, it would appear that efforts were being directed at those at the top. It is a bit interesting just at this time that Indianapolis is about to enter upon the city manager plan, but it will have a chance to realize that it is not so much the system as the men selected which make for the greatest efficiency in government. With a clean sweep of the undesirable conditions, however, the setting should be all the better for the inauguration of the new form of government. Had it come before it might have done as much for the existing form.

BEFITTING THE CRIME

"Obedience," sternly declared Cynthia's father, "is not your strong point."

"I forgot," quavered Cynthia remorsefully, then added placatingly: "Anyway, when I got through playing stop-the-train I pulled up one of the rings and let down the other, just the way you had them before."

"You pulled up one ring and let down another, all right," responded Cynthia's father grimly. "The only trouble is that you pulled up the draft and let down the check, so now the fire is completely out."

"Sorry," said Cynthia, her brown eyes brimming, her usually smiling lips quivering pittfully.

Cynthia's father, who hated most terribly to see Cynthia ween, bolted cellarward, calling as he went, "Tell mother she's to punish you any way she thinks best. You remember, I absolutely forbade you to touch those rings."

Slowly Cynthia walked toward mother's room.

"Daddy says you're to punish me," announced the little girl. "You don't believe in spanks, and it wasn't a fib tale, so I won't have to get my mouth washed with soap and water, and it's bedtime now, so it won't matter if you put to me bed. What you going to do to punish me, mother?"

"I think I'd better speak to daddy," responded mother.

"All right," agreed Cynthia cheerfully. "He's down cellar building a new fire."

"That's a fine stunt," reproached Cynthia's mother in a furious whisper when she had found Cynthia's father.

"Well, I had to build a fire, didn't I?" defended the man.

"You could have waited long enough to give her a lecture or to tell her you wouldn't bring her any peppermints this Saturday, or something like that, couldn't you?" stormed Cynthia's mother. "You make me tired, always putting it up to me to be the brutal disciplinarian!"

"Ha, ha!" gasped Cynthia's father between vicious jabs at the furnace. "I can just see you being brutal with Cynthia. You'll probably tell her you won't kiss her but 16 instead of the usual 60 times tonight." Mother departed in dignified silence.

"I put her to bed without any story and told her I would punish her tomorrow," said mother when father came up from the furnace.

"Good. She's getting old enough to be more obedient," commented father.

"I know," sniffed mother. "But she does love to have me read to her and she's such a proud little thing she might have cried herself to sleep without calling me to comfort her."

"If she cried very much I would have heard her—her bed is almost over the furnace, you know," replied Cynthia's father. "And, anyway," he added, philosophically, "I read just the other day where some judge said that proper parental discipline would have prevented many a hanging."

At breakfast the following morning mother inquired, "Did you go right to sleep last night, Cynthia?"

"Oh, no," replied Cynthia, her speech slightly muffled with extra well-marmaladed toast. "Not for ever and ever so long. I wouldn't have have to sleep then, only daddy got the grates all fixed and stopped talking to himself." Cynthia's father glanced up apprehensively. Blandly, Cynthia continued:

"When he got the grates all cleared out and the new fire burning I figured he wouldn't say anything more exciting to tell Tommie Jim and the other children at kindergarten, so I went to sleep."

Turning to her mother, Cynthia said proudly:

"You know, my daddy said things I'll bet Tommie Jom's daddy never even thought of when Tommie Jim dug the garden with his daddy's golf sticks."

"Doubtless," retorted mother crisply, adding nastily, "Tommie Jim's daddy was never in the artillery, so his vocabulary could not hope to be equal to daddy's."

"What's a vocabulary?" asked Cynthia.

"Never mind about what a vocabulary is." Mother's lips tightened ominously and in her best chief-executioner tone she said, "Cynthia, you remember what mother said last night about telling you this morning what your punishment would be for disobeying daddy and playing with the check and draft? Well—you must not tell Tommie Jim or any of the other children what daddy said about the furnace grates!"

"Oh, mother," exclaimed Cynthia, aghast at such a decree. "Tommie Jim won't believe what daddy said was worser if I don't tell him what the worser words were."

"Nevertheless, you must not even mention the furnace grates to Tommie Jim," declared mother firmly.

Cynthia looked very solemn for a moment, then brightened visibly as she said:

"Well, anyway, I can tell him what daddy said about the clinkers. You didn't say I couldn't tell about the clinkers and I guess what daddy said about them will be better than nothing to tell." Transferring her gaze from mother to father, Cynthia inquired interestedly, "Did they have clinkers in the artillery, daddy?"—Exchange.

FOCAL INFECTIONS

By E. E. Morrison, M. D., Great Bend, Kan. Member Gorgas Memorial

In almost every rural community there are patches of rough, neglected ground perhaps covered by undergrowth where "varmints" make their homes and from which they issue to commit depredations upon nearby henroosts, pig pens or other parts of a well-ordered farm. Similarly, there are many and various anatomical irregularities in the human body which afford nesting places for many varieties of disease-producing germs. From these nesting places, germs travel through lymph channels or in the blood to other structures adjacent or remote and there cause an active inflammation. The anatomical part from which these germs begin their excursions is called is called a point of focal infection.

Many diseases are easily traced to some point of focal infection. Pains commonly called rheumatic, affecting muscles or joints, are usually due to such origin. The symptoms of exophthalmic goiter are often aggravated by the same cause. It has recently been demonstrated that stone in the kidney and ulcer of the stomach may be due to the same cause. That Bright's disease and valvular heart disease are often due to a focal infection has long been well known.

It is always easier to keep out of trouble than to get out when once in. It is easier to prevent arthritis, Bright's disease, or valvular heart disease than it is to cure them. Some forms of arthritis defy all attempts to cure. Chronic Bright's disease is incurable. A valvular heart lesion always remains, except in children where under good management it may disappear. Attention to possible points of focal infection may prevent the onset of a very serious disease.

The tonsils are frequent offenders. They are situated and constructed so that they offer favorable conditions for the development and permanent location of germs. They are closely related to the lymphatic system and their blood supply is abundant. Through the chain of lymph glands infection may be carried into the neck and even into the chest. Through the blood vessels infection may be carried to any part of the body.

The teeth are also frequent offenders. An abscess at the root of a tooth becomes a breeding place for germs that enter the blood stream and colonize distant parts of the body. An abscess at the root of a devitalized tooth is painless and gives no warning of its prescence. Pyorrhea is a disease that often gives rise to transplanted infections. Many persons have decayed teeth filled with putrid masses or they may have partially denuded roots covered with pus exuding from beneath the gums. How can they put their food into such a filthy mouth?

There are many other sources of focal infection. The sinuses connected with the nose, the mastoid cells, the gall bladder, the appendix, the kidneys and other organs may become focal points of infection. It often requires a careful and diligent search to find the real seat of trouble. The individual should not draw the conclusion that his tonsils should be removed or that his teeth should be extracted. His disorder may arise from some other focal point and a careful examination may be necessary to locate it.

Stories That Recall Others

Always Tardy

It was at the theater. The orchestra had just been seated. Then, as customary the leader came in.

Immediately the stillness was broken by the sound of a small girl's voice: "Mamma, that man is late again."

The Wrong Place

One day Mrs. X saw a bill collector coming and decided to hide. She stepped into a pantry out of sight of the door and let him knock and knock. Finally he gave up and went away to return another day.

The next time he called Mrs. X was ready with her payment and went to the door. Just as he was leaving the agent called back: "If you ever want to hide from me again choose some better place than the pantry. The mirror in your buffet showed me just where you were."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Caught at Last

Mischief is with anger fraught;
You're almost certain to be caught.
—Cubby the Bear.

Farmer Brown's Boy had discovered two things. He had discovered where the things which had disappeared had gone to and he had discovered who had taken them. For that matter, he had discovered three things, for he had also discovered the hiding place of Cubby, that mischievous little Bear.

"So, ho!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "This is where you are hiding, and you are the scamp who has been puzzling us so. It is high time you were caught and chained up, and that thing is going to happen right now."

Farmer Brown's Boy went back to tell Mother Brown what he had found and also to get a hammer and chisel. Then he returned and first stopped up the hole under the porch. Then he knocked off some boards of the porch floor until at last he was able to locate Cubby's hole. Of course, Cubby had heard what was going on and once had tried to get out at the end. Finding his hole stopped, he had scurried back and was sulking in the hole he had dug.

When at last Farmer Brown's Boy ripped up the boards immediately over that hole Cubby immediately tried to dodge past him and get away. But Farmer Brown's Boy was too quick for him. He caught Cubby by a hind leg and despite Cubby's struggles carried him where he could not get into mischief. Then Farmer Brown's Boy went back to investigate that hole. In it he found all the missing things—the towels, the pieces of carpet, his overalls, his coat and one or two other things that hadn't been missed. Cubby certainly had a comfortable bed in there. Farmer Brown's Boy chuckled as he pulled the various things out and shook them. Some of the things were rather worse for wear, but, despite this, Farmer Brown's Boy chuckled. He couldn't help feeling that the joke was on him. Certainly that little Bear had managed to get from one scrape into another faster than seemed possible. And certainly he had made the whole family a lot of work.

"I suppose," muttered Farmer Brown's Boy, as he nailed the boards back in place after filling up the hole. "I suppose that he'll have to go now. I guess Mother has stood all she can. I can't say I blame her for wanting to get rid of this scamp, but I sure will miss him. It is a long time since the old farm has been as lively as it has been during the last two or three days."

Having finished his job, he went over to look at Cubby. "My goodness, young fellow," said he, "you need a bath. You certainly need a bath. You may have to be set free, but when you go back to your mother you are going back clean, or it will be no fault of mine."

He promptly dived into his little house and nothing would entice him to come out

So once more Farmer Brown's Boy brought out the tub and the water, and once more Cubby got a thorough scrubbing, as he had after his coating of paste. Cubby like the water, if he could play in it his own way, but, like a lot of little boys, he didn't like being scrubbed, and he said so. But that made no difference, and when at last Farmer Brown's Boy gave him a final rub with an old towel he was once more clean. He promptly dived into his little house and nothing would entice him to come out.

Sour Stomach
"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda
Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.
For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Display windows in the Norwich stores have been inspected by many out of town as well as local people, interested in the showings of Fall apparel, millinery and accessories, in the rich, new shades and modes. Especially is the new black a source of interest.

SPRAGUE MEETING VOTES FOR $5,200 FIRE TRUCK

The annual town meeting of the town of Sprague held Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Sprague town hall voted an appropriation of $5,200 to purchase a new fire truck. The appropriation was made on recommendation of the selectmen's annual report which was submitted to the meeting. V. P. A. Quinn was chairman of the meeting which had an attendance of about 100 voters. The records of the meeting were kept by Town Clerk A. P. Cote.

The annual reports of the town officers were accepted as was the town budget as submitted. The meeting voted to appropriate $5,000 for road improvements and authorized the selectmen to make application for the town's allotment under the provisions of the state aid road fund law. The meeting authorized the board of selectmen to purchase the new fire truck. The selectmen are Charles F. Charon, Terrence J. Coughlin and Daniel Day.

FUNERAL

Mrs. William O'Neil

The funeral of Mrs. William O'Neil, formerly of this city, was held Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock from her home, No. 38 Parmelee avenue, New Haven, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. At 9 o'clock there was a solemn requiem mass at St. John's church, New Haven. The body arrived here by automobile cortege at 12.45 o'clock and burial took place in St. Mary's cemetery. Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May conducting the committal service.

The bearers were William O'Neil, Worcester, William Egan, William Kelleher and John Appleby of New Haven, Patrick Gannon of Pawtucket, R. I., and William Haggerty of this city. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Mrs. O'Neil had resided in New Haven for 16 years, previous to that time making her home in this city. Her husband died in Norwich 36 years ago. Surviving her are one son, Raymond O'Neil of Pawtucket, R. I., and three daughters, the Misses Alice, Annie and Catherine O'Neil of New Haven. Relatives and friends from Norwich, Pawtucket, New London and Worcester attended the funeral. Cummings and Ring had charge of the local arrangements for the funeral.

WEDDINGS

Sargent-Hyde

Monday morning at the rectory of St. Mary's Memorial church, William I. Sargent, son of Frank and the late Mrs. Aimee Cooper Sargent of Grant street, New London and Miss Eva Hyde, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hyde of No. 34 Division street, this city, were united in marriage by Rev. William A. Keefe. The best man was Harold Sargent, a brother of the groom, and Miss Teresa Connelly, a cousin of the bride, was the bridesmaid. The bride was charming in a gown of yellow georgette, trimmed with orchid, wore a black picture hat and carried a bouquet of gladioli and asters. The bridesmaid's gown was of pink georgette with satin faced crepe, silver trimmings. She wore a black picture hat and carried pink and white asters.

Following the wedding ceremony there was a breakfast at the Wauregan hotel for members of the immediate families. During the day Mr. and Mrs. Sargent left for a wedding tour to New York, Atlantic City, Albany and Boston. They will reside on Grant street, New London.

The bride has been employed by the J. B. Martin Co., and Mr. Sargent is a driver for the Bamby Bread Co.

Meek-Ashcroft

The marriage of Miss Bernice Ashcroft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ashcroft of 68 Ramsdell street, Groton, and Herbert C. Meek, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Meek, of 27 Gorton street, New London, took place Saturday night at 6 oclock at Seabury Memorial church at Groton. Rev. Frederick W. Haist was the officiating clergyman.

Six bridesmaids and maid of honor and flower girl were attendant upon the bride, all of whom were gowned in pastel shades which gave an ensemble of rainbow effect. The bride's costume was white satin, trimmed with rhinestones and pearls, period style. She wore a veil caught with lilies of the valley, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor, Miss Louise Thompson, of Peckville, Pa., was attired in shell pink crepe and carried pink roses. The other attendants of the bride were Mrs. Frank P. Kenner, her cousin, Miss Selma Douglass, Miss Arlene Norton, Mrs. Leslie Harrison, Miss Dorothea Gamber, Miss Lucille Davis. The flower girl was Miss Alice Willard.

Fred Meek, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and the ushers were Wentworth Meek, Jr., Stanley Vaughn, Norwich, Carl Hanover, Groton, Thomas Jerome, John Lay and Edison Davis, of New London.

The decorations at the church and house were profuse and very beautiful. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony, with about 125 guests. The wedding presents were of unusual beauty and number.

The young couple left by automobile on a wedding trip of two weeks to Niagara Falls and Canada.

The bride attended Norwich Free Academy and is a member of Delta Epsilon Phi sorority. The groom graduated from Norwich Free Academy, class of 1923, and is associated with his brotrers in the Abbot Automobile Co., of New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Meek will reside with the bride's parents and will be at home after Oct. 15.

EXTENSION TO DEC. 1 FOR REMOVING GUY WIRES

Extension of time to Dec. 1 for the city gas and electric department to remove the guy wires over the Bailey property on Burnham square was granted by an order signed by Judge C. M. Waller after a hearing Saturday morning in the common pleas court. These are the wires which George E. Pitcher threatened to cut, causing the department to take the precaution to protect the pole from falling by supporting it by several heavy props.

In testimony given by General Manager C. W. Taggart, he stated the foundations for steel towers, to which the wires from the pole are to be shifted, have already been placed, but it will take three weeks more to build the steel towers and three weeks beyond that time to shift the wires.

Nicola C. Pierce, superintendent of the electrical distribution of the local plant, and Robert B. Mather, one of its engineers, both testified to the effect, that plans for the removal of the guy wires over the Bailey block were taken up immediately after the hearing in February, when the order for their removal was issued.

Testimony was given that there had been delay because it was necessary to secure permission from the war department to run the wires across the Shetucket river and also to arrange with a Pittsburgh company for specially designed towers.

MRS. TRACY FARNUM'S SON TO WED NEW YORK GIRL

Mrs. Cornelius Garrison of 114 East Seventy-first street, New York, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Angeline Garrison, to Joseph Earl Sheffield, son of Mrs. Tracy Farnum of New London, and the late George Sheffield. Mr. Sheffield is kin of the late Joseph E. Sheffield, founder of Sheffield Scientific school, Yale university.

No date has been set for the wedding.

SPEAKER GIVES THREE POINTS FOR CITY TO MAKE ADVANCEMENT

Improve Unfavorable Conditions, Overcome Handicaps, Capitalize Advantages Says Campbell Scott.

Campbell Scott, president of the Technical Advisory corporation of New York city, was the speaker Monday evening at the dinner at 6:30 at the Wauregan hotel which closed the One Day congress under the auspices of the chamber of commerce. Mr. Scott held the close attention of the 75 men and women present as he spoke upon "Development of Trade and Industry," telling his audience that there were three things that any community could do towards improving its condition, viz: Improve unfavorable conditions, overcome its handicaps and capitaline its advantages.

Dr. H. B. Campbell presided at the dinner meeting, which was opened by Rev. D. A. Pitt asking the divine blessing. During the dinner hour Swahn's orchestra played and Earl Taggart was song leader.

Guests of the evening who were presented to the gathering by Chairman Campbell were Earl W. Stamm, president, and George Garipey, secretary of the New London chamber of commerce, Mayor Milo R. Waters and Secretary of State Ernest E. Rogers of New London.

Mr. Rogers spoke briefly, bringing the greeting of Governor Trumbull and referring to the sound financial condition of the state at present as it has $19,291,000 bonded indebtedness with a sinking fund of $13,000,000, the accumulating interest on which will enable the state to pay off its bonds before they become due.

Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber of commerce spoke of the great success of the One Day congress, in which there had been a total attendance of 480, including 150 at the salespeople's breakfast, 75 at the merchants' luncheon, 160 at the women's mass meeting and 75 at the dinner. He cordially thanked Chairman J. B. Caron who was in charge of the breakfast, Chairman Abner Schwartz who was in charge of the luncheon, and the directors of the chamber who had given the congress such loyal support.

Telegram From State Chamber

Chairman Campbell read the following telegram from Clark Belden, executive vice president of the Connecticut chamber of commerce:

Hartford, Sept. 26, 1927

James L. Case,
President Norwich Chamber of Commerce:

Accept the congratulations of the Connecticut chamber of commerce on the splendid interest which Norwich is taking in its chamber of commerce through its one day ongress and the campaign for a larger income by which the problems of Norwich can be more effectively handled than on the former extremely modest budget. A strong chamber of commerce is an asset to any community. Today especially every New England city should have an aggressive farsighted chamber of commerce. Norwich is on the right track.

CLARK BELDEN,
Executive Vice President.

Mr. Scott Speaks

In opening his address, Mr. Scott spoke of the present day craze among cities for seeking new industries and said that there are over 300 cities and towns which are advertising for new industries. Some are making their appeal on a solid foundation, some are on hot air and some have not the need or the ability to absorb new industries. If a city has justification for the attainment of its ends and has faith in itself, it can realize its hopes and ambitions, he said, but unless you have faith in your own city, you can't expect the outsider to have faith. He went on to speak of St. Louis, Atlanta, Dayton, Elmira and Roanoke, Va., as example of cities that had made tremendous advances by making an intelligent study and comprehensive study of conditions and a concerted effort towards improvement.

Incidentally he spoke of the valuable aid that a city can give to small, struggling, incipient industries, which many times develop into great importance if given a little help and encouragement.

Bear in mind, he said, that a city located like Norwich has a great natural trading territory that should have a large jobbing and wholesale trade, which is excellent business, and should be developed. It is well balanced industrially. One of its handicaps, he said, are its railroad facilities. Taxation and assessment methods have a most important bearing. It is doing a city incalculable harm by not assessing equitably. There is no reason why so much should be left to the judgment of the assessors for it is perfectly possible to arrive at a unit land value. After all it is not so much a question of the tax rate. It is how our money is spent, how much we get for our dollar.

"I don't think there is anything radically wrong with New England," declared Mr. Scott, "except a state of mind. It is up to you to change your mind for there is nothing fundamentally wrong with New England and especially with this part of it. Get a doctor and cure your state of mind. A city can progress just as fast as its citizens want it to do, but they must have faith and energy. Boost Norwich, but don't knock."

Salespeople's Breakfast

The congress opened Monday morning at 7:45 with the breakfast at the hotel for salespeoples. President James L. Case extended a welcome to the gathering and J. B. Caron acted as chairman, introducing Frank Stockdale of Chicago who spoke upon "How To Build Sales and Grow With Your Store." He spoke of gaining the confidence of the customer, how to handle the different types of customer and the necessity for the salesmen believing in the goods he is handing out.

Credit Bureau Address

At 11 o'clock, Edwin S. Niles of Springfield, general manager of Springfield Shopping News, spoke upon the "Activities of a Retail Credit Bureau." He explained the advantages it gives to the merchant in preventing losses through bad accounts and he strongly advised cooperation to make possible an intelligent credit system.

Much of his time was given to an open forum on the subject during which he answered many questions.

Merchants' Luncheon

Mr. Stockdale was again the speaker for the merchants' luncheon at which Abner Schwartz was chairman. Mr. Stockdale spoke upon "Present Day Competition nad How to Meet It." He mentioned the mail order business, but said this is not what it used to be. There is also the house to house canvasser but this is a limited competition. Finally there are the chain stores, while the average retailer is not making money, the chain stores are. Success, he said, is just the use of common sense, application and thought. Management is the answer to the problem of retail store operation and the first problem of management is to investigate and analyze, watch your leaks and losses. Concentrate your sales efforts through the use of windows, through advertising which is the artillery of business, through store display and through personal selling. Don't let anybody tell you you can't meet competition.

WORK PLANS SUGGESTED AT OPEN FORUM MEETING

President James L. Case and Secretary Walter H. Pilcher conducted the open forum at 4 o'clock at the Wauregan hotel at which suggestions were asked for on lines of work for the chamber.

Among the suggestions which were received and taken into consideration were the following:

Publicity on the advantages and attractions of Norwich as a summer resort section.

Opposition to any plan of the state highway department for a general straightening of the Military Highway but requesting that only the dangerous curves be straightened.

Establish camp sites for automobilists.

Develop aviation field.

Plant rambler rose bushes along all the roadsides.

Moving picture views of Norwich and vicinity to be shown at all fairs and expositions, these pictures to take in eastern Connecticut, featuring Norwich as the center.

Junior Conference Postponed

Owing to unforeseen circumstances S. R. Kemp, secretary of the United States Junior chamber of commerce, St. Louis, was unable to come to Norwich Monday to address the junior chamber meeting scheduled for 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The meeting, which was to have been held at the Y. M. C. A. building as part of the Norwich chamber of commerce one day congress, was postponed until a future date.

PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS WILL BACK SEDGWICK POST

The appearance Monday of a publishe1 appeal for public contributions to aid Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., in the expense of repairs to the Buckingham Memorial drew forth a disclaimer from a representative of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, and of Clara Barton tent, No. 7, Daughters of Veterans, that these two organizations were participating in this appeal, but it was further declared that they would be solidly behind any action that will be decided upon by a joint meeting that is to be held by committees from Sedgwick post, Sedgwick W. R. C., the Daughters of Veterans and the Sons of Veterans.

This joint committee has already met, it was stated, and is to meet again early in October to try to reach a definite decision upon the plan to be followed.

The Buckingham Memorial needs a new roof and a new outside coat of paint, all of which will probably cost about $2,500, it is believed, and the post is considering ways to finance this undertaking, which is a large one for the small membership. In this endeavor the Relief Corps, the Daughters of Veterans and Sons of Veterans stand ready to give them solid and substantial backing, it was declared.

PRESTON TOWN MEETING DISCUSSED SCHOOL TIME

The annual meeting of the voters of the town of Preston was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Preston town building with a good attendance. Appleton Main was chairman of the meeting and George V. Shedd, town clerk, kept the records of the session. The meeting voted to accept the reports of the selectmen, town treasurer, collector of taxes, town school committee and the health officer. The usual abatement of certain town taxes was voted and it was also voted that the compensation of town officers be the same as last year.

The meeting voted to place the care of the town highways with the board of selectmen and authorized the selectmen to borrow a sum not to exceed $9,000 for the current expenses of the town, pending the receipt of the town taxes. There was some discussion as to whether the town schools be operated on daylight or standard time next spring, and this matter was left for the action of the adjourned town meeting in March. The selectmen of the town are Albert D. Benjamin, George W. Mansfield and Lynwood Blerary.

CONTRACT IS AWARDED ON ROAD TO HALLVILLE

Contracts for 11 pieces of reconstruction work were awarded to nine different contractors by the Connecticut highway department last week. The work covered in the contracts includes the reconstruction or resurfacing of eight sections of state road, the building of one bridge, repair on one span, and one grade crossing elimination. The largest single piece of new work will take place in the town of Litchfield on the Bantam road. It consists of laying nearly three miles of concrete pavement on a bid of $137,433 made by the Joseph Mascetti company of Torrington.

In this part of the state contracts were awarded as follows:

Town of Preston—3,363 feet of 7-inch waterbound macadam pavement on a section of road known as Brewster's Neck-Hallville road to New Haven Road Construction company, New Haven, for $47,434.50.

Town of Columbia—10,740 feet of 8-inch reinforced concrete pavement on the Willimantic-Hartford road to John Arborio, New Haven, for $74,316.50.

Towns of New London and Groton, fender work of the Thames river bridge to Merritt, Chapman & Scott Corp., New London, for $22,984.00.

Announce Daughter's Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy G. Lynch announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen May, to Joseph Dwight Curtis of Unionville.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Miss Rose Driscoll, of Washington street left town for Northampton, to begin her senior year at Smith college.

Mrs. Charles E. Chapman, of Sachem terrace has returned from a five days' motor trip with Mrs. Charles F. Chapman, of Plandome, L. I., to Schroon lake, in the Adirondacks and to Lake Placid.

Roantree, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mitchell Mowry of Sterling also were guests at the wedding.

MAYOR ASKS CITIZENS TO BACK COMMERCE CHAMBER

In a letter addressed to the citizens of Norwich and mailed Monday, Mayor Milo R. Waters appeals for wholehearted support to the chamber of commerce. His letter reads:

Norwich, Sept. 26, 1927

Fellow Citizens:

I believe in the program of the Norwich chamber of commerce.

The most representative men of Norwich drawn from every walk of life are members of this institution of advancement.

The work of the organization is one of achievement. No matter what kind of a crisis there may be, we always find the chamber alert and ready to serve the economic welfare of our community.

We cannot go on forever competing successfully with localities contiguous to food, fuel and raw material supply without the closest kind of teamwork.

I appeal to every citizen of our fair city to give his whole-hearted support to this most worthy, broadminded institution for civic progress.

MILO R. WATERS,
Mayor City of Norwich.

DISPOSSESS ORDER IS ISSUED AGAINST PASTOR

An order to dispossess Rev. Peter S. Perov from his occupancy of the rectory and other church property of St. Nicholas Russian Orthodox church at 36 Convent avenue was passed by Justice of the Peace Frank N. Gardner at a hearing before the justice on Saturday. Rev. Mr. Perov, who is the deposed pastor of the church, did not appear at the hearing but was represented by Attorney John H. Barnes as counsel. Attorney Edwin W. Higgins appeared for the church organization.

For the past two Sundays the deposed pastor has been conducting services in the parish house of Christ Episcopal church by invitation.

Rev. William Witloff, who came here several weeks ago from Hartford, has been the temporary pastor in charge at St. Nicholas' church under a commission from Archbishop John whom the supreme court of the state of New York has sustained as head of the regularly constituted church of the Russian people.

CHOOSES JAIL SENTENCE INSTEAD OF FINE

Rather than pay a fine of $200 and costs for driving a machine while under the influence of liquor, Ralph Nelson, 22, Norwich Town, took a 30 day jail sentence. He was given his choice of paying the fine or serving the sentence by Judge Arthur P. Libby in the city court Monday morning. Anthony Olaff who was riding with Nelson when he was arrested was fined $5 and costs for intoxication.

Nelson was arrested at Franklin square early Saturday evening after the machine he was driving struck two machines at Taft's station. He failed to stop after the accidents. Nelson pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of liquor and to driving without a license. A charge of evading responsibility was nolled.

PENDLETON HILL

Friendsand neighbors are glad to welcome Capt. and Mrs. Byron Dawley, of Pensacola, Fla., who arrived at their northern home here, Rose Cottage, Sunday morning. They will be guests of Mrs. Dawley's mother, Mrs. James M. Cook, for the next month or more. Captain Dawley comes north late in the season, in order to avail himself of the hunting.

Roy Nash, celebrated author, traveler and forester, who purchased the Collins homestead at Clark's Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Nash take immediate possession. This is a beautiful old estate.

Miss Amelia M. Palmer of Willimantic Normal school spent Sunday at her home here.

Seventeen bonnie lads and lassies attend the Pendleton Hill school. A finer looking or better dressed group of boys and girls it would be difficult to find.

Many from this place attended the Pachaug and North Stonington fairs. The exhibits of the 4H clubs were excellent and a most significant feature. It is pleasing to note that at last eastern Connecticut may have its 4H clubs, which have been a marked feature of Vermont state work for more than 10 years.

Miss Cecile C. Palmer has been ill and detained from her school during the past week by tonsilitis.

Pupils and friends of the English folk dancing class conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Raeby showed their appreciation presenting them gifts of much value at the last meeting Saturday evening.

Among the gifts were a handsome bowl and centerpiece, also a choice pin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Palmer and son, George spent Sunday with Mr. Palmer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Palmer York, of Stonington and New York, visited the Hill Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Ruth Miner and family of five children have taken up their residence with Mrs. Etta Miner.

Considering the season, corn is a very fine crop.

Thermometers on the Hill registered 32 degrees early Friday morning.

Farmers here have not yet begun filling silos.

GRISWOLD

Pachaug grange held its meeting in Grange hall Thursday evening. The program was furnished by past lecturers. Sister Jane Lester had charge. Brother Willis Terrys announced the program. Sister Jane Lester, being the oldest past lecturer was presented a bouquet of dahlias by the worthy master, Walter Hyde in behalf of the grange. Ice cream and cookies were on sale at the close of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Campbell, Mrs. Ellen Young, Charles and Raymond Campbell attended Springfield fair.

Arba Browning and son, Dr. Browning have harvested a large crop of very fine peaches this year.

Mrs. Charles Johnson who is visiting Mrs. W. A. Edmond, picked a dandilion blossom the past week.

Rev. Mr. Whitman occupied his pulpit Sunday, after a month's vacation.

Tender, Aching, Swollen Feet

In Just Five Minutes These Sore, Tender, Aching Feet Get Amazing Relief. Moone's Emerald Oil is Guaranteed.

Go to Lee & Osgood Co. or any other good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your foot troubles will be a thing of the past.

Don't expect a single bottle to do it all at once but one bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered the way to solid foot comfort.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

Sunday Breakfasts

WHETHER your first gathering at the table on Sunday be for early breakfast or for midday "break-lunch," make certain that the coffee is right. Nothing can more surely mar the peace of a quiet Sunday than a cup of inferior coffee.

Before you start off on that all-day motor trip have an invigorating cup of coffee. Carry hot coffee along in a Thermos bottle. It will be good if you make sure that it is YUBAN—the Arbuckle Guest Coffee.

Coffee Making Pointers

Yuban is so full flavored that it is not necessary to add the proverbial tablespoonful for the pot. It is possible to use a little less Yuban than that of the majority of other coffees. In no instance should Yuban be heaped in the tablespoon but rather generously rounded off just as one naturally takes it from the package.

YUBAN

TUNNEY-DEMPSEY FIGHT FILMS ORDERED RELEASED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Motion picture films of the Dempsey-Tunney Chicago heavyweight fight which were seized by the government when they arrived by airplane Saturday night, were ordered released today by United States Attorney S. W. McNabb.

The release order was issued after it was shown that the films did not depict the actual fighting but covered only the gathering of the fight crowd and other scenes incidental to championship challenge battle.

MARRIED

HANCOCK-SMITH—In New London, Sept. 24, 1927, by Rev. R. W. Ferguson, Rechard James Hancock and Miss Muriel Armstrong Smith.

Mothers Look for the Quaker's picture when buying oats.

That means richer flavor

WHEN children say they don't like oats, it's usually because rich Quaker flavor is missing.

Children who ordinarily don't take to oats are often quickly won to this important food, simply by giving them "Quaker."

The flavor is uniquely different; toasty, rich and creamy, Quaker Oats alone has it. Some 50 years were spent in perfecting it.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Thus protein, carbohydrates and vitamines and "bulk" combine in making Quaker Oats an excellently balanced ration.

RICKARD INTIMATES HE IS PLANNING A THIRD TUNNEY-DEMPSEY BOUT

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—Now that Tex Rickard's dream of the first $3,000,000 fight gate in ring history has faded in the light of financial returns from the Chicago battle front, the promoter is considering a new record attempt with the third match of the Tunney-Dempsey series.

"Very tired", but happy that the champion's successful title defense in Soldier field was the greatest of his own financial triumps to date, Rickard arrived in New York today with his promotorial teammate, George F. Getz, nominal head of the fistic extravaganza on the shore of Lake Michigan last Thursday night. Getz will sail for Africa tomorrow to hunt big game.

"Dempsey is still the greatest drawing card in the ring," Rickard said, "and is far from 'through' if he wishes to continue fighting. I haven't heard a word from Jack directly on the subject but I certainly would match Tunney and Dempsey again if the former champion is willing to fight his way through the winter or spring campaign to prove his fitness above all other contenders."

While the whereabouts of Dempsey were somewhat of a mystery today, Tunney is due to arrive in New York tomorrow morning from Cleveland, where he has been spending a few days with friends. Dempsey failed to arrive here today from Chicago, as expected, and was thought to be in Michigan City, visiting Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter.

He is due in New York within a few days after visiting relatives in Wilmington, Del.

Rickard announced the Madison Square garden profit on the big match as "roughly $500,000." The gate of $2,658,660 was whittled to that figure of profit by payment of $1,425,000 to the principal combatants, $470,000 in taxes, and $250,000 for rent of the stadium and general expenses, he said.

Financial gymnastics with the meagre figures disclosed by the promoter today brought to light the possibility that the gate tallied much less than the figures announced and that Rickard's estimated attendance of 140,000 was rather optimistic.

The governmental taxes amounting to $470,000 comprised 20 per cent. of the gate. Based on that figure, the total paid attendance would have been but $2,350,000. The total seat sale at four of the seven listed prices—$40, $30, $10 and $5—amounted to 86,330, leaving the customers in the $15, $20 and $25 seats to boost the attendance to original estimate of 140,000.

Ringside admissions amounted to 40,623, Rickard said, while only 16,896 cash customers squinted at the fight from the distant $5 section; 12,300 from the $10 seats; and 26,511 from the comparatively choice $20 benches.

Approximately 29,000 ring side seats at $25 top were sold at Philadelphia.

In pointing out that the sale of $40 seats nearly totalled that of the $30, $10, and $5, pasteboards combined, Rickard declared that wholesale broadcasting of the fight by radio had hindered the disposal of the cheaper tickets.

Although the promoter would make no definite statement, he indicated that in future "battles of the centuries", an attempt would be made to derive some financial return from the radio listeners or else eliminate the broadcasting of the fight particulars entirely.

Rickard's estimate of the Chicago gate amounted to $200,000 more than was taken in when Tunney won the heavyweight crown at Philadelphia. Profit on the sesqui-centennial show was about $400,000, he said, tying the previous high record set at the Dempsey-Georges Carpentier battle at Boyles Thirty Acres in 1919.

RIGHEIMER DECLARES THE DECISION WILL STAND

CHICAGO, Sept. 26—(AP)—John C. Righeimer, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission, tonight declared the moves of Leo P. Flynn, manager of Jack Dempsey, in protesting the victory of Gene Tunney, were "nothing more than propaganda to keep another Dempsey-Tunney fight alive."

As to Dempsey's letter formally asking the commission to reverse Referee Barry's decision and declare Tunney knocked out in the seventh round, Chairman Righeimer, said that so far as the commission was concerned, it was a closed incident.

Dempsey's telegram informing the commission that he intended to appeal was received today. The letter is expected tomorrow.

"All Dempsey and Flynn are doing is making it disagreeable for a lot of people," Chairman Righeimer said. It is all part of what the newspapers call a ballyhoo for another fight.

"I can only repeat that Flynn and Dempsey understood our rules. If those who are crying 'long count' would only take the trouble to look up the rules and then understand that the men were boxing under that code, there would not be any more to it.

"As to Dempsey's letter formally protesting the affair, I can only repeat what I said the other day—the decision stands."

Chairman Righeimer expressed the opinion that Dempsey himself was satisfied with the handling of the contest, or at least is not inclined to lodge a protest. He believes Dempsey is lending his name to the letter merely to give support to a protest started by Flynn.

DAVIS CUP IS HELD UP AT FRENCH CUSTOMS

PARIS, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Davis cup, toward which Frenchmen have long looked with yearning and which their racquets finally won, has vaulted, after some difficulty, the barrier of the new French tariff.

The cup emblematic of international supremacy in tennis arrived at Havre Friday and there its journey came to an unexpected halt. It had met the new tariff and the customs department was, for the moment, the victor.

Sixty per cent. of value is now the duty on silver articles, they said, and here was one of sterling silver imported from the United States with a value of several hundred thousand francs. Who will pay the duty, queried the customs officials.

The welcoming committee, Henri Cochet of the French team that wrested the cup from America and Captain Gillou pleaded in vain. No money, no cup, was the answer. And so the welcoming committee and the players departed for Paris and the cup went into the customs department safe.

This afternoon, however, the embargo was lifted. Director of Customs Chocarne simply ignored tariff rules and ordered the cup admitted duty free. He telegraphed his subordinates at Havre to permit its entry and the cup is expected to emerge from their safe tomorrow.

PIRATES BLANK CUBS IN ABBREVIATED GAME

CHICAGO, Sept. 26—(AP)—Pittsburgh gained another notch in the National league pennant race today by shutting out Chicago, 1 to 0, in a game cut short after the sixth inning because of rain. The Pirates scored the only run of the game in the second inning. Wright led off with a single to left and after Traynor poped out, Grantham singled to center. Harris singled over second sending Wright home. The Cubs only scoring chance came in the fifth when Stephenson and Wilson led off with singles. Stephenson was nailed at the plate when he atempted to score on Hartnett's fly to Barnhart. There was a slight drizzle when the game began and only 5,000 fans were in the stands. The score:

CARDS NOSE OUT REDS IN 13TH INNING

CINCINNATI, Sept. 26—(AP)—Orsatti's double with two out followed by singles by Toporcer and Schulte gave the world champion St. Louis Cardinals a victory over the Cincinnati Reds in 13 innings today. The score was 3 to 1.

Luque's resistance fell away in the thirteenth after a series of airtight innings. Following Orsatti's score Maranville beat out a bunt to fill the bases and Toporcer scored the third run when Ford booted Haines' grounder.

The Reds rallied in their half of the thirteenth to place two men on bases but neither of them was able to score.

Schuble, Cardinal shortstop, gave the Reds their only run in the second inning when he threw the ball into the grandstand trying to catch a runner at first base. The Cards protested vigorously but the umpires stood pat allowing the run.

The score was tied in the sixth inning when Toporcer scored on an out and from then on the teams settled down to battle.

Luque had held the Cardinals to seven scattered hits up to the thirteenth ining while the Reds had taken twelve from Haines. The Cardinals gathered four hits in the thirteenth. The score:

PHILLIES PRACTICALLY RUIN PENNANT CHANCES OF GIANTS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26—(AP)—The lowly tail end Phillies practically ruined the New York Giants' pennant chances today by beating them, 9 to 2, whacking out 17 hits against three opposing pitchers. As the Pirates won from the Cubs, New York was relegated to three and one-half games from first place.

Grimes was pounded out of the box during a four-run attack by the Phillies in the third and his successor, Plitt, was banged for three more in the fifth. Lefty Faulkner finished for the Giants after Plitt was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Frank Irich limited the McGrawmen to seven hits. The score:

BILLINGS HOLDS INDIANS TO THREE SCATTERED HITS

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 26—(AP)—Billings, collegiate rokie pitcher of the Detroit Tigers, held Cleveland to three hits today and won his game two to one. One of the hits was a home run by Myatt thus saving the Indians from a shutout. Miller was effective in the pinches. The score:

SENATORS TAKE BOTH GAMES FROM RED SOX

BOSTON, Sept. 26—(AP)—Washington won a doubleheader from Boston today, 4 to 2, and 11 to 1. Lisenbee held the Red Sox to six hits in the first game and his single in the sixth drove in two runs. Boston made a triple play in this game, Flagstead to Regan to Hartley. Boston made 10 errors in the second game behind John Wilson, young pitcher recently recalled from the Waterbury club of the Eastern league. Five of the errors were made in the first inning when the Senators scored four runs. Moore made four errors.

Between games Quincy fans presented Foster (Babe) Ganzel, a son of Charles Ganzel, former Boston National star, with a gold watch and a suitcase. The score:

COX ADDS TWO MORE WINS TO HIS STRING

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 26—(AP)—Driver Walter Cox scored another field day adding two more stake races to his score of wins. The $10,000 May day for two year old trotters went to the new two year old champion Fire Glow and the $4,000 Castledon went to the crack stake trotter Williams. Both wins were without special feature being won in straight heats. Fire Glow demonstrating that his win in the Futurity was no fluke by trotting the first heat in the May day in 2:05 1-2 equaling the record for the stake made in 1924 by Aileen Gury and trotting the last quarter in the second heat of 2:07 1-4 in 29 seconds. Cox has now won five races at the local meeting all of them stake events.

Sigrid Volo driven by her owner Howard Newell an amateur of Burlington, Wis., won the 2:16 pace. Hollywood Hunter won the first heat and also finished first in the second but was placed last for foul driving in the stretch. The last quarters were paced very fast respectively in :30 1-2; :30 1-4 and :29 1-4. Sigrid Volo paid $58.80 for $2 in the mutuels in the second heat.

Tomorrows program is featured by the Hambeltonian $50,000 event, the most valuable race on the trotting turf with prospects for good weather and a big atendance.

STAIT AND CAREY WIN AMATEUR-PRO TOURNAMENT

HARTFORD, Sept. 26—(AP)—Jack Stait, professional at the Hartford Golf club and his amateur partner, H. B. Carey, today won the New England P. G. A. amateur-pro tournament played over their home course. They had a gross best ball of 140 for 36 holes. Sydney Covington, Wethersfield pro, and George Smart, were tied with James Young, South Hadley pro, and his partner, L. O. Morgan for the 36 hole low net prize. Each team had a 142-6-136.

Willie Ogg, Worcester Country club, had the best 36 hole individual gross, a 77-75—152.

Massie Miller, Norwich pro, and Dave Morton, his amateur partner, failed to get into the money in the New England P. G. A. amateur-pro tournament at the Hartford Golf club today. They had a best ball gross of 151 and a net of 144. Morton had the honor of being one of only two golfers out of a field of 62 who had as good as a four on number six. This hole proved the bane of every golfers card, there being eleven sixes and sevens and one nine made there during the day.

Tunney On Way Home

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 26—(AP)—Gene Tunney, who has been here as the house guest of Leonard C. Hanna, left tonight for New York. This afternoon the heavyweight champion took a long hike with friends. The champion remained in seclusion throughout his entire visit.

SANDS POINT TEAM WINS

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 26—(AP)—The British Army-In-India four, unsuccessful challengers for the international cup, went down to defeat before the Sands Point team, 11 goals to 7 today, in the final match for the American open polo championship.

The present major league record for number of games won by one club over another was made by the Chicago Nationals in 1909, when they won 21 out of 22 games from the Bostons.

AERIAL GAME MISSING IN AGGIE ATTACK AGAINST COAST GUARD TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, Sept. 26—A record of several years standing was broken here Saturday when the Connecticut Aggie eleven did not once resort to their aerial attack in opening the 1927 season with a 38-0 victory over the U. S. Coast Guard academy cadets. The forward passing game has always found favor with Connecticut Aggie elevens of recent years.

The Aggies took to the air here this afternoon, however, drill on the forward pass taking up a large share of the time in the first session of the week as the team is pointed for the Wesleyan encounter at Middletown next Saturday afternoon.

Captain Eddy, Williams, Knaut and Flydal, the four men who started behind the line for Connecticut Saturday, alternated in heaving both long and short passes to a perspiring group of end candidates this afternoon.

Barring injuries, these four men will in all probability play the backfield positions against the Red and Black, and all four are equally adept at either the throwing or receiving end of the overhead tosses. The pass plays tried in a short scrimmage this afternoon looked good.

Coaches Alexander and Bitgood reviewed the Coast Guard game in a short discussion prior to the starting of practice. Errors of individual play were carefully pointed out, both in the discussion and dummy scrimmage which followed. Despite the Aggies' clear cut victory of Saturday, there is much to be corrected according to the coaching staff, and work during the week will be directed toward those ends.

Especially encouraging to followers of the State College team who saw the opening game was the strength of the backfield reserves. Besides the Eddy-Williams-Flydal-Knaut quintet, which is admittedly the strongest offensive combination to ever represent C. A. C., it appeared to spectators that Coach Alexander had a never ending stream of fast moving and elusive ball carriers—so called second string men—who ran the ends or hit the line with all the abandon and effectiveness of either Williams or Eddy.

Bob Groat, a 133-pound stripling from Niles, Mich., was as slippery as the proverbial eel and almost as fast. From a halfback position he went for substantial gains time and again, proving himself one of the most difficult players of the day to stop. Gene Lamoreaux of Hartford and Ray Ryan of New Haven also showed excellent form in advancing the leather, and with Groat may be considered as certain to see action against Wesleyan. These three backs were all regulars on the undefeated freshman eleven last fall. Mention should also be made of Arthur Haverstet of Seymour, a junior. He only played in the last couple of minutes of the game, and carried the ball but once. His contribution consisted of a 45 yard sprint from the center of the field, taking the ball within five yards of the goal line. The whistle ending the game blew as the teams were lining up for the next play.

The work of Dick Ruffkess '30 at guard and Coe Hawkins '30 at tackle, both of whom were playing their first varsity contest, was good. Taking the sophomore players as a group, their showing was excellent and indicates strong material will be available from the class of 1930 for the next two seasons.

No serious injuries were suffered by the Aggie squad in the Coast Guard game, and every man turned out for this afternoon's drill in uniform. Work in preparation for the Wesleyan game this week includes the usual drill on the fundamentals of tackling and blocking, stiff scrimmage until Thursday, and intensive practice of the overhead plays.

ACADEMY ELEVEN PREPARING FOR OPENER WITH CHAPMAN

A snappy two hour signal drill held the attention of 35 Academy candidates Monday afternoon at the campus as they began the drive down the final preparatory stretch. The first game comes Saturday here with Chapman Tech.

After two stiff scrimmages Saturday Coach Court Whitney was content to let his charges off without any real intensive work yesterday. Today's workout will also be scrimmages-less but on Wednesday and Thursday it is expected that the Red and Whitesters will again tangle with each other and then devote Friday to a light workout.

A few injuries showed up after the scrimmages Saturday the most serious of which showed in the person of Fagan, a second string back, who will be confined to the sidelines for a week or so with a turned ankle and sprained wrist.

Chapman Tech opened last Saturday with a 13 to 0 win over a light Plainfield High aggregation, that, according to reports, was none too impressive. But that should not interfere at all with the local's preparation for this coming affair as the Whalers with that one game under their respective belts are bound to be improved and much stranger things than their beating the locals have come about.

Season tickets are now out for the local's six home games and are finding ready buyers.

The field is now being worked into shape rapidly, measurements being made for the lines Monday.

The north goal post which has stood in concrete since last year will not be moved but the south post will have to be placed 20 yards further back to comply with the new rules putting the posts ten yards behind the goal line.

Jim Kelly, Billy Tirrel and Tommy Vitliano had plenty of practice at dropkicking yesterday with the former looking the best.

Jack Marks seems slated to do the punting this year. He was getting off some nice boots in practice yesterday.

Bulkeley, the Academy ancient rival, opened Saturday by losing 24 to 0 to Weaver High at Hartford. Bill Collins, a former Norwich boy, at quarterback for Weaver, played a large part in his team's win.

E. C.-W. R. I. LEAGUE HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the new school year of the Eastern-Conn.-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic league was held Monday afternoon at the Academy.

With President William F. O'Brien, baseball, basketball and football at Stonington High, in the chair the meeting was called to order at 3:30 with representatives from all four schools of the loop, Westerly High, Stonington High, Chapman Tech and N. F. A.

Schedules for the coming year were completed. The Academy does not hold a football membership, having withdrawn a few years back while it has not yet been decided as to whether the Red and White will be represented in the league in basketball.

The Academy's league schedule in baseball for next spring follows: April 25, Stonington Home; May 1, Westerly Home; May 10, Stonington Away; May 15, Chapman Tech Home; May 22, Westerly Away.

Earle E. Brigham treasurer of the league represented the Academy at the meeting.

SIXTH OF REVIEWS OF DUSTY LEAGUE TEAMS

J. B. Martin

J. B. Martin had 6 wins and 3 defeats to show for their seasons work in the Norwich Industrial league. Which would be considered as just a fair record but for the fact that two of the wins were scored over the champion Richmond Radiators and, incidentally these two were the only decisions lost by the title holders during the league season. In two thrilling tussles the Velvetmen downed the Foundrymen and these doings stand out as the highlights of their campaign. J. B. finished in sixth position one full game back of the Thermos and Werman tied for fourth place.

Lefty Lucier, Red Smith, Joe Martin, Brownie Labenski, Lemieux and Murphy did good work during the year.

Most valuable—Smith.
Best infielder—Smith.
Best outfielder—Lucier.

PIRATES ALMOST SURE WINNERS OF PENNANT

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates apparently had the National league championship safely stowed away today by keeping up the two game lead by virtue of a victory over the Cubs while the Cardinals downed the Reds. After a stern struggle to remain in the fight, the Giants, by some quirk of fate, stumbled before the lowly Phillies to be practically eliminated from the contenders.

The standing:

Team	W.	L.	Ave.	G.T.P.
Pittsburgh	92	58	.613	4
St. Louis	90	60	.600	4
New York	88	61	.591	5

The Pirates must win three out of four games remaining to clinch the flag should the Cardinals make a sweep of their four contests left to be played. The standing then would be:

Team	Won	Lost	Av
Pittsburgh	95	59	.617
St. Louis	94	60	.610

TAFTVILLE-RIVERVIEW GAME ON SATURDAY

Jim Troland's Martafts and Joe Hamel's Riverview club will continue their series next Saturday and Sunday as arrangements for these games were made Monday evening at the Riverview headquarters. There was some doubt as to the games being played this coming week end as Riverview was slated to close up the series with the Moosup Town Team but this game was cancelled.

The game Saturday will be played at the Riverview diamond and the Sunday game at the J. B. Martin grounds. Troland is extremely confident that he will clinch the series on Saturday as he says that if his club could take two straight there is no earthly reason why they can not make it three in a row, especially as Saturday's game was won by a club that did not have the strength that his team of Sunday had. He also intends to have a stronger team for Saturday than he had on last Sunday.

In speaking of his lineup for Saturday he said that he would either pitch Chet Nichols or Pat Loftus, both of whom won over Riverview. Eccleston will do the backstop work and Eddie Murphy, who put up a brilliant defensive game on Sunday, will be at the first bag. His second base position will be taken care of by Mack Hillis, formerly with the New Haven Eastern league club, and one of the most versatile players that the game has ever known. It was only a few weeks ago that Hillis played one inning in every position on the New Haven club and acquitted himself with credit. Carlie Krauss will play the shortfield and Tommy Coniskey will be at third again. In the outfield will be Davis, Jarvis and Bill Gley. This club shapes up even stronger than last week. "Pud" Sullivan, former Norwich boy and now business manager of the Hartford club of the Eastern loop, was on the Taftville bench Sunday and was greatly impressed by the work of Jarvis and Krauss.

What plans Riverview will make for the game is not known other than it is reported that Johnny Tillman may be the pitcher to oppose Taftville. Johnny pitched for Riverview last year and greatly impressed the Riverview management. Tillman has been playing in York and is a great friend of Joe Faber.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Jolly Little Cat

The Jolly Little Cat sat down
And washed his face, with glee;
"This good old world is full," he purred,
"Of fun, as it can be.
Some folk might say the wind is cold,
I don't mind that a bit,
I see a feather blowing round
And get warm chasing it.
Some people say the times are hard,
That food is high in price—
I like good heat—and yet I find
Great fun in hunting mice."

The Jolly Little Cat stood up
And arched his furry spine;
"What fun it is to stretch," he sang,
"And isn't sleeping fine?
And if your bed is cold one night,
And there's no food to eat—
Why, when you're warm again and full,
Say — isn't it a treat?"

The Jolly Little Cat spun round
And chased his flowing tail;
"Some people say success is best,—
I sometimes like to jail;
For though it's merry sport for me
To catch my tail, I say
The tail must have some fun, you know,
Each time it gets away."

The Jolly Little Cat lay down
And curled up in a ball.
He dreamed that folks saw good in bad,
And big in things quite small.
He dreamed that all bright spots in life
Were well worth looking at.
"What dandy dreams," he purred, awake,
The Jolly Little Cat.

To a Bluebird

Was it your wandering voice I heard,
Joy of the spring and best,
With the sky-tinge on your back, little bird,
And the earth-tinge on your breast?

Sing you a song of delicious lands,
Where soft, sweet ripples play,
Of buds a-bursting their silken bands
And meadows glad with May?

Of mate and nest, little bird, do

NEW LONDON COUNCIL FAVORS SIGN ON STATE PIER AS GUIDE TO FLIERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 26.—Of the three local bidders, who submitted bids for the purchase by the city of a carload of cement in bags, the Chappell company was the lowest bidder with a bid of 68 1-4 cents per bag, less two per cent. for cash within 10 days of delivery and 10 cents per bag for empty bags returned. At a meeting of the city council in special session this evening, the city manager submitted a recommendation that the contract be awarded the Chappell company and it was so voted. The other bidders were The Raymond & Alexander company and the Thames Lumber company. The amount of the contract involves an expenditure of $660.

Councilor Robert B. Chappell, chairman of the public works committee, stated that the committee recently met and voted to recommend the expenditure of $250,000 for the improvement of Bank, Jay, Truman and Williams streets and the installing of an outfall sewer at Riverside park. It was voted that the work recommended be done.

Councilor John Murray, chairman of the committee on finance, reported on the bond issue, as proposed in the two previous meetings and after amendments were made, including the rate of interest and amount, the ordinance had its third reading and was passed.

The ordinance authorizing a $250,000 bond issue for purchase of land and permanent streets, together with an outfall sewer and the enlargement of the main sewer on Peninsular avenue and Bentley avenues, Ocean Beach, had its third reading and was passed.

The ordinance pertaining to to the issuance of bonds amounting to $200,000 for the water works department, was passed and provides for water mains, the purchase of land adjacent to the city's reservoirs and the erection of a fence around the reservoirs, together with other improvements was adopted.

Action on an electrical ordinance was deferred.

The ordinance pertaining to the extension and improvement of Converse place had its third reading and was passed.

The city manager reported on the matter of causing an aerial sign to be erected on the roof of the state pier, the proposed sign being such as would assist fliers who desired to land in this port. One of the suggestions contained in the report was the painting of letters 28 feet high on the roof and at a cost of $500 for labor. Another was that the roof be equipped with raised letters 20 feet in height and four feet in width. The cost of the latter work would be $2800. The recomendation were referred to the committee on public works.

The city manager reported in regards to the parking on the west side of Huntington street. The recommendation was that parking be permitted on the both ends of the west side of the street between Federal and Church streets and parallel to the curb. The recommendation was adopted.

The city manager reported in reference to the petition to remove a tree in front of the premises, 205 Vauxhall street, he said that the tree was a large elm and that he believed that if the tree was trimmed that any existing objection to the existence of the elm would be eliminated. He recommended that the tree be not removed and the recommendation was adopted. The report was received for record and placed on file.

Councilor Scott recommended that when the meeting adjourn it adjourned until October 3rd so that unfinished business could be transacted before the entrance of the incoming council. The motion was passed.

Chelsea Lyon, whose house on Pequot avenue has been condemned and recommended to be razed because of being a fire hazard, was given permission of the floor. He said it was her plan to repair the building so that it would not be a fire hazard. As the matter was in the hands of committee and no report had been made, no action was taken.

The F. J. Dahill Co., Inc., was awarded the contract for repairing the cornice, coping and chimney on the municipal building. The work will entail an expenditure of $434.

M. J. Delmore was awarded the contract for painting the interior and exterior of the municipal building, for $1065. Delmore was one of six bidders. The highest bid was Gates and Beckwith, $1675.

MAYOR WM. C. FOX LOSES IN CITY ELECTION MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 26.—Mayor William C. Fox was defeated at the polls today, for that official, seeking election as a member of the city council, was defeated by Cornelius D. Twomey and Lucius Whiton, the latter also seeking re-election. Grace E. Bitgood, making her entrant in the field of candidates for city office, obtained the lowest vote. Rosemary O. Anderson and Philip Z. Hankey, the only nominees for office of board of school visitors were elected. The third member, Ellen C. Kelley was elected to office at the election two weeks ago. The election of Mr. Twomey was practically conceded, with the choice of the second successful nominee resting between Mr. Fox and Mr. Whiton. Mr. Whiton defeated Mr. Fox by three votes and there is a possibility he will contest the election, inasmuch as he intimated that intention tonight.

The result of the election by wards for the councilors was as follows: Twomey, first ward, 315; second ward, 333; third ward, 353; fourth ward, 388; fifth ward, 353. Total, 1742. Whiton, first ward, 321; second ward, 426; third ward, 161; fourth ward, 155; fifth ward, 520; total, 1583. Fox, first ward, 258; second ward, 369; third ward, 298; fourth ward, 241; fifth ward, 415, total, 1581. Bitgood, first ward, 284; second ward, 361; third ward, 120; fourth ward, 92; fifth ward, 356, total, 1184. For the office of board of school visitor, Mrs. Anderson received the high vote, 156, as against Mr. Hankey's, 1507.

HALL CASE WAS MERELY TECHNICAL LAW VIOLATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 26—The case of Philip Sidney Hall, 160 Broadway, Norwich, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle laws in passing intersecting streets without reducing speed or giving a signal, was disposed of today without Hall being compelled to appear in court. Hall was arrested Saturday by Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

LOW-DOWN PAIR GETS BY WITH SINGLE FINE AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 26—The continued case of Marty and Anna Russell, 3 Cross street, the former charged with keeping a disorderly house and the latter with frequenting, was tried in the police court today. Russell was not convicted of the charge for it was amended to that of selling liquor, for which he was fined $200 and costs. The charge against his wife was nolled. Russell and his wife were arrested 10 days ago when two sailors approached Acting Sergeant William Graham on State street and exhibited a partially filled bottle of whiskey which one of them said had been purchased of Russell. A raiding squad went to the Russell home and there found the husband and wife, but they were the sole occupants of the tenement. A search of the house was made for liquor, but none was found. The sailor, who swore to having purchased liquor of Russell, also said that Russell had accommodated him by allowing him the companionship of his wife. Russell is 23 and his wife 21.

THESE HAD NO MONEY, SO THEY WENT TO JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 26—Thomas and Mary D. Mahoney, 195 Main street, were presented on charges of conducting a disorderly house. They were convicted and each was fined $50 and costs, being without funds sufficient to pay the court approximately $120, Mahoney and his wife went to jail. Mahoney and his wife were arrested Saturday midnight after a tenant of the building had made complaint to the police because of the boisterous conduct in the Mahoney home. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen William and Edward Riordan went to the house and found Mahoney and his wife entertaining John O'Brien, white; Harold Carpenter, white; Charles Green, white; Walter Dangerfield, black; David Green, black and Larney Brewer, black. The whites and blacks found there were arrested on charges of frequenting, but their cases were nolled.

Tuesday will be prohibition day in the police court by apearances tonight, for there are 11 cases of intoxication awaiting hearing before Judge Victor Prince.

Fred Strickland, 19 Woodbridge street, was charged with reckless driving, but the case was continued to Friday next. Strickland on the 18th inst., was driving an automobile on Broad street, which struck and injured a United States Coast Guard sailor. After hitting the sailor, the car continued to the left hand side of the road and up on the sidewalk. The sailor is now receiving treatment in the sick bay at the state pier.

Guido, of George street, Groton, was charged with violation of the city's traffic laws, having been arrested Saturday. He failed to present himself in court, so his bond was declared forfeited.

Henry T. Wells, about 76, residing on Crystal avenue, who has been a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital several days suffering from gangrene of the right leg, was operated upon this morning when that member was amputated at the knee. This afternoon at the hospital it was stated that Mr. Wells' condition was favorable, but because of his age it is problematical what the effect of the shock to his physical system will be. Mr. Wells, who is a ship-rigger by occupation, is well known and is the father of Patrolman Clarence Wells.

The police of Fairview, N. J., have requested the New London police to make a search for Frank Aragona, who is missing from home and his whereabouts unknown to members of his family. Aragona's whereabouts are desired to be known as his father is in a dying condition and the young man is wanted at his parent's bedside. Aragona is described as being 21, about five feet in height, having dark complexion and chestnut hair.

Francis D. Tice, York avenue, Niantic, drove his automobile to New London Sunday night and while he parked it on Bank street, to enable the owner to attend one of the motion picture theatres, a thief entered the auto, an Overland roadster and drove away. When Tice returned to where he left the auto it was discovered missing and a report of the theft was made at police headquarters, but the car was not found. The auto is of 1922 model and carries registration, N-1320.

The funeral of Miss Mary L. Curley, daughter of the late Michael and Bridget Curley, was held at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church at 9 o'clock this morning and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan. As a waiting hymn, Edward F. Murray sang, "There's a Beautiful Land on High." The bearers were John J. O'Connell, George E. Garvey, John J. McGarry, Lawrence Neilan, Patrick T. Hawkins and Kenneth Ward, the last named of Hartford. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Fr. O'Callahan.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graham P. Keeney, 24 Converse place, died Saturday night at Home Memorial hospital.

Frederick T. Braman, 77, of Freeport, N. Y., formerly of New London, died Sunday at Branford. The body will be brought to New London for burial.

The second death from infantile paralysis in Groton since cases of this disease developed three weeks ago, occurred this morning when Winifred Frances, daughter of Wilbur S. and Frances E. Barton, at the residence of her parents, Fish farm, East Point. The child had been ill but a short time.

Two boys were struck by automobiles while crossing highways this afternoon and one of the boys is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from a lacerated scalp, the seriousness of which has not been determined and will not be known for a day or two. One of the youths is Edward Warakonsky, 16, of 25 Wightman street. He was crossing Manwaring street, near Mountain avenue when he was run down by an auto driven by William H. Scaplan, Jr., R. F. D. 1, Oil road, Waterford. Scaplan had the boy taken to the hospital for he was bleeding from the head injury. The other boy was on his way to school and was struck by the car of Alton T. Pinkman, 56 Lewis street, and United States Coast Guard training ship, Alexander Hamilton. The boy was on Main street, near the corner of Richards street. When Pinkham stopped the auto the boy refused to give his name, but ran away to go to school. It was afterwards acertained that the boy resides at 87 Harrison street.

The special agents of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad have been annoyed of late by vagrants loitering about railroad property and today an effort was made to rid the city of this type of unemployed. Special Agent David Marks and Patrolman Clarence Wells went to Water street, near Douglass street where a quartette of the vagrants were sunning themselves and arrested them. They gave their names as Patrick McArdle, Tony Snura, James Dolan and James McArdle. None of the mare residents of New London, but manage to obtain an existence without working. They will be in the police court tomorrow morning.

A man of Polish nationality was commited to Norwich State hospital, last night by City Physician Cheney after the man had been examined to determine his mentality by Dr. Cheney and Dr. Charles Kaufman. The man was arrested Sunday as he was believed to be drunk. Late at night his actions caused the police to maintain a watch over him and it then developed that the man was not of sound mentality. City Physician Cheney was called to attend the man and it was then a second physician was summoned. The man was taken to the hospital in the police automobile.

Patrolman Harry Watterson will be absent from duty a few days. He was called to New York this morning by the death of a relative.

At an important business meeting of the Y's Men's club, held in the New London Y. M. C. A. last Friday evening, supper was served to the attending members at 6:15. There is a provision in the charter of each local Y's Men's club that in order to participate in the work of the International Y's Men's clubs the local club must be represented at the international convention at least once in every two years. The New London club was unable to be represented at the recent convention at Milwaukee, and will, therefore, need to be represented at the convention next September. Action was taken at this meeting to provide funds to take care of such a delegate, each member being taxe da small amount monthly for the next six months to assure the funds being in hand. It was also decided that the treasurer should send bills in advance each month for the charges for the coming month, including the supper charge at the bi-weekly meetings. This will mean that members will be more regular in attendance, it is expected. The club last summer constructed a tent house for the Y. M. C. A. camp, Camp Terrehegan, Salem, and the question of the final accounting of the financing of the tent house came up for settlement. There remains about $100 balance, and it was agreed that members should approach friends of the Y with a view to securing small contributions to cover this capital account of the club. George ("Rip" Tracy was elected to membership on the board of directors caused by the resignation of Richard J. Hancock. A new program committee to arrange for the meetings from October 1st to January 1st was appointed by the president of the club, Cam MacDonald, consisting of Charles N. Egglise, Jr., Thomas L. Hagerty, Jr., and are to be made, if possible to secure as the speaker for the meeting of the club scheduled for October 20th, Ralph E. Partridge, of Middletown. Mr. Partridge, an insurance man of that city, was the Middletown Y's Meen's delegate to the International convention this month, and he will be asked to bring a report of that gathering. At the same time an invitation will be extended to a group of young men from Norwich who are interested in the formation of a Y's Men's club there.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Puffed Wheat Star Day for Lindbergh

Col. Charles A. Lindberg attacks his morning meal with all the zest you'd expect, according to a report in the The Des Moines Register during his western trip recently. From the hotel Fort Des Moines comes word that the flyer's nine o'clock breakfast began with orange juice and puffed wheat and included scrambled eggs, buttered toast and milk.

Waiters at the banquet given in his honor, at the same hotel, kept an eye on his plate and it's their opinion that Lindy thinks a banquet is a good place to eat rather than talk. They say he concentrated on his food while others were conversing, and his place would have made a model exhibit A during the Hoover Food administration.

Breed Theatre

"The White Black Sheep," Richard Barthelmess' latest Inspiration starring feature, now attracting huge crowds at the Breed theatre, is a story of a boy who, disgraced and wrongly accused, joins the British army in the Near East and there proves his true worth and incidentally wins a great love.

Richard Barthelmess enacts the role of Robert Kincaim, scion of a long line of British soldiers, and Patsy Ruth Miller portrays the role of Zelie, the Greek dancing girl, with whom he falls in love in a picturesque cafe in Palestine.

Constance Howard has the unsympathetic role of the girl who betrays him and thus sends him to a distant land.

The picture was made under the direction of Sidney Olcott and contains an exceptional cast.

"The White Black Sheep" will be shown for the last time today at 2:15, 7:00 and 8:45.

Palace Theater

A bright and snappy vaudeville show was reviewed last night at the papular playhouse. Jack Ryan favorite night club master of ceremonies, did the honors, presenting personally each act describing them before they appeared. This seems to be the idea all through the New York houses and has made quite a hit. Revue of 1927 is a most elaborately set stage attraction seen in many a day. The cast consists of six people all of which are talented performers each one doing a specialty. There is plenty of action and a very pleasing act. Lazar and Dale a hokum act that is different starting off with low comedy and finally building up to a real high class act. Overholt and Young a skit with music and songs was a real act. Jack Ryan presents some new songs, and right here we say that he has a voice that is just the thing for putting over popular numbers. Fuller and Stryker open the show with a novelty different than anything you have seen before. The lady has a very sweet voice and favors with a very difficult classic hitting a high note with apparent ease. A very enjoyable performance and will be well received.

Discarding all the old rules of screen comedy making except the fundamental one of winning laughs, Douglas MacLean in Soft Cushions now at the Palace theater, has produced that most welcome article presenting an entirely different screen comedy.

Novelty is the keynote from start to finish. The setting of the story is a city of the far east. MacLean plays a young thief who introduces modern technique into the fine art of winning fame, fortune and a beautiful girl by one's wits.

Although the settings are oriental, the action and titles are entirely American. By judiciously combining Arabian Nights atmosphere with down-to-the-minute and wise-cracking gags and titles Soft Cushions, achieves laughs and thrills by sheer contrast and the broad comedy action is made doubly funny by the unique costuming and pictorially lavish backgrounds.

In Sue Carol, the unknown beauty MacLean chose to play opposite him, the screen has acquired a new player who combines beauty of face and figure with personality and ability. A cast of notable players give excellent support to the antics of the principals.

Soft Cushions was written by the late George Randolph Chester, creator of Get Rich Quick Wallingford. Director Eddie Cline, for many years associated with Mack Sennett, directed this Paramount comedy and has maintained the high ratio of laughs demanded of successful laugh-getting entertainment.

Broadway Theater

The acid test of a man's love for a girl is one of two things—

Either his refusal to give her up under any conditions, or his willingness to sacrifice himself to insure her happiness if he is convinced she loves another.

The test of love is one of the big moments in The Routh Riders, now showing at the Broadway Theater.

In this superb Paramount production, Charles Farrell and Charles Emmett are in love with Mary Astor. Farrell is a dashing New Yorker who attempts to sweep Mary off her feet by his ardor. Mack is the home-town lad who has loved her from childhood.

They go into battle. Half way up San Juan Hill in the thrilling charge of Roosevelt's Rough Riders an amazing thing happens, somethings that is indefinably sad and yet wonderful in revealing the nature of men. Mary is far away but the test of love is decided.

Victor Fleming directed this splendid Paramount picture which has as its featured cast Noah Beery and George Bancroft. Frank Hopper appears as Roosevelt.

Coming Thursday for three days the inimitable, "It", girl Clara Bow in Hula, you'll rave about this one for days to come.

Among some Eskimo tribes bad temper is considered a sign of being possessed by a devil, lying is a crime punished by death, and marriage is compulsory.

ON MONDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1927, AT SIX O'CLOCK IN THE FORENOON

Then and there to elect by ballot or otherwise as by law provided the Town Officers who are by law or by vote of the Town, to be elected at that time, to wit: Three Selectmen, two Assessors, one for a term of two years and one for a term of six years, three members of the Board of Relief, Town Clerk, Town Treasurer, Tax Collector, three Agents of the Town Deposit Fund, seven Constables, two Registrars of Voters, two Auditors and four members of the Town School Committee—the terms of two of said members to commence at the date of said Meeting and of the other two to commence from the date of the Annual Town Meeting in the year 1928.

The Polls shall be open in all districts from six o'clock in the morning until five o'clock in the afternoon as provided by law.

Also, to meet in said Town Hall at five o'clock in the afternoon of said day to act upon the Annual Report of the Selectmen and their recommendations and also to act upon the reports of the Town Treasurer, the Sinking Fund Committee, the Town Health Officer, the Town School Committee and the Trustees of the Otis Library; to fix the salaries of the Town Officials, to lay a tax to meet the lawful expenses of the Town, including the expenses of the public schools for the ensuing fiscal year and to fix the compensation of the Tax Collector.

Also, to determine whether the Town will authorize the Selectmen to borrow a sum of money not to exceed Three Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars ($325,000.00) at such times and in such amounts during the twelve months next ensuing as may be necessary to defray the debts of the Town accruing before the next annual Town Meeting, and to deliver the notes or other obligations of the Town therefor as shall in their judgment be for the best interests of the Town.

Also, to determine whether the Town will make an appropriation to assist in maintaining the Otis Library.

Also, to act upon a petition that the Town of Norwich appropriate a sum of money not to exceed Seventy Six Thousand Dollars ($76,000.00) to relieve parents of children who attend the Free Academy and who are residents of the Town of Norwich of the customary term fees for the current school year of 1927 and 1928.

Also, to appropriate the sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5000.00) to pay the pro-rata share of this Town for the construction or improvement of State Aid Roads, as provided by the Statutes of this State.

Also, to determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of money not to exceed Fifteen Hundred Dollars ($1500.00) to be used by the Selectmen for the care and maintenance of the trees bordering upon the highways of said Town.

Also, to determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1000.00) to be used in maintaining a Social Hygiene Clinic for the care and treatment of venereal disease.

Also, to appropriate the sum of Three Hundred Dollars ($300.00) to reimburse parents who have children attending the State Trade School in Putnam and who are residents of the Town of Norwich for the amount paid for transportation to and from said school for the school year of 1927 and 1928, said sum of money not to exceed Fifty Dollars ($50.00) for any pupil so transported.

Also, to act upon a petition requesting an appropriation of a sum not exceeding Ten Thousand Five Hundred ($10,500) Dollars for the purpose of providing medical inspection and health work among the school children of the Town of Norwich.

Also to act upon a petition that the Town install and maintain four electric lights on the Harland Road between the termination of the present lights and the Canterbury Turnpike.

Also, to act upon a petition requesting the Town to install and maintain a sufficient number of lights on the Main Highway in the Village of Occum from the property of A. J. Cote to the property of Louis G. Meditz, and also upon the east side to the Bridge over the Shetucket River leading to Versailles.

Also, to act upon a petition requesting that the Town install and maintain a fire hydrant on Lafayette Street between Washington and Oneco Streets and requesting the appropriation of a sufficient sum of money to pay therefor.

Also, to act upon a petition requesting the building of a macadam road starting from Pecks Corner and running thence to the Old Town Church and thence from Gullivers Corner to said Road and also to construct a macadam road on Elm Avenue in said Town of Norwich to the State Road and requesting an appropriation of a sufficient sum of money to pay the expenses of such construction.

Also, to act upon a petition requesting that the Private Road now known as Everett Street and leading from West Thames Street toward the Thames River be accepted as a Public Highway.

Also, to do any other business necessary or proper to come before said meeting.

Dated at Norwich, this 26th day of September, A. D. 1927.

WILLIAM S. MURRAY,
CHARLES P. BUSHNELL,
PATRICK T. CONNELL,
Selectmen of the Town of Norwich.
CHAS. S. HOLBROOK,

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(AP)—Stock prices turned reactionary today in reflection of disappointing trade news and speculative uneasiness over the brokers' loans figures to be made public on Thursday. Early gains of 1 to 3 points in many of the popular issues were out down, or wiped out, with final quotations disclosing a rather sizeable list of 1 to 8 point declines. Trading was fairly heavy, the day's sales falling just below 2,000,000 shares.

In the commodity markets, a jump of $3.50 a bale in cotton on reports of unfavorable crop weather in the southwest was offset by a decline of about two cents a bushel in wheat futures under the influence of better weather in Canada, a larger visible supply and slow export demand.

The bearish tone of many week-end commission house letters also was a factor in the selling of stocks. Considerable attention also was paid to the semi-final report of the New York Airbrake company, which showed only $1.48 a share as against $5.32 in the first half of 1926, and to the August statement of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, which disclosed net operating income of $5,007,426 as against $3,407,763 in August last year.

Weakness of U. S. Steel common, which sold down 4 points to 148 7-8, was in anticipation of a poor third quarter report as a result of low prices and relatively light operations within that period. Bethlehem reacted two points and Crucible 7-8, but the other so-called independents showed little change.

General Motors (old stock) broke from 272 1-4 to 261 1-2 and then rallied slightly, while the new stock showed a net loss of 4 points at 131 3-8. Chrysler, Hudson, Nash and Mack Trucks sold down a point or two, and Hierce Arrow preferred sank 2 points to a new low at 39.

New York Air Brake broke 5 points to a new low at 40 on publication of its report, and acute weakness also developed in such issues as Baldwin, Case Threshing, Timken Roller Bearing, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Woolworth, all of which sold down 3 to 7 points.

An early outburst of strength in the public utilities carried nearly a dozen issues in that group to new high ground, but they reacted with the rest of the list later. Among those to break through to new peak prices were Abitibi Power, American Water Works, Commonwealth Power, National Power & Light, North American Co., Peoples Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, and Southern California Edison.

In the railroad group, such popular dividend payers at Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake, Rock Island, Delaware & Hudson, New York Central, Norfolk & Western, and Pittsburgh & West Virginia all sold down a point or two. The combined net operating income of the first 21 roads to report their August earnings shows a falling off of 12 1-2 per cent below that of the same month last year.

Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans, but call money held steady all day at 4 per cent. There was no change in time money or commercial paper rates.

Except for moderate rallies in the Spanish and Japanese rates, there was little of interest in the foreign exchange market. Sterling exchange held firm around gold parity.

CLOUDY FOLLOWED BY SHOWERS TODAY

Norwich Bulletin

NORWICH, CONN., TUESDAY, SEPT. 27, 1927

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Tuesday, Sept. 27, 1927

THE WEATHER

Conditions

A disturbance of great magnitude covers Alaska, the northeastern Pacific ocean and British northwest territory and pressure is falling rapidly southeastward to Alberta. Pressure is relatively low over the far southwest and from Illinois southwestward to the Rio Grande, while high pressure prevails elsewhere east of the Rocky mountains with centers over South Dakota and West Virginia.

The indications are for showers and cooler Tuesday and Wednesday in northern New England. Showers and cooler weather are probably Wednesday or Wednesday night in New England.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook—Gentle to moderate shifting, becoming northeast and increasing cloudiness Tuesday, probably followed by showers Tuesday afternoon or night.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras—Gentle to moderate shifting; fair Tuesday.

Forecast

For southern New England—Increasing cloudiness followed by showers and cooler Tuesday afternoon or night and on Wednesday.

GREENEVILLE

WEDDING

Gannon-Bradley

A very pretty autumn wedding took place Monday morning at eight o'clock in St. Mary's Memorial church when the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe united in marriage Miss Agnes Marie Bradley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley of Seventh street, and John Lawrence Gannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gannon of Coleman street, New London.

Miss Gerturude Gannon, sister of the groom acted as bridesmaid. The best man was a cousin of the bride, Daniel O'Neil of New London.

The bride was prettily attired in blush rose georgette, laced trimmed, with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Her maid of honor was beautifully attired in transparent blue with silvered trimming and hat to match. Her bouquet consisted of gladoli.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner of Seventh street, who are personal friends of the bride.

The menu consisted of roast turkey with dressing, mashed potatoes, turnips, cranberry sauce, celery and olives, fruit salad, ice cream with fancy cookies and coffee.

The bride received many beautiful and useful presents which consisted of pieces of furniture,silver, linen, cut glass and valuable checks.

The groom presented his bride a string of pearls and she in turn presented him an Elks' ring;.

To the best man the groom presented a diamond stick pin, while the bride presented her maid of honor a diamond bracelet.

In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Gannon left for a two weeks auto trip which will take in Canada and New York, returning by way of Vermont and other New England states.

They will be at their newly furnished home 172 Jefferson avenue on Oct. 10 to receive their many friends.

Mr. Gannon is a meat cutter by occupation and conducts a grocery and meat market in New London. The bride for the past few years has been employed at the J. B. Martin Co.

The guests present came from New York, Providence, Bridgeport, New Haven, New London and Mystic.

Their many friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Gannon a happy and prosperous married life.

Miss Delila Shea of Jewett City spent the week end visiting with her sister, Mrs. Michael Shea of 495 North Main street.

Miss Florence Seed and Miss Estelle Wolsard of Fourteenth street spent the week end visiting relatives in Anthony, R. I.

Mrs. Harold Wukham and son, George, have returned after spending a few days visiting with relatives in Providence, R. I.

James Gordon has returned to his home on Fifth street after spending the sumer at Fisher's Island.

Many of the local chamber of commerce members attended the one day congress which was held at the Wauregan hotel Monday.

Are you trying to hide behind a mask of cosmetics?

It can't be done! If your skin is red, rough or pimply, there is only one way to overcome the annoyance—get rid of the defects. You can do this easily by using Resinol Ointment daily until your skin is clear and smooth again. Apply lightly. Leave on skin about an hour (longer if possible), wash off with Resinol Soap. Pleasing results follow.

This ointment is also a soothing, healing dressing for minor burns, sores, rashes, etc. Keep a jar handy.

TAFTVILLE

Alexander E. Reeves, of Bristol, a former Taftville resident was in town over the week end calling on relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Sharples of North Second avenue have returned from a motor trip to New Brunswick.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Airey and their children, Albert, Herbert, Phyllis and Elsie of North Second avenue have returned from a ten days motor trip in their car through the province of Quebec.

The monthly Rocknok Well Child conference under the auspices of the United Workers of Norwich is to be held this week Friday afternoon at the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church met at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Edwin G. Crowdis to plan for and arrange the work for the coming months. Robert B. Schmidt the president of the society was chairman of the meeting.

After thebusiness meeting, refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed.

BALTIC

A slight accident happened Sunday morning about 9:30, near Little flats, when Sylva Belisle, owner of a Studebaker coupe, was struck by a Chevrolet touring, driven by A. Gereault of Taftville. The Gereault car was slightly damaged while the Studebaker had a broken running board and a smashed fender, but as luck was, no one was hurt.

Miss Bessie Goldblatt, a student of the Backus hospital, is spending a few days with her folks on Railroad street.

Mr. Cardin, who was struck by a Chevrolet truck a few weeks ago, is recovering at the St. Joseph's hospital at Willimantic.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Haughton of Willimantic, were week end visitors with their folks, Mr. and Mrs. Bessette of High street and Mr. and Mrs. Haughton of Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Fish of Roslindale, Mass., were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alph. Basel of High street where they met sisters and brothers they hadn't seen for some time.

Miss Josephine Enright, who has been residing at her sister's on Main street, left Monday morning to accept a position in Norwich Town.

C. S. Campbell, of Danielson, is relieving J. A. Baril of the Baltic Pharmacy, who left this morning to attend the Southern New England Rexall convention, at Hotel Statler, in Boston.

Wrist Broken Cranking Truck.

Woodard Wheeler of 102 Otrobando avenue is confined to his home with a broken wrist received while cranking a truck at the Glen Woolen mills, Norwich Town, Monday afternoon.

TOWN AND SCHOOL EXPENSE WILL CALL FOR 21 MILL TAX AT LEAST

A town tax of 8 1-4 mills, which is a half mill less than last year, is recommended to be voted at the annual town meeting for the next year in the annual report which the board of selectmen make. The sum to be raised by tax is $187,248.74, according to the board of selectmen, William S. Murray, Charles P. Bushnell and Patrick T. Connell. The rate recommended does not include the usual extras which the town meeting votes and which add several mills to the tax.

In addition to the money needed for the expenses of the town, there is the sum required for the schools for which a tax of about 12¾ mills is recommended by the finance committee of the town school board, James C. Macpherson, Edward G. McKay and Walter F. Lester. This will make a total tax of 21 mills. The tax rate for the school expenses is the same as last year.

Report By Selectmen.

In presenting the list of town estimates the selectmen make the following report:

It is a source of pleasure to your board to be able to state that, although local business conditions have not shown any great improvement over the preceding year, the regular expenses of the town have been kept at a lower figure than was anticipated in most departments. Owing to this fact they feel justified in recommending a tax of one-half mill less than the tax of the year closing.

Your board believes that the above result has been obtained without any department of the town's affairs being allowed to suffer or any worthy application for relief being neglected. All of the ordinary bills of the town which have been presented have been paid and the treasurer's report shows a balance to the credit of the town which will be carried over to the coming year.

The almshouse, which continues under the experienced care of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, is in excellent condition at present. Aside from the ordinary repairs which are necessary each year upon this property, two asphalt roofs have been placed over tin roofs which should result in a decrease of the expenses of upkeep hereafter. The almshouse coal for the coming season has been already purchased and delivered. There have been the usual calls for aid on account of the outside poor, neglected and dependent children, etc., but the appropriations therefor have been sufficient to meet the demand.

The town's highways have, as always, called for considerable amount of work. The Lafayette street macadam has been completed and in addition cement curbs have been installed along the entire length of this work making this street much more attractive than formerly. All of the principal gravel roads have been thoroughly resurfaced and all macadam roads oiled and planed, placing nearly all of the town's highways in shape for the coming winter although some work still remains to be done in this regard. About 300 feet of culvert has been installed at various spots upon these roads. The various street lights, authorized by the last annual town meeting have been installed and are now giving service.

At the last annual meeting an appropriation was made, with the entire approval of your board, for the purpose of giving needed attention to the trees throughout the town which were under the town's control. This work has been carried out during the past year and a total of 134 trees have received such attention in the way of trimming, patching, etc., as was necessary, among these trees being those on Chelsea parade which are the property of the town. The above work is in addition to the usual spraying of the elm trees to protect them from the ravages of the elm tree beetle, which was attended to this year as usual.

THE TOWN MEETING VOTES IN FAVOR OF DAY PATROLMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

STONINGTON, Sept. 26.—At one of the largest attended town meetings held in some time, tonight, in Boro hall, with the exception of the 13th, which asked for the appointment of a day patrolman in the First district of the town. An aye and nay vote on the resolution offered by Dr. J. H. Weeks, that the selectmen appoint a day patrolman, seemed to be lost. A ballot vote, with Albert G. Martin and James McNally tellers, showed 132 votes cast, 70 in favor and 62 against, the resolution being carried by 8 votes.

At the meeting John Fribance, first selectman, was named chairman and Town Clerk Elias Hinckley read the warning. The votes were as follows:

Reports of Selectmen, other town officials, school committee, health officer and tax collector, accepted, the last named report showing taxes collected to be 91 per cent. The report of the town auditors was accepted; the selectmen were authorized to have published 1,000 school reports and 1,500 town reports one week previous to the next two meeting. The sum of $113,000 was voted for school expenses during the coming year, an increase of $3,000 over last year, this being due to increased enrollment, requiring the four additional teachers. The sum of $20,000 was voted for highways, private ways and bridges in the towns and $3,000 was voted for borough streets, making a total of $23,000 for highways. The sum of $50 each was voted J. F. Trumbull post and Hancock post, G. A. R. for Memorial day, also $50 to Williams post, G. A. R. for the same purpose. Robert Bruckner camp, Spanish war veterans were voted $25 for Memorial day expenses.

The 12th clause called for action on state aid roads; it was voted that $5,000 be appropriated by the town for state aid projects and that the selectmen be authorized to make application to the highway commissioner for an allotment of $5,000 for the construction or improvement of roads or bridges in the town.

Courtland street, from Palmer street south to Field street, in the village of Pawcatuck was accepted, adding 656 feet. Wilcox Manor, from West Board 430 feet northerly was accepted and similar action was taken on accepting Bruggerman street in the village of Mystic, an additional 700 feet.

After voting to have the full tax list printed in book form for general distribution and authorizing the selectmen to borrow money at the lowest possible rate of interest, the meeting adjourned.

Leaves Three Sisters

Latham E. Smith, who died suddenly early Sunday morning at his home at Gales Ferry, leaves three sisters, Mrs. Sarah Conrad, Mrs. Cleon Salisbury and Mrs. Albert Northrup, all of Oxford, N. Y. Mr. Smith's children are Miss Mabel Smith and Tracy Smith, of Gales Ferry and Noyes Allyn Smith, of New London.

Neighbors spoke Monday of Mr. Smith's unusual love for and kindness to animals, as one of the finest traits of his nature. His stock and horses were always cared for in the best possible manner and treated in the most humane way. He was liberal in providing for every living thing on his farm place and looked carefully after the comfort and welfare of each and all.

Arranges For Social Evenings

The Girls' Friendly society of Christ Episcopal church met at the rectory Monday evening with an attendance of 25. After the opening ritual of the society a business meeting was held. Mrs. James Southhouse, as the president, arranged with the girls for three social evenings in October, with out of town guests from other branches. The evening finished with a club song and yells during the social hour.

NORWICH TOWN

"God's Word in the Heart", was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's sermon at Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church. The text was the 119th Psalm, 11th verse. Thy words have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee.

The topic of the Young People's Christian endeavor service Sunday evening was that assigned to the week previous, but used at this meeting, "What's Wrong and What's Right with the Movies?" The meeting was conducted by a special group, for which the committee comprised the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey and Misses Grace Wheeler, Ruth Sterry and Esther Durr.

Having witnessed a moving picture under recent date at the Broadway theater, the committee was to report the good and bad features of the same. No decision was reached following the disucssion of the picture "Beau Geste'.

The Congregational mid-week service for conference and prayer Thursday evening will have for its lesson topic, "What Shall the Christian Say of College Education?" Psalms 111: 10-8. This concludes the study for September, on "The World We Live In," each week having had a special subject for discussion.

In his sermon at the Sunday morning worship at the First Methodist Episcopal church, the pastor, Rev. Albert C. Whitten preached from Hebrews 12-16, using only the lines, 'Esau,' who for one morsel of meat sold his birthright." At the Christian Endeavor services Sunday evening, Rev. Mr. Whitten also was in charge. The topic was, "What Would Happen if all Church Members Were Really Christians?" I Corinthians 13:1-13.

Memebrs of the Social Corner, representing friends from far and near, are looking forward to the annual S. C. picnic to be held at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver, Hunting Green, Norwich Town, Wednesday, September 28th. Auntie No. 1 is to be the hostess.

Bids on Playground Work

Bids for the moving of about 8,00 cubic yards of earth at the new municipal athletic field on Hollyhock island were received by the city playground commission Monday up to 4 o'clock. The bids will be opened Wednesday evening at which time the contract will be warded.

POETRY

The County Fair

Oh, I went down to the County Fair,
And lots of folks that I knew were there;
Folks I had known in several towns,
Blacks and Whites and Pinks and Browns,
Looking to see whom they could see,
And sure enough, they spotted me.
We said "How do?" and asked about
A relative who had the gout,
Or died, or moved away last year,
'Twixt many a laugh and salt tear.
Then we parked the car to see the race;
The horses ran at an awful pace,
Though which was winning I didn't know,
Or when they really made a "go".
A lady swung on a high trapeze
As she tied in knots her arms and knees;
The horses kept going 'round and 'round,
And the band kept making the loudest sound.
People brought me a lot of grub
That fitted me only for the tub.
I strolled about, the buildings through,
And saw what folks could grow and do,
The fattest apples and nicest pigs,
Bedspreads and pickles, jars and sprigs
Of flowers (dahlias and things like that),
And some old lady's crocheted mat.
There were cows and chickens and squashes, too,
And lots of balloons, red, white and blue
And whistles and birds to please the kids,
Folks took chances on Mexican lids,
Kewpies and blankets, and lost their cash
In a Monte Carlo spirit rash.
Deacons and sports and swells were there,
Where? By gosh! At the County Fair!

The Sunrise Never Failed Us Yet

Upon the sadness of the sea
The sunset broods regretfully;
From the far, lonely spaces,
Withdraws the wistful after-glow.

So out of life the splendor dies;
So darken all the happy skies;
So gathers twilight, cold and stern?
But overhead the planets burn.

And up the east another day
Shall chase the bitter dark away;
What though our eyes with tears be wet?
The sunrise never failed us yet.

The blush of dawn may yet restore
Our light and hope and joy once more
Sad soul, take comfort, nor forget
That sunrise never failed us yet!

By Celia Thaxter.

Mother—About midnight. — Washington Star.

Professor (in an engineering class) —What's a dry dock?

Student—A physician who won't give out prescriptions.—Vancouver Province.

John—Did the doctor get you on your feet in two weeks as he promised?

Smith—Sure did. I had to sell my car to pay him.—Detroit News.

First Prisoner—Judge, he's the biggest fool I ever had the bad luck to set eyes on.

Judge—Order, order! You seem to forget that I am here!—Judge.

Clerk—I've made a great discovery sir.

Grocer—Well, what is it?

Clerk—I've found out that the heavy end of a match is the light end.—The Progressive Grocer.

Madge—Do you ever allow a man to kiss you when you are out motoring with him?

Marie—Never. If a man could drive safely while kissing me, he would not be giving the kiss the attention it deserved.—Boston Transcript.

A diner at a restaurant approached the proprietor with his bill and asked, "Do you allow any discount to a colleague?"

"A colleague! Are you a restaurant keeper?" asked the proprietor.

"No. A professional thief," was the cutting reply.—Montreal Family Herald.

During the recent strike in England says the London Mail the volunteer driver of the London-Liverpool Express performed the miraculous feat of bringing the great train into Liverpool 25 minutes ahead of time. Some of the passengers went to his cab to thank him. The pale green face of the volunteer looked out at them. "Don't thank me," he gasped, "thank God. I only found out how to stop this thing 10 minutes ago."—Exchange.

Dr. Eugene W. Fish, of Santa Fe, N. M., claims the long-istance record for being towed. Dr. Fish found when he was ready to return from a trip to a far-distant farmhouse, that the generator of his car was burned out. A two-ton truck came to his rescue and towed him seventy-seven miles from La Ventana to Albuquerque, over the most hazardous of mountain roads. The trip took five hours. The tow rope broke once and the truck went on some miles before the driver discovered he had lost his trailer.

Thousands of boys and girls on organized playgrounds in some 300 American cities are expected to compete this summer in a national model airplane construction and flying contest encouraged by a committee headed by Orville Wright, airplane pioneer. The recent achievements of aviation, particularly the Lindbergh flight inspired this competition, which will be conducted by the Playground and Recreation Association of America. It will come to a climax at national finals to be held in Memphis in October. The contest was suggested by Dr. John H. Finley, educator and editor, as a means of interesting the youth of America in the scientific principles underlying aviation. The three federal air secretaries, F. Trubee Davidson, of the war department; Edward P. Warner, of the navy, and William C. McCracken, of the commerce department; have accepted membership on the contest committee.

WARRANT FOR BEACH IN THE LILLIENDAHL MURDER CASE

Detectives Are Searching For the Poultry Raiser—Charged With "Aiding and Abetting" in the Killing of Dr. Lilliendahl—Beach Had Departed From His Home Before the Warrant Had Been Issued—His Automobile Was Found in the Garage of His Brother at Mays Landing.

HAMMONTON, N. J., Sept. 27—(AP)—Willis Beach, South Vineland poultry raiser, tonight was sought as a fugitive from justice, on a warrant charging him with aiding and abetting in the murder of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl, Sept. 15.

The warrant was sworn out by Frank J. Harrold, chief of Atlantic county detectives, when authorities were unable to find Beach, who is free under $5,000 bail as material witness.

Three men who saw a blue coupe automobile answering the description of Beach's car pull out of a road near where the physician's body was found and sped toward Hammonton the day of the slaying, came to state police headquarters today. The investigators intended to have them attempt to determine if the car was Beach's and if Beach was the man who was driving.

Beach had not been notified that he would be brought to the barracks and he had left his home in the blue coupe early today before state troopers arrived at the house.

Beach's automobile was found by deputies in the garage of his brother at Mays Landing late today and brought to the police barracks here. Police said they had obtained no information as to when and in what circumstances the car had been left at the garage. A description of Beach was sent out to authorities when he failed to appear by the middle of the afternoon.

Beach, according to detectives, admitted writing letters to "Peggy Anderson" who is believed by the investigators to be Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, widow of the slain man. Mrs. Lilliendahl, who told authorities that her husband was slain by two negroes who robbed her, is free on $25,000 bail as a material witness. Police asserted that her story did not appear to be complete and abandoned the hunt for the negroes a few days after the killing.

Edison Hedges, of Atlantic City, counsel for Beach, appeared at state police headquarters today when he learned his client was wanted. After talking with Chief Harrold he said he would not permit Beach to be examined again unless he was present. Harrold said that he would not allow Hedges to be present when the authorities questioned Beach.

The three men who told the detectives about the blue coupe were James A. Grant, of Hamilton square, a suburb of Trenton; William Driver, of Slackwood, and Paul Eldridge of Norrisville, Pa.

Grant and Driver, who are contractors in Trenton and Norrisville, said Eldridge, their chauffeur, was driving them to Cape May when the blue coupe driven by a middle aged man with gray hair and a dark slouch hat, came from a by-road about a quarter of mile from the scene of the slaying, and nearly collided with their car. The blue car then drove towards Hammonton. Beach is about 50 and has gray hair.

Grant and the other two men visited the spot where the slaying took place twice today. They pointed out the road where the blue coupe had pulled out and detectives said they found the imprint of new tires of the make used on Beach's car. The men fixed the time at about 11:15 a. m.

Beach has told newspapermen that he was at his home in South Vineland between 10 or 10:30 a. m. the day of the killing. The time of the shooting has not been definitely fixed, but state police was notified of the slaying at 1:25 p. m., after Mrs. Lilliendahl, with her clothing torn, was found by a truck driver in the road near where the slaying occurred.

Mrs. Lilliendahl expressed surprise and resentment when informed of the warrant for Beach's arrest.

"It is an outrage to bring Willis Beach and his family into this," she said.

STATE CLOSES IN THE NOLIN-REED MURDER CASE

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The state concluded its case late today in the trial of Leo Nolin of South Cleveland and Herman A. Reed of Waterbury, Conn., for the murder of William H. Griffin, Haverhill storekeeper, on March 7 last. Otto Reed of Waterbury, brother of one of the defendants, was called as the first witness for the defense.

The final witness for the state was Mary Cwickla of Suffield, Conn., who is also on trial as an accessory before the fact of robbery and murder. She has admitted that she accompanied Nolin and Reed in an automobile to Griffin's store in Haverhill and waited in the car with Reed while Nolin entered the store.

Otto Reed testified that Herman had lived with him in Waterbury and had always been steadily employed. He said he had instructed Herman, who was the younger, to purchase a revolver for protection in their neighborhood which the witness described as "rather tough." He said the weapon used in the killing of Griffin resembled that bought by Herman. He was still on the stand when coudt adjourned for the day.

SEGALL FOUND GUILTY OF STATUTORY ARSON

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 27.—(AP)—It took a jury in the criminal superior court before Judge Leonard J. Nickerson this afternoon but 42 minutes to return a verdict of guilty of statutory arson, against Jack P. Segall, 26, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Upon notice of counsel, Attorney Clifford B. Wilson, of this city, and Attorney John Cardone, of New York, that a motion to arrest would be filed, Judge Nickerson remanded Segall into the custody of the sheriff to await action on the motion, and imposition of sentence scheduled for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Segall was charged with having set fire to his plant, the Reduso Rubber Products company, at 1483 Main street, Bridgeport on May 3, in an effort to defraud nine insurance companies.

BUES ESTATE FOR $12,000 FOR SERVICES RENDERED

WATERBURY, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Theresa Cooley Noble of Ossining, N. Y., today brought a $12,000 civil suit against the Citizens and Manufacturers' bank, of this city as executor of the estate of Dr. Myron L. Cooley who ended his life on October 29, 1926, by taking poison with suicidal intent. The plaintiff claims that in return for services rendered the doctor he agreed to name her the sole beneficiary of his estate at his death. The New York nurse claims that not only was she not named as sole heir but she was not even mentioned.

The plaintiff says that from 1902 to 1910 she acted as office nurse and secretary for Dr. Cooley, assisting him in many minor operations. From 1910 on, she also claims to have aided him at various times. She sets a reasonable value of her work as $10,000. It was in recognition of these acts that she claims that Dr. Cooley agreed to will her his entire estate.

FRENCH AUTO DRIVERS MAKE SEVERAL RECORDS

PARIS, Sept. 27—(AP)—Three drivers, Nareland, Morel and Kiriloff, alternating at the wheel of an automobile which has been circling the Monthlery Larck, near Paris, since 2:53 p. m. yesterday, ended their labors today with several world records to their credit.

They broke the 24-hours record, covering 4,383.851 kilometers (2,723 miles), at an average speed of 182.66 kilometers, or 113.42 miles and hour. The record for 3,000 miles also fell by the wayside, as this distance was negotiated in 26 hours 31 minutes and 52 hundredths of a second, and an average speed of 113.067 miles and hour.

Five thousand kilometers, or 3,105 miles was covered in 27 hours 30 minutes 39.85 seconds, and average of 181.744 kilometers or 112.863 miles.

BOY OF 10 ACCIDENTALLY KILLED 7-YEAR-OLD COUSIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—Investigation of the murder of Angelina Constanzo, 7, took a new turn today when suspicion centered upon her ten-year-old cousin, William Saltarelli, who was said to have confessed to the shooting.

The boy talked freely after long questioning by police and told how he had accidentally discharged the shotgun with which Angelina was killed yesterday while she slept and then ran away to hide while detectives tried to reconstruct the happenings leading up to the crime.

Diaggio Arsenio, 62, was arrested after Angelina's mother had discovered her child's body, but he denied charges by the police that he had killed the girl as the outcome of a family feud.

Saltarelli's father had told detectives that his family consisted of himself, his wife and a daughter, but a photograph of William found in the apartment led suspicion to the boy.

William was charged with homicide and will be arraigned tomorrow—his eleventh birthday—in children's court. Today's investigation ended too late for immediate arraignment.

CHINESE WAS STABBED TO DEATH IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—Police today feared a resumption of tong warfare, with the finding of the body of Eng Foon, a Chinese waiter, stabbed to death seemingly while he slept in an East Side rooming house.

Foon's body was discovered by another Chinese waiter with whom he lived. Unused to police customs and knowing Foon to be a member of the Hip Sing tong his friend communicated with Dan Kee, secretary of the tong, who informed police of the murder.

A third Chinese who lived in the apartment told police he was asleep in an adjoining room during the time in which the stabbing must have occurred but heard nothing. The wound was made with a long thin knife inserted at the base of the throat, police said.

The attacker, they surmised, gained entrance through a window by way of the fire escape.

PREDICTS A NATION-WIDE NETWORK OF ONE-WAY ROADS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27—A nation-wide network of one-way roads, under park restriction, for the use of the recreational motorist in order to lessen traffic congestion and decrease accidents, was predicted today by Albert M. Turner, of Hartford, Conn., in an address before the annual convention of the American Institute of Park Executives

"A traffic survey has shown that more than one-half of all motor vehicle mileage is of the non-business or recreational class," Mr. Turner said.

"Let us consider the lesson of one hundred years experience in railroads, and give up the idea of moving traffic both ways. Roads which we can call fairways should be built entirely or double track. These should be located through cheap and undeveloped lands, well away from the center of population."

CHARGED WITH MURDER OF YOUNG CHOCTAW BRAVE

ANTLERS, Okla., Sept. 27—(AP)—Declared by friends to have been defending girls of the Chowtaw Indian tribe chief, Victor Locke, former superintendent of the five civilized tribes, was charged today with the murder of Abnert Battiste, young full-blood Choctaw Indian.

Locke, who surrendered to the sheriff last night after killing Battiste with one shot from an automatic pistol, had no statement to make as he sat in the Pushmataha county jail, awaiting arraignment tomorrow on the charge, which was filed by Louis C. Gossett, county attorney.

Friends, however, said that Battiste, who was married, had the reputation of being the despoiler of several girls of the tribe, and that Locke had remarked that it was "A shame for a man like that to be at large."

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BUCHE, Switzerland, Sept. 27.—(AP)—All efforts to save the big bridge spanning the upper reaches of the Rhine between the Austrian and Swiss stations here have failed.

MOSCOW, Sept. 27.—(AP)—A preliminary estimate of the losses to property caused by the recent earthquake in the Crimea places the amount at 22,000,000 rubles (about $16,000,000).

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Sept. 27—(AP)—Regular battles, somewhat similar to those that occassionally occur off the American coast, have been engaged in recently between rumrunners and excise men off the Finnish coast. On Sunday an excise boat sighted a craft run by a notorious Austrian smuggler, who put up a bitter fight. Finally the coast guard vessel sent out an S. O. S. and a Finnish cruiser responded and opened fire on the smuggler, forcing him to surrender.

RECEPTION IN ROME FOR AMERICAN LEGIONNAIRES

ROME, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Rome gave a rousing reception tonight to a party of more than 200 American legionnaires, headed by National Commander Howard P. Savage, when they arrived at the Central station in two special trains from Pisa. Scores of American and Italian flags were flying and Esedra square, which faces the ruins of the famous Diocletian baths, was filled with thousands of cheering men and women. Blackshirts predominated, and as the trains pulled into the station bands played the Star spangled Banner, and Giovanezza, the fascist hymn.

Signor Garzaroli, prefect of Rome, in behalf of the government, Count D'Anzora, vice governor of Rome, General Bazan, chief of staff of the militia, army and navy officers and several score representatives of excombatant and patriotic organizations welcomed the legionnaires to the soil of the Eternal city.

As the Americans marched under a sea of flags, the black banners of the militia and sydicalist groups were lifted high into the air by hundreds of hands. Again and again the Blackshirts lustily gave their staccato cheer "Eja, Eja, Alala!"

The visitors caught the spirit and answered with a snappy: "Hip, Hip, Hurrah!"

ORDER OF RESTRAINT ON STONE CUTTERS' UNION

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(AP)—A decree restraining the Journeymen Stone Cutters' association of North America, four affiliated organizations and ten individuals from alleged discriminatory practices in restraint of trade was handed down by Federal Judge Grubb in United States district court today.

The injunction was cause by the government's suit charging the defendants violated the Sherman Anti-Trust law in preventing, by strikes and otherwise, the use in New York city and its environs of cast stone manufactured outside the Metropolitan district.

Defendants named in Judge Grubb's decree, in addition to the Journeymen Stone Cutters' association of North America, were Michael W. Mitchell, its president; the Journeymen Stone Cutters' association of Newark and vicinity, the Machine Stone Workers, Rubbers and Helpers association of New York and vicinity, the Building Trades council of Westchester county, and nine officials of those organizations.

ELOPERS TENDER THEIR RESIGNATIONS BY MAIL

GREENWICH, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Miss Daisy Miner, deputy registrar of vital statistics and William L. Colegrove, pharmacy manager, who disappeared simultaneously in July and tendered their resignations to their respective employes by mail from New York state, were married on September 14 in San Antonio, Texas, it was learned here today, when they returned to town.

Colegrove left a wife behind him when he departed in July and is said to have secured a divorce in Mexico.

ANOTHER SON BORN TO PREMIER MUSSOLINI

ROME, Sept. 27.—(AP)—There is a new member of the Mussolini family—another son, to whom Donna Rachele Mussolini, wife of the Italian premier, gave birth at an early hour this morning at her home, the Villa Carpena, near Forli.

The first question in the minds of virtually the entire feminine population of Italy was: "What is he like?"

But this is destined to remain unanswered for a considerable time so far as the general populace is concerned.

It was from Canton that Rex Beach drew the central character in "The Spoilers." Owen Wister depicted him in "The Virginian."

Canton was identified with law enforcement in Indian territory on the Texas border, in Wyoming, California, Alaska and other sections of the United States in frontier days.

19 Mexican Bandits Shot in Public Square

NOGALES, Ariz., Sept. 27—(AP)—Advices from Tepic to the Nogales Herald today said that 18 captured Mexican bandits were lined up in the public square and shot by a firing squad. The bodies then were hanged from trees with warning placards. A large crowd gathered in the plaza to witness the wholesale executions.

Other advices to the Herald told of a bandit attack on a Southern Pacific of Mexico passenger train near Acaponeta, Nayarit, on September 21 and of heavy fighting in the state of Puabla last week.

A band of between 300 and 400 bandits were reported to have attacked the train under the leadership of the chieftain "El Pillica" and his lieutenant, T. Daniel Cruz, negro half breed. No further details were received.

About 20 bandits were killed in an engagement in Puabla and the rebel leader, Gabina Zepeca, former colonel in the federal army, was wounded. Other bandits were taken prisoner and much ammunition was seized by the federal forces.

MAN AND WIFE HAVE THE RIGHT TO PARK AND SPOON

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 27—(AP)—If a man and wife want to take an automobile spin and then park for a time on Cleveland streets to spoon they have a legal right to do so without any interference from police, a jury of six men and six women in common pleas court ruled today in awarding Mrs. Joseph Mack $3,675 damages against Police Sergeant Frank Rolfs for false arrest. Mrs. Mack had asked $15,000 damages.

The police officer had arrested the couple on a charge of disorderly conduct when he caught them petting in the rear seat of their automobile. He held them six hours in jail but when the case came before the court it was dismissed.

Testimony at the trial showed a full moon was shining and the air was balmy. Mr. and Mrs. Mack were returning home from a picnic together with three other friends, and Mack testified they could "not resist the romantic appeal of the moon," that night, but were stopped when an officer rode up and demanded of Mack "Who's this dame?" Mack replied, "My wife." But according to testimony the police refused to believe him and the two were whisked away to the police station in a police patrol.

"Surely a man has a right to make love to his wife," Mack testified.

MAY TRY TO OUST MAYOR DUVALL OF INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 27—(AP)—Mayor John L. Duvall of Indianapolis, today was confronted with the prospect of further action—that contesting his right to hold office as the city's chief executive.

Democratic leaders held that when he was found guilty last week of violating the corrupt practices act he was automatically disbarred from continuing as may and today they began consideration of steps to bring about his removal. Under the finding of a jury in the Marion county criminal court Duvall was disbarred from holding public office for four years from November 2, 1925, the date of commission of the alleged offense.

The democrats were spurred to action by the mayor's latest move, that of naming his wife as city controller. Under ordinary procedure Mrs. Duvall would become mayor if Duvall should resign.

The democratic faction also saw the prospect of bringing about a special election to install city manager government immediately. The city's voters favored such form of government in a recent special election.

The members of the Duvall family are now connected with the city government and their total income is slightly more than $25,000 annually. The mayor, with $7,500 annually, tops the group. Mrs. Duvall, as city controller, is second with $4,000 annually. Nephews, brothers-in-law, brothers cousins make up the remainder of the family on the city's payroll.

DECLINE IN FEDERAL COURT CONGESTION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27—(AP)—The last fiscal year saw a noticeable decline in federal court congestion, Attorney General Sargent today told the annual conference of senior circuit court judges, in session here with Chief Justice Taft presiding.

This has been particularly true, he declared, in cases involving the government, although no change has been noted in the rapidity of the disposition of litigation involving only private citizens.

The smaller dockets he attributed to the increased number of district judges. The total cost of operating the department of justice during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1927, Mr. Sargent told the jurists, was approximately $24,000,000 or about $500,000 less, he said, than that of the preceding year.

GOV. SMITH TO ADDRESS DEM. STATE CONVENTION

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 27—(AP)—Governor Smithe announced tonight that he expects to address the democratic state convention which assembles here Thursday afternoon. He thus put to rest uncertainty which had existed in political circles here as to whether the chief executive would appear personally and sound the party rallying call.

Outside of a mild flurry caused by the certainty that the governor, now one of the outstanding democratic possibilities for the presidential nomination, would speak, there was probably as little political excitement here as ever existed just 48 hours before a state convention.

ADULT CASE OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS IN NEW BRITAIN

NEW BRITAIN, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The first adult case of infantile paralysis to go on record in this city, was reported today. Other than declaring that Arthur Anderson, 29, of 553 Stanley street had been attacked by the disease, the health board made no announcement or has Anderson been removed to the isolation hospital where the four other New Britain patients have been confined.

Anderson is married and has two children.

Says Dead Gunman Slew Ten Persons

Accusation Made by Slayer of James Barrett — Murders Committed in St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 27—(AP)—Ten unsolved murders in St. Paul during the past 18 months were laid to James Barrett, recently slain gunman, in a statement to the police today by the gunman's confessed slayer.

Brought here from Chicago where he was arrested last week, Art (Wicky) Hanson told police he killed Barrett in self-defense after the latter had shot Mrs. Barrett and her sister, Lillian Kooser, the night of Aug. 9.

Three other women and three men were slain by Barrett, Hanson said, to cover up his criminal activities, and two policemen were killed in February, 1926, "because Barrett had trouble with them over a liquor deal."

Hanson said he drove Barrett's car to the latter's home in an exclusive residential district here the night of Aug. 9 and waited while Barrett went in and shot his wife and her sister to "get them out of the way,' so he could live with another woman. Hanson said he did not know Barrett planned to kill them.

Driving toward a roadhouse outside the city, Hanson called Barrett "crazy" for killing his wife, according to the police statement of Hanson's confession, and when Barrett threatened him, Hanson shot him dead. Five days later Barrett's body was found.

Hanson said Barrett told him of "shooting that copper through the head and standing over his body until he knew he was dead."

Barrett was painted in Hanson's statement, and in other information obtained by the police, as a desperate, ruthless, and at times maniacal killer.

After Barrett's death, it was found his investment in an automobile finance company here was returning him a profit of nearly $100 a day. He employed a manager to operate it and never appeared at the office himself.

It was for hi-jacking some of his liquor that Barrett killed Josephine Brunnell, Lester Wyman and William McManus in an apartment here April 24, Hanson said, and later Barrett killed Jack Sullivan, a gunman who had gone to the apartment with him.

Because he thought Sullivan might have told of the triple slaying to two woman acquaintances, Saide (Teddy) ubois and Anne Grenville, Barrett also killed them in their home last July 6, Hanson said. The women had been friends of Mrs. Barrett.

EIGHTH ASSEMBLY OF L. OF N. CONCLUDED

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 27—(AP)—The eighth assembly of the league of nations concluded its work today with an inspiring address by Senor Guani, of Uruguay, its president, while the council of the league, which has inherited many new questions from the assembly failed to adjourn.

The exact makeup of the special committee which will study arbitration and security conjointly with the disarmament commission caused diverged views in the council. Some desired that a limited number of experts be invited on a footing of equality with full fledged members, a question which will be settled later.

From the American standpoint the session offered interest because of the decision to remodel the league's permanent economic committee and to add to it an American member, who will be designated personally and not as representing the American governmbent. This means that Americans will sit on a majority of the league commissions, including disarmament, health, opium, white slaves, economic and finance.

The council decided to add Cuba and Canada to the disarmament commission, which has as members representing the American continents, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Canada, Uruguay and the United States.

In the course of his closing address Senor Guani contended that the wish to reduce armaments continued to inspire the league assembly.

FONCK ABANDONS HIS TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—There will be no trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Paris atempted by Captain Rene Fonck this year, at least, the French ace announced today.

Simultaneous with the announcement that Fonck had indefinitely postponed his plans for a flight to the French capital, came word that he would sail for Paris on October 1. He intends to remain there for a month or six weeks, during which time he will outline a new plan of action. After visiting in Europe he will return to this country, he said.

The twin-motored Sikorsky plane, which Fonck and his crew planned to fly, will remain in its hangar at Curtiss field, Long Island, pending a decision on the next flight.

"I have been forced to suspend any further plans due to the fact that the navy department recently recalled Lieut. Curtin and Ensign Edwards," Fonck said. "This leaves me without sufficient time to train a new personnel for such a hazardous trip."

CHARGED WITH VIOLATING TEXAS ANTI-MASK LAW

GILMER, Texas, Sept. 27—(AP)—De Witt Osborne, of Marshall, charged with violating the state anti-mask law in connection with flogging of several persons in Harrison county last June brought his trial to an abrupt ending here today when he entered a plea of guilty, agreeing to accept a years sentence in the penitentiary.

The plea of guilty came after several witnesses had testified.

Osborne was indicted with Cain Anderson, wealthy farmer, in connection with the flogging of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Richardson and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. A. Straps, tenants on the Anderson farm. Osborne was Anderson's foreman.

The flogging victims reported they were whipped by four masked men who warned them to leave the county. They were told they had not worked hard enough on Anderson's place.

NEW YORK BROKER ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—Royal Coombs, 50, New York broker, who is said to maintain a residence at Newtonville, Mass., attempted suicide in his room here today by slashing his throat and wrists with a razor.

He was removed to a hospital where his condition was said to be critical.

INDICATIONS THAT YOUNG REYNOLDS WAS KIDNAPED

Man Under Arrest in St. Louis Had Made on Offer to Produce Reynolds For a Reward of $3,000—Missing Youthful Millionaire Airplane Operator Had Been an "Angel" of a Broadway, New York, Show—No Arrest Has Been Made in St. Louis.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—A possible clue in the disappearance of Richard J. Reynolds, president of the Reynolds Airways, Inc., and an arrest in connection with the mystery were reported here tonight.

Leonard M. Holland, manager of the Hotel White on Lexington avenue at 37th street, said that a man named Richard J. Reynolds had registered at the hotel ten days ago but had not been seen there within the last five days.

Val O'Farrell, head of a New York detective agency, announced that a man had been arrested in St. Louis on a charge of kidnapping and blackmail after he had made an offer to O'Farrell's agents in that city to produce Reynolds for a reward of $3,000.

DETECTIVES ARE HIRED TO CONDUCT SEARCH

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—Richard J. Reynolds, youthful millionaire airplane operator and "angel" of a Broadway show, was sought tonight over half the continent, his trail since his disappearance on Sept. 16 having been traced as far as St. Louis and there lost.

A detective agency hired to conduct the search reported receipt of word from its St. Louis office that Reynolds had checked out of the Majestic hotel there Thursday, saying he was going to Cairo, Ill., and would return the following Saturday.

He did not return and it was not determined that he had actually gone to Cairo. As the day he was reported to have left St. Louis was the day of the Dempsey-Tunney fight, detectives leaned to the theory that he had gone to Chicago and was either still there or had returned to New York.

But no one was able to offer any reason why he should conceal his whereabouts. Associates in Winston-Salem, N. C., his home town, said he often went away on unannounced trips, but others felt that there was no good reason for such a trip at this time.

The day after Reynolds disappeared one of the passenger planes of the company he headed, crashed with a loss of seven lives and about the same time the musical comedy he was sponsoring failed.

It was the efforts of officials of the Reynolds Airways, Inc., and the "Half a Widow" company to locate him in connection with the misfortunes in his enterprises that first revealed his disappearance.

There was a general feeling today that if Reynolds had read of either of these happenings in the papers he would have hurried back to New York, even though he had started on an unannounced journey, and yet both were widely reported in the press and according to the detective agency Reynolds was staying at a St. Louis hotel several days after his plane had crashed and his play had failed.

Miss Marie Houston, night club hostess with whom Reynolds was known to have been the morning of his disappearance, was questioned again today but only reiterated her story that she had gone to St. Louis after having breakfast with Reynolds, and that she had gone alone. She returned Sept. 23, the day after Reynolds was reported to have checked out of the St. Louis hotel.

When Reynolds' disappearance first became publicly known today, there appeared to be grim implications of disaster in the report that his automobile had been found overturned off chicken Point in Manhasset Bay. But during the day it was determined that the car had been found either before or while Reynolds was in the Charm club where Miss Houston was employed as hostess and detectives expressed the opinion that the car had either been stolen or borrowed by prankish friends.

Reynolds, who is a son of the late tobacco magnate and one of five heirs to the $50,000,000 Reynolds estate, drew almost $6,000 from the bank the day before his disappearance.

No Arrests in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27—(AP)—St. Louis police have made no arrests in connection with the disappearance of Richard J. Reynolds, president of the Reynolds Airways, Inc., New York, they said here tonight.

They said they knew of no one being held on charges of blackmail and kidnapping as reported by a New York detective agency which announced the arrest of a man after he offered to produce Reynolds for $3,000

SAYS REYNOLDS WAS SEEN IN GAINESVILLE

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 27—(AP)—The Gainesville Sun tomorrow will say a well known citizen of Gainesville who declined to permit use of his name but who has visited in the Reynolds home and knew Richard Reynolds well, declared tonight that he saw the missing man here last Saturday at the Florida-Southern football game. He said young Reynolds was accompanied by a woman.

THREE NEW BRITAIN BOYS RESTORED TO THEIR PARENTS

NEW BRITAIN, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Benny, Eddie and Billy are home again. Their mother's three attempts at suicide and their father's earnest efforts to gain possession of them have at last born fruit and so three of the members of the Stanley Romaine family are with their parents tonight. Long Lane farm still shelters the two girls of the family but the parents have not given up hope of having all their children with them.

Benny, 11; Eddie, 7 and Billy 6, with the two girls were taken from their parents in June when investigators for the Connecticut Humane society reported that the Romaines were not fit people to care for their children. All five were placed in state homes and since that time the legal battle has been waged back and forth for their possession.

Twice Mrs. Romaine threw herself in front of railroad trains and twice she was rescued unharmed. The second time, she was taken to a cell in police headquarters and while the turnkey's back was turned, again attempted to do away with herself.

Through the intervention of the juvenile court of New Britain, the parents are being given another chance to demonstrate their fitness for caring for their offspring and if all goes well, Benny, Eddie and Billy may soon have their two sisters to play with.

MEDIUMS CAN TAKE THE THUMB-PRINTS OF GHOSTS

PARIS, Sept. 27—(AP)—Ghosts do not need the shades of night to cloak their movements, they can operate in broad daylight, their thumb-prints can be taken by properly trained mediums, they can write on a typewriter from a great distance, these startling assertions were made before the International Congress for Psychic Research today.

The spirit mediums who were ruthlessly thrown overboard yesterday by Sir Oliver Lodge, British scientist, were rescued by James Malcolmn Bird of New York, several German spiritualists and Doctor G. W. Reitz, head of an insane asylum at Leningrad, all of whom brought forward masses of evidence to rehabilitate the mediums.

Dr. Reitz, while admitting that the medium needed training to produce the choicest phenomena, declared that they all operated in good faith. The audience was unanimous in applauding his sentiment.

IMPRESSION OF A FOOT WAS USED IN EVIDENCE

HARTFORD, Sept. 27—(AP)—A plaster of Paris cast of an impression of a foot print was used as evidence in the superior court today when Adam Lyman, of East Granby, was tried on the charge of wilfully injuring a tobacco crop in that town. The evidence failed to convict the East Granby farmer and he was acquitted of the charge.

The acquittal was hastened by Mrs. Anatocia Davis, Lyman's former housekeeper, insisting that she did the injury, and receiving a sentence of three months in jail from Judge John R. Booth, of Danbury.

The cast was introduced in an effort to show that Lyman was present in the tobacco field of Alex Monjenesky in East Granby in the latter part of August when 40 rows of tobacco, 250 plants in a row, had been destroyed.

SENTENCED IN CRIMINAL SUPERIOR COURT, MIDDLETOWN

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 27—(AP)—Judge Earnest C. Simpson, sitting in the criminal superior court for Middlesex county, September term which opened today sentenced two men for manslaughter, three for highway robbery and several for statutory offenses and violations of the liquor law.

Frank Salvo, alias John Falbo and Paolo Ortelli, both of Bridgeport entered pleas of guilty to manslaughter in the death hot Salvatore Gaetano, of Bridgeport, on April29. Salvo was sentenced to from seven to 12 years in the state prison and Ortelli to one year in the Haddam county jail.

The state's claim was that Gaetano was slain by Salvo and Ortelli during the course of a bootlegging feud and that his body was thrown in a Middlefield vacant lot where it was found several days later. Salvo declared that he killed in self defense.

Eugene Onofrio, Thomas Bove and Vincent Genovese, of New Haven were given suspended sentences of one year in the Cheshire reformatory on highway robbery charges.

Raymond Stedman, of Deep River was given from one to two years for a statutory offense.

Harold Colby and Ingormar Ohlson, of New Britain, were sentenced to three months each in jail on a charge of indecent assault.

Carl Zeeser, of Essex, was given a 10-day jail sentence and a fine of $100 and costs for driving an automobile while drunk.

Elizabeth Fladrich, of Westbrook was given three months for violation of the liquor law.

LEGION'S VISIT TO PARIS LIBERATED A DESERTER

PARIS, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The visit of the American Legion to Paris brought about the pardon today of Bennett J. Doty, the American, who as Gilbert Clare, served 11 months with the French Foreign Legion, earned two citations in army orders and then overwhelmed by the Syrian desert, deserted in the Druse country. There he was captured and sentenced to eight years' imprisonment.

Doty, who was first reported to have been sentenced to death in Syria, served a few months in the Damascus citadel. Then was transferred to Albertville in Savoie and later placed in the penal settlement at Clairvaux, Aube, where the announcement of his pardon reached him today.

"I am returning right home to God's country," he said when informed of his release and asked about his plans.

ROTARIANS HEAR REVIEW OF INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 27—A review of the valuable industrial survey recently completed by volunteer business men for Willimantic was given in an interesting series of talks at the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club held in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon. John R. Pickett, as chairman of the speaking explained how a score of business men had secured the survey information which has been put into book form for publishing of copies. Two of several speakers scheduled to be heard on this subject gave talks today. They were Herbert W. Huber, whose subject was "Trade Territory," and James B. Fullerton, who gave "The Commercial History of the Community." The index of the survey book was read by Chairman Pickett and shows that a complete compilation of information touching on all phases of industrial, civic and social life of Willimantic has been made.

The acceptance of the Exchange club to be guests of Rotary at a joint meeting at the Nathan Hale hotel the evening of November 1, was announced. President Richard E. Dodge appointed the following committee to arrange for the occasion: Louis H. Arnold, chairman, Roland B. Jordan, Harvey H. Bronson, Walter S. Barnes, and Secretary Gerard E. Loisell. At the meeting of October 11 a ceremonial will be held for the presentation of badges to the past presidents of the club. John C. Frazier reported that 26 couples had registered to attend the 30th District Fall conclave at Lenox, Mass., October 6, 7 and 8. The club acknowledged the first anniversary of th Nathan Hale hotel by congratulating Manager Daniel F. Daley on his notable success. President Dodge read a letter complimenting the editing of The Cog, the club's weekly publication, from Arthur H. Sapp, international president. Guests today were Rotarians Clinton E. Lam of Norwich and William Plattner of Mansfield, Mass.

The Methodist Episcopal church held its second quarterly conference in the vestry Monday evening with Rev. Myron E. Genter of Norwich, district superintendent, in charge. JEWETT CITY

CAR STOLEN IN NORWICH IS FOUND IN WORCESTER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 27—Monday evening an Essex touring car belonging to Joseph Jaskiewicz of Jewett City was stolen in Norwich near the police station. Jaskiewicz notified the police at once. This evening Chief of Police Henry Vegiard of Jewett City was notified by the police department of Worcester, Mass., that a car containing papers indicating Jaskiewicz as the owner, had been found early in the morning abandoned by the roadside in the southern suburbs of that city.

Chief Vegiard notified Jaskiewicz this evening and Wednesday he will go to Worcester to claim his car, which is reported in good shape. There was no motive for its theft except that the thief desired transportation from Norwich to Worcester. The local police believe that in making the trip the car was driven through the owner's home town.

MAXCY SEYMORE RETIRING FROM OFFICE OF SELECTMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 27—Next Monday is town meeting day at which time the ballot boxes will be dusted off and the booths set up with a general revival of the interest of election day. All the more so because in all of Griswold not a vote was cast last year.

The town reports which will be given out that day will be of interest, because they will show with what painstaking careand economical management, Maxcy Seymore the retiring first selectman has supervised the town's financial interests. Some time before the (now) biennial caucus, Mr. Seymore told the party slate-makers that he did not "choose" to be considered a candidate. Two good men, thoroughly acquainted with the town's affairs have been nominated, and one will be elected to take over Mr. Seymore's well established systems.

The current expenses for the year ending August 31st were $27,421.16, with disbursements set forth in the following recapitulation:

Highways $7,285.03; bridges $97.45; town officers $2,130; assessing and collecting taxes $2,119.23; outside poor $2,417.26; town farm $748.75; medical attendance outside poor $63.50; care of insane and imbeciles $2,157.58; damage done by dogs $52; town hall, Jewett City $1,271.75; town hall, Pachaug $15; vital statistics $231.25; election expenses $316.95; interest $6,590.13; miscellaneous $1,925.28.

TOWN COURT RECEIPTS $851 MOSTLY FROM LIQUOR FINES

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 27—Besides the income from taxes and through other regular channels the town court has handed over $851.47 to the town treasury the past year. Close to 90 per cent of the receipts from this source have been for fines imposed for violations of friend Volstead's law.
